COMMON COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

The newly-elected Common Council met last evening in the Council Chamber, and when Mayor Connors notified City Clerk McNamara to call the roll, a complete roster was the result. Those present were Aldermen George Smith, Freeman Johnson, Joseph Newton, Geo. Palmer, Fred Wolcott and Otto Malone.

A resolution presented by Alderman Newton, that Alderman George B. Palmer become President of the Council, was unanimously adopted. Alderman Wolcott asked that the Patriot be designated as the official paper, which was carried by a vote of four to two.

Alderman Smith then introduced a resolution naming the Times as the official paper, which was carried by a vote of four to two.

The following committees were selected:

Finance—Aldermen Palmer, Smith, Wolcott.

Ordinance—Aldermen Johnson, Newton and Malone.

Printing and Supplies—Aldermen Wolcott, Johnson and Palmer.

Property—Aldermen Malone, Smith and Newton.

Grievance—Aldermen Smith, Palmer and Wolcott.

Repairs—Aldermen Newton, Malone and Johnson.

On motion of Alderman Johnson, Miss Ethel M. Bonner was confirmed as Commissioner of Deeds for the unexpired term ending Jan. 1, 1911, which appointment was duly made and filed with the City Clerk by Mayor-elect Joseph H. Connors, Dec. 31, 1909.

On motion of Alderman Palmer the appointment of John Young as janitor of the station-house and lock-up, was confirmed.

On motion, the Board adjourned to Wednesday evening, Jan. 19, at 8 o'clock.

PACKARD AND LINDSEY.

Tickets for these two events in the Public Library course have been placed on sale at Lasher's for $1.00.

Alton Packard, the greatest of all cartoonists, will be here on January 18, and give his evening's entertainment on types of Uncle Sam's folks, a humorous presentation in sketch, caricature, impersonation and description of the various types of American character of today and yesterday, with much ridicule and caustic comment on the vanities, follies, and vices of Uncle Sam's folks, and accompanied with characteristic, original songs of Mr. Packard's own composition. This program has proved a great favorite with Lyceum audiences for the past ten years.

Judge Lindsey will be here on Feb. 9. Buy a ticket for the two numbers of the committee or at Lasher's book store. One dollar for the two numbers.

R. F. O. MEN MEET.

The Rural carriers of the county held a meeting at Central Square on New Year's eve. A goodly number of the carriers with their wives were present. Six new members joined the association. The next meeting will be held at Phoenix, April 9, 1910.

MARRIED

Goldie Guile and James Murphy stole a march on their friends last week and were married in Ontario. They will make their future home in Oswego.

Mrs. Harrison Wells and Mr. Byron T. Ingersol were united in marriage on Saturday by Rev. W. G. Bassett. Mr. and Mrs. Ingersol will reside at the Riverside Hotel, now being conducted by Mrs. Ingersol's son.

Miss Leah Rappole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Rappole, and Mr. Clarence W. Whitbeck, were united in marriage on Monday afternoon at the bride's home in Third street, the Rev. F. A. Miller officiating. The young couple were attended by Miss Marietta Flint and Mr. Fred M. Dolbear. The young couple are being showered with the congratulations of their many friends.

Mr. Ernest C. Phillips and Miss Blanche Seymour, both well known and popular young residents of this city, the former as telegraph operator at the New York Central station and

The young couple were showered with congratulations upon the announcement being received by their friends. They will make their future home in this city.

On Friday evening, Dec. 31, at 8:30 o'clock, at the State street residence of Mr. Charles Moseman Rounds, 607 1/2 St. Assemblyman E. B. Rounds, of Auburn, and Miss Ruth Backett Piper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Piper of Volney, were united in marriage by Rev. F. A. Miller. The bride was given in a tailored suit of green cloth with hat to match, and the young couple were attended by the bride's two nephews, Martin Rodolph and Max Foster. The bride, who was a member of the class of '09, Fulton High School, has been a successful teacher. Mr. Rounds is an agent for the American express company, located at Rochester. The young couple who are the guests of the bride's parents, will leave in a few days for an extended bridal trip to Texas. Mrs. Rounds many friends in this vicinity extend hearty congratulations.

Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. VanSanford, a very pretty home wedding was solemnized; the bride, Helen Irene, being the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. VanSanford. The home had been artistically decorated in palms, ferns and cut flowers, green and white being the colors used, and the ceremony was solemnized under a canopy of green, from which was pendant a white bell. The Rev. W. L. Sawtelle, pastor of the Presbyterian church, was the officiating clergyman, Rev. J. G. York of the Baptist church, offering the prayer. Mrs. W. L. Sawtelle presided at the piano. At the appointed hour the groom, Mr. Glenn J. Streeter, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Streeter, entered the parlor, accompanied by his groomsmen, Mr. John Salisbury. Rev. Mr. Sawtelle and Rev. Mr. York followed, and then came the bridesmaids, the Misses Jessie Graves and Bina Parker of Watertown, the latter carrying a bouquet of white and pink roses, and the ring service was used. Following the ceremony and congratulations, a bridal supper was served to the guests who were the immediate friends and relatives of the young couple. After an eastern bridal trip Mr. and Mrs. Streeter will make their home in Buffalo street, this city. Mr. Streeter being located with his father in the real estate and insurance business. The young couple are very popular with their many friends and they are receiving hearty congratulations.

DEATHS

Edsell Turner, aged 36, probably the oldest male resident of Oswego county, died at his home in Scriba, on Thursday after an illness of but a few days. The deceased was a successful farmer, a loyal Republican and a respected citizen. The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon and interment was made at North Scriba.

The body of Alfonso Dievendorf, aged 51, who died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Bowering, in Erieville, was brought to this city. The funeral services were held from State street church on Tuesday afternoon, Rev. F. A. Miller officiating. Interment was made in Mt. Adnah. The survivors are the mother, one brother, Milton, and one sister, Mrs. Bowering.

The death of John S. Andrews, aged 78, and a resident of Fulton for 70 years, passed to rest at his home in West First street on Wednesday. The funeral services were held from the late home on Friday, the Rev. Charles Olmsted officiating, and interment was made in Mt. Adnah. The immediate survivors are the widow, three daughters Mrs. J. Kinney, Mrs. Earl Green and Miss Florence Andrews, one son, Mr. Benjamin W. Andrews, all of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Lake and Mrs. Martha Mead, of Rochester.

Catherine E. Carroll, a former Fultonian, died at her home in Canastota on Friday at the age of 52 years. Undertaker E. S. Brown brought the remains to this city and they were taken to the home of her brother, Mr. James Carroll, in West First street, the funeral taking place from the Catholic church. Interment was made in St. Marys. The survivors are one sister, Mrs. John Lane of

The death of Edwin A. Huggins, aged 69, a life long resident of this city, occurred on Sunday at his home in Utica street, after a long illness. The funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon from Zion Episcopal church, Rev. C. G. Wadsworth officiating. Interment was made in Mt. Adnah. The survivors are the widow, one daughter, Mrs. Guy Clute, and four sons, Messrs Edwin H., George E., and Hima Huggins of this city and Alfred P., of Oneida.

SEVERAL CUTS DELAYED.

Owing to unforeseen circumstances, the cuts of several of the members of the new city administration, did not reach this office in time for this edition. They will be in next Wednesday's Times. The delay is very vexatious to the Times but it is due to an error on the part of the engraver.

Women Suffer from Disease And Most Women Real Cause

These poor, suffering women have been led to believe that misery of mind and body is only due to "ills of their sex." The kidneys and bladder are responsible—or largely so. In such cases, the kidneys and bladder are the organs that need must have attention. Those torturing, nerve-racking headaches, dragging pains in the groin and limbs, bloating and a ting of the extremities, extreme nervousness or hysteria, illness and constant tired, weak feeling—are almost certain signs of disordered and diseased kidneys, bladder and liver. DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills have, in thousands of cases, been demonstrated as remarkably beneficial in all such conditions. Female organisms—affording most prompt relief and permanent benefit.

As an illustration of what these Pills will do, Mrs. P. M. Bray of Columbus, Ga., writes that she was very ill with kidney trouble, and that she is now well—and that these Pills are what cured her.

They are very pleasant to take, and can in no case, produce any deleterious effects upon the system—
—as syrupy, alcoholic, liquid prep-

POST OFFICE MATTERS.

Evidence is not lacking in the figures furnished by the local post office officials to convince the public that Fulton is keeping pace with other sections of the country in its marvellous growth and prosperity.

Ten years ago the receipts from the sale of stamps and stamped paper in the Fulton post office amounted to $11,754; in 1908, sales from the same source amounted to $24,231.97, while the magnificent total of $27,841 has been reached in 1909. The increase of business over last year is $3,609.13.

Should this steady growth continue—and there is no ground for thinking that it will not—the post office in this city will be rated in a few years by the Department as an office of the first class. Congressman Knapp is using most energetic and convincing logic with the officials of the Architect's Department regarding the necessity for a Federal building in Fulton. He has already introduced a bill in Congress calling for such action, and the officials have recently been gathering data—measurements, statistics, etc.—for use by that department, and it is only fair to presume that our necessity and Congressman Knapp's importunity will win the day before long.

The Department having expressed a desire that Sunday and holiday services be reduced to a minimum, the stamp, general delivery and carriers' windows will be open each Sunday morning hereafter from 9:30 to 10 o'clock, for the delivery of mail and sale of stamps. These windows will not be opened again until the following Monday morning. Many other important changes in schedule, etc., will be made for the benefit of the service as soon as the Department will grant its consent to those suggested by Postmaster Hughes.

MAGNETIC TREATMENTS.

Nothing will open the pores of the skin so fully as magnetic treatment. It will also bring out all impurities of the blood and skin and make the blood purer and the circulation natural. By so doing disease is thrown off or worked out of the system. The flesh is then fed with pure, healthy blood, making it rosy and solid. These treatments also relax the muscles and restore them to activity, and limber and ease stiff joints. For rheumatism and defective circulation there is nothing better. Anyone desiring to take advantage of such treatments should call at No. 313 Oneida street, and learn prices and make appointments.

Maternity cases and practical nursing also done.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

Oswego, Dec. 30.—(24th day.)—The Board of Supervisors met this afternoon for the final session.

Mr. W. M. Barker offered the report of the committee on coroners, recommending that the compensation of physicians in coroner's cases remain as at present, $3 for viewing the body and $15 for autopsies. —Carried.

By Mr. Hydorn.—That the supply committee be empowered and directed to purchase maps and such other supplies as will be found necessary by the County Clerk in the transaction of the business of that office. —Carried.

By Mr. Hydorn.—That the County Treasurer be directed to transfer $500 balance, received from the sale of the old jail property from the general county fund to the special jail fund. —Carried.

By Mr. Hunt.—That the price paid for the board of orphan children at the Oswego Orphan Asylum and St. Francis Home be $2 per week instead of $1.50 as at present. —Carried.

By Mr. Terry.—That a committee of three be appointed to perfect the title of deeds given by the County Treasurer to the Board of Supervisors. —Carried.

By Mr. Hunt.—That the privilege of the floor be granted F. O. Clarke and the Hon. P. W. Cullinan in regard to the Oswego Watershed development. —Carried.

Messrs Clarke and Cullinan both asked that the board reconsider the action of recent date referring the matter to a committee to report at the next session, urging the importance of the matter to the development of water power along the Oswego river.

Among the others present on the same matter were E. B. Mott, H. D. Neidlinger, E. M. Wilkinson, J. G. Merriman, R. A. Downey and others.

Assemblyman-elect T. C. Sweet of Phoenix, and Supervisors-elect Z. D. Stanton of Amherst, Fuller of Fulton, and Thomas Niles of Parish, were present.

Mr. T. C. Sweet also spoke in favor of the conservation project and the importance of immediate action.

Mr. Rounds moved that the resolution of Mr. Woodward, appointing a committee of three to report at the next session, be reconsidered.

Ayes, 12. Noes, 18. All Oswego city members voted to reconsider.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS.

FIRST INTERVIEW TO BE GIVEN OUT BY SUPERVISOR.

The simple test which candidates for enumerators' places will undergo February 5 does not take away the supervisors' right under the census law to designate suitable persons for such positions," said Supervisor of Census Frank C. Wiener at his office to-day. "It is designed to aid the supervisors in the exercise of that discretion and to enable the Census Director intelligently to use the power of approval of the supervisors' designations conferred upon him by law."

"It is very well understood that President Taft, Secretary Nagel, and Census Director Durand all hold the supervisors responsible for the enumeration. There is no doubt, therefore, that our first and most important duty is the selection of honest, capable and active persons to make the count."

"The Census will be taken, not by the Census Bureau officers or the supervisors, but by the enumerators. They are the ones who come in contact with the people and get the facts. Unless every single enumerator does his whole and proper duty there can not be a correct census. There can not be anything of greater scientific value to this country than accurate statistics as the basis of a study of the existing conditions, regarding our population, agriculture, manufactures, and mines and quarries."

"All persons, unless specifically disqualified, are entitled to apply to take the test. Only those under 18 years of age and over 70, and those who have not become citizens of the United States, are barred. Otherwise, all persons, regardless of sex and political affiliations, are eligible. It is left to my judgment whether it is wise to appoint women in my district. They can do the work. I have no doubt, especially in certain parts of the district. There were a good many employed all over the country in the Twelfth Census."

"The time for closing the consideration of applications is January 25. Those received after that date will have to be ignored. Applications should be addressed in writing to me at this office and not to the Census Director. I will send inquiries the necessary form and instructions concerning it. Afterward I will send those on the list, prior to the test, a set of directions for filling out the test papers. This will enable everyone to come well prepared. Nothing could be fairer or better calculated to insure a satisfactory applicant passing the test."

PALERMO.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Butcher were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Ure. Mrs. Michael Frawley and son James, visited at Thomas McMahon's last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Hart have a little daughter, born December 22. Matthew Frawley has been spending several days at Fulton.

News has been received announcing the death of Mrs. Laura Parsons at her home in Syracuse. She was a former resident of this town, having lived here many years previous to her going to Syracuse to live.

Mrs. Louis Polo was at Charles Dodge's last week.

Michael Frawley and family have been entertaining relatives from Fulton the past week.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Phillips are receiving congratulations over the birth of a son.

The funeral of Mrs. John Wheaton who died at the home of her daughter at Fortwood, was held last Sunday. Mrs. Wheaton had formerly resided here where she had many friends.

AGENTS FOR FORD AUTOMOBILE.
Messrs. G. D. Trimble and son of Palermo, have taken the sole agency in Oswego County for the Ford automobile, and they will be glad to call upon any one at all interested in the best car on the market for the price.

No car stands better with its owner than a Ford, for it has always given the utmost satisfaction. Its popularity is due to its great durability, economy and ever-ready service. It is made in a variety of models, from a light runabout to a touring car, and the price range is from $900 to $1,200. Its sales will eclipse all other low priced cars in the season of 1910.

A postal card will bring Mr. Trimble to your door to explain the car and other details.

The firm can also furnish the Putnam and the Winton cars for people who prefer them to the Ford.

A Choice of Celives.
The difficulties the early Virginian colonists had with their live stock is curiously illustrated by the fact that in the colony of Massachusetts Bay a red calf was cheaper than a black one, experience having shown that the former was more likely to be attacked by wolves owing it was thought, to the wolves mistaking it for a deer.

TO R. F. D. PATRONS.

Postmaster Hughes has received the following communication from Fourth Assistant Postmaster General P. V. DeGraw, the contents of which he wishes to share with the patrons of the Rural Free Delivery service. The recommendations and suggestions are timely and excellent:

The Postmaster:—From a recent count made by rural carriers in one of the counties in the State of New York of coins deposited by patrons in their boxes for the purchase of stamp supplies, it was found that each carrier in the county was collecting an average of 115 one cent coins each week. This average to all the routes in operation throughout the country would give the enormous total of about 300,000,000 one cent coins.

As most of these coins are deposited loose in boxes it is desirable that you and the rural carriers, in a tactful and polite way, put forth your best efforts to induce patrons to provide themselves with stamp supplies in advance of their needs, and to equip their boxes with suitable coin-holder receptacles. It should be explained to patrons that the picking of loose coins from boxes not only results in needless hardship and suffering to carriers in winter weather, delays delivery and collection of mails, but frequently results in actual money loss to the carriers, for it, in collecting coins from boxes, they drop them in the snow or on the ground, they are required to replace the amount out of their own funds, of their own funds.

The above facts are painfully true, and as it is very just that the request be complied with, the Times urges its readers to apply the Golden Rule to their treatment of the carriers in the matter of postage.

Women Suffer Agonies from Diseased Kidneys

And Most Women Do This Not Knowing the Real Cause of their Condition

These poor, suffering women have been led to believe that their misery of mind and body is entirely due to "ills of their sex." Usually the kidneys and bladder are responsible—or largely so. And in such cases, the kidneys and bladder are the organs that need and must have attention.

Those torturing, enervating sick headaches, dragging pains in back, groin and limbs, bloating and swelling of the extremities, extreme nervousness or hysteria, lassitude and constant tired, worn-out feeling—are almost certain symptoms of disordered and diseased kidneys, bladder and liver.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills have, in thousands of cases, been demonstrated as remarkably beneficial in all such conditions of female organism—affording the most prompt relief and permanent benefit.

As an illustration of what these Pills will do, Mrs. F. M. Bray of Columbus, Ga., writes that she was very ill with kidney trouble, and that she is now well—and that these Pills are what cured her.

They are very pleasant to take, and can in no case, produce any deleterious effects upon the system—as syrups, alcoholic, liquid preparations.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are apt to be wanted by every man and woman who has the least suspicion of being afflicted with kidney diseases to cure and a trial box of the same sent free by mail.

The Flour
and should be something but the best. The unanimous opinion of bread winners, bread makers and bread eaters throughout this county is that True Brothers Best Flour is the ideal flour. All grocers sell it.

Miss Chloe Searles has returned from Oswego.

Mrs. Irving Galusha is suffering with mumps.

Miss Zeta Dwyer is visiting friends in New York city.

Mrs. Drake of Brooklyn is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. L. F. Joy.

Mrs. Reels, who has been the guest of Mrs. Fred Kelsey, has returned to her home in Cleveland, Ohio. She was accompanied by Miss Ethel Patterson who will become the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burke.

Dr. E. A. Gladman spent the holidays with his parents in Lindsay, Can.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Parminter are entertaining Mr. Parminter's niece, Mrs. Flora Henwood of Cleveland, Ohio.

The Misses Barbara Gilbert and Marjory Fairgrieve attended the New Year's matinee at the Richardson, Oswego.

Mrs. O. C. Breed's physical condition is slightly more hopeful although she is still in a very critical condition with pneumonia.

Manager John McSweeney of the Gas Office, presented the firemen with $10 on New Year's day, in recognition of their services at the gas office fire several weeks ago. The fire ladders enjoyed a delectable feed as the result of the generosity of the gas man.

Miss Jennie Perine, who has been the guest of her grandparents, Mrs. J. D. Leung, has returned to her home in New York city.

"The motto, 'the laboring man's friend,' emblazoned upon a window in First street, makes many a laboring man and many a man who does not labor, think.

Mrs. S. A. Russell is, very critically ill with pneumonia, with but slight hope for her recovery. Her son, Dr. N. G. Russell, of Buffalo, has been called to her bedside.

The young men and young women who have been home from the various institutions of learning and business positions for the holidays, have practically all returned to their duties. Palladium—Miss Catherine Hendrick, of West Seneca street, entertained the Holy Name basketball team, of Fulton, at her home last evening.

James, the 18-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. David House, fell against a hot stove at the home in Seventh street last week, and was painfully burned about the head and face.

The busiest place in Fulton Monday was the Fulton Savings Bank, everybody, seemingly, having a mite to contribute toward swelling the aggregate reserve fund of that substantial institution. Age, creed, color, sex or previous condition of servitude not being taken into consideration.

The dancing reception given by the Masonic club in Church's hall on Thursday evening was a very successful affair, the grand march being led by Miss Manette Webb and Mr. Ward Eastman. The hall was attractively decorated, and many exquisite polkas were noticed among the dancers. At 12:30 o'clock a luncheon was served in the Masonic club rooms.

As the last hours of the old year drew near a large number of the members of the W. C. T. U. assembled at the home of Mrs. John Distin. The ladies have taken up working for the hospital for the coming year and a great deal of interest in the work is being shown. After the devotional exercises, the superintendent of the Mother's meetings had charge of the program which consisted of music and recitations by a number of little girls, assisted at the piano by Miss Florence Distin, who also favored the ladies with several piano selections which were greatly appreciated. The meeting closed with a social half hour.

Ball and committee, P. P. and Boston, Sunday will sail on March 10.

The D. A. B. will meet with Mrs. Helen Osborne, No. 283 Park street, on January 10.

Mrs. Eugene Seares has been entertaining her sister, Mrs. S. Seares, of Syracuse.

The annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held on or about January 13.

Mr. A. E. Ruse of Phoenix is foreman of the Grand Jury in session in Oswego this week.

"Tim" Reynolds is critically ill in a Syracuse hospital, having recently undergone an operation for appendicitis.

Miss Sara Lewis of New York city and the Misses Ida and Mary Kuttman of Texas, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. V. C. Lewis.

Mrs. L. W. Mott of Oswego sent his many friends throughout the county and New Year's greetings on January 1.

With the coming of the colder weather the political situation seems to be warming up, the county treasurer's office at present having the center of the stage, both numerically and from a standpoint of activity. Mr. H. C. Allen's name was mentioned several months ago in connection with the office. Mr. Herman Randt of Altmar has been making a canvass of the county for several weeks and expresses himself as elated over the outlook for his success. Ex-County Treasurer Thomas Moore, it is stated, will soon announce his candidacy for the office. Town Clerk G. D. Trimble of Palermo is saying nothing but looking receptive whenever the subject is mentioned to him, and the end of the procession is not yet.

Past High Priest C. F. Loomis and Excellent High Priest H. D. Fox of Phoenix were the installing officers at the election and installation of officers in Fulton chapter, No. 187, Royal Arch Masons, on Wednesday evening when the following officers were elected and installed: E. T. Jones, H. P.; B. C. VanBuren, K.; H. M. Morin, S.; H. M. Morin, treasurer; G. W. Gartner, secretary; F. W. Shidar, C. of H.; H. S. Orchard, R. S.; A. W. Beards, R. A. C.; H. P. Baker, M. of V.; H. ## NEBULA HYPOTHESIS.

One of the Most Interesting Propositions of Science.

WHAT IT ACTUALLY MEANS.

That the Sun, Planets and All Matter Were Once a Vast Mass of Incandescent Gas All Jumbled Together in an Enormous Chaotic Cloud.

Everybody has heard the phrase, the nebula hypothesis, but what is it? In a few words this is the meaning of "nebula hypothesis." That the sun, the planets and all that is in them were at one time in the inconceivably remote past a vast mass of chaotic, incandescent gas all jumbled-together in an enormous nebula, or cloud.

To begin with, the first conception that science has dared to make, however, takes us one step further back (without mentioning the origin of matter itself) science conceives that in the beginning all matter was uniformly distributed throughout space—that there were no stars, no planets, no satellites, but that all space was filled with the matter we now have divided up into very fine particles some distance apart. The consistency of such material was performed very thin indeed, much more rarefied than the highest vacuum we can obtain now by air pumps. From this state to the nebulous state the theory has a missing link, one that can only be satisfied by supposing divine command, for it assumes, in the words of Professor Todd, that "gradually centers of attraction formed and these centers pulled in toward themselves other particles. As a result of the inward fall of matter toward these centers, the collision of its particles and their friction upon each other the material masses grew hotter and hotter. Nebulae seeming to fill the entire heavens were formed—luminous fire mist, like the filmy objects still seen in the sky, though vaster and exceedingly numerous." This process is supposed to have gone on for countless ages, faster in some regions than in others. Many million nebulae were formed and set in rotation around their own axes. This happily can be explained by science. Whenever particles are attracted toward a center and are kept from falling directly to this center a whirlpool is formed, rotating in one direction. An example of this, though humble and not exactly analogous, is the rotation of water in a basin when the stopper is pulled out of the bottom. Gravity attracts the water immediately above the hole, which starts dashing out, thus leaving a space to be filled. The rest of the water rushes in from all sides to do this, and the whirlpool is the result.

Now each of these whirling nebulae became exceedingly hot, and each formed what is known as a star or sun, our sun being one. The earth and other planets had not then come into separate existence, of course, as it is supposed that they were thrown off later from the sun.

Our sun in its nebulous form and rotating swiftly on its axis gradually flattened at its poles on account of centrifugal motion. This phenomenon is entirely familiar to those who have seen a ball of clay on a potter's wheel gradually flatten. The motion was so swift and the mass so nebulous that the sun to be took the shape of a disk. As time went on the outer part became cool and somewhat rigid, while the inner part continued its cooling and contracting. Thus the inner part drew away from the outer, leaving a ring of matter whirling around on the outside. This breaking off of the ring is supposed to be hastened by the inability of the outside to keep up the swift motion of the central mass, both on account of the slight cohesion and of the centrifugal force. But this particular part of the argument has nothing to stand on if the first law of motion is true.

In the successive stages of the sun's contraction this process was repeated over and over again, until several rings were whirling around the central orb. They would necessarily be in the same plane. Now, these rings, not being uniform in mass or thickness, would each gradually accumulate toward the densest portion until they, too, would form a ball which would subsequently flatten, and if the substance continued nebulous and the ball was large enough they would also slough rings.

Of course the rings the sun discarded have become the planets, which, as required by the theory, are all very nearly in the same plane. The rings that the planets formed have become moons or satellites. So we are driven to conclude that our sun at one time filled all the space from his present position to the farthest planet in the solar system.

From this theory there is another thing that we have to believe, and that is that every star in the heavens has gone through this same process, and has a family of planets sailing around it, just as our sun has. It would be impossible to see these planets, of course, for it is impossible to see a star, even with the greatest telescope, except as a mere point of light.

As regards the proving of this nebula hypothesis, of course it cannot be done. But everything points to its accuracy. Many nebulae are seen even now among the stars that seem to be going through the delayed process of world forming. Around one of the planets of our own solar system, Saturn, are three rings, which are probably destined in time to become moons, in the opinion of some scholars. —A. T. Hodge in New York Tribune.

CARAVAN BREADMAKING.

Afghans Use Cobblestones, While Turcomans Like Sand.

The bread of the Afghan caravan was cooked by heating small round cobbles in the fire and then poking them out and wrapping dough an inch thick about them. The balls thus formed were again thrown into the fire, to be poked out again when cooked. The bread tasted well there in the desert, although in civilized communities the grit and ashes would have seemed unendurable.

After good fellowship had been established the Afghans actually sold us some flour, says a writer in the National Geographic Magazine. The camp where we used it a little later happened to be beside the sandy bed of a trickling salt stream, which was drinkable in winter, but absolutely unusable in summer, when evaporation is at its height and the salt is concentrated.

"See," said one of our Turcomans as we dismounted, "here is some sand. Tonight we can have some good bread."

When some dry twigs had been gathered he proceeded to smooth off a bit of the cleanest sand and built upon it a hot fire. When the sand was thoroughly hot he raked off most of the coals and smoothed the sand very neatly. Meanwhile one of the other men had made two large sheets of dough about three-quarters of an inch thick and eighteen inches in diameter. Between these he placed a layer of lumps of sheep's tail fat, making a huge round sandwich. This was now spread on the hot sand, coals mixed with sand were placed completely over it, and it was left to bake. Now and then an edge was uncovered, and a Turcoman smelled it appreciatively and rapped on it to see if it was yet cooked. When the top was thoroughly baked the bread was turned over and covered up again. It tasted even better than the Afghan bread after it was cooled a little and the sand and ashes had been whisked off with a girdle. The Turcomans are so accustomed to life in the sandy desert that they think it impossible to make the best kind of bread without sand, while the Afghans, who live in the stony mountains, think that cobbles are a requisite.

THE ZANZIBARIS.

Dense Stupidity and Amusing Blunders of the Natives.

In the "Autobiography of Sir Henry M. Stanley" the author says of the colored natives of central Africa:

"Good as the majority of Zanzibaris were, some of them were indescribably and for me most unfortunately dense. One man who from his personal appearance might have been judged to be among the most intelligent was after thirty months' experience with his musket unable to understand how it was to be loaded. He never could remember whether he ought to drop the powder or the bullet into the muzzle first. Another time he was sent with a man to transport a company of men over a river to camp. After waiting an hour I strode to the bank of the river and found them paddling in opposite directions, each blaming the other for his stupidity and, being in a passion of excitement, unable to hear the advice of men across the river, who were bawling out to them how to manage their canoe.

"Another man was so ludicrously stupid that he generally was saved from punishment because his mistakes were so absurd. We were one day floating down the Kongo, and, it being near camping time, I bade him, as he happened to be bowman on the occasion, to stand by and seize the grass on the bank to arrest the boat when I should call out. In a little while he came to a flat place, and I cried, 'Hold hard, Kikongo!' 'Please God, master,' he replied and forthwith sprang on the shore and seized the grass with both hands, while we, of course, were rapidly swept down river, leaving him alone and solitary on the bank. The boat's crew roared at the ridiculous sight, but nevertheless his stupidity cost the tired men a hard pull to ascend again, for not every place was available for a camp.

"He it was also who on an occasion when we required the branch of a species of arbutus which overhung the river to be cut away to allow the canoes to be brought nearer to the bank for safety actually went astride of the branch and chopped away until he fell into the water with the branch and lost our ax. He had seated himself on the outer end of the branch."

A Bunch of Kicks.

"I'm in hard luck!" sighed the steel rail.

"Look at me! I get nothing from morning till night but hot air," growled the pumping engine.

"I'm always in hot water," sighed the boiler.

"Consider my plight," cried the macadam road, "invariably walked over and trodden under foot."

"I'm used to it, for I'm always up against it," philosophically remarked the wall paper.

"You're none of you as badly off as I am," said the furnace, "for, no matter where I go, I'm generally fired." —Baltimore American.

The Editor Won.

A London paper described a child's exclamation as a "long white scream of joy" and was called to account by a correspondent, who said that a scream could be long, but not white, whereupon the editor justified himself by urging that "a blue is often associated with a cry."

"Every heart contains perfection," germ—Shelley.

He Was a Good Minister.

There used to be a regular minister in Indianapolis who was well known in Louisville. He was pastor of one of the leading churches of the city. He was built on the plan of the late Henry George, whose motto was, "I am for men." This Indianapolis preacher was what is called a "good mixer." One day he stopped in a blacksmith shop to chat with the workmen. During the visit a dour-faced man of prosperous appearance came into the shop. He and the minister began chatting, but neither knew the other's line of business. They became good friends in a few minutes. Finally the dour-faced man produced his card, which announced that he was in the saloon business on West street.

"Come down to my place any time," he said, "and I'll show you a good time."

"All right," replied the minister, "and, by the way, I'm running a pretty good place myself. Come and see me, and I'll show you a good time."

"I'll sure go that," said the other. "But, by the way, where is your joint?"

"My joint," was the reply, "is the First Presbyterian church. Just inquire for Myron W. Weed, the pastor, and I'll be at your service." —Louisville Times.

THOSE PIES OF BOYHOOD.

How delicious were the pies of boyhood. No pies now ever taste so good. What's changed? The pie? No; its you. You've lost the strong, healthy stomach, the vigorous liver, the active kidneys, the regular bowels of boyhood. Your digestion is poor and you blame the food. What's needed? A complete tuning up by Electric Bitters of all the organs of digestion—Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bowels—Try them. They'll restore your boyhood appetite and appreciation of food and fairly saturate your body with new health, strength and vigor. 50c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

The Military Salute.

All salutes, from taking off the hat to presenting arms, originally implied respect or submission. Of military salutes, raising the right hand to the head is generally believed to have originated from the days of the tournament, when the knights filed past the throne of the queen of beauty and by way of compliment raised their hands to their brows to imply that her beauty was too dazzling for unshaded eyes to gaze upon.

The officer's salute with the sword has a double meaning. The first position, with the blade opposite the lips, is a repetition of the crusader's action in kissing the cross bill of his sword in token of faith and fealty, while lowering the point afterward implies either submission or friendship, meaning in either case that it is no longer necessary to stand on guard. Raising the hand to the forehead has also been explained as a sign that the weaponed hand is empty and in an inoffensive position, but this reason does not seem so convincing as the others.

NAPOLEON'S GRIT.

was of the unconquerable, never-say-die kind, the kind that you need most when you have a bad cold, cough or lung disease. Suppose troches, cough syrups, cod-liver oil or doctors have all failed, don't lose heart or hope. Take Dr. King's New Discovery. Satisfaction is guaranteed when used for any throat or lung trouble. It has saved thousands of hopeless sufferers. It masters stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, hemorrhages, la grippe, croup, asthma, hay fever and whooping-cough and is the most safe and certain remedy for all bronchial affections. 50c, $1.00 Trial bottle free at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

A Toothsome Revenge.

During the reign of Charles II. the age of gallantry, it was the custom among gentlemen when they drank a lady's health in order that they might do her still more honor to destroy a the same time some part of their clothing.

Upon one occasion Sir Charles Sedley was dining in a tavern and had a particularly fine necktie on, whereupon one of his friends to play him a trick drank to the health of a certain lady, at the same time throwing his necktie in the fire. Of course Sir Charles had to do likewise, but he got even, for not long after that, dining with the same company, he drank the health of a fair one, at the same time ordering a dentist whom he had engaged to be present to pull out a refractory tooth which had been troubling him. Every one else was obliged in this manner to mourn a molar.

A FRIGHTFUL WRECK.

of train, automobile or buggy may cause cuts, bruises, abrasions, sprains or wounds that demand Bucklen's Arnica Salve—earth's greatest healer. Quick relief and prompt cure results. For burns, boils, sores of all kinds, eczema, chapped hands and lips, sore eyes or corns, its supreme. Surest pile cure cure, 25c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

Inherited.

"Where did Phylom get his propensity for ballooning?"

"I don't know, but his grandfather died in the air."

"No; under one." —New York Journal.

Have you a weak throat? If so, you cannot be too careful. You cannot begin treatment too early. Each cold makes you more liable to another and the last is always the harder to cure. If you will take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the outset you will be saved much trouble. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Doing Very Well.

"How's your son making out in business?" asked the first capitalist.

"Very well, indeed," replied the other, "he's got a quarter of a million."

"Why, you started him with a mill, didn't you?"

"Yes, and it's two months now since he started operations in Wall Street." —Catholic Standard and Times.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy never disappoints those who use it for obstinate coughs, colds and irritations of the throat and lungs. It stands unrivalled as a remedy for all throat and lung diseases. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Own Your Own Mind.

Have you ever considered the possibility of doing this? Remember that living in a retired mind, furnished with opinions bought on the installment plan, never offers any inducement with it for the future. Not only this, but you are not saving up anything. The advantages of owning your own mind will be apparent at a moment's thought.

In the first place, you come to take a personal interest, which you do not feel when it is owned by some one else. Then again the natural increase in value redounds to your own profit. You have no one to dictate to you as to the inside furnishings and decorations. Besides, it makes you more particular with regard to what you put into it. If you live in a rented mind you don't care much. You will drive nails in the walls and get generally careless about it. But when you own your own mind you are constantly going about picking it up. You take real pride in it.

Be it ever so humble, there is no place like a mind that you own yourself. —Life.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that was ever made is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They do the work whenever you require their aid. These tablets change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, gloominess into joyousness. Their action is so gentle one can't realize they have taken a purgative. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Length of Dreams.

Three physicians were discussing the matter of the length of dreams.

"One afternoon," said one of them, "I called to see a patient, and, much to my satisfaction, I found him sleeping soundly. I sat by his bed, felt of his pulse without disturbing him and waited for him to awaken. After a few minutes a junk dealer's cart with discordant ringing bells turned into the street, and as their first notes reached us my patient opened his eyes."

"Doctor," he said, "I'm glad to see you and awfully glad that you woke me, for I have been tortured by a most distressing dream that must have lasted for several hours. I dreamed that I was sick, as I am, and that my boy came into the room with a string of most horribly sounding sleighbells and rang them in my ears, while I hadn't power to move or speak to him. I suffered tortures for what appeared to be an interminable time. I'm so glad you woke me."

"The ringing of those bells for one second had caused all of that dream and just at the waking moment."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is not a common, every-day cough mixture. It is a meritorious remedy for all troublesome and dangerous complications resulting from cold in the head, throat, chest or lungs. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Tough Turkey.

Mark Twain when he worked in Nevada on the Virginia City Enterprise inserted in the news a good many boarding house jokes.

In revenge the humorist's sensitive fellow boarders in Virginia City decided to put up a game on him. They enlisted the landlady's help, and at the Thanksgiving dinner at the boarding house Mark Twain by a dexterous piece of sleight of hand was served apparently direct from the fowl with a turkey leg of painted wood.

The humorist sawed away solemnly at the wooden leg for some time. Then he said to the landlady, with a smile:

"You've changed your poultry dealer, haven't you, ma'am?"

"Why, no, Mr. Clemens," she replied.

"What makes you think so?"

"This turkey," he answered, giving the wooden drumstick a little whack with his knife. "It's about the tenderest morsel I've struck in this house for some months."

Costly Counsel.

"I can understand all you have to say on the subject in an hour's time," said the judge.

"Beg pardon, your honor," persisted the young lawyer, "but I shall consume at least five hours in my argument."

"Very well; have it your own way," said the judge, with resignation. "But it will take the prisoner about five years to tell why he employed you."

THE SKIPPER'S WHITE LIE.

What Happened at Night and What the Passenger Was Told.

It was a dirty night, to use a sailor's phrase, and the talk in one corner of the smoking room drifted to events at sea and the childlike faith that passengers repose in navigators.

Said the scientist who had been collecting specimens on a coral reef:

"I've often heard men and women say they felt so safe with Captain So-and-so, and I've wondered, too, whether their sense of security would still be retained if these favored travelers knew exactly what happened on shipboard during a voyage. For my own part, I have more confidence than ever in a captain of my acquaintance since I learned that he could tell a white lie when it was necessary to calm the fears of a nervous traveler. It so happened that one foggy night I was awakened by the sudden stoppage and reversal of the engines. I jumped out of my bunk, went on deck and was told by the second officer that we had had a narrow squeak. It appeared that we had nearly run down a schooner as she silently crossed our bows and disappeared into the haze.

"Next morning a woman passenger who sat at the captain's table asked him whether the engines had been stopped and reversed, and he replied: 'Yes, we sometimes do this to test the engineer's watch and see if our machinery is in proper order. We do it at night so as to create no excitement.' Then he got the woman to describe what she had heard and asked her, 'Did you find much time between the stopping and reversing?'

"No," she replied.

"Then," said the skipper, "that showed how well everything was working. Did it not?"

"When I got the skipper's ear I told him confidentially that I didn't think the schooner's engines had worked as well as ours, and he remarked that it might have been worse. Whether he meant the lie or the incident I didn't inquire, but I suspect it wasn't the lie." —New York Post.

LAW OF GRAVITY VIOLATED.

Conditions Under Which Water Actually Flows Upward.

"Water seeks its level" is an expression heard so frequently as to be almost trite, and yet the law has its exceptions. There are conditions under which water actually flows upward and rises above its source. If a glass tube be dipped into water the column inside will be above the level of the surrounding surface. Moreover, if a tube of half the diameter be substituted the column doubles its height. The water creeps along the inside of the tube, owing to the adhesion, and forms a cup shaped depression at the top.

An explanation is not difficult. It can be proved mathematically that if the diameter of a circle be diminished one-half the circumference is also reduced to that extent, while the area is one-fourth of its former value. The circumference of the column of water being reduced one-half, its contact with the glass, and hence the adhesive force, is also diminished to that extent, while the cross section, and hence the weight, is decreased to a fourth of what it was before. Therefore the second column can be twice the height of the first without exceeding the lifting power.

Remarkable as the underlying principles of this phenomenon undoubtedly are, nature made use of them long before man made their discovery. Every tree and flower adds its testimony. The core of a tree or plant, instead of being a single open channel, consists of a spongelike substance containing many miniature tunnels, through which the sap and moisture collected by the roots flow upward in small rivulets, rising higher and higher in sheer defiance of the great law of gravity. —St. Louis Republic.

PARIS RAGPICKERS.

An Occupation That Is Passed Along From Father to Son.

The ragpickers of Paris are born to their work, the occupation being passed from father to son for generations. Each ragpicker family has its own district, which is inherited by the children and grandchildren.

In spite of all the progress made in modern and elegant Paris barrels of waste are piled up on the streets in front of many buildings on beautiful boulevards in the early morning hours, and it is the privilege and in fact the mission of the ragpickers to examine this refuse.

They have use for everything, and but little is left after they have passed, their thoroughness being one reason why the system is still allowed. Every scrap of paper has its market; rags are gathered for paper manufacturers; shoes go back to leather dealers.

Old sardine and preserved meat tins are used for making playthings, old bones produce gelatin and glue, lemons and orange peels are greatly sought after and sold at the rate of a cent a pound to perfume and soap manufacturers, old metals are highly prized, cigar stubs go to tobacco factories, and even stale vegetables are carted away.

The quarters of the ragpickers of Paris are just outside the confines of the city—sections carefully avoided by most people who do not belong to the guild. Every member of the family, from the oldest to the three-year-old, takes part in the sorting of the spoils, and it often happens that members of a family die either from poisoning from stale food or from a cut from one of the tins.—Popular Mechanics.

The Man-of-war Bird.

The frigate pelican, or man-of-war bird, is usually met with by travelers in the tropics. Although when stripped of its feathers it is hardly larger than a pigeon, yet no man can touch at the same time the tips of its extended wings. The long wing bones are exceedingly light, and the whole apparatus of air cells is extremely developed, so that its real weight is very trifling. It flies at a great height above the water and from that elevation pounces down on fish, especially preferring the poor, persecuted flying fish for its prey. According to some authors, the name of man-of-war bird was given to it because its appearance was said to foretell the coming of a ship, probably because the frigate pelican and real frigates are equally adverse to storms, and both like to come into harbor if the weather threatens.

English Cigars.

"Do cigars ever contain rope?" "No. That's just a pleasant way of the jokemakers. As a matter of fact, hemp is too expensive to put in the cheaper brands of cigars."—London Mail.

The eruptions of Vesuvius greatly increase the fertility of the ground in the vicinity.

ATOP THE FREIGHT TRAIN.

Walking the Cars a Hair Raising Experience For a Novice.

There came over me as I sat in the caboose that evening a wild desire to ride with the engineer in the cab. Planning to slip ahead along the half mile or so of main at the first stop, I made known my desire to our conductor over that part of the run.

"They'll be glad to see you," he told me. "You won't have any trouble getting there. It's a mild evening." He swung open the window of the lookout and called to his rear brakeman, "Jimmie, run along with this here party." Jimmie pulled me through the window of the lookout before I clearly realized the entire plan.

It was a slippery path over the roofs of sixty cars to the big engine that was pulling us, and the wind that swept in from the shores of the ice-bound lake, along which the tracks ran for many miles, snapped sharply over those car roofs. Jimmie hung on to his lantern with one hand, to his conveyer with the other. Long miles over those slippery car roofs had taught him to regard it as no very serious business.

"This ain't nothin'," was his assurance. "It sometimes gets nasty when we get down to zero on a blizzard comes a-rippin' from off over the lake. Sometimes you have to get down on all fours. It wouldn't be much fun to be swept off the tops of those cars."

There was no disputing that, nor that the three lengthwise planks at the gable of the car roofs were not wide promenades. You jump from one to another to cross from car to car, and a man has got to have something of a gymnastic training and some circus as well as railroad blood in his veins to do it many times without dropping into one of the hideous dark abysses between them.

A hand out of the dark stepped me in the face. "Drop," said Jimmie, and, fearing possibly that I might not obey, he pulled me flat down upon the car roof.

"That was a 'telltale,'" he explained, and before I could ask further we were in a short reach of a tunnel, and I understood. We were whirled through that tunnel like a package in a tube, and if we had raised our arms we could have touched the flying roof of the bore. The smoke lay heavy in the place. It filled our eyes and nostrils.

"Not real nice," said Jimmie cheerily. "But no danger in the holes, save now and then an icicle gets a crack at your nose. You see, there ain't much use in arguing the matter after that 'telltale' strikes you."—Edward Hungerford in Harper's.

SCHOOL OF AGRICULTURE.

Farmer's week at the State School of Agriculture of St. Lawrence University, Canton, N. Y., which was so largely attended last January will be held again this year, January 24-29. Among the new features which will be added is a corn show and convention. A committee composed of one from each Pomona Grange in Northern New York has this work in charge. The fundamental plan will be to work out a method of seed selection and corn culture for our north country.

We find today many varieties and methods in a single neighborhood. Surely this mixed plan, or no plan at all, is wrong.

High prices for grain is forcing upon us the growing of grain as well as forage. It is safe to say that the average corn fields in northern New York have little grain upon the stalks.

A request will be sent to each subordinate Grange asking that a delegate be sent to this convention who will become a corn teacher for that Grange.

The Patrons of Husbandry are well organized in our territory. Here is a plan of work for them, the final value of which can not be estimated.

A small prize of $5.00 will be offered for the best exhibit of flat corn and $5.00 for the best exhibit of dent corn, the exhibit to consist of 10 ears, accompanied by a description of seed selection and care of crop. Competition open to all growers in northern New York.

Will you join this effort to place corn growing upon a systematic basis?

Address all inquiries to Dean Herbert E. Cook, Canton, N. Y.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion, constipation and dizziness. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents.

No Rest Day or Night

"I would lay awake for hours without any apparent cause, or dream terrible dreams which would bring on extreme spells of nervousness. After taking Dr. Miles' Nervine and Tonic for awhile I could sleep well, and the nervous spells have left me." MISS ALMA HUG, R. R. No. 4, Canal Dover, Ohio.

Without sleep the nervous system soon becomes a wreck, and the healthful activity of all the organs obstructed. Restful, body-building sleep accompanies the use of Dr. Miles' Nervine because it soothes the irritable nerves and restores nervous energy. When taken a few days according to directions, the most restless sufferer will find sleep natural and healthful. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it all according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

A Shoe Opportunity

There's a BEST TIME to buy SHOES. When some dry twigs had been gathered and smoothed off a bit of the clearest sand and built upon it a hot fire. When the sand was thoroughly hot he raked off most of the coals and smoothed the sand very neatly. Meanwhile one of the other men had made two large sheets of dough about three-quarters of an inch thick and eighteen inches in diameter. Between these he placed a layer of lump of sheep's tail fat, making a huge round sandwich. This was now spread on the hot sand, coals mixed with sand were placed completely over it, and it was left to bake. Now and then an edge was uncovered, and a Turcoman smelled it appreciatively and rapped on it to see if it was yet cooked. When the top was thoroughly baked the bread was turned over and covered up again. It tasted even better than the Afghan bread after it was cooled a little and the sand and ashes had been whisked off with a girdle. The Turcomans are so accustomed to life in the sandy desert that they think it impossible to make the best kind of bread without sand, while the Americans...

...the well known Louisville. He was pastor of one of the leading churches of the city was built on the plan of the late George, whose motto was "I am a man." This Indianapolis preacher is what is called a "good mixer." He day he stopped in a blacksmith shop to chat with the workmen. During the visit a world faced man of suspicious appearance came into the shop. He and the minister began talking, but neither knew the other's name. They became good friends in a few minutes. Finally the world faced man produced his card, which announced that he was in the shoe business on West street. "Come down to my place any time," said, "and I'll show you a good time." "All right," replied the minister, "by the way, where is your joint?" "My joint," was the reply, "is the First Presbyterian church. Just in front of Myron W. Weed, the pastor. I'll be at your service."—Louisville Times.

CAPT. GEORGE E. MINAR.
Capt. George E. Minar of Hannibal, who has been ill for the past three months at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Auyer, in Mannsville, passed away December 23, 1909.
Capt. Minar was the son of the late Abram Minar of Ellisburg. He was born May 2, 1843, and spent his boyhood in the town where he was born, until eighteen years of age, when he began sailing the great lake gradually working his way to a captaincy, and for forty years followed that calling. Forty-five years ago he was married to Miss Julia Hammett of Mannsville, and for many years made his home in and near Mannsville, where he held a warm place in the esteem of his friends. During the last few years he was with his wife and daughter who resided in Hannibal with their son, a successful pharmacist of that town.
In late September Mr. Minar came to Mannsville to look after business matters and to visit his step mother in Ellisburg, when he was suddenly stricken with pneumonia from which he never rallied despite the constant care of the wife and daughter who spared neither time, care nor medical skill in his behalf.
The deceased was a member of the Hannibal lodge, F. & A. M., No. 550, having withdrawn from the lodge in Adams, where he was a member, on his removal to Hannibal. He was also a K. O. T. M.
The funeral services were from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Auyer, where he died, on Monday, December 27. After a short address by the Rev. W. A. McKenzie, D. D., of Hannibal, assisted by Rev. S. K. Darlington, the Masonic funeral was observed, the ceremonies being under the direction of Rising Sun lodge, Adams, N. Y.
The Masonic lodge of Hannibal sent an escort of four master masons, together with a beautiful tribute of white roses and green leaves, the Adams lodge, was represented by an emblematic floral piece. The burial was in Maplewood.
Besides his wife the deceased is survived by a daughter, Mrs. George Nau of Green Bay, Wisconsin, and two sons, Mark and Arthur, of Hannibal and his step mother, Mrs. Abram Minar, Sandy Creek News.

MAN KILLED BY TROLLEY

Charles Reilly of Martville Struck on Track and was Struck Down Before Car Could Be Stopped.

The first fatality on the Syracuse, Lakeshore & Northern railroad occurred on Monday morning when the eleven o'clock car, south bound, at stop No. 28, struck Charles Reilly, an aged and highly respected resident of Martville, killing him instantly. Mr. and Mrs. Reilly had been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Carr, who reside about four miles from Fulton, and Mr. Carr had brought them to stop 28, where they were to take the car for Baldwinsville to visit friends. Mr. and Mrs. Reilly, it is alleged, attempted to cross the track when the car was within very few feet of them, the wife claiming the track, but the car struck Mr. Reilly, crushing his skull and killing him instantly. Mrs. Reilly and the body of her dead husband were placed on the tracks, and the car was stopped. The body was taken to the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Daniel Roach in Rochester street, where she is under the care of a physician. The deceased leaves his widow, one son, Charles, of Martville and one daughter, Mrs. Patrick Quinn of Bowers Corners.

BOOST CLUB MEETS.

Some Business Transacted and the Subject of a Public Meeting Discussed.

The Boost club met on Wednesday evening in the City Hall, not a very large attendance being present although those present evinced considerable enthusiasm over the work accomplished and proposed.

An amendment to the by-laws, providing for a standing committee on parks and play grounds, was adopted. It was decided to print the by-laws and to give each member of the club a handsome card upon which would appear the names of the standing committees.

Chairman Myron A. Stranahan of the Lighting Committee, announced that the pledges for fifteen are lights to be placed upon the West side, had been secured through Mr. R. D. Stewart, and that his committee hoped to report the installation of twenty additional lamps before the next meeting.

The subject of a public meeting at which local conditions should be discussed by a local speaker, was discussed and Hon. N. N. Stranahan's name was mentioned as the one best qualified to speak upon the subject and to do it justice.

FARMERS WEEK.

Cornell college will hold its third annual Farmers' week in Ithaca, Feb. 7-12. Plans are being made for the entertainment of 3000 people during that week and a most satisfactory convention is expected.

In connection with the other very instructive features to be presented, a potato show will be conducted, to which every farmer in the State is asked to send as many varieties of tubers as he pleases; prizes to be awarded to single exhibitors for the best single variety and the best collection of varieties. Granges and clubs are especially asked to send in as large a collection of varieties as possible.

COMMON COUNCIL

First meeting of the Common Council was held in the City Hall on Wednesday evening, January 11, 1910.

Present: Mayor Connors, Aldermen Palmer, Malone, Smith, Wolcott and Newton.

Alderman Newton moved that the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting be dispensed with and that they be approved and entered in the official paper.

Alderman Malone moved that the following be placed on the agenda: Roll call, reading of minutes, previous meeting, presentation and communications, resolutions, committee reports, notices and unfinished business, miscellaneous.

Alderman Johnson moved that the report of City Chamberlain be placed on file.

Alderman Wolcott moved that the report of A. W. Stoneburg be referred to the Finance Committee.

Alderman Smith moved that the report on Printing and Supplies be referred to the Finance Committee.

Alderman Newton moved that an ordinance be passed in favor of the City of Fulton to be used in purchasing stamps for the use of the City departments.

Alderman Wolcott moved that the ordinance be passed by the Board of Aldermen for street sprinkling for 1909 be, and the same be assessed as apportioned under date of Dec. 31, 1909.

Alderman Johnson moved that an examination of the accounts of the various departments of the city should be made, to the end that the financial condition of the city and the different departments thereof may be definitely ascertained.

Mayor Connors selected as such committee Aldermen Palmer, Wolcott and Mayor Connors, to confer with competent accountants for the purpose of ascertaining how soon an examination of the accounts could be made and the probable expense thereof, and to report to the Council as soon as practical.

Alderman Newton introduced the following and moved its adoption: Resolved, That the City Clerk be, and hereby is, directed to publish a notice pursuant to the charter that an assessment for street sprinkling for 1909 has been made, and that the Common Council will meet at the City Hall on the 27th day of January, 1910, at 8 o'clock p. m., to hear objections, if any, to such assessment, and that in the meantime said assessment may be examined by any and all persons desiring to examine the same.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB.

The Current Events Club met in regular session on Monday evening at the home of Attorney and Mrs. Arvin Rice. There was a large attendance of members who enjoyed an excellent program presented by Attorney Jennings and Mr. E. J. Peasfield.

The theme presented by Mr. Jennings was the treaty-making power of the government and its relation to State laws. The difficulty presented in the education of Japanese children in the public schools of California and the happy solution of the problem by the sovereign and State governments, was elucidated.

Mr. Peasfield gave a superb synopsis of matters of interest in nearly every walk of life, embracing foreign and domestic happenings, not overlooking the local field. A general discussion of the more important incidents followed Mr. Peasfield's remarks.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Paddock, on Monday evening, Jan. 24. The leaders will be the Rev. F. A. Miller and Attorney S. B. Mead, and the following subject will be presented for debate:

Resolved, That the Direct Primary law, as advocated by Governor Hughes, is beneficial to the State.

Affirmative—Rev. F. A. Miller.

IMMENSE MILL CONTEMPLATED.

American Woolen Company May Build Again This Spring.

The blue prints have been prepared for an immense addition to the plant of the American Woolen company, The Times has been creditably informed, and that with the coming of Spring the row of tenement houses on West First street will be razed to permit the construction of the building on the site now occupied by them.

When completed the mill will make a substantial addition to the already immense plant of the company, destined in time to become the largest plant owned by the company in the United States. Everything is favorable to this end, providing of course, that the rate of taxation is not too high.

CONGRESSMAN KNAPP'S BILL.

The Times has received from Congressman Knapp, a copy of the bill which he introduced in the house on December 10, 1909, and which was referred to the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds. It is as follows:

A BILL To provide for the erection of a public building at Fulton, New York.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress Assembled,

That the Secretary of the Treasury be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to erect, on a site heretofore acquired, a suitable building, including fireproof vaults, heating and ventilating apparatus, and approaches for the use and accommodation of the United States post office and other government offices in the city of Fulton and State of New York, at a limit of cost not to exceed the sum of eighty thousand dollars.

WANTED. Every lady in Fulton to buy a pound print of our Sterling Butterine at 22c. This is positively the best brand of Butterine on the market and all we want is to get you to try it. We control this sterling brand and will gladly refund money any time if not satisfactory. It is far better than the ordinary grades of butter and note the difference in price; 22c. for something real good, as against 34c. to 36c. for butter not up to standard.

PROMINENT LAWYER TO LEAVE

Former District Attorney W. B. Baker to Remove to Gloversville—Will Enter Firm of Baker & Burton.

Announcement was made on Friday that Attorney W. B. Baker and family would on February 1, remove from Oswego to Gloversville, Fulton County. The announcement was received with sincere regret upon the part of Mr. Baker's many friends throughout Oswego county where he is known as one of the brightest members of the bar and where as District Attorney for two terms he proved a just, capable official. Oswego county and city can ill afford to lose him.

In Gloversville Mr. Baker is to become a member of the legal firm of Baker & Burton, the firm with which he read law. The senior member of the firm is Mr. D. L. Baker, his uncle. The firm at the present time besides a very large general practice is chief counsel for the Fonda, Johnstown and Gloversville steam railroad and National Bank of Gloversville and the bank's attorney. Many years ago he was the County Judge of Fulton County and at one time came up to Oswego County and tried a term of court in Justice Wright's absence.

Mr. Baker was admitted to the bar in 1894, and in 1895 he was elected Special Surrogate. In 1898 he was re-elected and in 1902 he was elected District Attorney, being re-elected in 1905. He was a faithful public servant and will undoubtedly in his new home find even a wider field for his ability and skill. The outlook for success and advancement is very bright, yet it was only after months of contemplation that he finally decided to leave the county of his nativity and his wide circle of friends and acquaintances and remove to Gloversville.

He will be followed by the very best wishes of his friends, all of whom believe that he will make very good where ever his lines may be cast.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

The Board of Health met and organized on Wednesday evening by electing Dr. H. W. Schiappi president. The rules and regulations of the previous Board will be adopted for the time being. Messrs. William Osborne and Harry O'Brien are the other members of the Board.

A resolution was adopted appointing Dr. W. W. Kennedy as Milk and Meat Inspector. It is here that considerable interest is taken throughout the city Dr. E. H. Noddy, occupying the same office under the former Board of Health, states that he intends to contest the right of the Board to appoint his successor. In the mean time Dr. Kennedy is filling the office and expresses his intention of serving until his successor is appointed by either the present Board or its successor.

A POUND LEMON GROWN HERE.

Mrs. H. C. Dann of West First has a young lemon tree which has grown several fine lemons, one of which she kindly sent to The Observer office. It is a beauty and for size outclasses most of those raised in the south. It weighs only a fraction of an ounce less than a pound and might be taken for a big pomegranate that fruit in shape. ### FRANK TOWSE PROMOTED.

The Oswego Times of Friday contains the following announcement of interest to Fulton readers:

A number of important promotions were announced at the Ontario Division headquarters today by Superintendent McCormack. R. L. Scott, who has been assistant trainmaster at Richland, has been made trainmaster, and his predecessor, Fred Riley, has been made trainmaster of the Mohawk division of the Central, with headquarters at Albany. Frank Towse, at present chief clerk to Superintendent McCormack, is made assistant trainmaster at Richland. O. V. Sheppard, formerly of Watertown, but since the establishment of the headquarters here, timekeeper, has been made chief clerk.

This is a deserved promotion for Mr. Towse, but his departure from Oswego will be universally regretted, particularly by the press, to which he has been exceedingly courteous at all times.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

CASES OF PTOMIAME POISONING.

Dr. D. M. Totman, the health officer of Syracuse, says that twenty-seven cases of ptomaine poisoning had been reported in that city since January 1, and all but one case, it is claimed, have been traced to eating canned goods, cream puffs or chocolate eclairs. Three of the victims are in a serious condition, and the situation is said to be regarded by physicians as alarming, so much so that Dr. Totman issued a warning to the public against canned goods.

The Times has never heard of a case of ptomaine poisoning caused by using Fulton bake stuffs nor from using Port Stanwix canned goods—the best goods on the market today. If Dr. Totman would exclude other brands of canned goods, and recommend Port Stanwix canned goods only, The Times is sure there would be more justice than in placing all canned goods under the ban.

And who ever heard of a cream puff or a chocolate or anything else from John Barker's bakery giving anyone a pang, save that of pleasure?

SAND COMPANY INCORPORATED.

MARRIED

Mrs. Mary A. Smith of Fish Creek, Wisconsin, and Mr. Alonzo Loveless of this city were united in marriage on Thursday at the Congregational parsonage by Rev. Charles Olmsted.

On Thursday evening at the State street parsonage, the Rev. F. A. Miller officiating, occurred the marriage of Miss Mabel E. Waldron and Mr. Walter A. Allout, the bride being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fayette Waldron of Oak street, and the groom a son of Patrolman Allout. The young couple were unattended. They will make their home with the bride's parents.

Miss Elsie Hunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hunn of Mt. Pleasant, and Mr. Howard Sheldon, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sheldon of Scriba, were united in marriage on Thursday, the Rev. W. H. Somers of Mt. Pleasant officiating. At the conclusion of the ceremony a supper was served the bride and groom. The groom is in very poor health, and the wedding journey must of necessity be deferred until he has recovered.

The marriage of Miss Alice Grace of the West side to Mr. William Koehler of Philadelphia, Pa., was solemnized at the Catholic church on Wednesday, the Rev. J. L. Lindsman officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Koehler left immediately on a wedding trip to Trenton, N. J., and other cities. The young couple, who have been very popular in church and musical circles, have the best wishes of their many friends in this city.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Jewett and Mr. Fred Vant of Mt. Pleasant was solemnized at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at high noon on Wednesday, the Rev. J. L. Lindsman officiating. The ushers were Messrs Edward Grady of Oswego and Hugh Jewett. The bride was becomingly gowned in a tailored suit of blue, with hat to match, and she carried a bouquet of bride's roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Anna Jewett, who also wore a tailored suit of blue and carried pink carnations. The best man was Mr. David Jewett. At the conclusion of the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jewett in Volney where a reception was held and wedding collation served to a large number of guests. The home was prettily decorated with pink carnations and maiden hair ferns. Many beautiful gifts were received by the young couple, attesting to their great popularity with their large circle of friends. Mr. and Mrs. Vant are enjoying the honeymoon in New York city, after which they will make their future home in Volney.

DEATHS

The death of William H. Haden, 70, occurred on Sunday at the home of his son-in-law, Mr. William Haden, in Brockway. The funeral services were held from the late home, the Wednesday afternoon and interment was made in Fairdale. He is survived by four sons, Mr. Mariett of Fulton, Albert S. Mariett of Morrisville, William E. Mariett of North Hamblin and Ernest Mariett of Chittenango, and two daughters, Mrs. Ella Haden of Fulton and Miss Laura Mariett of Fort Wayne, Ind.

Sally MaSkell, aged 88, died on Jan. 6, at her home in Volney after a brief illness. The funeral services were held from the late home on Sunday. The deceased was born in Victory, Cayuga county, but after her marriage to Mr. Truman A. Skell of Seneca Hill, she removed to that place where they owned a large farm. Later the home was at Mt. Pleasant, where the deceased had a large acquaintance. The deceased was one of nine children, of whom Mr. Alonzo Cooper of Oswego is now the sole survivor. Mrs. Skell is survived by two daughters, Mrs. A. B. Rowley of Mount Pleasant, and Mrs. Hiram Wharton of Auburn, and four sons, John, Prentice, and Adelbert of Cleveland, Ohio, and Monroe Skell of this city.

Postmaster J. B. Alexander and his daughter, Miss Julia Alexander, were called to Savannah, Ga., on Friday by the critical illness of the son-in-law, Alfred Dearing Harden, death resulting before they reached his bedside. The deceased while preparing for a hunting expedition in September, accidentally shot himself, the bullet lodging in his spine. After months of suffering he was thought to be regaining his health, but a complication arose and he passed to rest. Mr. Haden was born in Savannah thirty-seven years ago and was a graduate of the University of Virginia and Johns Hopkins. He was a lawyer by profession and had a lucrative practice. He was prominent in the affairs of the National Guard of Virginia, holding the rank of major. He was also prominent in Masonry. Eight years he was married in Oswego to Miss Laura Alexander, who with three children survives, a son and two daughters.

The death of Lynn H. Palmer, a son of the late Captain Palmer, occurred at the home of his brother in Buffalo last week. The funeral services were held in Buffalo and interment was made in the family lot in Baltimore, Md., the former home of the family. The deceased is survived by his widow, two sisters, Miss Eva Palmer of this city and Mrs. Eula Long of Syracuse, and one brother, Ira Palmer, formerly of this city, now a resident of Buffalo.

Mrs. George M. Ives, (nee Miss Belle M. James) died at 10:30 o'clock on Tuesday morning at her home in Volney, aged 39 years and 7 months. She was born in the town of Palermo June 12, 1870, and spent her girlhood days in Ellensburg, Jefferson county, graduating from Belleville Union Academy in the class of '88. The deceased has not been in robust health for the past year but did not give up nor take to her bed until within the past three months. In all of her suffering she was very patient, never complaining and hopeful always of recovery until Sunday last, when her failing strength became apparent to her. Her malady seemed to be stomach trouble, aggravated by nervousness and over-exertion, but the immediate cause for her death was pneumonia. The funeral services will be held from the late home on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. W. L. Sawtelle officiating. Interment will be made in the James family lot beside her father in Elmwood cemetery, Adams. The deceased is survived by her husband, her mother, Mrs. Helen Holden, and one brother, Mr. Floyd James, all of this city. The deepest sympathy is extended to the truly bereaved mother and brother.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. John Andrews and family desire to thank their many friends and neighbors for favors received during the illness and death of the husband and father. Especially do they extend gratitude to the Rev. Charles Olmsted and to the members of the Congregational choir.

COSTLY SHUT-DOWN.

The breaking of a pin of the driving wheel of the finishing engine in rail mill of the Illinois Steel company at South Chicago on Saturday cost the company some $369,000. The officials estimate that every minute the rail mills were idle represented a loss of $40.

The big engine "ran away" when the pin broke at 2:15 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The damage will not be repaired until next Monday morning. Except Sundays, the mill runs twenty-four hours a day.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH ELECTS OFFICERS.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Congregational church was held on Tuesday evening, resulting in the following selections: being made: The society, Henry Poklard and Charles Anderson as trustees for three years; F. J. Switzer, treasurer; and Wells Hannum, clerk. The church elected Dr. W. M. Wells and Z. Newell as deacons, William Russell clerk and Mrs. G. B. Fairman treasurer. F. J. Switzer, Charles Anderson, Frank Norton, Wells Hannum, Frank Preston, Dr. W. M. Wells, William Barrett, E. J. Bishop, W. Russell and Lee Edgerton were named as ushers.

MASONIC CLUB SMOKER.

The Masonic club will hold a smoker in the club rooms on Friday evening, Jan. 14. Rev. F. W. Betts of Syracuse will address the gathering, and after the address music, luncheon and a smoker will be enjoyed. Each member is invited to be present and to bring a friend. The Masonic club is in a sound financial condition, and growing numerically all the time. It is one of the most popular fraternal organizations in this city.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING
Captain and Mrs. John Parsons of Oswego, on Tuesday evening of last week celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary in a most fitting and desirable manner at their home in West Seventh and Seneca streets. Throughout the afternoon hours many friends called and extended congratulations and good wishes, presents were received in numbers and congratulations and good wishes were showered upon the worthy bride and groom of fifty years ago.

The evening hours were devoted to a formal reception, a large number of friends being in attendance.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The Citizens National bank held its annual meeting and election of officers on Tuesday evening with the following result: President, E. R. Redhead; vice president, John Hunter; cashier, Dr. C. R. Lee; assistant cashier, Mrs. M. F. Willard; board of directors, E. R. Redhead, John Hunter, J. C. O'Brien, H. L. Paddock, A. C. Gilbert, Dr. C. R. Lee and J. W. Stevenson, the latter taking the place of James C. Hunter, resigned.

The First National bank, at its annual meeting held on Tuesday, re-elected its officers and Board of Directors, the following filling the several offices: President, Thomas Hunter; vice president, Hon. N. N. Stranahan; cashier, L. C. Foster, assistant cashier, H. C. Gardner. Directors, Thomas Hunter, N. N. Stranahan, H. C. Gardner, F. A. Gage, L. W. Emerick, J. R. Sullivan and E. Quirk.

On a Sailing Vessel.

Instead of the usual routine work on a steamer—paint washing and so forth—the work on a sailing ship varies widely. It may be making or shortening sail, bending or unbending line or heavy weather canvas, squaring in or bracing up the yards, tacking or wearing ship, and no matter what the labor, one always had the satisfaction of seeing the result. The speed and sailing qualities of a vessel were things that could be discussed with interest as well as the length of passage. In bad weather, when excitement ran high and cursing was considered quite in order, struggling up aloft with wet frozen canvas—one hand for the ship and the other for yourself—on a dark, dirty night put a man on his mettle, and should the forecastle be handled as the main topsail settled and the cry of "Splice the main brace!" be heard, well, one felt at peace with the world. In the tropics catching sharks, harpooning dolphins and porpoises, singing, dancing, telling yarns and reading overboard love letters are diversions not easily forgotten by those who have experienced them. Being becalmed in the tropics on a beautiful moonlight night brought home to one the beauty and wonders of nature and the existence of a God with whom one felt in closer touch on such nights as those. —A British Marine Officer in Atlantic.

A Curious Experience.

Lombroso, the famous Italian criminologist, once had a curious experience. He was in a printing office correcting the proofs in his "Delinquent Man" with the chief reader when on reaching a page which dealt with a young man who, impelled by jealousy, had stabbed his fiancée he made a surprising discovery. The proofreader was this man.

"Suddenly," Lombroso said in telling the story, "he threw himself at my feet, declaring that he would commit suicide if I published this story with his name. His face, before very gentle, was completely altered and almost terrifying, and I was really afraid that he would kill himself or me on the spot. I tore up the proofs and for several editions omitted his story."

Evarts and the Author.

When a popular young author went to see William M. Evarts while he was secretary of state in behalf of a consularship for which he was an applicant, Mr. Evarts congratulated him on the fame which he had acquired, but hastened to add, "Although you have laurels on your brows, I suppose you can't browse on your laurels."

Foreign Geography.

Children of European birth who were old enough to receive some instruction in geography before coming to members of this Sunday school. He country held opinions in regard to usually very quiet, but when, soon political divisions of the earth which he learned, a storm prevented all the American geographers and they members of his class from coming to the school. The members of his class from coming to the school. The members of his class from coming to the school. The members of his class from coming to the school.

"It is Cincinnati, on the Ohio," he said bashfully. "What is it about?"

"Maps and printed text-books produced to prove her error. The pupil was in no wise convinced.

"It wasn't that way in our geography at home," said she. And the next day, to uphold her contention, she brought the geography on which she based her assertion. That book was not a perfect product of the geography maker's art, for it certainly did state that Cincinnati, on the Ohio river, was the capital of Ohio.

"But that is a mistake," said the teacher. Then day after day, when the girl was called upon to recite, the teacher put the question of discord. "What is the capital of Ohio?" and day after day, at the risk of bad marks, came the positive reply, "Cincinnati, on the Ohio."—New York Press.

Habits of Seals.

The habits of seals are very interesting. The very young seal is helpless in the water until he is taught by his mother to swim. She takes him into the water daily on her back and dumps him in and when he gets tired of bounding about places him on her fin again and returns to her camp. When the young seals are well grown they suddenly disappear with their mothers and the bull seals. No one knows where they go, and their return is equally as sudden as their departure. The bulls are the first to put in an appearance at the camping ground. When they arrive they commence at once to prepare a camp for their mates, which they stake off and for which they fight until they die. In the meantime the female seals remain quite a distance from land, floating lazily on the water and seemingly having a good time.

Cooking Your Goose.

The phrase "I'll cook your goose for you" originated in this manner: Eric, king of Sweden, coming to a certain town, besieged it, but, having few soldiers, was obliged to desist. The inhabitants in derision dug out from the walls a goose on a pole. Later Eric returned with reinforcements and in reply to the challenge of the heralds observed that he had come to cook their goose for them and proceeded to storm the town and make it hot for the inhabitants.

Ant Eaters.

Ant eaters are in the curious position of being practically unable to open their mouths. It may almost be said, indeed, that they have no mouths to open. There is just a small, round orifice at the end of the snout, through which about two feet of wormlike tongue can wriggle out, and as this tongue is bathed with liquid glue instead of saliva, every ant which it touches adheres to it, and the animal licks the insects up by hundreds at a time.

Jimmy's Recitation.

Jimmy is one of the most enthusiastic geography before coming to members of this Sunday school. He country held opinions in regard to usually very quiet, but when, soon political divisions of the earth which he learned, a storm prevented all the American geographers and they members of his class from coming to the school. The members of his class from coming to the school. The members of his class from coming to the school.

"Maps and printed text-books produced to prove her error. The pupil was in no wise convinced.

"It wasn't that way in our geography at home," said she. And the next day, to uphold her contention, she brought the geography on which she based her assertion. That book was not a perfect product of the geography maker's art, for it certainly did state that Cincinnati, on the Ohio river, was the capital of Ohio.

"But that is a mistake," said the teacher. Then day after day, when the girl was called upon to recite, the teacher put the question of discord. "What is the capital of Ohio?" and day after day, at the risk of bad marks, came the positive reply, "Cincinnati, on the Ohio."—New York Press.

Surprising, What Kodol Will Do

For you, when you need it. But the longer you neglect indigestion, the more you will suffer before Kodol can restore Good Digestion.

And, of course, indigestion if neglected long enough, brings on serious diseases in which Kodol cannot benefit you. Some of these there is no help for at all.

There are, in fact, very few ailments which cannot be traced directly to impure blood. And impure blood is always due to a disordered stomach.

Use Kodol and prevent Nervous Dyspepsia.

Kodol will effectually assist Nature to secure a complete restoration of good digestion. It does this by at once digesting all food in the stomach and keeping it digested, until the stomach is rested and can resume its own work. Kodol removes the cause—and the effect quickly removes itself.

When it is recalled that Apoplexy, Heart Disease, Cancer—and even Consumption—are due to poor digestion and poisons thus transmitted to the blood, and throughout the system—the importance of maintaining good digestion is at once realized.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a bottle of Kodol. If you have used the entire contents of the bottle and you are not cured, we will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate. All druggists know that our guarantee is good. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 5 1/2 times as much as the tiny ones.

A Modest Judge.

A certain prominent English jurist was transferred from the chancery court to the admiralty court rather unexpectedly. While conversant with English law to a surprising degree, this gentleman had spent little time in marine law and was rather dubious as to his ability to cope with the duties of his new office. His colleagues, in recognition of the occasion, gave him a dinner, after which he was called upon for an address. He made a long and serious speech, which embraced about everything from free trade to England's foreign policy. Then, pausing a moment, he glanced round the crowded room and said:

"Gentlemen, in closing I can think of no better words than the lines of Tennyson:

"And may there be no meaning of the sea When I put out to sea."

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy never disappoints those who use it for obstinate coughs, colds and irritations of the throat and lungs. It stands unrivalled as a remedy for all throat and lung diseases. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Sense of Danger.

Dr. Waldo of London holds that people should develop a sixth sense to inform them of the approach of danger in the streets. Lancelotti Hearn once said: "While in a crowd I seldom look at faces. My intuition is almost infallible. Like that blind faculty he comes aware of the proximity of bulky objects without touching them. If I hesitate to obey it a collision is the inevitable consequence. What pilots one quickly and safely through a thick press is not conscious observation at all, but unreasoning intuitive perception."

His Contribution.

"Have you ever done anything for the good of the community?" asked the sold citizen.

"Yes," replied the weary warfarer. "I've just done thirty days."—Philadelphia Record.

Have you a weak throat? If so, you cannot be too careful. You cannot begin treatment too early. Each cold makes you more liable to another and the last is always the harder to cure. If you will take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the outset you will be saved much trouble. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Whelk's Eggs.

Natural soap is not heard of very often, but it not only exists, but is highly prized by Jack Tar in the tropics when the purser reports that the ship's supply of soap has given out. Then all hands are sent ashore to gather a supply of "natural soap," which is found on the shore in the shape of whelk's eggs. The whelk is a little shellfish, or marine mollusk, which in Europe is eaten like mussels, cockles, oysters and clams, but in the tropics it is more highly esteemed for the soap it provides in the shape of its eggs. The eggs are found in a light yellowish mass which is composed of some five or six hundred canules. One fish alone produces millions of these eggs in the course of the year. They are found on the shores of the Atlantic, but are very profuse on the intertropical coral reefs, where sailors take large quantities aboard for use as soap.

Crushing a Lawyer.

De Wolfe Hopper was once a witness in a suit for slander, and the opposing counsel in the court room said:

"You are an actor, I believe?"

"Yes," replied Hopper.

"Is not that a low calling?"

"I don't know, but it's so much better than my father's that I am rather proud of it."

"What was your father's calling, may I ask?"

"He was a lawyer," said Hopper.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that was ever made is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They do the work whenever you require their aid. These tablets change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, gloominess into joyousness. Their action is so gentle one doesn't realize they have taken a purgative. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Logic.

"What—a boy of your age doesn't know the parts of speech?" exclaimed the schoolmaster.

"No, sir," replied the pupil.

"Haven't you ever heard of a noun?"

"Oh, yes, sir."

"Well, what comes next?"

"I don't know, sir."

"A pronoun," said the master. "Now remember that. Then comes the verb. Now what follows that?"

"A proverb, please, sir."—London Scraps.

To Munch a Viper.

Though the prescription seems to have disappeared from the pharmacopoeia of modern "beauty specialists," it was for centuries notorious that to feed on snake meat was the way to win perpetual youth; to cure goiter, again, or any other swelling, all that was necessary was to munch a viper from the tail up, as it might be a stick of celery, while yet another snake, if eaten, conferred the power of understanding all the tongues of birds.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is not a common, every-day cough mixture. It is a meritorious remedy for all troublesome and dangerous complications resulting from cold in the head, throat, chest or lungs. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Diamond Cut Diamond. "Patrick H. McCarron," said a Brooklyn lawyer, "knew how to handle men. He met straightforward men with straightforward methods, and tricky men he bested with wily tricks than their own."

"Once he illustrated his policy to me with a story. He was like, he said, the rich Peter Higgins."

"When Peter was young and gay two friends, being hard up, put up a game on him."

"Peter," they said, "you might pay us that $2 we lent you."

"When did you lend me $2?" said Peter haughtily.

"Why, night before last, when you were drunk," was the reply.

"Oh, yes," said Peter. "I remember now. But hang it, I paid you back!"

"Paid or back? When?"

"Last night, when you were drunk. Don't you remember?"

INSTINCT AND REASON.

An interesting illustration of the Two Traits of Monkeys.

An illustration showing the difference between instinct and reason in monkeys came under the observation of David Starr Jordan, the famous naturalist. At one time he had two lively Macacus monkeys called Bob and Jocko. These were put and fruit eating monkeys and instinctively knew just how to crack nuts and peel fruits. At the same time he had a baby monkey, Momo, of a kind that had the egg eating instinct. But Momo had never yet seen an egg.

To each of the three monkeys Dr. Jordan gave an egg, the first that any of them had ever seen. Baby Momo, descended from egg eating ancestors, handled his egg with all the inherited experience of a long developed instinct. He cracked it with his upper teeth, making a hole in it, and sucked out all its substance. Then, holding the eggshell up to the light and looking there was no longer anything in it, he threw it away. All this he did mechanically, automatically and just as well with the first egg as with any other he afterward had. And all eggs since given him he has treated in the same way.

The monkey Bob took his egg for some kind of nut. He broke it with his teeth and tried to pull off the shell. When the inside ran out and fell on the ground he looked at it for a moment in bewilderment, then with both hands scooped up the yolk and the hard mixed with it and swallowed it. Then he sniffed the shell into his mouth. This act was not instinct; it was reason. He was not familiar with inherited instinct with eggs. He would handle one better next time, however. Reason very often makes mistakes at first, but when it is trained it becomes a means far more valuable and powerful than instinct.

The third monkey, Jocko, tried to eat his egg in much the same way that Bob did, but, not liking the taste, he threw it away.—St. Nicholas.

EASY MONEY.

Picked Up by the Sharp Chap Who Bet on a Word.

Just by way of showing how easy it is for some men to pick up a few dollars by their wits a young fellow strolled into a cafe the other afternoon and, joining in conversation that was being carried on by convivial spirits, declared he was the most "fortunate" individual on earth. He immediately began telling a story of his personal troubles, but before he had got the narrative well under way there was a chorus of interruptions, and the talkative young man was politely informed that his English needed revising, since he should have used the word "unfortunate" instead of "fortunate."

The newcomer insisted that unfortunate was the correct word to use, and the argument waxed warm. Finally, with a show of heat, the young man who started the trouble declared that while he had only a few dollars he would wager them that he was correct.

So anxious were his friends to lay wagers with him that he did not have money enough to meet all the demands, but he succeeded in putting up $15 in separate small bets. The men who were certain that the garrulous young man was wrong in the use of the word unfortunate went out for a dictionary only to find that they had been "wrong" on a "sure thing" bet the big book on spelling showing that unfortunate is perfectly proper and means unfortunate.

"Yes," said the winner of the bet as he pocketed his new portion of wealth, "I have won money on that before. I collected $10 this afternoon on a similar wager."—Philadelphia Record.

Playing It Down Low.

"I haven't much use for Stillersley," said the proud papa.

"Why?" asked the proud mamma.

"I listened to him for an hour today while he told me about what his baby had said or tried to say, and just as I was about to tell him about ours he left me, saying he had to catch a train."—Baltimore American.

The Very Latest.

"Nice car."

"Yes."

"Is it the latest thing in cars?"

"I guess so. It has never got me anywhere on time yet."—Houston Post.

Local and Personal

Mr. Peter Massaro has purchased the Windsor Hotel in North First street.
Mrs. W. H. Rose on Friday afternoon entertained the Progressive Literary Circle.

Dr. C. C. Teall has been entertaining his mother, Mrs. Mary Teall, of Woodport.

It is reported that an installment house is to be opened in this city in the near future by residents of Oneida, Syracuse and Utica.

Mary E. Blakeman has sold property in Fulton to Wallace Carver. Consideration, $2,250.

Messrs. Milton and Ronald Allen have been the recent guests of Clara Wadsworth, in Syracuse.

Oswego Times, Jan. 7, 1885:—W. J. Pentlow of Fulton has been appointed Deputy Sheriff by Sheriff Beadle.

We are certainly having plenty of the poor man's fertilizer—snow—this winter. But wait until February is with us.

Mr. and Mrs. George Abbott and son, who have been the recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Ydams, have returned to their home in Boston, Mass.

Miss Gertrude Safford's many friends are pleased to learn that she has so far recovered from a long illness as to be able to resume her duties in the Foster Bros. & Chaffin office.

Drs. F. E. Fox, B. P. Marsh and W. M. Wells last week performed a delicate operation upon Mrs. John Kopeck, at the city hospital, from the effects of which she is slowly recovering.

Miss Frances Forsyth has been spending a few days with friends in New York city. Her brother-in-law, Mr. Rosser S. Noblin of South Boston, Va., met her upon her arrival in New York city on Saturday morning.

Floyd Newton fell while hunting during his vacation from college, and his hunting dog severely bit him in the face. Mr. Newton returned to college on schedule time but with a badly swollen face.

The committee appointed by the Citizens club to perfect plans for a dancing reception to be given in the near future, is composed of Messrs. S. B. Mead, T. W. Morton, G. G. Chauncey, J. A. Foster and Dr. L. F. Joy.

The Citizens club directors met on Wednesday evening and mapped out a schedule of entertainments to be enjoyed by the club members during the winter months. A dancing reception will be one of the first entertainments, followed by smokers and ladies' nights.

A telephone call on Wednesday morning took the firemen in double quick time to the home of Attorney G. S. Piper in Third street, where it was found that steam from a burst water coil had been mistaken for smoke and the necessity for the fire department considered pressing.

On Wednesday evening Miss Florence Deuel entertained a party of friends at dinner at her home in Erie street, in celebration of her birthday. The table decorations were most attractive, the color being red and green, and roses were used lavishly. Music and games were enjoyed after dinner.

Niagara power took another hike into oblivion on Friday and several Fulton residents are not as strenuous advocates of the "big power" as they were a few weeks ago, having spent about an hour in the wilderness adjacent to the Phoenix fair grounds in the bitter cold. This is the second time Niagara power has misbehaved itself within a very brief period. For a commodity that is being closely watched, it does behave in a very unseemly manner.

The L. C. B. A. have installed the following recently elected officers: President, Mrs. Hannah A. Cole; first vice president, Mrs. Mayme Taylor; second vice president, Miss Mary Sweeney; recorder, Mrs. Margaret Hartnett; assistant recorder, Mrs. Margaret Hartigan; financial secretary, Miss Cora Gallon; treasurer, Miss Harriet Martin; marshals, Mrs. Melinda Ranger; guard, Mrs. Fanny Martin; trustees for one year, Mrs. Rose Walsh, Mrs. Catherine Frawley, Mrs. Mary Sweeney, trustees for two years, Mrs. Elizabeth McCormick, Mrs. Julia Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Streeter have returned from New York City.

Mr. Vincent Hall continues to slowly regain his health after a long illness.

Mrs. O. C. Breed is much improved in health and her ultimate recovery is expected.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Rector, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Beckwith, have returned to their home in Penn Yan.

Mr. J. C. O'Brien accompanied his daughter Helen, when she left last week for Elizabeth College, Convent Station, New Jersey. Mr. O'Brien also spent several days in New York city purchasing bargains for his January sale.

William, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Penfield, had the misfortune to fall down stairs at the High school building on Wednesday and sustained two broken bones in his left arm, below the elbow. Dr. F. E. Fox was called and reduced the fractures.

A letter from Dr. I. C. Curtis, written at his winter home in Orange City, Florida, on Jan. 2, states that from Dec. 29 to 31 the mercury fell as low as 18 degrees above zero and the peach growers were despondent, while the spirits of the plumbers arose, no water pipes in that city being protected from frosts. On Jan. 2, as the doctor was writing, the thermometer registered 80 in the shade. Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Connell, who left on Monday for Orange City, will spend the winter as next door neighbors to Dr. and Mrs. Curtis.

About twenty-five members of the eighth grade of the Phillips street school of Fulton came to Baldwinville Monday to visit their teacher, Miss Lois Harrington. They were met at the car and taken to the country home of M. Harrington, Jr., where a very jolly afternoon and evening were spent. They left here for Fulton about nine o'clock, accompanied by Miss Harrington, whose school began on Tuesday after the holiday vacation.—Baldwinville Gazette.

ART CALENDAR FREE.

Send one dollar to The Post-Standard Company, Syracuse, and they will send their paper to you for five months. They will also mail you free their three-sheet "America Girl" calendar. The calendar, alone, would cost at least twenty-five cents in an art store. Any old subscriber may get this calendar by paying one dollar, for which his time will be advanced five months.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eyes, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal secretions reveal these derangements later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling, means that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels but begin at the liver and cleanse the system. They are the only medicine that will give you a clear complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements. They are the only medicine that will give you a clear complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements. They are the only medicine that will give you a clear complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements.

DON'T LIKE ENSILAGE.

Farmers would be very pleased if the city fathers would issue an edict prohibiting wagon loads of ensilage to stand in the streets, radiating such nauseating odor. It is bad enough to have a wagon loaded with the nasty smelling stuff pass one rapidly but when it stands in a locality for a few minutes the air for a wide circle around becomes almost unbearable.

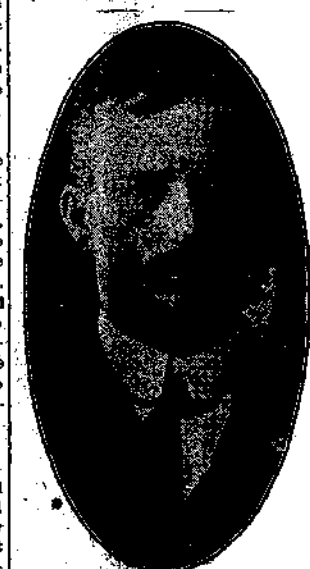

Saturday and Monday, First, Oneida and Cayuga streets had several experiences with wagons loaded with the loud smelling stuff, the drivers leaving them at the curb while they attended to errands.

POST CARD ALBUM READY.

Civil Service Commissioner Charles E. Lockrow has his post card album ready for filling, and even with the total of his recent post card shower therein, he has a few vacant leaves left which he will not mind having filled by the loving friends who have taken him so much to heart this year. Mr. Lockrow has had many merry moments over the artistic efforts of some of these friends.

Cocaine which dulls the nerves never cures Nasal Catarrh. The heavy feeling in the forehead, the stuffed up sensation and the watery discharge from eyes and nose, along with all the other miseries attending the disease, are put to rout by Ely's Cream Balm. Smell and taste are restored, breathing is made normal. Until you try this remedy, you can form no idea of the good it will do you. It is applied directly to the sore spot. All druggists, 50c. The New York Central will sell excursion tickets to Canton, Jan. 24 to 27, good returning to Jan. 29, at five and half for round trip, minimum 50 cents, from Utica, Syracuse, Oswego, and a station north. Agents furnish complete information.

FEVER SORES.

Fever sores and old chronic sores should not be healed entirely, but should be kept in a healthy condition. This can be done by applying Chamberlain's Salve. This salve has no superior for this purpose. It is also most excellent for chapped hands, sore nipples, burns and diseases of the skin. For sale by E. A. Putnam.

A Georgia jury acquitted a man of violating the liquor law, though $2,000 worth of liquor was found in his place, accepting the testimony of the defendant that "the liquor had been purchased for the purpose of filling a physician's prescription for his wife." George's wife had been making a course in bartending a year or so for a degree as Doctor of Medicine.

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a positive cure for weakness and disease of the feminine organism.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

It allays inflammation, heals ulceration and soothes pain. It tones and builds up the nerves. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Highest medicine dealers sell it, and have nothing to urge upon you as "just as good." Ask Your Neighbors. They probably know of some of its many cures. If you want a book that tells all about women's diseases, and how to cure them at home, send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. Pierce to pay cost of mailing copy, and he will send you a free copy of his great thousand-page illustrated Catalogue of Medical Advice—revised, up-to-date edition, in paper covers. In handsome cloth-binding, 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

CURRENT TOPICS.

New York, Jan. 8.—General Newton M. Curtis, who distinguished himself during the Civil War, dropped dead on the street today enroute home from his office. He was 75 years old. He formerly lived in Ogdensburg and was widely known throughout Northern and Central New York.

Chicago.—Declaring that breakfast food is a "shell game," the Chicago Federation of Labor has adopted resolutions demanding that the National Pure Food Commission investigate the charges that peanut shells are used in the manufacture of this class of food. During the discussion of the matter President John Fitzpatrick of the Chicago Federation declared that a recent wreck in Michigan showed that several cars were loaded with peanut shells consigned to Battle Creek. This, he thought, was sufficient ground for an investigation.

Geneva, Jan. 8.—F. W. Griffith, of Palmyra, Wayne county, was nominated by the Republicans of the forty-second Senatorial district this afternoon on the eighth ballot as their candidate to succeed the late Senator John Ralston. He is a supporter of Governor Hughes.

Rome, Jan. 8.—Francesco Satolli, one of the five cardinal bishops of the Catholic church, died at 8 o'clock this morning after a three weeks' illness of neuritis. Cardinal Satolli was 71 years old and was raised to the cardinalate in 1896. He was professor of congregational studies at the time of his death.

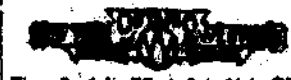

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. "Rheumatism" out of ear is caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous lining.

HUGHES TO THE LEGISLATURE

Message Recommends Abolition of Oral Betting.

AGAIN FOR PRIMARY REFORM.

He Adopts the Provisions of the Hinman-Green Bill of Last Year, Makes Public News of Harriman and Other Requests For State Park -- "White Slave" Traffic, Telephone and Telegraph Control, Stream Pollution, Stock Market Speculation and Other Topics.

To the Legislature--During the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1909, the total amount received by the state was $32,285,239.29. This was $204,254.06 in excess of the receipts of the preceding fiscal year.

Included in the total are the proceeds of the sale of canal and highway bonds and the moneys realized upon the canal debt sinking fund and trust fund accounts, which aggregate $21,127,243.32, being an increase of $2,823,785.06 over similar items of the preceding year.

The receipts from taxes (apart from miscellaneous income of $2,419,007.39) amounted to the sum of $25,738,987.97. This shows a decrease of $2,573,064.94. The explanation of the decrease is found in the liquor tax receipts, which are less by $4,215,734.42 than those of the previous year. This, however, is not a real loss, but is due to change in the beginning of the excise year from May 1 to Oct. 1, thus throwing a large part of the receipts into the next fiscal year. It is believed that the liquor tax receipts for the calendar year are substantially the same as formerly, but the above mentioned change of date affects the amount collected to the close of the fiscal year on Sept. 30, 1909, and the general balance as of that date.

The total disbursements during the last fiscal year were $34,109,227.55. This embraces the outlays for canal and highway and for forest purchases, which aggregated $35,556,530.12, being an excess in these items over the preceding year of $20,479,188.07.

The remaining disbursements aggregated $28,552,697.43.

The surplus on Sept. 30, 1909, ascertained according to the customary method, amounted to $3,435,848.16. At the end of the preceding year it was $12,857,784.06. There would not have been this decrease in the general balance had it not been for the difference in the excise year and the consequent difference of over $4,000,000 in the liquor tax receipts, already noted.

The state debt has been increased to $41,230,090 through the issue of additional bonds amounting to $15,000,000 for canal and highway purposes, as follows:

Canal debt.....	$30,230,000	$34,230,000
Highway debt.....	6,000,000	11,000,000

The Harriman Gift.

It is with great pleasure that I announce a most important public benefaction. In accordance with the wishes of the late Edward W. Harriman, his widow, Mary W. Harriman, has conveyed to the state a tract of about 10,000 acres of land situated in Orange and Rockland counties to be held in perpetuity as a state park and in furtherance of the same object to give to the state or to such board or commission as may be authorized to receive and administer the trust the sum of $1,000,000. Mrs. Harriman states that it was her husband's wish and is her expectation that this fund should be used by the state to acquire other parcels of land adjacent to the above mentioned tract and intervening between it and the Hudson river and in the improvement of the whole, so that the park may ultimately have some portion of river front and thus by improved accessibility be rendered more useful and more beneficial to the people of New York city and the neighboring counties. In addition to the condition that the land so conveyed should be held for use as a public park the grant is to be made upon the further condition that if the state or any person or corporation under its authority shall hereafter condemn or speak to condemn other land in Orange county belonging to Mrs. Harriman or her descendants the land which is the subject of the grant shall thereupon revert to her or her heirs. This condition is imposed for the preservation of an adjacent tract upon which Mrs. Harriman resides.

I recommend appropriate recognition of this munificence and the enactment of suitable measures in order to provide for the acceptance of the gift and its use for the purposes defined.

Other Benefactions.
It is my privilege to announce still other gifts for similar purposes. The importance of protecting the shores of the Hudson river and of establishing a highland park readily accessible to those living in the congested quarters of the metropolis has inspired a benevolence which cannot fail to receive the grateful appreciation of the people.

These additional gifts are the result of the activity of the Palisades park commission, which was created in 1900. Through this commission, constituted under the laws of this state, and a similar commission with identical membership established under the laws of the state of New Jersey there has been acquired the face of the cliffs from Fort Lee ferry to Piermont, including the riparian rights for the entire distance. The jurisdiction of the commission constituted under the laws of this state at first reached only to Piermont creek, in Rockland county, but by the amendment of the year 1906 it was extended so as to authorize the commission "to select and locate such mountain lands along the west bank of the Hudson river in Rockland county north of Piermont creek, above said and south of the state reservation at Stony point" as it might judge to be "proper and necessary for the purpose of extending the limits of said state park and thereby preserving the scenic beauty of the mountain lands along the west bank of the Hudson river in Rockland county north of the Palisades."

In the work already accomplished for the protection of the Palisades the commission has been materially aided by private contributions of money and land amounting to about $300,000, the state of New York having contributed $400,000 and the state of New Jersey $50,000. The members of the commission, who have conducted the enterprise with conspicuous ability and advantage to the state, not only have served without compensation, but I am informed that the total amount received by them for their personal expenses during the nine years of their services is only $457.13.

The commission has developed a plan for the construction of a roadway along the base of the Palisades from Fort Lee to Piermont, for the extension of the present park northward, as contemplated in the act of 1906, and for the creation and improvement under its jurisdiction of a highland park including the land to be conveyed by Mrs. Harriman, with suitable connections between these parks and with the state reservation at Stony point.

For this purpose it has secured private subscriptions, subject to certain conditions, however, from residents of New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia, as follows:

John D. Rockefeller, $500,000; J. Pierpont Morgan, $500,000; Margaret O'Hara Sage, $50,000; Helen Miller Gould, $25,000; Ellen F. James and Arthur Curtiss James, $25,000; William K. Vanderbilt, $50,000; George F. Baker, $50,000; James Stillman, $50,000; John D. Archibald, $50,000; William Rockefeller, $50,000; Frank A. Munsey, $50,000; Henry Phipps, $50,000; E. T. Storesbury, $50,000; E. H. Gary, $50,000; V. Everett Macy, $25,000; George W. Perkins, $50,000.

These make a total, in addition to Mrs. Harriman's gift, which they are intended to supplement, of $1,625,000.

The Forest Preserve.

So far as state appropriations are concerned, we confront an exigency in connection with acquisitions for the forest preserve similar to that existing in the case of the Highlands park. Our total holdings in the Adirondack and Catskill mountains now amount to 1,641,528 acres, of which 52,549 acres were acquired during the past year. But the area of the proposed Adirondack park is 3,313,564 acres and of the proposed Catskill park 576,120 acres, making a total of 3,889,684 acres. It is obvious that we cannot extend our holdings as the interests of the state require without larger outlays than annual appropriations permit. The state has decided upon its policy, and it should be promptly executed. It is little short of absurd that this state with its great wealth should unnecessarily delay the securing of control of these forest tracts, the preservation of which is of such vital importance to our continued prosperity.

Water Powers.

The water supply commission is about to make a most important report of the result of its investigations under the act of 1907 relating to the development of the water powers of the state. An exhaustive examination, with the assistance of competent engineers, has been made of the Hudson, Genesee and Raquette river watersheds. Four great reservoir projects have been examined so as to furnish full details with regard to location and design of dams and power plants, lands involved, cost and probable revenue and benefits. Additional studies have been made of other rivers which have importance as sources of power. Facts with regard to existing powers, the relative importance of different streams and the probable results of additional development and the necessity for increased power have been carefully considered.

enough to raise the question as to the action which should be taken by the state, and I commend this subject to your most careful consideration. The following principles should, I believe, be accepted:

First--That the flow of water in our rivers should be regulated and our water powers developed to the fullest extent that may be practicable.

Second--That with respect to streams having their headwaters within the boundaries of the forest parks, all plans of regulation or power development should be executed only by the state, and all reservoirs and their appurtenances and the impounded waters should be the property of the state and under exclusive state control and not be permitted to pass into private hands.

Any such plan should embrace all necessary safeguards to insure the proper protection of the forests.

Third--That with respect to any other streams flowing through any other public park or reservation of the state such plans should likewise be executed by the state, and it should retain exclusive ownership and control in order adequately to safeguard the state's interests.

Fourth--That further, as it is of great public importance that the water powers of the state should be developed in a comprehensive manner and that these natural sources of industrial energy should not become the subject of an injurious private control, such development should be undertaken by the state whenever such action appears to be feasible and for the general interest.

Fifth--That in any case of state development of water power provision should be made for the granting of such rights as may be proper to use the power so developed upon equitable terms and conditions.

Sixth--That the state should not undertake any plan of regulation of water power development save upon a basis which would make its investment a fair and reasonable one from the public standpoint by virtue of practicable measures for insuring such a return upon the state's outlay as would be equitable in the particular circumstances.

Seventh--That any amendment of the constitution at this time for the purpose of permitting any portion of the forest reserve to be used for any such purpose should by its terms or by appropriate reference suitably define the property within the preserve which is to be used and the manner of its use. No amendment and no plan of development should meet with any favor which after the most rigid scrutiny does not afford absolute assurance that in no way will the public interest in the forests be parted with or jeopardized.

Canals.

The contracts in force for the large canal improvement amount in total price to $48,229,467, and the contract value of the work performed to Dec. 1, 1909, was $15,823,275. It is estimated by the state engineer and surveyor that during 1910 work will be completed amounting to $18,000,000, and it is expected that the work for the entire length of the large canal system will be under contract by April 1, 1910. At the present rate of progress it is said that it is not unreasonable to expect that the large canal system will be completed by the end of the year 1914.

It is of great importance that adequate terminals for the large canal should be provided, and in accordance with the recommendation in the last annual report of the superintendent of public works provision was made at the last legislative session for proper inquiry in connection with this subject.

Highways.

Important progress has been made in the construction and improvement of our highways. Of the 320 miles of roads under contract when the new state highway commission entered upon its work at the beginning of last year 201 miles have been completed and accepted, and of the remaining 119 miles 75 per cent of the work has been done. In connection with these roads supplemental agreements were made for construction of 112 miles of bituminous macadam, of which 88 miles have been completed.

During the past year there have been expended for the improvement of county roads $2,847,201, of which the state contributed $1,783,827 and the various counties $1,063,374. Special attention has been paid to repair and maintenance, and $941,000 were expended during the past year upon roads previously completed. Three hundred and seventy-five miles of road have been oiled with a heavy asphalt oil and covered with screenings or gravel.

The total amount available for town highway purposes during the past year which was expended under the direction of the commission was $3,801,732, of which there was raised by highway tax on the towns outside of incorporated villages and cities the sum of $2,436,190, and the state contributed $1,365,542. There was also raised for bridge purposes $747,540.

Agriculture.

Provision has been made to promote the efficiency of the important work of the state in the protection of the interests of agriculture and to afford suitable advantages for agricultural education.

During the past year an outbreak of the foot and mouth disease in western New York and the appearance of the brown tail moth in central and eastern New York were dealt with so efficiently that the last trace of danger was removed. In the light of experience elsewhere this prompt action has probably saved the state and particularly these engaged in agriculture losses amounting to millions of dollars. I renew the recommendation that consideration should be given to the ### Stream Pollution and Public Health.

The question of protecting our streams from impurities deserves your serious and prompt attention. The dangers from sewage pollution are so well known that no argument is required to point out the necessity of insisting upon proper methods of sewage disposal, and at the same time we should proceed as rapidly as possible to free our waters from the contamination of industrial wastes.

At the last session of the legislature it was sought by suitable measures to provide checks against the spread of tuberculosis. This movement should be strengthened in every way that may be found advisable.

I have formerly called attention to our anomalous system of supervision of the sale of drugs under the present board of pharmacy. The bill passed at the last session with relation to this matter was disapproved, as it did not provide for the constitution of a board of suitable powers, the members of which should be properly designated by and amenable to state authority. I submit this subject for your further consideration.

Public Service Commission.

I again recommend that the public service commissions law should be extended to telegraph and telephone companies and that these companies should be brought under appropriate regulation as to rates, service and other matters similar to that which has been provided for corporations at present subject to the law.

Elections.

Progress in solving the problems of state government would seem to involve the concentration of responsibility with regard to executive powers. To accomplish this there should be a reduction in the number of elective offices. The ends of democracy will be better attained to the extent that the attention of the voters may be focused upon comparatively few offices, the incumbents of which can be held strictly accountable for administration. This will tend to promote efficiency of public office by increasing the effectiveness of the voter and by diminishing the opportunities of political manipulators who take advantage of the multiplicity of elective offices to perfect their schemes at the public expense. I am in favor of as few elective offices as may be consistent with proper accountability to the people and a short ballot.

It would be an improvement, I believe, in state administration if the executive responsibility were centered in the governor, who should appoint a cabinet of administrative heads accountable to him and charged with the duties now imposed upon elected state officers. But it is apparent that such a change would require revision of our constitutional scheme. In considering advisable changes or amendments of the law there may be noted:

The defective form of the present ballot has lately had conspicuous illustration. It became such a monstrosity in the recent election in New York city as to receive well nigh universal condemnation. The ballot there presented to the voters was about four feet wide and had nineteen columns for city candidates. The name of one candidate for mayor appeared eight times in as many separate columns, another four times, while the names of five candidates for mayor appeared but once.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE MEETS

After Business Session a Banquet and Smoker will be held—Members of Boost Club to be Guests.

This Wednesday evening the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce will be held and President Sullivan and Secretary H. L. Stout will read their annual reports. The meeting will be called to order promptly at 8 o'clock and at the conclusion of the business session the members will adjourn to the dining room at the Clark House at 9 o'clock where they will meet their invited guests, the members of the Boost club, and where music, light refreshments and a smoker will occupy the hours of lighter entertainment.

Hon. N. N. Stranahan, Prof. J. R. Fairgrieve and City Clerk W. L. MacNamara will address the assembly on matters of importance and interest to Fultons as citizens. It is expected that this gathering will cement a tie between the Chamber of Commerce and the Boost club, and will be of inestimable benefit to our home city and her advancement. Fulton is broadening out in her views of municipal matters and in the matter of these two organizations, old men for council, young men for war, will be the attitude from now on. It is anticipated.

Messrs J. R. Sullivan, D. L. Lipsky and E. J. Schem are the committee of arrangements for this entertainment and they are sparing no detail to make the event a memorable one in the history of those who attend.

ASSEMBLYMAN SWEET.

Assemblyman T. C. Sweet fared exceedingly well for a new member in the assignments he received on the different Assembly committees, being No. 7 on Canals; No. 7 on Insurance and No. 8 on Labor and Industries.

Mr. Sweet last week introduced a bill appropriating $300,000 for the building of a new Normal school in Oewego. His promptness in this matter augurs well for his value to his constituents as a legislator.

FIRE BOXES RE-NUMBERED.

Chief Waugh and his assistants have been busily engaged for months in simplifying the fire alarm system, cutting down the expense of sending in alarms and doing away with the reverse numbering which had frequently caused so much confusion. The new system is now in operation, the boxes have been re-numbered, the strokes cut down and the reverse numbers entirely eliminated.

The initial numbers have been centered in certain locations, all numbers commencing with 1 are located at the lower falls; all commencing with 2 are south of the Eureka paper mill; all commencing with 3 are north of Oneida street; all with 4 are between Oneida and Rochester streets; with 5, are between Rochester street and Broadway; with 6, are south of Broadway.

To still more simplify the system and facilitate reaching the scene of a conflagration near the business section, the smallest numbers are nearest First street.

Following are the numbers as arranged by Chief Waugh:

- West Side Engine House
10—North and First St.
21—Eureka Paper Mills
24—High School, Kellogg St.
26—West Broadway and Second St.
28—American Woolen Co.
29—Oak and Fourth St.
East Side
32—Hunter Arms Co.
34—Front of Taylor Bros.
35—Oneida and Second Sts.
37—Seneca and Fifth Sts.
38—Seward and Sixth Sts.
41—High School, Fourth St.
44—Ulita and Fourth Sts.
46—Ulita and Seventh Sts.
52—Buffalo and Third Sts.
54—Academy and Sixth Sts.
57—Broadway and Fourth St.
61—Broadway and First St.
63—Lyons and First Sts.

The American Woolen company is planning to build a steel bridge over West Broadway, to connect the old woolen mill and mill No. 5, on opposite sides of the street. Permission for construction of this bridge to span the roadway, was given some time ago by the Board of Public Works.

The same officers and directors were re-elected. The officers are: President, John P. Phelps; first vice president, J. H. Cooper; second vice president, Thomas F. Gleason; secretary-treasurer, M. S. Crombie.

SUPERIOR JOB PRINTING.

The Fulton Times does good work on every job of printing entrusted to it. We have careful and experienced workmen, first-class presses, new type of the latest and most tasteful design, and use the best of stock—this combination guaranteeing satisfaction in every case. We can please you in every particular—quality, price and promptness.

WORKING 24 HOURS A DAY.

The busiest little thing ever made are Dr. King's New Life Pills. Every pill is a sugar coated globe of health, that changes weakness into strength, languor into energy, brain-fog into mental power; curing constipation, headache, chills, dyspepsia, malaria. 25c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

The Limit.

There is a blacksmith who has a shop downtown and who has a reputation for good work, especially in the making of ice tongs. But he claims to be an expert on any kind of ironwork.

Recently a man dropped in on him while he was working on a pair of ice hooks.

"I see you are an expert on ice hooks," said the caller.

"Oh, yes! I make ice hooks putty good," remarked the mechanic, "but I also shoe your horses or do other ironwork just so good."

"Well," said the caller, "I've got a stove on which the hinges need repairing. Can you fix them?"

The blacksmith drew himself up to his full height and scornfully asked, "Do you think I am a dastardly jeweler?"—St. Joseph Gazette.

Just a Fit.

In the Ex-Libris Journal an amusing anecdote is given of a man anxious for a coat of arms and fortunate in finding one. A secondhand bookdealer bought at a country sale some 300 volumes of handsome but unsalable old sermons, broke on theology and the like.

He placed a number of these outside his shop. Soon afterward a well dressed man entered and said, "Have you any more of this kind of books with this shield on them?" pointing to the bookplate attached, which bore the arms and name of a good old country family.

"That box, sir, is full of books from the same house," answered the book-seller.

"What do you ask for them?" inquired the man. "I'm going back to Chicago, and I want to take some books, and these will just fit me, name and all. Just you sort out all that have that shield and name, but don't you send any without that nameplate, for that's my name too. I reckon this old fellow with the daggers and roosters might have been related to me some way."

"DON'T GET ALL RUN DOWN," weak and miserable. ### Picking a Horse.

A British cavalry officer, speaking of horses, said:

"Give me a free hand and I should pick a roan—that is, for good temper and quick learning. Dark grays and blacks are mostly strong and hardy and so are dark chestnuts. As a general rule, light chestnuts and light bays are nervous and delicate. A rusty black's a sulky pig nine times out of ten. Then, again, there are 'white stockings' as they call them. You know the old saying, 'One white leg's a bad one, two white legs you may sell to a friend, three white legs you may trust for a time, four white legs you may lay your life on.'"

This does not agree with an old Yankee saying:

One white foot, buy him;
Two white feet, try him;
Three white feet, look well about him;
Four white feet, go on without him.

Now, however, the American idea is similar to that of the sergeant, and they say, "Four white feet you can stake your life on him."—London Spectator.

State Master Stetson of Maine said in his annual address: "We may multiply our numbers, build more expensive halls and increase our funds, but nothing will insure the grange continuing as a power for good but a fine, strong, abiding sense of personal responsibility on the part of all members." That sentiment is worthy of wide dissemination.

Oaondaga county Pomona grange has established a system of crops reporting among its members that has proven advantageous. A central office is in charge of correspondence and each grange has two or more correspondents who keep the central office informed as to crops, prices, etc. Statistics are then compiled and sent confidentially to members. The plan promises to be of much value and is worthy of trial in other counties.

Nw. York State grange meets at Watertown, Feb. 1 for a four days' session. Pres. J. O. Sturman of Cornell will deliver the principal address at the public session on Tuesday evening, Feb. 1. The biennial election of officers will occur this year. It is rumored that a record breaking sixth degree class of 2,000 will be a feature of the session. Much important business will come up for consideration this year. There will be 533 voting delegates.

The services of State Secretary Olsen have been in demand as installing officer at three or four granges recently.

The volume of proceedings of the National grange session at Des Moines Iowa, is out and makes a book of 200 pages.

There is a volley of resolutions all along the firing line of granges against any change in the present election laws. There will be a hot fight on at Washington this winter.

The county deputies will hold a meeting at Watertown in connection with the State grange.

F. A. MOORE MAKES STATEMENT OF THE NOTED CREAM CASE

Blames Dr. Nodyne and Attorney Guile for the Trouble—Does Not Consider the Board of Health in Any Way Responsible—Quotes From National Stockman and Farmer

To the Editor of the Times:

Sometime in early spring of 1909 Nodyne spoke to me about having my herd tested, remarking that it would be a good thing for me, as the city was going to shut out Syracuse cream and all cream from untested herds, and under this protection I could buy cream and supply more trade and make a nice profit thereby. I told Nodyne I had no idea the city would stop Syracuse parties from shipping cream to Fulton, but in case they did I would fall in line and have my herd tested—at once. I heard nothing more until about the middle of May, when I was held up by Nodyne on the street and asked what I intended to do about having my herd tested, claiming the Board of Health was pushing him to test my herd, and I simply informed him that I knew better, and that he was the only one pushing the case and working every card to get the board to uphold his demand, and was still allowing two firms from Syracuse to ship cream into the city, and as long as Syracuse shipped in cream from untested cows, I considered I had the same privilege. I have been informed that both the above mentioned firms buy their cream from factories or creameries up the state. Nodyne agreed that the Syracuse cream was from untested herds and that he was going to attend to this soon, but still I am informed that the same firms continued to ship cream the entire season.

About the middle of August there was a warrant of arrest served on me and I appeared before Judge Spencer, and found the charge against me was selling cream without a license. I was released on my own bail to appear in the afternoon of the same day, giving me time to secure counsel. Having secured District Attorney Baker of Oswego, I appeared at the above mentioned time and waived examination and gave bail to await the action of the grand jury. Though the Syracuse Journal of Nov. 27th untruthfully published that the return papers regarding the case could not be found, the case was regularly called and tried before the grand jury in October. Several witnesses from Fulton were sworn and I was discharged. The

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eyes, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely push the bowels but tone the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion, constipation and diarrhea. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents.

learn that Judge Spencer sent to Oswego was put on file the day after my arrest. They were taken from the County Clerk's Office by the District Attorney and after the case was tried returned again and are on file there now.

Of course it was very much of a disappointment to Nodyne and Guile to be beaten by a farmer, and when they could be so fooled by some of my friends, they must seek some way to crawl out, consequently I suppose concocted the story that appeared in the Syracuse Journal. This story would make it appear that Mr. Baker stole the papers from the County Clerk's office. Well, a very small man can crawl out of an equally small hole.

Now let's see if this action was started to get me to take out a license, or to whip me into line to consent to let Nodyne test my herd and take about $25 from the State, and I take chances on results with a man that went to one of my customers and tried to intimidate him and stop him from using any more of my cream; and when he got no satisfaction from bull dozing, he tried to make out my pails and utensils were not only unsanitary, but dirty. He ran up against the wrong party, for the party to whom he made these statements had visited my place too many times to listen to any such assertion.

I wish to be clearly understood. The question of license had never been mentioned to me during any of the above conversations with Nodyne. His only cry was "test." The reason I speak of this is in a recent article in The Observer, a claim was made by the article that I had been repeatedly warned to take out a license.

The reason I refer to my persecutors as Nodyne and Guile, is because I want to exonerate the city. The board of health consisted of Dr. Scott, J. W. Rigley and Charles R. Bennett, all of whom I believe to be gentlemen, and talked with each one of them in regard to the case last summer and they seemed to be very consistent. I met Mr. Rigley the day of my arrest and he expressed much surprise at the charge, saying he supposed the question of license had been all threshed out, as in my case I was only a wholesaler. Also, I met a reliable milk man and he told me that Nodyne told him that "Moore didn't have to have a license." This party also informed me that Nodyne made this statement to him. Nevertheless, on advice of my counsel, I applied for license at once and left one dollar with the City Clerk Harrison and he held the same and turned it over to his successor when he went out of office.

As I was about to leave on a two months' tour with my show stock at the fairs and not wishing to have my wife and son further annoyed, I went of my own accord and had a talk with Guile. And while I am not a believer in the present mode of tuberculosis test, I agreed to have my herd tested on my return as soon as I could consistently attend to it.

I reached home about the 20th of October to find my wife sick in bed and my son with a foot in a plaster of paris jacket from dislocated bone in the ankle. In addition to this my mouth man had gone on a "spree" never to return. Now, is it any wonder that with three cars of stock in unloads, nearly 1000 bushels of potatoes to harvest, a six acre field of corn to get in and high, grinding new mill, threatening to do, three orchards to go over, over 100 heads of horses, cattle, sheep and swine to attend daily, and with farm help almost impossible to get at any price, that I did not make a mad rush at once to get my herd tested?

I met Guile about four weeks ago and he asked me if I had got my herd tested yet. I told him I had not and gave him the above reason. "Well," said he, "we will have a new administration pretty soon and probably they won't trouble you." But after all this friendly talk, it so happened that I had made application to the State to have my herd tested a few days before Guile had an injunction and supreme writ served on me to prohibit my selling cream in city of Fulton. While the charge is made up largely of unwarranted accusations, he asks that the cost of such action be placed upon me.

I have a herd of 24 Jerseys—22 of which I have raised from calves, and is it any wonder that I was not willing to chance Nodyne right in the middle of the season with a working dairy, furnishing a quality of cream that is very popular and in great demand among the most particular trade of the city, to allow a test with a possibility of condemning a part of the herd? Dr. Law, who stands at the head of Cornell University, cites a dozen or more causes which may make a healthy cow respond to the test. By seeking information, I found that I could have any State veterinarian to test my herd. With the city of Fulton worked up to fever heat on the subject, I thought I had better submit to test.

Now let's see what such "experts" are doing for the farmer. The State colleges and other schools are turning out hundreds of veterinarians every year and they must have employment, so somebody in good faith, or otherwise, got up this tuberculosis scare, and with the aid of the State employees, using the farmers' institute as an avenue through which to alarm the city consumers, and also to educate the farmer along the line of tuberculosis testing. With the cooperation of a local veterinarian, eagerly seeking a state job, Fulton proved to be a great harvest field. Yes, the colleges are furnishing the veterinarians and the farmer must submit to be the victim of their experiments. Is it any wonder that the Department of Agriculture at Washington has been sending out letters making inquiries what can be done to make farming more attractive, as they are becoming much alarmed on account of so many abandoned farms in some localities, especially in the Eastern States. They urgently request a reply from each farmer, giving his views on the subject. If I was to make a reply, I would say: stop sending out so much bait for the credulous farmers. Most of the bright boys reared on the farm, when they see their pet stock, which perhaps is their first investment, driven off and mercilessly slaughtered, suit the fancy of some fanatic, they resolve then and there to engage in some other line of business.

Now to the point: I am turned over to the new board, charged with selling cream, the product of my own dairy and for selling same on my own farm, 6 miles from the city, as all orders are given and sales made by telephone, and sent to purchaser by mail carrier or any neighbor that happens to be going to the city. Occasionally I take it myself. If the city has a right to stop the wholesale of cream used by purchaser solely for the manufacture of ice cream, and the best authorities only claim it may be possible for bovine tuberculosis to be transmitted to infants, what are the grounds for passing such a resolution, if ever such an one was passed, when we know infants per se go to ice cream counters or partake of the same at all? I wish to be plainly understood that I believe in clean and sanitary milk and a thorough examination of premises and all milk utensils used in care of same; a rigid physical examination of each and every animal in herd by some veterinarian of experience. If there is a suspect in the herd resort to the latest approved test, which is not tuberculosis.

Now just think of eating ice cream which is a luxury made from an untested herd, and the butter on the table of nearly, if not every citizen of Fulton, is made from untested herds. Oh, horrors!

F. A. MOORE.

In addition to the above statement Mr. Moore submits the following, taken from the National Stockman and Farmer of December 30, 1909, which he gives in support of his arguments in regard to the tuberculosis test, etc.

Tuberculosis and Hog Cholera.

In a former article I gave the almost perfect results of inoculating with hog-cholera serum, hogs that are still healthy but near to farms where cholera exists. Such hogs are in great danger and their inoculation by the veterinarians of the State Board of Live Stock Commissioners is a cure preventive. It is a great financial boon to owners of hogs in exposed localities and will be eagerly sought by them as soon as they know the real facts in the case. There is no need of a law to compel the use of the serum. Self interest prompts its use.

Tuberculosis Among Cattle.

But the case is wholly different with tuberculosis among cattle, especially dairy cows. Tuberculosis is not a cure nor a preventive and while many dairymen will themselves employ a licensed veterinarian to test their own choice and at their own expense to make the tuberculosis test on suspected cows in their herds, and will segregate diseased cows, a great many of them will resist any national or state law or city ordinance that segregates tuberculosis as a final test in all herds even when healthy to the eye, ear and touch of an expert, and a prerequisite and condition of shipping milk to the cities, and will resist it with success as in the case of Lorain and Cleveland, O., and other cities. They do and will resist it on the ground that such laws are unconstitutional, because they take private property for the public use or welfare without proof of public danger or necessity. Tuberculosis among cows is not, like cholera among hogs, rapidly and certainly contagious, nor is it almost invariably and quickly fatal, but seldom and then only after months or years as to contagion, well cows have been fed in a manger between two tubercular cows for months without contagion. As to fatality, "encysted" tuberculosis in its early stages, but sufficient to make the cow respond to the tuberculosis test, when the cows are kept afterwards under healthy conditions, often, yes usually, disappears or fails to increase. As to danger to human beings from the use of the milk of such cows, there is no proof of danger, no proof that any human being in Lorain or Cleveland or any other city got tuberculosis from the milk of country cows apparently healthy to the eye, ear and touch of an expert, whereas typhoid germs in milk bring speedy sickness and often death, and smallpox or scarlet fever germs are more alarming. As to compensation, where private property is taken in other cases for public use, it should be and is paid for at full value under fair appraisal, and is paid for with certainty. But here it is paid for at part value if it is ever paid for at all. As have his herd examined by the State the owner must sign a bond to slaughter and burn or bury at his own expense all animals condemned and segregate all apparently healthy cows that respond to the test. "It is not intended by the law that (even in the mildest cases) the full value of the animal in health should be considered." Bulletin No. 5 of the Live Stock Commissioners. Then, on appraisal (at less than value) the veterinarian may recommend to the Board and the Board may recommend to the Governor and the Governor may recommend to the legislature and the legislature may appropriate a part of the value of the animals. This makes too much uncertainty and delay at best. As to the reliability of the tuberculosis test the most conservative scientific men admit that with the serum commonly used by the veterinarians usually sent to do the work, and without much experience, the tuberculosis test is unreliable. Dr. Law of Cornell University cites a dozen or more other causes which may make healthy cows respond to the test. Experts who have investigated say that probably not five per cent of the Ohio dairy cows whose milk is sent to Cleveland, Lorain, Pittsburgh, etc., have tuberculosis even in a mild state, "encysted," and quite undetectable to the eye, ear and touch of an expert. And so the dairymen fear Cleveland prefer to have, first, a physical examination by an expert at their own expense and to have cows that seem even suspicious to such examination by sight, hearing or touch, tested with tuberculosis, and if they respond then to segregate, fatten and butcher them and submit the meat to the meat test. In nearly all cases it will pass as wholly healthy meat and there is very little loss to the owner of the herd.

A Cruel Example.

The first tuberculosis test of a dairy herd in the Cleveland, Ohio, region was a most heartless one and so enraged the dairymen that a similar case is not likely to occur soon again. In brief it was as follows: Mr. L. S. Foster of Macedonia, some 20 miles southeast of Cleveland, an aged dairymen who shipped milk to Cleveland from a fine herd, kept in a fine barn and in excellent pastures, fell under suspicion of tuberculosis in his herd. He "consented" to have his herd tested, under virtual compulsion, much as the lone traveler at night "consents" to be held up. A considerable part of his herd was condemned, slaughtered and examined. A crowd of dairymen failed to see any proof of disease in the lungs or other vital, but the veterinarians who made the test dug away in the meat till they found or claimed to find, as of course they would, "encysted" tubercles, invisible, however, to the non-expert eye. The cows had been raised largely by Mr. Foster and were almost like children to the old man. The slaughter was a sad blow to him and finally he died, never, so far as I can learn, having received a dollar of compensation from the legislature for the useless and cruel slaughter. The unaffected but healthy beef of the cows was condemned, slaughtered and sold for less than the value of the cows as milkers. That ended such a slaughter. The farmers of the region appeared en masse, some 200 of them, before the Cleveland health board and mayor and city council. They declared they would never submit to such tests and slaughters; that the law and ordinance were clearly unconstitutional and should not be enforced till the supreme court had passed upon them; that there was no danger, urgency or public necessity; that their barns, herds and premises were cleaner and in better sanitary condition than ever before; that the better and more healthful milk was never sent into Cleveland or any other city; that if such tests as Mr. Foster's were required before they could ship milk to Cleveland they would not ship till there was a milk famine and babes and mothers cried for milk (as happened later in Lorain); that they would welcome physical examination and advice from any real expert, and suggestions about barns, milking, etc., from any one who understood the milk business better than they did—and more of the same sort. The health officers saw that they were "up against it" with hundreds of farmers who "knew their rights" and knowing dare not maintain. That ended everything like the Foster "test" and slaughter, in Ohio. The city people will not back their health boards in useless and extreme measures that simply raise the price of milk, and the farmers will not stand for it.

The State Live Stock Commissioners admit the virtual uselessness and nullity of the present laws so far as tuberculosis among cows is concerned, and that similar laws in other states have proved to be failures. The experiment station should have funds for investigation, for production of certified tuberculosis, and for finding if possible, a preventive serum like that already used for preventing hog cholera. None but thoroughly expert veterinarians experienced with the tuberculosis test should use only state-certified tuberculin. And finally if the public good requires the slaughter of cows like Mr. Foster's, on mere suspicion, then the compensation should be adequate and certain. That is the opinion of milk shippers in northern Ohio, and that is about the present condition of the law as to tuberculosis among cows.

W. I. CHAMBERLAIN.

Mr. Moore also quotes the following question, and the answer thereto by Dr. C. D. Smead, a noted veterinary surgeon of Hector, N. Y., who conducts the "Veterinary Department" in several of the leading farm papers:

Question: J. S. N., W. Va.: I have a very fine Jersey cow that has a cough. Had it for three or four months. May it be tuberculosis?

Answer: Tell me the age and general condition of this cow. Tell me as to whether it is a hacking cough, a deep cough, or a hard, hoarse cough. Does she cough frequently or only occasionally? I believe you are a little nervous over her coughing and have fears that she may be tubercular. Some people are very nervous over the matter of coughing, and I don't blame them either. Every device known in some parts of Uncle Sam's domain has been put in practice to scare cattle owners into the belief that they are in a great danger of a pestilential era of bovine tuberculosis which would annihilate the whole human and animal race if it were not headed off by stringent legislative enactments and a small army of city doctors sent out to inspect all the cows in the land. Now I desire to say that no such condition exists. Here and there the world over can be found a few animals dying with tuberculosis disease. Such has always been the case and always will be. It is wisdom on the part of cattle owners to be sensible, and when they note cattle coughing continuously, running down in flesh or scouring, and cows with hard lumps in their udders or swollen glands beneath their throats or beneath their ears, to have a competent veterinarian with good sense to see them. But he need not be scared at all, in case a cow occasionally coughs, as long as she eats well, breathes well and looks well. If you will kindly write again and define conditions I will advise you as best I can.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy never disappoints those who use it for obstinate coughs, colds and irritations of the throat and lungs. It stands unrivaled as a remedy for all throat and lung diseases. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

THE FULTON TIMES

Entered as second class matter, April 15, 1886 at the postoffice at Fulton, New York, under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

E. K. HUGHES, Editor
W. E. HUGHES, Proprietor

Issued Every Wednesday at No. 66 South First street, Fulton, N. Y.

Official Paper of City of Fulton.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 19, 1910.

COBB'S FRIENDS DISAPPOINTED.

The friends of Senator George H. Cobb were disappointed in that he did not receive the appointment as chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and there is a little inclination to blame Lieutenant-Governor White for throwing the position to Senator Hill of Buffalo.

Senator Cobb has received excellent appointments on the Senate Finance, Judiciary, Railroads, Forest, Fish and Game committees but that does not entirely remove the sting from the failure to land him in the higher and more responsible position.

Senator Cobb will this week confer with Governor Hughes and ask the appointment of a Northern New York man as a member of the State Water Supply Commission to succeed Ernest Lederle.

Mr. Lederle has just been appointed Health Commissioner of New York. Senator Cobb feels that Northern New York is entitled to representation on this commission. The position pays $5,000 per year. Mr. Mr. Lederle's term expires July 1.

ANNOUNCES CANDIDACY.

The Times is in receipt of the following announcement from ex-County Clerk A. B. Simpson, who made an excellent record while holding that office, and whose report of the business of the office under his and other clerk's terms of service, appears in this issue and will be read with interest. Mr. Simpson has many friends throughout the county who are urging him to make a campaign for the office of treasurer:

"Having made a careful inquiry among my friends as to the feasibility of my being a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, I have decided to ask for the nomination on the Republican ticket, and, if nominated and elected, I promise to faithfully serve the people and taxpayers of Oswego county to the best of my ability."

MARRIED

The Rome Sentinel of last week contained the following announcement: "Dr. Fred L. Cary of Fulton and Miss Henrietta M. Smith of this city were married in June, 1909, at Amsterdam. The marriage was kept a secret till New Year's day, when the interested parties announced it to their relatives and friends. Mrs. Cary formerly was employed as a nurse in the Utica State Hospital, but for the past year has been at her home on Floyd avenue in this city. At the time of the marriage the groom was employed as operator in a dental office in Utica, but a short ago resigned that position and has since opened an office in Fulton. On account of the continued ill-health of her sister, Miss Lena Smith, Mrs. Cary will remain at her home in this city for a time."

The announcement came in the nature of a surprise to many of Dr. Cary's friends in this city, all of whom are extending deferred congratulations. Dr. Cary has opened nicely appointed dental parlors in the Laadon block, 61 First street, next to the Savings Bank building, and he is already securing his share of the tooth troubles in this vicinity. The young couple will make their home in this city as soon as Mrs. Cary can be spared from duties at the home of her parents.

NEW YORK LIFE'S MILLIONS AND WHAT THEY MEAN.

The New York Life Insurance company makes its annual report today, in which all the chief items run in to millions of dollars—2,000 millions of insurance in force, 600 millions in accumulated funds, 10 millions in yearly income, 52 millions paid policy holders, 146 millions in new insurances. There is a great outcry just now against national extravagance, and criticism is undoubtedly needed, but life insurance looks the other way. While its securities are evidences of the debt of nations, states, municipalities, railroads, and individuals, this money has been first saved by individuals and then used in a way that has added to the wealth and the productive power of the community. It has become a great social force, protecting the insured, providing for his family in case of premature death, caring for his own old age in case he lives long, and all the time working for society at large. It would seem as if the more money thus accumulated and used the better, but under the present law no life insurance company chartered by the State of New York may issue more than 150 millions of new insurances in a single year. The business that represents the most wholesome tendencies of the age is the only business that is restricted by law. It seems to be a case of Law-makers-Afraid-of-Their-Horses.

MEN'S CHRISTIAN LEAGUE.

The Men's Christian League of Fulton will commence its service for this city with a banquet which will be held in the Presbyterian church on the evening of Jan. 26. At this time by-laws and a constitution will be adopted and a permanent organization effected. The league will be made up of earnest christian men, not reformers in the obnoxious sense of the word, and this banding together for the betterment of moral and religious conditions in Fulton, must be productive of good. Among the matters to be taken up will be the question of a city missionary to work among the young men and women element in the city. The expense of such a one to be born by all the local churches.

GOOD APPOINTMENTS.

Albert P. Merriam of Phoenix, has been appointed by Assembly Clerk Smith, as one of the Assembly messengers.

Speaker Wadsworth has appointed Russell Quance of Oswego, as an assistant Assembly door-keeper.

W. A. Robbins of Mexico has been re-appointed as Chief Engraving clerk in the State Senate upon recommendation of Senator George H. Cobb. E. B. Parker of Watertown has been named as index clerk. There are two of the more important Senate clerkships

DEATHS

Mrs. Sarah Dunham of Clay, Oswego county, died last week, aged seventy-two years. She is survived by her husband and one daughter, also by two sisters, Mrs. B. J. Marsh, Southwest Oswego, and Mrs. Merrill Miller, of Hannibal.

The remains of Daniel Westcott were brought to this city from Owego, Mich., on Wednesday, and taken to his late home in Pratt street from where they were taken on Thursday to the Church of the Immaculate Conception for the funeral services. Interment was made in St. Mary's.

George North, aged 75, and for 45 years a respected resident of this city passed to rest at his home in Beach street on Friday after a long illness. The deceased was born in Leeds, Eng. The funeral services which were largely attended, were held from Zion Episcopal church on Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, the Rev. G. C. Wadsworth officiating. Interment was made in Mt. Adnah. Beside the widow, two daughters survive, Mrs. Frederick G. Hewitt and Miss Mabel North, both of this city.

The death of Patrick T., aged 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Reynolds, occurred on Wednesday at the home in Third street after months of uneven battle with consumption, the dread disease that but a few weeks previous had carried away his brother William. The funeral services were held on Saturday from the Catholic church, the Rev. J. L. Lindsman officiating. Interment was made in St. Mary's. Besides the afflicted parents, the immediate survivors are four sisters, Mrs. Anna Southard, Mrs. James O'Keefe of Geneva and the Misses Katherine and Margaret Reynolds of this city, and four brothers, Timothy of Baldwinsville, John and Michael of this city and Simon, Jr., of New York city.

The remains of Miss Martha Ball, who died in Ogdensburg last week, were brought to this city on Wednesday for interment in Mt. Adnah. The remains were taken to the home of her brother, Mr. Horace Ball, in Buffalo street, from where the funeral services were held on Thursday. The immediate survivors are two brothers, Theodore of Syracuse and Horace of this city, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Quick of Syracuse and Miss Laura Ball of this city.

Died at Collingswood, N. J., Jan. 10 1910, Lettie E., wife of James B. Rutter and eldest daughter of the late Thomas and Amanda Leslie of this city. Her funeral was largely attended at the Park House, Jan. 13; Mr. Rutter being Superintendent of the Knight Park at Collingswood. The many beautiful flowers surrounding the casket were slight expressions of the high esteem in which she was held by her many friends. Two of her favorite hymns "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me," and "Some Day the Silver Cord Will Break," were sweetly rendered. She was laid to rest in the family lot on Camden Lawn, Harleigh cemetery at Collingswood.

The death of Augusta, aged 87, widow of the late Henry Gilbert of this city, occurred on Monday at the home of her nephew, Mr. C. E. Candee, of Phoenix, where she had made her home since the death of her husband. The deceased had many friends in this vicinity who will learn with regret of her death. She was tenderly cared for by her nephew and family during the interval between her husband's and her own passing away, and she was always very happy in her congenial surroundings. The funeral services will be held from the nephew's home on Thursday morning at 11 o'clock and the body will be brought to this city for interment beside the husband.

CONTRACTING COMPANY

The McCormick Contracting company, with several local creditors, last week passed into the hands of a receiver. The company, which is doing construction work on Barge canal contract No. 10, has met with many difficulties in this work, and their troubles are not yet at an end. The difficulties with the coffee dam between Rochester street and the Electric light station, and the company's failure to secure sand and gravel from a property near Bowen's Corners, has brought about the embarrassment, which it is hoped is only temporary, and that success may finally attend the company in the completion of its contract.

Mr. Charles McCormick, the head of the contracting company, will continue in charge of the work. The company's liabilities are estimated at $223,000; assets, $225,000.

SOUTH GRANBY.

We are having very nice pleasant weather for the last few days, but there is plenty of snow.

The funeral of Mrs. Libbie Butler who died so suddenly Thursday morning was held at the house Sunday, Rev. Stearns of Lysander officiating. It was a very sad funeral. Besides the husband, Mr. Morgan Butler, she leaves eight children, Mrs. Roma Degroff, Miss Emma Butler, Willie, Lida, Clair, Ruth, Howard and Frank Butler, her aged mother Mrs. Mary Brown who was with her at the time of her death, three brothers—Luther and James Brown of Lysander and John Brown of Baldwinsville, two sisters, Mrs. Ida Otis and Mrs. Nancy Covill and a host of friends. She was a devoted mother and a kind neighbor and will be missed by all. We extend sympathy to the family in their bereavement.

Mrs. Mabel Fisher was called to Banghamton Friday by telegram as her daughter Mrs. Pierce was ill; she has not yet returned.

Word came that Mr. Ezra Baker, senior, of Jacksonville was dead.

Mrs. Elizabeth Jenkins is slowly gaining in health.

Miss Essie Wilcox is suffering with neuralgia.

Mrs. Henry Austin went to Oswego Friday morning to visit friends.

Mr. Fred Payne is filling his ice house.

Mrs. Lydia Underkirk visited her sister Mrs. Cynthia Lampman.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Upcraft collected taxes at the depot, Friday.

Misses Harriett and Carrie Wilcox visited their cousin, Miss Essie Wilcox.

Mr. Stell Rumsey is shipping potatoes.

Mrs. Carrie Palmer spent last week in Fulton.

Miss Minnie Wilson was the guest of her aunt, Minnie Payne, Sunday.

Little Clarice Marsh returned to her home in Onondaga last week.

ABSTRACT COMPANY'S ELECTION

The Oswego Abstract company held its first meeting for organization on Thursday afternoon and in addition to electing officers passed such resolutions as are required by the State Corporation law. The officers elected were: President—J. H. Norris. Treasurer—Merrick Stowell. Secretary and General Manager—Estimor H. Stowell.

BAD ACCIDENT

Thursday morning the first serious accident to occur on the American Woolen company's construction work in this city happened when three men, Timothy Keelther of Oswego, David Robinson and Bert Chesbro of this city fell from a staging in mill No. 6, and were frightfully if not mortally injured. The accident, it is alleged, was occasioned by the collapsing of the scaffolding upon which they were working, and they were precipitated two stories, landing in a heap in the cellar which was partially filled with water. Keelther's head was held under water by the weight of the other two bodies and he was in danger of drowning. He suffered several scalp wounds and six broken ribs. Broken arms, ribs and legs were the portion of the other men.

The ambulance was called at once, and the wounded men, accompanied by Drs. Anderson and Wells, were taken to the hospital where they are resting as comfortably as can be expected, although their ultimate recovery is not yet assured.

SPRINKLING TAX NOTICE.

At a special meeting of the Common Council, held in the City Hall on Tuesday evening, January 11, 1910 the following resolution was presented by Alderman Newton and adopted: Resolved, That the City Clerk be, and he hereby is, directed to publish a notice pursuant to the charter that an assessment for street sprinkling for 1909 has been made, and that the Common Council will meet at the City Hall on the 27th day of January, 1910, at 8 o'clock p. m., to hear objections, if any, to such assessment, and that in the meantime said assessment may be examined by any and all persons desiring to examine the same.

William McNamara,
City Clerk.

President F. W. Richardson of the Boat club, has been invited to attend the annual banquet of the New York City Boat club, at the Hotel Astor, on Jan. 23.

The annual meeting of the Fulton Savings Bank will be held this Wednesday afternoon. It is presumed that the question of the new bank building will be discussed and some decision reached relative to the possible time of commencing operations upon the building.

The newly elected officers of the Men's Bethany Class of the Congregational church are: President, Charles Anderson; vice-president, Everett Bishop; secretary, William Russell; treasurer, Henry Pollard; teacher, Z. Newell; assistant, William Barrett.

The dedication of the Lee Memorial hospital will not be consummated this week owing to climatic conditions. Mrs. Lee last week sent furniture for the Memorial room, which were placed in position on Monday, so that room is practically furnished. Carpets, hangings, rugs, &c., were included in the furnishings.

The Y. F. S. C. E. of the Congregational church plan to enjoy a straw ride on Friday evening to the home of Mr. Arthur Coles, 8 miles south of this city. The sleighs will leave George Fairman's store at 7 o'clock prompt. Tickets are 25c. The girls will take boxes containing luncheon for two and by paying ten cents a young man may secure a box of lunch and a partner. A jolly time is anticipated.

Two weeks ago Knibloe Boyce, who entered the New York Military Academy at Cornwall-on-the-Hudson early in January, experienced a thrilling escape and one which might have resulted in a tragedy. At 2 a. m. the main building in which were 200 boys, Knibloe among the number, caught fire in an unaccountable manner and the boys had to fly for their lives, saving only the clothing which they could catch up in their flight. Fortunately no one was injured and school was resumed the next day, the boys being transferred to another building.

In connection with a recent card party, held at the home of Mr. George Cuyler, mention of which has been made in one of the Syracuse papers, with more or less reference to pitchers, catchers, skunks, and other misleading terms, one of the participants in said game wishes it known that Messrs. Mead and Newton were the heavy dealers in fun on that occasion, and by reason of the fact that "Dad" had such a generous disposition, while his colleague, Newton, being of smaller stature, etc., it develops that while "Dad" drew four of the fun, yet because of his magnanimous disposition, Newton was favored with six or seven games in all, having been played.

The Board of Superintendents will meet in Oswego on Feb. 2, and organize.

Mr. Vincent Hall has sufficiently recovered from a long illness to resume his duties in the Citizens Bank.

The Progressive Pedro club enjoyed a theatre party to Syracuse on Thursday evening, fifteen going from this city.

Miss Bessie Parcell on Tuesday entertained the Progressive Pedro club at her home in Buffalo street.

A daughter has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rice of Syracuse. Mrs. Rice was formerly Miss Bishop of this city.

The Mother's Jewels of the First Methodist church will meet with Douglas Sutherland in Oneida street on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

A son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Distin of Syracuse. Mr. Distin's many friends in this section will extend congratulations.

The Modern Woodmen of America last week installed the following officers: Councilor, Norman Pullen; worthy advisor, Joseph Hawks; clerk, R. B. Hubbard; banker, R. E. Parks; escort, F. A. Pear; watchman, Wallace Roberts; sentry, Jay Colles; trustee, two years, W. Campbell; trustee, three years, Aurie Palmer; physician, L. F. Joy; assistant physician, F. E. Fox. O. H. Westburg of Rochester, State Deputy, and R. E. Todd, district deputy, spoke. Covers were laid for eighty.

Game Commissioner Charles E. Stewart of the West side kindly remembers The Times with a souvenir postal from Palmetto, Florida, where he is spending some time. Mr. Stewart writes that the temperature on Jan. 15, varied from 60 to 73 in the shade; no rains; all kinds of vegetables being shipped from there to the northern markets; strawberries, tomatoes, watermelons and other fruits now ripe. Read in the face of three and four feet of snow and a zero thermometer, the best part of the country seems to be that part in which Mr. Stewart has taken up a temporary abode.

OSWEGO COUNTY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Oswego County Agricultural society was held on Wednesday afternoon in the secretary's room in the Grand Central block. There was a goodly attendance and the sentiment of the meeting was that the 1910 Fair should eclipse all previous efforts. The date for holding the Fair could not be determined until after the State convention of Agricultural societies in session this week in Albany.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, C. A. Kingsbury, Oswego, N. Y.; Secretary, H. Putnam Allen, Fulton, N. Y.; Treasurer, V. W. Shattuck, Fulton, N. Y.; Vice-Presidents, Z. B. Austin, C. C. Wilcox, M. C. Hammond, Noah Moriam, C. E. Sackett, H. H. Dobson, Byron Worden, Grove H. Dutton, Lawton Beardsley, E. L. Huntington, J. L. Sackett, Edward B. Tier, E. B. Tucker, Ray Davis, A. F. Morhouse.

The three ones whose terms had expired, Messrs. Orrin Henderson, A. Gregg and H. F. Allen, were re-elected for three years. The other directors are: Messrs. L. B. Babcock, W. M. Hinsdale, C. H. Lockwood, C. I. Kingsbury, V. V. Vant and Fred A. Moore.

Mr. Ambrose Gregg of Pennellville was selected as the privilege committee, and Messrs. C. I. Kingsbury, H. Putnam Allen, W. M. Hinsdale and V. W. Shattuck were elected delegates to the State Convention of Agricultural Societies to convene in Albany on Jan. 20.

New-York Life Insurance Co.

SIXTY-FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT.

To the Policy-holders:

At the suggestion of the Board of Trustees, I preface the brief of our Sixty-fifth Annual Report, which appears below, with the statement which accompanied the presentation of the full Report to the Board on the 12th inst.

"The figures placed before you by the officers of this Company, including the income, disbursements and profits of the year, the balance sheet and detailed schedules of assets at the close of 1909, make an impressive picture. No fair-minded man, having reviewed the figures, can avoid the conclusion that energy, capacity and fidelity in administration were not born yesterday in the New-York Life.

"Any claim which we as Trustees and officers may have to approval by the 750,000 families protected by this institution is made stronger by the willing admission, which we all make, that our predecessors toiled both mightily and wisely.

"A great life insurance company is not the product of accident or violence. It does not arise from a social catastrophe, as a mountain may suddenly arise in the landscape from a convulsion of nature. It is the product of peace, of labor, of thought, of energy, of fidelity, of faith, of good will amongst men.

"When a storm has swept over an estate and has done its cruel and possibly necessary work, the owner may send for men and direct them to cut away broken and twisted branches, to prune away unnecessary and unhealthy growths and clear the ground. Having done this, the men would hardly be entitled to claim credit, on that account, for the fact that certain trees were still symmetrical, beautiful, vast in girth and vigorous to the outermost twig. Any such claim would be presumptuous and the men making it would become ridiculous.

"The New-York Life grew like the oak and it tells the same story of storm and tempest survived.

"Lately the hurricane came and did its cruel—perhaps necessary—work. We were called in by the owners of the estate, the policy-holders, and told to correct errors, to change methods, to discontinue certain practices. We have done the work; but we are not now possessed of the idea that this necessary and useful work, as such, reflects discredit on our predecessors or especial glory on us.

"Having carried out the wishes of the policy-holders, we now assure them in the facts annexed of the vitality, the soundness, the large capacity for social usefulness of the New-York Life. But we are obliged to tell them at the same time that sound and virile as the Company is, its future usefulness is limited.

"The owner of an estate, after the passing of a storm, never orders the men who remove broken branches and cut away undesirable growths, to excise the living, growing body of a tree—to cut for the deliberate purpose of ending a tree's further development. Such a direction would be contrary to nature; it would indicate that the owner of the estate either had no "knowledge of natural laws or that he cherished an especial hostility against fine trees.

"When the State of New York enacted certain statutes, insuring economy, eliminating the legislative blackmailer, compelling publicity and strict accountability, it did well. But when it enacted Section 96 of the insurance code, deliberately intending to stop the natural, sound and healthful growth of this Company, it sinned against nature.

"Obeying the law, we have been obliged to cut deep into the Company's living tissue, into its organized working force, and so strong is the Company's vitality, so rapid its recovery, that we have been obliged to cut again and again.

"Let me give you a few facts:

"Our domestic working organization at the close of 1905 and at the close of 1909 was as follows:

	Branch Offices	Enrolled Agents
1905	217	4,872
1909	82	2,007
Decrease	135	2,865

"The total number of outstanding policies and the total outstanding insurance on the same dates were:

	Number of Policies	Amount of Insurance
1905	1,001,269	$2,061,593,886
Decrease	19,679	$58,784,659

"Three full years have intervened since these laws took effect. We find no fault with most of them. But the record shows that section 96, which limits our new business in each calendar year to an amount equal to about 7½ per cent. of our insurance in force, makes any material expansion of our outstanding insurance impossible. Inevitably if the law remains, outstanding insurance will permanently decrease.

"The law was not intended to have and it does not have this effect on all the companies of the State. It is therefore not only unsound but unfair. To correct this, it is only necessary to get a clear statement of the truth before the people. This we have tried continuously to accomplish. We have made progress. We shall get reasonable relief in time, because in this country nothing is ever settled until it is settled right.

"The facts in the report and the unsurpassed usefulness of the Company will eloquently plead our case before the bar of public opinion.

A pamphlet showing the income and the disbursements for 1909, the balance sheet at the year's close, and schedules describing in detail each item of the Company's assets, will be mailed to any policy-holder, or any other person, on request.

Yours truly,

President.

first, because it is a necessity—that is the rule in magazine buying of America's intellectual aristocracy. It is indispensable to the busy business man, who must keep abreast of the times, because it gives him the real news of the day in concise, readable form; it is invaluable to the thinking man, who demands only the truth and then draws his own conclusions, because it gives him just plain, straight facts. It is helpful to the whole family. In it you will find a monthly picture of men and affairs by Dr. Albert Shaw, in his comprehensive editorial, "Progress of the Week"; a clever cartoon history of the month; book reviews; the gist of the best which has appeared in the other magazines and newspapers of the world; witty character sketches; and interesting articles on the all-important topics of the day. Authoritative, non-partisan, timely and very much to the point, "It's a liberal education," is the way subscribers express it.

SESSION'S REAL WORK BEGINS

Committees Holding First Meetings—The Outlook.

FINANCE CHAIRMAN HILL

Distinguished Career of Buffalo Senator, Who Heads Most Important Committee of the Legislature—A New "Big Tim" Sullivan Story, Barge Canal Progress.

[From Our Special Correspondent.] Albany, Jan. 15.—The legislature is now settling down to the real work of the session, and this week several of the new committees are holding their first sessions and preparing to consider the many bills which have already been introduced.

With automobile and civil service reform legislation as the chief feature of the session to date, there seems every indication that these subjects will occupy considerable attention throughout the session.

With insurgents in both houses, there will probably be party troubles to contribute to the liveliness of the lawmaking period. While the popularity of Speaker Wadsworth in the assembly will undoubtedly prevent any serious outbreak among members of the majority party there, yet the situation in the senate is more difficult to describe.

Position of Alldis.
The undercurrent of opinion here is that the senate majority leader, John P. Alldis, will be able to control the upper house as against the Democratic members on many important questions without the aid of at least two of the insurgents who tried to defeat Alldis for the leadership.

Alldis, it is conceded, has twenty-four Republican votes on which he can depend, and he will require two more, a total of twenty-six, in a roll call to pass a bill or to carry a point when a party lineup occurs. Just who the two men are that will join with Alldis is a matter of conjecture. In all probability the new president pro tem of the senate, however, can have the votes of Brough of New York, Rose of Newburg and Corbett of Kingston when occasion requires them.

Hill as Finance Chairman.
Senator Henry Wayland Hill of Buffalo, the new chairman of the finance committee, the most important committee in the upper house, will have power in influencing legislation approaching that of the governor himself. In fact, many people are disposed to consider the chairman of finance to be equally as important as the governor in many ways.

The naming of Hill by Lieutenant Governor White came as a distinct surprise to the Republican organization in the senate, as it had been widely believed that Senator Cobb of Watertown would be the choice. Senator Hill is one of the most learned members of the legislature. A graduate of and holder of degrees from the University of Vermont, he is a student of languages and literature. His books on the subject of waterways and canals are widely recognized as authoritative and evidence his comprehensive knowledge of the subject. He is a member of various professional, political and literary organizations and is vice president of the Buffalo Historical society and is one of the trustees of the State Normal school at Buffalo.

His Literary Work.
He is a member of the centennial fund committee of the associate alumni of the University of Vermont. He is a member of the Bibliophile society of Boston. Senator Hill's literary work includes a comprehensive paper entitled "The Development of Constitutional Law in the State of New York," the introduction and notes to one of the odes of Horace, contained in the Bibliophile edition de luxe of the works of Horace, and the article on "Waterways" in the new Encyclopedia Americana. He is one of the collaborators of a history of canal development in New York and author of a work entitled "An Historical Review of Waterways and Canal Construction in New York State."

On June 27, 1900, the University of Vermont conferred upon Mr. Hill the honorary degree of doctor of laws. Mr. Hill is now in his fifty-fifth year in the legislature. He was a member of assembly for five years—1894 to 1900—and has been in the senate continuously since 1901.

Sing Sing Is Out of Date.
That the Sing Sing state prison will be made more up to date is deemed a certainty by members of the finance and ways and means committees who are considering making an appropriation for this purpose.

Commissioner Solomon recommends the appropriation of a sufficient sum of money to improve the surgical end of the medical department and the appointment of an assistant physician and a trained nurse. He recommends also the discontinuance of the practice of giving to released convicts a railroad ticket to their homes, suggesting that the equivalent in money be substituted, as many desire to go to other places than the scenes of their past misfortunes.

"When going through Sing Sing prison," he says, "one is impressed with the good management and cleanliness, but one is also impressed with the utterly inadequate and insanitary conditions existing there and the great importance of the early construction of the new prison at Bear Mountain to care for such a large abnormal population. The urgent need of this new prison cannot be too greatly emphasized."

Barge Canal Misinformation.
A great deal of misinformation is being spread in Albany among the legislators concerning the extent of the barge canal system and the progress of the work, and this misinformation also has become circulated among the public.

In view of this situation it may be deemed pertinent to print here the following statement obtained today from the state engineer's department:

"The total length of the barge canal system included in the improvement of the Erie, Oswego and Champlain canals is 421 miles, including twenty-seven miles of lake navigation, crossing Oneida, Onondaga and Cross lakes. Of the balance of 404 miles 218 miles will be found in canalized rivers and streams providing a bottom width of channel ranging from 110 to 200 feet. Only about 43 per cent, therefore, of the entire mileage of the new canal will have a minimum bottom width of seventy-five feet.

"In order to provide a suitable supply of water to meet the demands of lockage, losses by evaporation and seepage there will be provided in addition to the water supply by the streams along the line of the canal three large storage reservoirs. The two principal reservoirs are located at Delta and Helderberg and have a flooded area of 2,800 acres and 2,300 acres respectively and a storage capacity of 2,750,000,000 cubic feet and 3,445,000,000 cubic feet respectively.

Vast Extent of Excavation.
"There have been excavated to date 25,000,000 cubic yards of all classes of material, and 2,500,000 cubic yards of embankment have been formed.

"There have also been laid to date more than 500,000 yards of concrete, and there have been used 5,000,000 feet of sawed lumber.

"The total value of dollars' worth of work completed since the beginning of construction amounts to $15,800,000, and it is estimated that during the year 1910 work will be completed amounting to $16,000,000, making the total value of work done by Jan. 1, 1911, approximately $32,000,000."

"Big Tim."
"Big Tim" Sullivan, the weighty statesman who represents New York city's Bowery district in the senate, is vastly worked up over the "white slave" issue, and he intends frequently to call up his resolution providing for an investigation of the charges that have been widely circulated throughout the country, principally affecting New York's east side.

"Big Tim" grows red in the face and pounds his desk loudly when this subject is broached to him. "I only want to put the matter up to the senate," he says. "I never knew anything about this business until I read it in the papers. My district does not fear an investigation. And I want to say that you will find that no American of Irish descent will be found mixed up in it."

A Sullivan Story.
Some of the anecdotes told by "Big Tim" in Albany are truly classic. One day a reporter for a big daily paper accosted him.

"Senator," he said, "this bill you introduced this morning is awfully bad. Why, how did you dare do it? What will the people of your district say when they read it?"

The senator drew his interrogator to one side.

"Say," he explained, "what will the people of my district say? I'll tell you. Half of them that reads it won't understand the bill. The other half won't read it at all, and the other half won't give a damn anyhow."

Another Auto Bill.
A bill by Assemblyman Bates seeks to amend the motor vehicle law to provide for an automobile tax, regulate speed limits, etc. The bill differs from the Calton measure in that it vests the secretary of state with authority to collect the tax, while the Calton measure puts this power in the hands of the state highway commission.

The senate will confirm the nomination by Governor Hughes of Carlos C. Alden of Buffalo as a commissioner for the promotion of uniformity of legislation in the United States to succeed William H. Hotchkiss, state superintendent of insurance, resigned. Mr. Alden was at one time legal adviser to the governor and ably filled that extremely exacting office.

O'Malley's New Deputies.
Attorney General O'Malley has appointed the following deputy attorneys general: Charles R. McSpurran of Buffalo and Robert F. Beyer of New York, salary $2,500 a year each; Wilbur W. Chambers of New Rochelle, salary $2,000. Mr. Beyer is to be attached to the New York city bureau of the attorney general's office.

Gubernatorial Timbrel.
Already there are four candidates for the gubernatorial nomination for governor to be discovered in Albany and elsewhere regardless of what the attitude of Governor Hughes will be toward being named for a third term. The roster of the gubernatorial aspirants reads something like this: James W. Wadsworth, Jr., speaker of the assembly; William S. Bennett, New York city congressman; Edwin A. Merritt, Jr., majority leader of the assembly; Horace White, lieutenant governor. Some of the men at the capital who have won reputations as prophets aver that the next candidate for governor on the Republican ticket will be Charles E. Hughes.

Unique American Families.
The Harrison family, like the Adams family of Massachusetts, on its illustrious genealogical tree carries the names of one of the Declaration of Independence and two presidents of the United States, and in this record the Adamses and the Harrisons stand apart in a class by themselves. These distinctions to one family, it can be noted, will never again be equalled. It remains unique in the history of the country.

Jinks—Have you got quarters for a dollar, old man? Winks—My vest pocket is rather crowded, but pass it over and I'll try to make room for it.

THOSE PIES OF BOYHOOD.
How delicious were the pies of boyhood. No pies now ever taste so good. What's changed? The pies? No; its you. You've lost the strong, healthy stomach, the vigorous liver, the active kidneys, the regular bowels of boyhood. Your digestion is poor and you blame the food. What's needed? A complete toning up by Electric Bitters of all the organs of digestion—Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bowels—Try them. They'll restore your boyhood appetite and appreciation of food and fairly saturate your body with new health, strength and vigor. 50c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

A Word For the Tightwad.
In France they have an expressive phrase, "liquid money." It means that part of the family income which is used for the necessities and luxuries of life. It is quite apart from and kept apart from the more serious, substantial part of the income, which is the saved part. In America the entire income is "liquid," and the man who attempts to make part of it solid is called a "tightwad." A "tightwad" is really a man who creates a principal—a capital, in other words—and he is the living example of what every private business must be and of how the country's resources should be handled.—Argonaut.

Voting in Spain.
Voting in Spain is held to be a duty to the community, not merely a privilege of the individual, and neglect of civic obligations carries its own penalty. Male adults of legal age and under seventy, with the exception of priests, notaries and judges, are required to vote in municipal elections. Failure to cast a ballot is punishable by having one's name published as a censure for neglect, by having taxes increased 2 per cent, by suffering a deduction of 1 per cent in salary if employed in the public service and for the second offense the loss of right to hold elective or appointive office.

That Lane Back Means Kidney Disease

And to Relieve the Lane and Aching Back, You Must First Relieve the Kidneys

There is no question about that at all—for the lane and aching back is caused by a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder. It is only common sense, any way—that you must cure a condition by removing the cause of the condition. And lane and aching back are not by any means the only symptoms of derangement of the kidneys and bladder. There are a multitude of well-known and unmistakable indications of a more or less dangerous condition. Some of these are, for instance: Extreme and unnatural lassitude and weariness, nervous irritability, heart irregularity, "nerves on edge," sleeplessness and inability to secure rest, scalding sensation and sediment in the urine, inflammation of the bladder and passages, etc.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are an exceptionally meritorious remedy for any and all aches, pains or diseased conditions of these organs. These Pills operate directly and promptly—and their beneficial results are at once felt. They regulate, purify, and effectually heal and restore the kidneys, bladder and liver, to perfect and healthy condition—even in some of the most advanced cases.

Dr. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill., want every man and woman who have the least suspicion that they are afflicted with kidney and bladder diseases to at once write them, and a trial box of these Pills will be sent free by return mail postpaid.

Have you a weak throat? If so, you cannot be too careful. You cannot begin treatment too early. Each cold makes you more liable to another and the last is always the harder to cure. If you will take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy at the outset you will be saved much trouble. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

SALVATION ARMY.
Captains Moyer, of the local Salvation Army corps furnishes the Times with the following statement relative to receipts and disbursements during the Holidays.
Income from kettles, $18.21; from boxes, $25.21; from other sources, $22.92. Balance on hand, $8.00.

Baskets given, containing food for 8 in family, 35.
New garments given to the poor, 91. Beside these, many cast off garments, toys and books were given poor families, and a tree and entertainment were provided free.

Captain Moyer and her helpers are very grateful to the people of the city and county for making it possible to do so much good but there is yet much need of relief work being done. Captain Moyer is willing to do the work if the people will supply the funds or clothing or food to do it with. The Salvation Army Corps is also very grateful to the First Methodist church for a very good organ and also to Mr. Bogue for repairing it. The Fulton Corps is doing a great deal of good and the new year finds the work in better standing than it has been for years, but it depends largely on the Public for its future prosperity, no work can get on without the support and good will of the people. It has been stated by some that a part of the money solicited goes to the Salvation Army headquarters which is not true; no money for charity or relief work is used for any other purpose and only in corps money is a percentage given. Any one wishing to see the balance sheets can come to the Headquarters, 68 First Street and see them, or if any lady or gentleman wishes to talk to the captain about the work are cordially invited to call at the quarters.

CONTRACTORS IN TROUBLE
Norfolk, Va., Jan. 15.—Col. James Mann of Norfolk was today appointed receiver in Virginia and North Carolina for the McDermott Contracting company of Camden, N. J., which has been constructing the New York State barge canal and is also one of the contracting concerns on the Norfolk & Southern railway's trestle bridge over Albemarle sound, North Carolina. The company's liabilities are placed at $230,000, with $250,000 assets. Aaron V. Dawes has been appointed receiver in the United States court in New Jersey.

Many Children are Sickly.

MULASKI COMPANY WILL

EXHIBIT AT GRAND RAPIDS
The Salmon River Table company, which is engaged in the manufacture of furniture, including tables, taburets, stands, hall trees, and library tables, has shipped a large consignment of samples to be exhibited at the Furniture Exposition which opens in Grand Rapids, Mich., yesterday and will continue three weeks. Edward J. Selter, a former Syracuse business man, the secretary and treasurer and its general manager, leaves for Grand Rapids tomorrow to look after the exhibit.

The work of installing a boiler of 100-horsepower capacity has just been completed at the plant and will be put into commission tomorrow morning. Manager Selter predicts that the coming year will be one of the most successful in the history of the plant, which is running at full capacity.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is not a common, every-day cough mixture. It is a meritorious remedy for all troublesome and dangerous complications resulting from cold in the head, throat, chest or lungs. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

NEW ICE COMPANY.
Albany.—A certificate of incorporation of the Natural Springs Ice company, of Oswego, has been filed with the State Department. The capital stock is placed at $6,000, divided into shares of $50 each, and the directors are, as follows: William S. Doyle, John A. Ashe and Charles H. Weber, of Oswego.

ALLEN'S KUNG BALSAM.
Is the old reliable, cough remedy. Found in every drug store and in practically every home. For sale by all druggists, 25c, 50c and $1.00 bottles. 2-2

The Humble Librettist.
In the history of opera there are many curious anomalies, but perhaps the strangest is the role played by the librettist. For the most part obscure and unimportant and generally unremembered, his ranks have nevertheless been recruited from the ablest and most brilliant men of letters. Among those who have undertaken the part are such unlikely names as Voltaire, Goethe, Wieland, Addison and Fielding, while others of considerable poetic talent, as, for example, Metastasio, Cechchi, Ruggieri, Bolto and Coppee, have tried their hand at libretto writing with assurance, giving to their best efforts. And yet the successful librettists are few—the merest handful out of a harvest of three centuries.—Forum.

FEVER SORES.
Fever sores and old chronic sores should not be healed entirely, but should be kept in a healthy condition. This can be done by applying Chamberlain's Salve. This salve has no superior for this purpose. It is also most excellent for chapped hands, sore nipples, burns and diseases of the skin. For sale by E. A. Putnam.

How Sunshine Beats Down.
It is a common thing on hot days to hear people say that "the sun beats down." But few suspect that the rays of light actually do beat down upon the surface they strike. Light is a wave motion in the ether, and waves, whether of sound or water, press on bodies in their way. Clerk Maxwell calculated the pressure of light, and experiments of Herr Lebedew have shown that he was right. The pressure is very slight, as may be supposed, but it really exists.

The New York Central will sell excursion tickets to Canton, Jan. 24 to 27, good returning to Jan. 29, at fare and half for round trip, minimum 50 cents, from Utica, Syracuse, Oswego, and stations north. Agents furnish complete information. 1-19

Not Up to Modern Standards.
"Your wife's new hat makes her look like a queen," said the man who tries to be complimentary.
"Don't let her hear you say that," answered Mr. Bliggton. "I have looked through the histories, and I never yet saw a picture of a queen who looked as if she employed a first class milliner."—Washington Star.

The bugliest and mightiest little thing that was ever made is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They do the work whenever you require their aid. These tablets change weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, gloominess into joyousness. Their action is so gentle one doesn't realize they have taken a purgative. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Rather the Other.
"Don't you know that tune? I forget the name of it, but it goes like this." And he whistled it.
After he had finished his friend turned to him with a sigh. "I wish to goodness you had remembered the name and not the tune," he said.—Lippincott's.

Eractness in little details is a wonderful source of cheerfulness.—Paber.

The Tenderfoot Farmer

It was one of those experimental farmers, who put green spectacles on his cow, and fed her shavings. His theory was that it didn't matter what the cow ate so long as she was fed. The questions of digestion and nourishment had not entered into his calculations.
It's only a "tenderfoot" farmer that would try such an experiment with a cow. But many a farmer feeds himself regardless of digestion and nutrition. He might almost as well eat shavings for all the good he gets out of his food. The result is that the stomach grows "weak" the action of the digestive and nutritive organs is impaired and the man suffers the miseries of dyspepsia and the agonies of nervousness.

To strengthen the stomach, restore the activity of the organs of digestion and nutrition, and brace up the nerves, use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is an unfailing remedy, and has the confidence of physicians as well as the praise of thousands testified by its use.

In the strictest sense "Golden Medical Discovery" is a temperance medicine. It contains neither intoxicants nor narcotics, and is as free from alcohol as from opium, cocaine and other dangerous drugs. All ingredients procured on its outside wrapper.

Don't let a dealer delude you for his own profit. There is no medicine for stomach, liver and blood "just as good" as "Golden Medical Discovery."

ON THE FLAT SHELL

Oysters Opened That Way With a Purpose, the Waiter Said.
The waiter had taken a long time in getting the oysters, but as he was well known to his guests and his guests to him that occasioned no comment. When the oysters were brought the waiter set them down before his customer and asked:

"Do you like them better that way?"
The diner looked, but he didn't notice any difference, so he asked, "What way?"

"Why, on the flat shell," replied the waiter. "Don't you see they aren't on the curved part of the shell, as usual?"
"I see it now that you tell me about it," said the diner, "but I don't exactly get the significance."
"Well, you see," said the waiter, "they always keep them upstairs on the round shell, and when any one calls for oysters if they do come on the round shell it isn't a certainty that they have been opened fresh. Sometimes they aren't good, just because they have been standing. When I call for them on the flat shell, as I do for some of my customers, then they have to open them specially for that order. In that way you get them fresh."

"Ah, I see," remarked the diner.
But when he told the professional cynic about it the cynic said something about getting that they kept them standing opened in both ways.
"Besides, any one knows they look fatter on the flat shell, which is all the more reason they'd be likely to serve them to some folks that way. If they asked for extra large oysters they'd get them on the flat shell. The same oysters on the curved shell would go as ordinary sized oysters," remarked the cynic gloomily.—New York Sun.

Make a note now to get Ely's Cream Balm if you are troubled with nasal catarrh, hay fever or cold in the head. It is purifying and soothing to the sensitive membrane that lines the air-passages. It is made to overcome the disease, not to fool the patient by a short, deceptive relief. There is no cocaine nor mercury in it. Do not be talked into taking a substitute for Ely's Cream Balm. All druggists sell it. Price 50c. Mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

Could Do For Herself.
She was a very delightful but a very aged lady—over ninety—and her friends and relatives and even chance acquaintances, drawn by her exquisite personality, all did her homage and, as the saying is, "waited on her hand and foot."
She accepted it all very graciously, but with some inward rebellion, for to a very old and close mouthed friend she once said, with a quaint pucker of lips and brows:
"I am reminded sometimes of the old lines:
"Two were blowin' at her nose,
And three were bucklin' at her shoe."
—Youth's Companion.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

A Sight Worth Paying For.
The cab, drawn by a weary looking horse, came to a standstill opposite a public house. As the driver was preparing to descend a small boy ran up with, "Did yer 'orse, gov'nor?"
"Oid my 'orse? Look 'ere, my lad, Ah'll give yer a bob if it runs away."—Manchester Guardian.

His Landscapes.
A nouveau riche recently attended a picture sale. A friend who had noticed him at the sale asked afterward, "Did you pick up anything at that picture sale, Jorkins?" and the other responded: "Oh, yes; a couple of landscapes. One of 'em was a basket of fruit and the other a storm at sea."

Epilpsy, Fits, St. Vitus' Dance and Spasms, are all nervous diseases. They have been cured in so many instances with Dr. Miles' Nerveine that it is responsible to conclude that it is almost sure to cure you. With nervous diseases of a severe type, persistent use has almost invariably resulted in a complete cure or lasting benefits, worth many times the cost of the remedy. The best evidence you can get of its merits is to write to those who have used it. Get a bottle from your druggist. Take it all according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

POPULAR COUPLE ENGAGED

Miss Thomas, principal of Phillips Street school, entertained her associate teachers at her home last Thursday evening at an informal dinner. The color scheme was red and white. Red roses adorned the table and the favors were hand decorated boxes filled with nuts.

After partaking of a delicious dinner the guests were seated in the parlors where they were given cards, with the heading "A Floral Love-Let." Each question was to be answered by the name of a flower. Miss Adelaide Lowers won the prize, a box of carnations, while the consolation prize was given to Miss Katherine Griffin.

In the midst of their enjoyment a messenger was announced who called for Mrs. Henry Bush, Miss Thomas sister. As Mrs. Bush returned to the room she carried a basket, upon which was a card saying, "Let the cat out of the bag." Much to the surprise and merriment of the guests a huge tiger cat jumped out with a string of hearts around his neck, the two largest bearing the names—Phyllis Elizabeth Thomas and Fred Matteson Wells.

Miss Thomas, who in her work in our schools, has won the highest admiration of all the teachers, was heartily congratulated.

Both Miss Thomas and Mr. Wells are well known and popular young people, and have many friends in this city. Mr. Wells is a watch-maker and engraver in William C. Morgan's jewelry store.

SLATED FOR U. S. MARSHALL.

The nomination of Van R. Weaver, of Utica, to be United States Marshal for the Northern district of New York, of which Oswego County is a part, was sent to the Senate by President Taft on Friday. Mr. Weaver succeeds General McDougall, of Auburn, whose renomination by President Roosevelt was never confirmed by the Senate. The term of office is four years and the salary $5,000 a year.

EX-COUNTY CLERK'S REPORT

Statement Showing Capable Administration by A. B. Simpson of County Clerk's Office

Mr. Albert B. Simpson, who retired as County Clerk on Dec. 31, has issued the following statement relative to the income derived from the County Clerk's Office:

"Believing that the taxpayers of this county are entitled to know the facts in relation to the income derived from the County Clerk's Office, and having promised them a business administration of that office when elected in 1906, I submit the following:

The office went under the salary system, January 1, 1898, by virtue of Chapter 118 of the Laws of 1897. Since that time there has been up to January 1, 1910, four separate administrations of that office; the first being under John S. Parsons from January 1, 1898, to December 31, 1900, when the cash receipts were $32,339.08 and the operating expenses, clerk hire, etc., $22,084.98, leaving a cash balance to the county of $254.12.

From January 1, 1901, to December 31, 1903, Frank M. Breed was County Clerk and the cash receipts during his administration were $24,153.43, and operating expenses, clerk hire, etc., $23,478.53, leaving a cash balance for the county of $674.90.

The next administration of the affairs of that office was with William E. Lewis, and during that period from January 1, 1904, to December 31, 1906 the cash receipts were $27,523.23 and operating expenses, clerk hire, etc., $24,651.10, leaving a cash balance for the county of $2,872.13.

During my administration of this office from January 1, 1907, to December 31, 1909, the cash receipts were $30,074.20, and the operating expenses, including clerk hire, etc., $25,761.39, leaving a cash balance for the county of $4,312.80.

The administration of John B. Parsons netted the county $254.12, that of Frank M. Breed, $674.90; that of William E. Lewis, $2,872.13; and that of myself, $4,312.80.

The County Treasurer's books will show these figures and the vouchers for these receipts are filed in the vault of the County Clerk's office.

During these years all of the county's own work has been done, including court work, and no part of the fees usually received by clerks under the old fee system for such work are included in the above figures.

During the last two administrations of this office the work performed by the clerks therein for the county in connection with courts held has been much greater than ever before, and in addition to that the searches and abstracts made under the barge canal act on all property in this county affected, have been made for the State gratuitously by the county, the law providing that each county shall without charge make those searches. This consumed a large amount of the time of the Search Clerk.

The salaries of all the employees are fixed by law and during the past two administrations the salaries of two of the employees have been increased by an amendment of the law. This also tended to reduce the net balance.

The above results during my term of office, were only made possible by the greatest loyalty and devotion to duty upon the part of the employees under my control and direction, including at times the working by them after hours and on holidays.

THE DIFFERENCE.

Tennyson or Longfellow could take a worthless sheet of paper, write a poem on it and make it worth $65,000—That's genius. There are men who can write a few words on a sheet of paper and make it worth $5,000,000—That's capital. Uncle Sam can take short weight silver and stamp upon it an "eagle bird (even the bloomers)" and make it worth $1.00—That's money. A mechanic can make material worth $5.00 into watch springs worth $1,000—That's skill. There is a man who can take a 50 cent piece of canvas, paint a picture on it, and make it worth several thousand dollars—That's art. A merchant can sell an article worth 75 cents for $1.00—That's business. A woman who can buy a 75 cent hat and prefer one for $27.00—That's foolishness. A ditch digger handles several tons of earth for $1.25—That's labor. The author of this can write a check for $30,000,000, but it wouldn't be worth a dime—That's a fact. There are newspapers that tell you they can serve you as well as The Times—That's nerve. Every one who wants the best subscribes for The Times—THAT'S COMMON SENSE.

HAPPENINGS IN HANNIBAL

DIED.

Daniel E. Brown passed to rest at his home in Hannibal on Friday evening, after a long illness. The deceased was a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown and he had always resided in Hannibal. ## CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Annual Meeting and Election of Officers for the Ensuing Year—Resolutions Adopted

There was a fair attendance of representative citizens last Wednesday evening at the annual session of the Chamber of Commerce. The directors of the Citizens Club very generously gave permission for the use of their club rooms on this occasion, which the members of the Chamber of Commerce most heartily appreciated.

After the usual preliminaries, the reading of the minutes of the previous session, etc., President J. R. Sullivan called attention to a communication from F. W. Richardson, president of the Boost Club, notifying the Chamber that there was some agitation on the part of the residents of Wolcott and vicinity regarding the extension of the lines of the Beebe syndicate from Sodus. A preference had been expressed in favor of Fulton instead of Baldwinsville by the people of Sodus, and the Chamber was requested to investigate, with a view of bringing about the desired end.

Mr. Richardson, who had been in Wolcott and surroundings thoroughly, had asked one of the officials of the Beebe Syndicate regarding the foregoing rumor and was told that the Beebe interests were favorable to having populous cities as terminals, but there could be no objection to investigating the project.

Treasurer Bennett stated that the Board of Managers had held regular sessions during the year and that all business submitted had received proper attention.

In response to an inquiry, Secretary Stout reported that the membership of the Chamber was as large as last year, viz., 74; three members had resigned during the year and three others had joined. The use of the Oswego County Agricultural society's offices had been donated for the board of managers meetings, and chairs and desks had been purchased. Mr. Stout stated that most of the concerns with which the Chamber has negotiated during the year have been small, and wanted to be bought out, but that two concerns of seeming prominence were now being negotiated with, a representative of one of them having been in Fulton looking over conditions, etc.

Treasurer B. W. Bennett submitted his report as follows: Balance on hand one year ago, $458.16; receipts for year just closing, $292.14; expenditures, $129.98; balance on hand, $620.32.

Postmaster William E. Hughes, D. L. Lipsky and W. J. Hartwell were selected as a committee by the chairman, on motion, to place in nomination officers and directors for the ensuing year. The following recommendations were made and unanimously adopted, the secretary casting one ballot for the entire list: For president, N. L. Whitaker; vice president, A. P. Bratt; treasurer, L. C. Foster; directors for two years, F. J. Switzer, E. J. Cusack, M. M. Conley, D. M. Sullivan, to succeed A. P. Bratt, W. H. Patterson, E. E. Hart and William Hunter.

A committee of three, composed of Messrs. L. C. Foster, A. P. Bratt and F. M. Cornell, was selected to draft a set of resolutions expressing to Mrs. Victoria Lee the appreciation of the Chamber for her munificent gift to the city, the Albert Lindley Lee Memorial hospital.

The chair was requested to name a committee of five to act in conjunction with the city administration in devising ways and means of conserving and bettering the conditions of the city water supply.

Attention having been called to the energetic and systematic manner in which Congressman Charles L. Knapp was urging upon Congress the necessity for a federal building in Fulton, Postmaster William E. Hughes was instructed to draft appropriate resolutions expressing the appreciation of the Chamber for Congressman Knapp's untiring and unselfish devotion to the cause.

President Sullivan presented his annual report, which was as follows:

"I wish to submit my report as president for the last year. We have nothing very remarkable to report as far as the Chamber is concerned, still your board of directors have had many meetings, have investigated many propositions put up to the Chamber, and have gladly given all information desired to those making inquiry and have also used all honorable means within their power to further the interests of the city.

"In the early part of the year an aggressive campaign for new members was mapped out for our membership committee, similar to that of the committee two years ago. But for some reason it was abandoned by the committee as it seems almost impossible to hold all members after securing them. The officers of the organization do not seem to work satisfactorily or along the right lines to meet their approval, and the consequence is a lack of interest and activity. However, sufficient has been done to justify the statement that the Fulton Chamber of Commerce has an abiding place in the city, and that more and better work is to be done in the years to come than has ever yet been accomplished.

"We are all aware of the fact that the year 1909 has been one of the most prosperous in the history of our young city. We note with much satisfaction the mammoth structure erected by the American Woolen company, also the large additions to buildings already erected, which will give employment to hundreds of our people and will tend to very materially increase our production.

"The development of the water power by other of our manufacturers on the West side, where many thousands of dollars are being spent, no doubt will mean more mills and more prosperity to one of the busiest little cities in the State.

"The old tannery property, which has been deserted for so many years, will soon have an air of business activity about it, and credit for some is due to the push and business ability of several of our local business men and capitalists. Other additions have been made by many of our manufacturers and still more are planning for enlarging their present business. At the present time some of our business men are working on propositions which will mean much to our city; as yet they have not developed far enough to be put up to the Chamber of Commerce for its consideration. Our railroad companies have during the last year made provisions for handling their increase of business. Our trolley system we must all acknowledge is a great benefit to our city and would be more of a local pride if operated on more of our streets instead of the system now in use.

"The good work done during the last year in paving our streets and we hope that that good work will continue, and that we will also see the sewers completed of the west side of the river. We can boast of having a city to be proud of.

"Before closing, I feel, as president of this organization, that I will voice the sentiment of every member by paying tribute to the generosity of the lady who is to donate the beautiful hospital building to our city.

"With the many new residences erected during the last year, all of which show the progressive spirit of our citizens, outsiders cannot help being impressed with the prosperous condition of the city of Fulton.

"Upon retiring from the office of president I wish to extend to the members my appreciation of the honor conferred on me, and to the directors, secretary and committee, thanks for the assistance rendered, and to also thank them for their devotion to the public welfare and their willingness to serve the city in all projects for its good, and I predict for your new officers a prosperous year in 1910."

BANQUET AN ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

Chamber of Commerce and Boost Club Will Work Together in Fulton's Interest

The banquet tendered the Boost club by the Chamber of Commerce last Wednesday evening at The Clark was most enjoyable. Seats four rows deep were placed about the sides of the dining-room, forming a hollow square, to accommodate at least 200 guests, and a table, sumptuously laden with punch bowls filled with liquid refreshments, adorned with carnations, also, an abundant supply of cigars, occupied the center of the room. An excellent menu was provided, and Landford Schem was assisted in serving by Messrs. D. L. Lipsky, Myron Stranahan, F. E. La Porte and Howard Morin.

Seated at the table of honor at the south side of the room were Messrs. J. R. Sullivan, toastmaster; N. N. Stranahan, William D. MacNamara, James H. Fairgrieve and F. W. Richardson. At the conclusion of the banquet the assemblage was called to order by Mr. J. R. Sullivan, who expressed himself as deeply appreciative of the honor conferred of being selected as president officer, and introduced the Hon. N. N. Stranahan, who responded to the toast, "Our City." The speaker prefaced his remarks with the statement that hope was but another name for optimism and was the axle grease of the world; the element which makes for advancement and uplifting. This hopeful quality of optimism, Mr. Stranahan thought, was amplified in the presence of the Boosters at the annual feast of the Chamber of Commerce at the invitation of the older body. Optimism, the speaker thought, could not be overdone, the optimist, while always realizing the presence of the hole of the doughnut, the only thing about the doughnut which the pessimist sees, being able to fill up the hole with something better than pessimism and pessimistic views.

In a most humorous manner Mr. Stranahan referred to an experience in a trip to the Pacific slope, convincing him that the real boomers spirit was indigenous to the soil west of the Rocky mountains.

Mr. Stranahan, continuing, said that while he was not unimpressed of Fulton as a place of residence and a place of business, nor of the fact that a speaker upon the subject "Our City" was doubtless expected to forget that there is any such thing as truth; that while it was undoubtedly a fact that Fulton has doubled in population and business in a period of seven years, has in fact grown in that time from a little Oswego county village to the proportions and diversity of a cosmopolitan city with a vast number of foreign population—he said that seven years ago there were only two Italians in Fulton, while now there are hundreds—that while the citizens may well feel proud of its splendid library and congratulate themselves because of the excellent railway system connecting Fulton and Syracuse with perhaps the finest roadbed in the State; that while the city may well appreciate the beautiful new hospital building, the generous gift of a philosophical and lovely woman in memory of a distinguished gentleman, a native of Fulton; yet he felt that it was not the most beneficial thing for a city and its citizens to glance over the past and to be lulled thereby into a feeling of security and self-satisfaction and delight; that it should not be the citizen's effort and pastime to glance over the past but to look about to see how to better the city.

Mr. Stranahan did not wait to be classed as a "roaster" instead of a "booster," but he felt constrained to submit that when people came to the city looking for sites it was not a meritorious thing upon the part of the city that the visitors' eyes should be greeted with the disagreeable sight of another kind—the dense pall of black smoke which hovers over and settles upon the city, disfiguring the buildings and spoiling clothing of citizens and merchandise of merchants. He submitted and declared that to allow this black smoke to be vomited forth from twenty-five chimneys of manufactories was neither good citizenship nor good religion nor good business—not good citizenship because it does not conserve the best interests of all citizens; not good religion because it does not hold to the tenets of the golden rule, and not good business because of the wasteful quality of the practice. The speaker declared that to equip the factories with automatic smokers would save from 10 to 15 per cent of the coal.

Names and Standing of the Pupils Who are to be Advanced—Forty-three New High School Students.

The following pupils were successful in the Regents' examinations last week. The preliminary subjects—reading, writing, spelling, geography, arithmetic, elementary English and elementary United States history are required for entrance to the High school. The High school subjects give credit toward a High school and Regents diploma. Reading and writing are the last of the preliminary subjects taken, and when these are passed, pupils become members of the High school. Forty-three completed the preliminary subjects last week.

PETITION CIRCULATED.

A petition was circulated last week and readily signed by the merchants agreeing not to contribute to church or organization fairs, sales, etc., the practice having become burdensome to the business houses of the city, the demands upon their generosity totalling to at least one each week. In view of the fact that the Catholics had planned to hold a Fair in the early Spring, the agreement has aroused considerable agitation, several merchants asking to be released from their obligation, as they did not know of the Fair at the time they signed.

It is now thought that the petition will be again circulated, the date of when the agreement shall become operative being placed as July 1, so that discrimination cannot be charged.

MUST SELECT POLLING PLACE.

Since the Universalist church has been converted into a parish house by the Zion Episcopal society, the Fourth ward voters will be compelled to find another polling place, and the question naturally arises as to where one as conveniently located and appointed could be found.

The last administration left the booth paraphernalia outside the Universalist church, exposed to the elements, the booth having been removed after election, and the new administration has not yet located them. It might be well to hunt up a storage place for this city property before it becomes so weather beaten that some enterprising home keeper appropriates the wooden structures for fire wood. The marvel is that they have remained so long without molestation.

ELKS' BANQUET A SUCCESS.

The banquet given at the Elks' home on Thursday evening in celebration of their seventh anniversary as a lodge, was a successful affair. Messrs. E. P. Cole, L. A. Richardson, and J. M. Caffrey were the general committee and they did their work well.

Mr. L. A. Richardson officiated as toastmaster and he called upon Messrs. E. P. Cole, N. N. Stranahan, of this city, Mayor Barry and Charles Dowd of Cortland, and Attorney F. E. Cullen of Oswego for toasts. At the conclusion of the toast list Hon. N. N. Stranahan bade the assemblage rise and drink to Mr. Cullen, as "the most polished orator of Oswego County."

Vocal and instrumental music and a smoker followed the banquet and toasts.

BANQUET AN ENJOYABLE AFFAIR

Bill and at the same time eliminate almost entirely the smoke nuisance. Mr. Stranahan mentioned the manufacturing of the city thus equipped with automatic stokers and said that the owners of that plant were authority for the statement of the economy of the system. It is idle, the speaker said, for the State or city to spend money to control tuberculosis with this fruitful source of lung troubles belching out into the air. He commended this matter to the two organizations represented as a practical opportunity to improve the health and conserve the interests of citizens and manufacturers by securing the elimination of the smoke nuisance.

Mr. Stranahan thought that it would be better to appeal to the individual civic pride and civic virtue to eliminate this smoke evil, rather than to have the local authorities use the power vested in them to prohibit the burning of soft coal within the city.

The speaker mentioned the fact that Fulton is the only city in the State which has a city and county government of recent years, the improvement of streets, the condition of the city's finances as matters to be proud of. For the new city administration Mr. Stranahan bespoke the constant support of every citizen and every party. "What we want," said Mr. Stranahan, "is a prosperous and growing city and although we may sometimes object to the tax rate, nearly three per cent, we should remember that taxes are like treasures in heaven—they come high but we must have them. And although we may sometimes remark upon the poor and unclean condition of some back street, we must say that so the pure all things are pure. Above all," said the speaker, "there must be co-operation, there must be no pulling, but the new organization should work in harmony with the old and the old organization in harmony with the new." The true test of citizenship, said Mr. Stranahan in closing, depended chiefly upon the existence of a high individual standard for every man.

Our Schools. "Our Schools" was a theme of which Prof. J. R. Fairgrieve was well qualified to speak. As superintendent he is conversant with every detail of the work and has been an important factor in its development in this city. Mr. Fairgrieve stated that when the new term opened there would be fifty-three teachers employed in the schools and that at the close of December there were 1,864 pupils in regular attendance in the various buildings. The amount paid for teachers last year was $29,000, of which amount $5,725 was paid by the State. The value of the school property is $145,000, and there is against the city on account of its school property a bonded indebtedness of $23,000 only, $10,000 of which was placed the past summer on account of the doubling of the capacity of State Street school.

One of the features upon which Professor Fairgrieve dwelt was the growth of the High school from an attendance of 143 four years ago until when the term opens more than 300 pupils will be in attendance in that department. Gradually this department had been branching out from its original room of a 143 capacity. Room after room was taken for forty students at a time and another room for forty more must be taken in the Fourth Street school building, and this growth has made it necessary to shift the grades into other buildings one by one, there being now housed in the old jailor's building in Room 100 street and four in the Fallay building.

The growth of the High school and the equal if not greater growth in the grades has made the question of room a serious one and Professor Fairgrieve broached plainly the subject of acquiring the old Fallay seminary property for a High school. This property, he said he understood was now secured by option to purchase at $16,000 to John Hunter, president of the Board of Education, and the speaker urged upon those present that the time to buy property is when it can be bought and asked that when the matter is brought up, as it undoubtedly will be within the year, the citizens give it the proper consideration.

In connection with this project of acquiring the Fallay seminary, Professor Fairgrieve spoke of the great lot surrounding it whereon a playground could be established and the necessity of allowing the school children to make a playground for football, baseball, etc., of the parks would be removed. And, besides, the investment, the speaker thought, would be a paying one from the start, considering that the city pays an annual rental of $400, etc., for the use of four rooms in the building.

Another matter was that of the conditions at the Oak street school which, according to the speaker, will have to be remedied shortly, the location of the building and the sanitary conditions.

The lot upon which the school stands is eight rods by sixteen rods in dimensions, and Professor Fairgrieve advocates that an entirely new building be constructed, better situated on the lot, etc. The various departments of the school work were treated interestingly and to the point by the speaker, who urged upon those present that while they were working for the industrial advancement of Fulton they should remember the needs of the school children, who in a few years will be playing considerable of a part in the affairs of the city.

Co-operation.

City Clerk William D. MacNamara addressed the assemblage on "Co-operation." His remarks were couched in most excellent and even classical English. He stated that organization without co-operation would accomplish little or nothing. Any effort to dominate, any pulling apart, the speaker stated, would result in ruin to one or both of the organizations and a defeat of the purposes of each. Mr. MacNamara pointed out the natural advantages of Fulton, enlarged upon them and urged upon the members of the organizations that to co-operate in advancing the interests of the city was a duty incumbent upon each, the success of the projects of either organization depending upon the individual activity of the members working in harmony. It was an able effort and was generally applauded.

President F. W. Richardson, when called upon by the toastmaster, said that he was sure of two facts and wanted the audience to agree with him upon them as facts—the first being that he was not an orator and the second that Fulton is the chief city of the United States. Besides voicing the sentiments at the opening of this account, Mr. Richardson informed the men that Mr. Stranahan is the committee of the Boost club on parks and playgrounds and pointed out that the organization expected Mr. Stranahan to provide playgrounds and parks, no matter where he got them and no matter how, so long as he got them.

It was Toastmaster Sullivan who voiced the regrets of the gathering that N. L. Whitaker, the new president of the Chamber of Commerce, had been detained out of town on business until too late to be present at the luncheon and smoker. Certain it is that more of such gatherings will be of inestimable value in keeping alive the spirit of progress in the minds of the citizens to the end that Fulton will grow not only in population, but also industrially, and that civic pride will receive an uplift that shall imperish, to keep their premises in such condition that visitors will be always welcome.

COOPER WRITES OF FLORIDA

Kissimmee, Fla., Jan. 20.

Editor Times:—You may be surprised to hear that in December the thermometer here stood at 24 twice and it was cold. The houses are not built as warmly as in the north, and we felt the shivers enter our pores with alacrity. Most of the transient population, and others who hang around home, after dark rely upon kerosene heaters and if a room happens to be too large, or the heater too small, it will not be strange if a stranger wishes himself in a steam-heated flat, or his usually warm domicile up north. Between December 24 and December 31 inclusive the thermometer was highest at 69 three times; 68, 63, 55, 62 on other days in the sunshine. At night during the 8 days the thermometer stood at 40, 40, 40, 39, 55, 38, 25 and 24. On January 1 the maximum was 68, minimum, 29, and since then it has been up to 45 average, government measure.

Ice formed a little, no snow; some orange groves protected by little fires came out O. K. and some others not cared for were touched and ruined for shipping.

There are many colonies in Florida now. The State was never well advertised 'til 1909, and I find I have knuckled down to get the little white allies or allies from the North-ers who desire to speculate, or who want homes in a desirable climate and a lot of profit from farming. I advise a man to look before he joins and don't be in a hurry to buy. Some Florida lands cost too much at $2.00 an acre, and the U. S. has thousands of acres in the State which can be bought cheap, and in time made valuable.

Young men who love to work and have money to tide them over, can do well here, if they get decent soil, but I have my opinion of the white sand unless it is well irrigated and fertilized and worked until the cows come home. I have seen some lands advertised at $10.00 an acre, which I believe are worth the money, and I am quite sure I have seen some which are held at $20.00 an acre, that is all in Florida and am not in the real estate business so I can afford to tell the truth as I see and hear and believe.

The climate is hard to beat, but bring your Winter underwear for special occasions and an overcoat to break the chill of Winter, which is coopers letter 2. . . . . sent here from Chicago, which is jealous. See? You can catch cold most anywhere this side of Tophet but Florida air cures a bad cough or helps a consumptive right smart. Mrs. Cooper and I expect to hang around and snuff its breezes for several weeks yet, Providence permitting. It seems good to sit around with windows open night and day, and take a sunbath without sneezers and flies to worry the diaphragm. But occasionally the windows have to be closed in times of severe blows from the northwest, as mentioned above. Today is fine a silk. Doubtless there will be a few days between now and March that will be cold, but not many if Florida holds its own only.

I hope to be in Fulton in May.
Yours truly,
Norm. G. Cooper.

Unappreciative. A Washington woman has in her employ as butler a darty of a pompous and satisfied man, says Harper's Magazine, who not long ago permitted a chocolate colored damsel, long his ardent admirer, to become his spouse. On one occasion when the mistress of the house had occasion temporarily to avail herself of the services of the butler's wife it was observed that whenever the duties of the two brought them in conjunction the bride's eyes would shine with extraordinary devotion.

"Your wife seems wonderfully attached to you," Thomas," casually observed the mistress of the house.

"Yes, ma'am," answered Thomas complacently. "Ain't it just a-ketchin'?"

An Anecdote of Greeley. A cat was once made by a dozen noted artists of the Academy of Design in 1870 on Horace street. Mr. Greeley Cook, then the art critic of the Tribune, had been saying things about the academy exhibition which caused the venerable chiefs of that establishment to boil with indignation. One day a committee went down to the Tribune to complain. Mr. Greeley having listened to silence to what these gentlemen had to say, looked up from his desk, a twinkle in his eye, and said, with his peculiar nasal falsetto: "Gentlemen, I judge from your remarks that Mr. Cook's articles are widely read. They will therefore continue to be printed in the Tribune. Good morning."

Woman's Way. Suddenly a stout woman who had been sitting in a surface car arose and rang the bell. The conveyance stopped, but the passenger went to another seat and sat down.

"I thought you wanted to get off, madam," said the conductor.

"No!" she snarled. "I only wanted to sit somewhere else. I didn't want to be jerked off my feet while the car was in motion; that's all. I ain't no near-dear home yet."

"Isn't that the limit?" asked the conductor of a man on the platform. —New York Press.

Take a hint, do your own mixing. Rough on rats, being all poison, one 15c box will spread or make 50 to 100 little cakes that will kill 500 or more rats and mice. It's the unbeatable exterminator. Don't die in the house. Beware of imitations, substitutes and catch-penny, ready-for-use devices. 2-1

The House of Lords. Britain's house of lords has now and has had in times past many nicknames. Some modern Englishmen call it the "chamber of horrors" and the "lethal chamber." When William Pitt "fell upstairs," as Lord Chesterfield put it, and because Earl of Chatham, Chesterfield spoke of it as that "hospital of incurables." Chatham himself used to call it "the tapestry," in allusion to its usual splendid lifelessness. Disraeli had the same thought in his mind when, shortly after he had become Lord Beaconsfield, Lord Aberdeen asked him, "How do you like this place?" "Well, I feel that I am dead," said the new peer, adding, with second thought politeness, "but in the Elysian fields."

A Sensible Query. Mr. Ashmud-Barrett once told a good story about his going to Ireland for the first time. "As soon as I landed in Ireland I attempted to look for traces of some of my ancestors, who came from the extreme north of Ireland. Meeting an intelligent looking Irishman, I informed him of my mission, saying that my ancestors emigrated from about that spot a hundred years ago and I was there trying to look them up. He answered: 'Ye say your ancestors emigrated from our town about a hundred years ago? Then why are ye looking for them here?'

Equitable-Standard Policy

Do you know that the EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES issues a policy which, at maturity, instead of being paid to the beneficiary in one lump sum, provides a monthly income for life? It is called a LIFE INCOME POLICY, and is well worth investigation.

Do you know that the Society has introduced a new policy of this kind, which provides a life-income not only for a man's wife or daughter, in the event of his death, but for his own support in after life, if he lives?

It works either way. It will protect you if you live. It protects your wife if you die. And if you both live, it protects you both.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eyes, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark streaks around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling, means that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely mask the trouble but take up the liver and stomach in full force, purify the blood and make it so they act as healthy restorers that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve indigestion, constipation and general weakness. Price 25 cents.

NORM. G. COOPER PROMINENT.

The following items clipped from the Kinsmen Valley Gazette, Florida, shows that you cannot keep a good man down, even though he may be a northerner wintering in the southland: On the afternoon of January 5th, 1910, Comrade James Skinner of Archer, Fla., department commander of the state, organized a post of the Grand Army of the Republic in this city. The post was named Oliver O. Howard and is No. 36. The following officers were elected and installed: Commander, G. E. Tarbox; senior vice, D. E. Lowell; junior vice, T. M. Murphy; chaplain, E. H. James; quartermaster, Dennis Blenis; officer of the day, J. J. Ricketts; officer of the guard, John Hanson; adjutant, O. Derbyshire; delegates to department encampment, T. M. Murphy; alternate, Geo. W. Burrows; trustees, D. E. Lowell, T. M. Murphy, O. Derbyshire. The charter will be held open a few weeks so that others may come in. Comrade Norman G. Cooper of Lincoln Post, Oberlin, Ohio, was acting adjutant during the formation of the post, and was warmly thanked for his services.

WILL COST A MILLION

A Syracuse dispatch says: The Beebe Syndicate engineers are preparing the specifications for the eleven-mile extension of the Syracuse, Lake Shore & Northern railroad from Fulton to Oswego. A contract for the construction of this railroad extension will probably be let within a few weeks and the work started as soon as the weather permits. It will be the most important piece of railroad building of the year in central New York, and will cost upwards of a million dollars. The public franchises and private rights of way have practically all been secured.

LOCAL OPTION IN CITIES.

Senator Brackett and Assemblyman Grey introduced a bill to provide for local option for cities in the State similar to that which now governs the towns. It provides that the liquor question shall be submitted to the people every odd year. In cities the question is to be voted on at the regular city election.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a very valuable medicine for throat and lung troubles, quickly relieves and cures painful breathing and a dangerously sounding cough which indicates congested lungs. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

SALE POSTPONED.

City Attorney McNamara has advised that the sale of the west side hospital site be postponed until the city's legal right to dispose of the much discussed plot be ascertained.

BOARD RESCINDS ACTION.

The Board of Health, upon investigation, finds that Dr. E. H. Nodyne was regularly appointed meat and milk inspector under the Civil Service, and that he cannot be removed unless charges can be sustained against him. The Board has no mind to persecute Dr. Nodyne and they week in September to fittingly observe the position.

Entered as second class matter, April 22, 1886, at the postoffice at Fulton, New York, under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.
E. K. HUGHES, Editor.
W. E. HUGHES, Proprietor.
Issued Every Wednesday at No. 66 South First street, Fulton, N. Y.
Official Paper of City of Fulton.
WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 26, 1910

NOT EXPLANATORY ENOUGH.
Several papers last week published a lengthy document purporting to be the report of an expert accountant who had investigated the books in the water department and found them to be all right. This investigation was authorized by the Board of Public Works, paid for by them from the city funds and is undoubtedly authentic as far as it goes as it embraces every department and fund under the Board of Public Works jurisdiction. But it does not tell for what purpose the monies in the different funds were spent. How much was transferred from one fund to another. Why the small balance in the water fund at present in face of all the bonds issued during the past two years, and a score of other questions very perplexing to the average taxpayer. No one doubted that the books were accurately kept and this fact is the only one established by the expert whose work was completed on Dec. 31, 1909.
The tax payers have long waited for the reduction in water rental promised them when they acquiesced in the purchase of the springs by the city, and they wonder when and how this boon is to be granted them. The number of taps in the city has doubled since Fulton became a city, therefore the income must have doubled. The expenses of conducting the department have not greatly increased within the past ten years, and yet from an $18,000 surplus when Superintendent Horatio Allen rendered his last statement, we now find a surplus of but a fraction over $500 on Jan. 1, 1910.
The charter was amended in May, 1908, not all the Aldermen concurring in the matter, and in the amendment we find that there is no limit, practically, to the amount of money the Board of Public Works may take from the water fund and transfer to the improvement fund. The old charter only permitting $2,000 per year to be thus transferred. Thus the tax payer has to pay his improvement tax twice—in the high water rental and in the improvement assessment, a far from square deal for him.
Mayor Connors and the Common Council should investigate this amendment to the charter and have it killed so far as this section is concerned. There is no justice to anyone in it, and it makes the matter of lower water rental so far remote as a possibility that the mind of man cannot think the day when the boon will come.

THE announcement that Governor Charles E. Hughes will retire to private life at the close of his present term means a distinct loss to the public service of the nation as well as to the Empire state. In his short career as executive of New York, Mr. Hughes has become a national figure. His efforts in behalf of clean government and for higher ideals in the public service have brought concrete legislative results in his own state and have had a salutary influence on legislation in many states. He has been progressive without being radical and forceful without being dictatorial. He went into office with no political machine at his back and he did not bend to the wishes of the political bosses either in his appointments to office, or in his recommendations for legislation.
No chief executive of New York since Mr. Tilden has impressed his individuality on the nation as has Mr. Hughes. In the last Presidential campaign his speaking tour of the West was a continuous oration. His keen and lawyer-like analysis of the Bryan's panacea won for the Republican national ticket thousands of votes in strong Democratic territory. Every step he has since taken has increased his hold on the admiration of the country. Even his political opponents agree that in talents and character he is second to no man in public life.
The announcement of the retirement of Governor Hughes is that he desires to "return to his profession." In order to provide a competence for his family. He is not a wealthy man and the duties of his high office have made it necessary for him to draw on his private fortune. Doubtless many public spirited citizens of New York would be only too glad to raise a fund to provide an ample future income for the Governor's family, but it goes without saying that this suggestion would find no favor with the New York executive.

Gov. Hughes is still a young man and if he keeps his health and strength his retirement from the Governorship will not close his career as a public official. A year or so hence the Republican party will be in search of a leader to take up the Roosevelt and Taft policies, and it is not at all impossible that the men of thought and strength in that party will look to Charles E. Hughes as a man in every way fit by training, temperament, experience and ability to uphold the party standard in the campaign of 1912.

Persons who think that when Mr. Roosevelt returns from Africa he will "raise a rumpus" because his friend, Gifford Pinchot, was dismissed as Chief Forester, seem to forget that the former President was probably the most strict disciplinarian who ever sat in the White House. Mr. Roosevelt never permitted any of his subordinates to talk back. The big stick was not brought into play solely in the case of "malefactors of great wealth," but was used by the African hunter "pro tem" on any person whom he thought was taking advantage of him. He and Mr. Pinchot were great friends, it is true, but great as the friendship was the ex-forester never would have dared send a letter to Congress containing veiled charges against Mr. Roosevelt. His punishment would have been quick and certain. There is a story about an inventor who offered a magazine editor an appliance which was warranted to throw an obstreperous caller out of the office. The editor said he didn't want it, adding that he could do the job himself without the aid of an appliance. "But this thing," said the inventor, "will bring him back and throw him out again." There upon the sale was consummated. That is the kind of an appliance that is popular in the Roosevelt administration. Mr. Pinchot may thank his lucky star that he wrote the Doherty letter after March 4, 1909.

The Republicans in both branches of Congress will serve their country better and be assured of a warmer welcome on their return home if they will get down to business and subordinate their personal ambition to the welfare of the general public. It is nearly two years before the House of Representatives will have to meet the question of electing a Speaker to succeed Mr. Cannon and the question of what rules shall govern the proceedings of the lower branch of Congress will not come up in a concrete way until December, 1911. In view of these facts, the Cannon issue, and the Ruffes issue ought not to be permitted to overshadow in the public mind problems which are right at the door of Congress. It would be advisable for some of the brethren at the National Capitol to take down an old copy book and ponder over the adage: "Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party."

THE plans for the Canadian navy have been sufficiently developed to indicate that it is proposed to start with a modest $15,000,000 appropriation. In these days of Imperial Dreadnoughts this appropriation will not go far. It will go far enough, however, to give our friends across the border a taste of what it costs to become a power on the seas. The naval programme of the Dominion government may yet be a source of much trouble to Canada in its dealings with the people who pay the taxes.

It is not an easy task to get ahead of the high-price game. The shoe men now say that they must raise the price of shoes because meat is so high that people are not eating it and in consequence the packers are not killing so many cattle and hides are scarce. And hides are on the free list, too, and the tariff on boots and shoes was cut to the bone. A newspaper in one of the great country districts of New York says that the farmers there are eating salmon-garlic and selling their butter.

DISASTROUS FIRE

Sunday morning about 2 o'clock the fire alarm in this city struck, arousing many from sleep with the apprehension that a general alarm had been turned in. A look from the South windows revealed a light in the sky like a reflection of fire but brought no intelligence as to the cause for the fire alarm.
On Sunday morning it was ascertained that the tissue paper mills of the Sweet Brothers in Phoenix had been totally destroyed by fire during the night, the strong wind which prevailed fanning the fire and making the fighting of the flames futile. A telephone call to this city for help stirred into willing action all of the firemen and Chief Waugh but no means could be devised for transporting the fire engine to Phoenix. A flat car was needed but none could be found, and before one could be brought from Oswego word came that assistance was unnecessary. The Baldwinville fire department was equipped to render prompt assistance and they had apparatus in Phoenix within 20 minutes from the time the call came.

The fire originated in the boiler room of the paper mill and the place was a seething mass of flame when the conflagration was first seen. But for the snow fall earlier in the evening every plant along the river front must have been swept by the flames, but fortunately the firemen were able to hold the fire fiend within the boundary of the two mills.

The Sweet mills were two of the few in this section making the colored tissues and they were rushed with orders when this calamity came upon them. There was insurance amounting to $50,000 upon the two plants and it is believed that Assemblman Sweet and his brother Kirk, the proprietors, will take immediate steps to rebuild and equip as their business is nicely established and their future assured. To them in their loss and annoyance is extended the earnest sympathy of their large circle of friends and acquaintances throughout the State.

REFUSES RE-NOMINATION.

Governor Hughes has expressed himself as unalterably opposed to continuing in political life, and says that with the conclusion of his present term as governor he will resume the practice of his profession. It is generally believed that this decision has been made because he is not a rich man and the salary of the Governor of the Empire State is highly inadequate for the expenses entailed upon the executive in his holding of the stewardship.

The news of Governor Hughes' determination brings deep disappointment and regret to his legion of admirers throughout the State. Friends he has made by his firmness and devotion to high ideals and to the very best traditions of Republicanism. He has made enemies, but he moves on his way in calm indifference to praise and to criticism, standing always as intelligence and judgement lead him to believe is right. Governor Hughes will not retire from public life when he leaves the governorship. He is too great a man to return to obscurity. His mind and talent will be called upon again and the future may see him a national figure, his poise and broadness of vision and perception placing him among the presidential possibilities.

CENSUS TAKERS EXAMINED.

Supervisor of Census Frank C. Wisner of Lowville has notified Postmaster Hughes that the examination of census enumerators for the Federal census in this district will be held in the City Hall, Fulton, N. Y., on Saturday afternoon, Feb. 5, commencing at 2 o'clock.

The examination will be under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Fassell, secretary of the local Civil Service Board. The cards of admission will be issued to the applicants under the hand of the supervisor of census, and only those persons having such cards will be admitted to the test.

Each ward in Fulton is entitled to one enumerator and considerable rivalry among those desirous of serving has been developed. The policy of the administration is to have the enumerators well qualified to do the work, and willing to do it fairly, that this may be the most accurate census taken.

ANNUAL MEETING.

Fulton, N. Y., Jan. 22, 1910.
Notice is hereby given, that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Fulton Fuel & Light company for the purpose of the election of Directors and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting, will be held at the office of the company, in the city of Fulton, on Saturday, the 6th day of February, A. D. 1910, at 12 o'clock noon.
J. A. Sloas,
Secretary.

MARRIED

The marriage of Supervisor W. W. Rounds of Oswego, Town, and Miss Harriet M. Tice of Southwest Oswego occurred a week ago Sunday at the home of Rev. Miller in Minetto. Supervisor and Mrs. Rounds are receiving the congratulations of their many friends throughout the county.

The marriage of Miss Lulu M. Huggins, daughter of Mrs. E. H. Huggins, to Mr. C. C. Raymond Legg of Oswego, was solemnized at the parsonage of the First Baptist church on Tuesday afternoon of last week, the Rev. J. G. York, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Legg were tendered a reception at the home of the groom's parents in Oswego at 7 o'clock, and Mr. Legg left on the evening train for Carbondale, Pa., where he has been promoted to the position of Adams Express agent. Mrs. Legg is very popular with her friends in this vicinity and Mr. Legg is a prominent member of the Oswego Y. M. C. A. of the Baptist church and he is also secretary of the Oswego County Sunday School Union. The young couple were attended by Mr. Hima Huggins as best man and Miss Marion Hale as bridesmaid.

DEATHS

The sudden death of Mrs. Anna E. Hulett, aged 47, and a life long resident of this city, occurred on Wednesday at her home in First street. The funeral services, which were largely attended, were held from the late home on Saturday afternoon. The immediate survivors are the mother, Mrs. Mary Cronyn and one son, Mr. Clinton H. Hulett, all of this city.

While visiting her daughter in Oswego, Mrs. Amelia Chesley, aged 70, of this city, passed away. Undertaker E. S. Brown was called to care for the remains which were brought to this city on Thursday and the funeral services were held on Friday from the home of another daughter Mrs. George Candee, Rev. F. A. Miller, officiating. Burial was made in Mt. Adnah. The immediate survivors are three daughters, Mrs. Lounsbey of Oswego, and Mrs. George Candee and Mrs. Josie Simpson, both of Fulton, and four sons, Joseph, Frank and William Hart of Fulton and Pete Hart of Oswego.

The death of Benjamin R. Ketcheson, one of the oldest and best known newspaper men in this section of the State, occurred at his home in Oswego last week after a long period of ill health. Mr. Ketcheson was possessed of a bright, well trained mind and his editorial work was of a high class. In his death an old school newspaper man, one who knew the business from A to Z, has gone into the great beyond, leaving a vacancy to be filled with difficulty. The deceased is survived by his widow, one daughter and one sister.

The remains of the Rev. Wicks S. Titus, aged 90, who died on Friday in Williamsburg, were brought to this city for interment. The funeral services were held from the First Methodist church on Sunday, Revs. Cornwell and Miller of this city, S. E. Call of Syracuse and T. B. Shepard of Oswego officiating. The deceased was a former instructor in Natural Science and Hebrew in Fallers Seminary, and will be recalled by many of the older residents. Mr. Titus had preached the gospel for 51 years, having held eighteen charges in that time.

The tickets for Judge Lindsey's lecture have been placed at a price that will permit all who desire to hear him, to do so. Tickets are on sale at Leathers', and the prices are: adults 50c, children 25c. This is the last lecture in the library course and perhaps the best ever heard by a Fulton audience. The speaker should be greeted by a standing-room-only audience.

Several of ex-District Attorney W. B. Baker's friends in Oswego are planning to tender him a farewell banquet prior to his removal to his future home in Gloversville.

The narrowing of the river north of the electric light plant by the spoils from the construction work at the Granby mill has caused a serious condition during the recent thaw and it is feared that the Spring thaw may bring about disastrous floods on the low lands, unless something is done to widen the channel of the river before that time. Last week it was necessary to dynamite a portion of the Bradley coffee dam to arrest the serious conditions.

A timely cartoon, apt in its conception and well executed, having for its subject the feeling of good fellowship existing between the Chamber of Commerce and the Boost club as well evidenced at the banquet on Wednesday evening, appeared in an out-of-town daily last week. The cartoon artist was Allan, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Foster. The young man has a future before him in this line of work if he develops time and thought to it. His ideas are really very clever.

SAVINGS BANK ELECTS OFFICERS

The annual meeting of the Fulton Savings Bank was held on Wednesday afternoon and the affairs of that institution were discussed by the trustees present. Everything is in a most prosperous and satisfactory condition with the bank and the outlook for the future is most encouraging.

The matter of the new bank building was not touched upon in the absence of Mr. John Hunter, chairman of the building committee; however, the Times learns this week that the blue prints from the architect are expected to reach Mr. Hunter this week, when something definite will be decided relative to the date for building. It is the intention of the building committee to erect a modern bank building, with all appliances, which shall stand as an ornament to the city and an enduring monument to the thrift and enterprise of the patrons of the bank.

The officers and directors of the bank as elected at the annual meeting are Arvin Rice, president; Geo. C. Channsey, vice president; Edwin F. Palmer, second vice president; William J. Lovejoy, treasurer; H. Putnam Allen, secretary; Giles S. Piper, attorney; Harry L. Stout, teller; Wilma Nelson, Arvin Rice, Giles S. Piper, William J. Lovejoy, George F. Wells, George G. Channsey, H. ## ADMITTED TO CALIFORNIA BAR

Attorney Frederick White, brother of Mr. William H. White of this city, was on Jan. 17, admitted to the California bar, and he is now practicing his profession in Los Angeles, Calif. Mr. White is delighted with the climate and the people in the Golden State, and he will undoubtedly make his permanent home in that section of the country. His many friends throughout this section will extend hearty good wishes for his success and prosperity in the home of his adoption, while regretting that he has decided to locate in a part so remote from his former home.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB.

"Resolved, That the Direct Primary law, as advocated by Governor Hughes, will be beneficial to the State."

The foregoing was a subject for debate on Monday evening at the session of the Current Events Club, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Paddock. The affirmative side was championed by the Rev. F. A. Miller and W. L. Sawtelle, while the Hon. S. E. Mead stood for the negative side of the question.

Mr. Miller, in introducing the subject, stated broadly that the proposed Direct Primary law was to give the electors a larger voice in the selection of candidates to represent them. The speaker called attention to the loose laws under which elections were now held in this State and the marvellous transformation which had been reported wherever the Direct Primary law had become established.

Mr. Miller held the closest attention of the assembly and all were impressed with his genius for debate. Mr. Mead, who alone defended the negative side of the question, gave a scholarly presentation of the principles underlying popular government and reasoned calmly and convincingly upon the problems suggested by the Direct Primary law, which he regarded as absolutely revolutionary in its character. He quoted excellent authority in defense of his position. It was Mr. Mead's judgment that many of the evils arising from the election law now in force could be attributed to the indolence, personal interest and party spirit of the electors.

Mr. Sawtelle, for the affirmative side, added new and important material on the subject, which had required many hours of patient study. At the close of the debate a vote was taken, resulting in a victory for the affirmative side.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Feb. 7, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Benedict. The leaders will be Messrs. M. S. Powell, A. W. White and Lewis Rice.

SURROGATE'S COURT.

The fact that Catherine A. Bennett, of Altmar, married twice will result in her brother, Isaac W. Bennett, formerly of Oswego, now of Fulton, getting real estate left by her to the value of $4,000.

Decedent, who at the time of her death last November, was Catherine A. Cook, of Altmar, left an estate estimated to be worth $2,250 personal and $4,000 real. Petition for letters of administration has just been made by her husband, William E. Cook, who asks that Thomas H. Bennett be joined with him as co-administrator.

The petition shows that as the widow of Robert Thomas, of Fulton, on August 5th, 1897, she made a will splitting up her property among relatives of hers and her husband, Mr. Thomas. A short time later she was married to Mr. Cook, and the marriage, the petition states, revoked the will, so that she is considered to have died intestate. In the petition for letters, Mr. Cook asks also for an order to show cause why the will should not be decreed to have been revoked, and citations were issued to be served on all the devisees under the will.

As Mrs. Cook is considered to have died intestate, all the personal property will go to her husband and the real property to her brother, Mr. Bennett. The real property mentioned in the will includes two farms in Orwell and Willamstown, one of two hundred and thirteen acres and one of fifteen acres, and a house at Third and Academy streets, Fulton.

Letters were applied for by Marshal E. Mead, Fulton, an uncle and alleged creditor on the estate of Maud A. Maxon, who died in Oswego in September, 1907, leaving $700 real and $200 personal property. She left a husband, Bert Maxon, and mother, Cora M. Wells, of Seneca Hill.

A petition for letters testamentary on the estate of former Assemblyman Thomas M. Costello, who died at home in Altmar on November 9, was filed in Surrogate's Court on Monday by his widow, Carrie E. Costello. According to the petition, the value of the estate is placed at $3,000 real and over $5,000 personal property. A will was executed by Mr. Costello the day preceding his death.

SENATE WANTS ALL THE FACTS

Congress-Allis Controversy Will Soon Be Settled

INVESTIGATIONS IN THE PAST

Reminiscences of the Time When Judge Barnard Was Tried in Impeachment Proceedings—Some Facts About the Career of Senator Conger, Who Accuses Majority Leader Jotham P. Alldis—Former Assembly Inquiries.

(Special Correspondence.)

Albany, Jan. 26.—The sensational charges against Jotham P. Alldis, majority leader of the state senate, form the topic of chief interest at the capital, and the accuser, Senator Benn Conger of Tompkins county, has stated his determination to "fight to a finish" in pressing his claim that Alldis while in the assembly took a bribe to kill a bill.

That the investigation into the charges of Senator Conger will be thorough is shown by the speedy action of the senate. The entire inquiry will probably continue through ten days or two weeks, and there will be an additional delay in the grinding of the legislative mill pending the making of a decision by the senate as to the truth or falsity of the charges.

Senator Alldis is one of the most widely known legislators in the state, and he has held positions of pronounced importance in the Republican party as a member of assembly and more recently as a member of the upper house.

Something About Benn Conger.

Senator Conger, a man of small stature, round head and of slight build, served two terms in the assembly, being a member of that body in 1900 and 1901. He did not reappear in the capacity of a legislator until 1906. In November, 1906, he was elected to the senate in a stirring three-cornered fight, defeating Robert P. Bush, Democrat, and Owen Cassidy, former Republican senator. Cassidy was one of the senators who voted against the Hughes race track bill, and, failing of re-election because of the race track issue, he ran on an independent Republican ticket and received but 2,076 votes. Congressman J. Sloat Fessett of Elmira, who is the Republican leader in Conger's senate district, became antagonized by Cassidy owing to the latter's failure of re-election. Fessett, it was who sent Cassidy the now famous "John and I" telegram, advising, as Fessett has always held, that Cassidy should vote in favor of the Hughes anti race track measures.

Senator Conger's district includes the counties of Tompkins, Chemung, Tioga and Schuyler. He was born and reared in the town of Groton, Tompkins county, and has attained considerable wealth as banker, manufacturer and contractor.

Senate Always Willing.

To enumerate the various trials by the senate of all the important actions it has determined which involved the reputation and honor of men as individuals, all the way from the time Governor Fenton asked the senate to oust George W. Smith, Judge of Onondaga county, in 1866 (and it dined him by a vote of 20 to 3), down to the time of Otto Kelsey, would be tedious at this time. All the proceedings have demonstrated that instead of being either poised or slow to take up the work the state senate has always gone at investigations of men's character with amazing willingness.

The Barnes Case.

In the case of the charges against Senator Barnes in 1895, when a New York newspaper accused him of bribery in connection with a bill to increase the salaries of the New York city fire department, a committee of seven senators was appointed to investigate. It had been charged that the firemen had raised a hush fund of $45,000, and the names of Senators Robertson of Westchester, Rindes of Ontario and Coggeshall of Oneida were mentioned as those "who required to be taken off." The senate committee decided that there was never any justification for the charges.

Session—Bradley Accused.

In 1890 Assemblyman Bradley charged that Senator Sessions had given him $2,000 to change his vote on the United States senatorship and vote for Dewey. This sum of money in his hands Bradley placed on the clerk's desk in open house, and the sum remained in the treasury until appropriated for a local hospital. There was an investigation, but the question was one of veracity, and nothing ever came of it. This happened at the time that Conkling and Platt resigned from the United States senate and Warner Miller and Eldridge G. Lapham were elected to succeed them.

Another case was that of Eugene F. Vachon, a Brooklyn assemblyman, who was tried in Albany county and acquitted in connection with legislation governing ice cutting on the Hudson river. Back in 1872 there was still another assembly bribery charge, and the assemblyman who made the charge failed to substantiate it and was expelled.

Court of Record Rules.

There was a procedure outlined specially in the investigation of the charges against Supreme Court Justice Warren B. Hooker of Fredonia. Rules that govern courts of record will prevail, and Lieutenant Governor Horace White will preside. There will be no appeals from his decisions unless the objection to the ruling is sustained by at least twenty senators.

Probably of all men brought before the senate to be investigated no man had as many allegations piled up against him as the assembly committee made at the time of its crusade against Justice Barnard in the Tweed days. Not only was his official integrity riddled with charges, but his moral character was attacked.

Alldis Fund For Bribery.

Among other things it was charged in publications at the time that Justice Barnard had $100,000 with which to purchase the assembly judiciary committee which had been investigating him. Once during his investigation Justice Barnard had a young attorney ask him, the records show, to put over a trial, and the judge said: "Oh, I guess it won't tumble down until Monday. If it does I can give you some of the $100,000 I've got in the bank for the assembly judiciary committee."

On another occasion Judge Barnard was credited with declaring that his enemies "pass away quickly and they don't bother me. One dropped dead last night, and another had his head broken in."

When a lawyer objected to a course of procedure the judge was pursuing at this same time, Judge Barnard was alleged to have said, "Well, if you don't like it put it in the nine hundred and fifty-ninth article of my impeachment."

Alldis Is Confident.

Senator Alldis has maintained an air of pronounced confidence during the last few days, in spite of the nervous tension under which he has been laboring. He said to an intimate friend of his a few days ago:

"I am going to win out in this mix-up simply because the charges are absolutely without base. That is why I am not worrying."

However, some of the friends of the majority leader are not certain that even a decision in favor of Alldis will end the matter. They assert that the publicity given to the whole imbroglio will necessitate either the resignation of Alldis or the retirement of the Republican state chairman, Timothy L. Woodruff, who, it is said here, was responsible for making Alldis the majority leader in the upper house.

Salaries of State Officials.

The statement of Governor Hughes that he cannot afford to be a candidate for gubernatorial honors again because of the insufficiency of the salary of $10,000 a year has aroused considerable interest here.

Many members of both houses agree that the governor is correct in his belief that the salary of the responsible office is too small, and they also state that the salaries of senators and assemblymen are inadequate. Last year the assembly judiciary committee drew up a bill making the salary of a member of the legislature $3,000 a year, but the senate judiciary committee would not agree to the proposition. Therefore the bill was not introduced by the assembly committee.

As the raising of the salary of the governor or of members of the legislature would require an amendment of the state constitution, it would require two years to make any change.

Fire Insurance Probe.

A rigid investigation of five insurance companies by a legislative committee, following the adjournment of the legislature, is provided in resolutions of similar import recently introduced by Assemblyman Hoy of New York and McInerney of Rochester. It is provided that the investigation take a wide scope as to the conduct of the fire companies, their collateral interests and the cost of insurance.

It is said here that sensations almost as unusual as those brought out in the life insurance investigation are promised if either of the resolutions introduced is put through.

Wadsworth Explains Situation.

Regarding the work of the present legislature Speaker Wadsworth says: "We are trying hard to get the reports of the various special committees put in—the direct nominations committee, the telephone and telegraph committee, the New York city charter committee and the finance investigation committee. We hardly can begin until these reports are before us."

"The reports in all probability will not be presented before Feb. 1, and one or two of them may be held until a later date. The direct primary bill, the telephone and telegraph regulation bill and much other important legislation is yet to be introduced."

Journalist—Lawyer—Farmer.

Assemblyman John T. Roberts of Onondaga county, who won fame by defeating the veteran chairman of the cities committee, Frederick Hasbrouck of Syracuse, for re-election, styles himself a "journalist, lawyer and farmer."

He has started in at Albany to further his reputation by introducing a bill providing that the American flag shall be hoisted above every polling booth in the state on election day.

Mr. Roberts argues that if his bill becomes a law the state and the various cities will have a better class of lawmakers. He says that the sight of an American flag waving over the voting booths will inspire the voters with pure patriotism, and thus they will cast their ballots only for men who are good and true.

New Buffalo Charter Bill.

Few of the legislators from Erie county are in favor of the Davis bill, which provides for a new charter for the city of Buffalo. The Davis bill provides for the Des Moines system of government, which places much of the power of the office of mayor in the hands of a commission.

was of the uncomprehending, never-say-die kind, the kind that you need most when you have a bad cold, cough or lung disease. Suppose, cough, cough, cough, and liver oil or doctors have all failed, don't lose heart or hope. Take Dr. King's New Discovery. Satisfaction is guaranteed when used for any throat or lung trouble. It has saved thousands of hopeless sufferers. It masters stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, hemorrhages, la grippe, croup, asthma, hay fever and whooping cough and is the most safe and certain remedy for all bronchial affections. 50c, $1.00 Trial bottle free at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

A Circular Rainbow.

A member of a party who made an ascent of Flinstershorn some years ago thus described a novel sight which delighted the tired climbers: The day we mounted the Flinstershorn we were treated to the rare sight of a circular rainbow, the phenomenon lasting nearly half an hour and forming a complete circle. There were heavy clouds lying some 4,000 feet below on the Aar glacier, and it was on these that the beautiful, brilliantly colored ring lay. A second circle was also visible. We were near the summit of the peak when the first of the party observed it, and from that point the face of the mountain on the grim side to almost perpendicular, giving us a splendid view.

THOSE PIES OF BOYHOOD.

How delicious were the pies of boyhood. No pies now ever taste so good. What's changed? The pies? No; you. You've lost the strong, healthy stomach, the vigorous liver, the active kidneys, the regular bowels of boyhood. Your digestion is poor and you blame the food. What's needed? A complete toning up by Electric Bitters of all the organs of digestion—Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bowels—Try them. They'll restore your boyhood appetite and appreciation of food and fairly saturate your body with new health, strength and vigor. 50c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

First Words of the Phonograph.

When Edison was at work on his first phonograph, it is said, he was much surprised at any one when the thing actually talked. It appears that the inventor had been working on some new variety of telephone receivers when he was led to put a piece of tin foil on a cylinder. It recorded sound, and Edison was convinced that the human voice could be reproduced and made an actual record. With his mind on mechanical details, absent-mindedly tested his contrivance with the familiar phrase "Mary had a little lamb." Accordingly this bit of nursery jargon has gone down into history as the first words ever reproduced by the phonograph.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy never disappoints those who use it for obstinate coughs, colds and irritations of the throat and lungs. It stands unrivalled as a remedy for all throat and lung diseases. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Awful.

Mrs. Newlywed (weeping)—Henry, I am sure I have grounds for divorce. I am positive that you have deceived me. Mr. Newlywed—What in the world do you mean? What have I done to arouse such a suspicion? Mrs. Newlywed (weeping harder)—I saw a memorandum in your pocket this morning to—buy some new ribbons for your typewriter.—Judge.

War Humor.

One of the first fruits of the victory at Waterloo was to cover the roads of England with honors and decorations and the people with taxes. Great distress followed, and riots were frequent. In the year of the reform bill a mob broke into Downing street and approached the sentry stationed at the door of the foreign office, crying: "Liberty or death!"

The sentry lowered his musket. "My lady," said he, "I know nothing about liberty, but if you come a step farther I'll show you what death is!" There were "iron" soldiers as well as an "iron" duke in those troublous days, and humor was a trifle grim and harsh.—London Spectator.

His Party.

Stella—Is the duke a Liberal? Bella—Well, his wife's father will have to be.—New York Sun.

WHEN YOU'RE AS HOARSE AS A CROW.

When you're coughing and gasping. When you're an old-fashioned deep-seated cold, take Allen's Lung Balm. Sold by all druggists, 25c, 50c, and $1 bottles, 1-12.

The Early Methodist Preacher.

In England the early Methodist preacher when away from home was expected to get his food from his congregation and when at home was allowed 30 cents a day, with the stipulation that the acceptance of an invitation to dine led to a due deduction. His wife was allowed 90 cents a week, with a further concession of 25 a quarter for each child. At the Bristol conference of 1762, however, a definite salary was fixed. For the future the preacher was able to call $80 a year his very own.—Chicago News.

A STROKE OF FORTUNE

The Bit of Good Luck That Overtook Barney O'Connor.

WEALTH THRUST UPON HIM.

The Victor That Called to See the Man Who Had Been Injured—The Sight That Greeted Him and the Happy Proposition He Handed Out.

Several years ago two brothers named McDonald were in business in Halsted street. Among the habitués of their establishment was a man named O'Connor. A man named Anderson then was claim agent for the street railway company that connected Halsted with Chicago.

Barney O'Connor was a happy-go-lucky chap who didn't worry much about anything. He was partial to his beer, had no kib or kin to be responsible for, cared little for clothes and worked only when it was absolutely essential, which wasn't often.

McDonald Bros. liked to have Barney around on account of the wit he had brought with him from the cold sod, and so they found little tasks for him to do. One day Barney was loafing around McDonald's about half illuminated and in an extremely lazy frame of mind when they decided they wanted some goods over in the city. Barney was delegated to go after them. He stopped at the corner buffet, hoisted another one and took a car for the loop.

The car was crowded fore and aft, and Barney got on the aft. He didn't get much more than halfway on the step when there came a jolt. The crowd surged back on Barney, and he, with several others, was dumped into the street. Barney suffered worse than the rest, as he was underneath. But he wasn't hurt badly. He was knocked unconscious, but after they carried him into a store and threw cold water on him he came out of it in good shape. All that remained were a few cuts.

The conductor, however, was excited. He was new at the business, and when he took the names and addresses of the victims of the crash he got considerably balked up. Perhaps he made Barney's injuries a little more grave than they really were.

After O'Connor got over his dizziness he went on uptown and bought his stuff for the McDonalds. He also visited a drinking place on Randolph street. It was there that he learned of a clam bake that was to be held that night at a saloon on lower Halsted. Celebrations of this sort appealed to Barney, and he resolved to be on hand.

He was. They had a lovely time. Along about 12 o'clock the festivities became superfluous, and arguments arose. Barney was in the midst of these. Flaccidly followed forensic froth, and O'Connor was numbered among the slain.

How he got to his room he couldn't explain coherently. He sure was some beat up. What they didn't do to him wouldn't take long to tell. It was the completest wallowing he ever had experienced.

He slept late. When he woke up he wished he could have slept later. He found morning undesirable after an attempt or two at it, so he stayed in bed.

About 2 o'clock in the afternoon the landlord of the rooming house came up and told Barney a man wanted to see him. Scolded had Barney had visitors, and his curiosity was aroused. But it wasn't strong enough to induce him to get up. He told the landlord to have the man sent up to the room.

Anderson, out to settle early and avoid the rush, came in and took a look at Barney. He nearly fainted. "If I get out of this on less than $1,000 I'll be lucky," he told himself. Then he proceeded to business.

"It kind o' banged you up, didn't it?" he began as a feeler. He couldn't say less for he had a conscience. "Well, none," acknowledged Barney, not grasping the pertinence of the question. But realizing its truth.

"You know, a suit always involves a lot of delay and trouble, and the company has better facilities, and it's better for the plaintiff to settle."

"What are you talking about?" Barney broke in.

"Why, I'm from the street railway, and we want to see if we can't fix this up for you for getting hurt. We want to do what's right; but, of course, you understand."

Barney saw a great light. It made him forget his woes.

"Do you mean you want to pay me for falling off the car yesterday?" he asked.

"That's the idea," answered Anderson.

"Well, here I am," said Barney. "How much am I offered?"

Anderson hesitated.

"Uh—er—I think—er—how'd two fifty strike you?"

"I think it's worth at least five," he replied.

"Now, look here," explained Anderson. "If you fight this case it'll cost you at least $100 for a lawyer. You might get $300 in a trial, and still gain you might get nothing. It's always a good idea."

"D'ye mean you'll give me $250?" interrupted O'Connor, sitting up quickly despite his aches.

"That's it," replied Anderson, so fascinated by the picture of war's horrors portrayed by Barney's face that he failed to notice the surprise in his tones.

"I'll take it," said O'Connor in a hurry. "Bring it to me all in quarters."—Chicago Tribune.

The period of deepest sleep varies from 5 o'clock to 5.

NOT BURIED AT SEA.

The Humane French Boatman and the Dand Englishman.

A long expected French lugger was seen making for the roadstead, and the Lowestoft free traders were on the alert, anxiously seeking an opportunity for communicating with her crew. While they waited for a lapse of vigilance on the part of the excise men a boat was lowered from the lugger and rowed toward the shore. A curious crowd of beach men and excise men assembled to meet her, and as she came in on the crest of a roller it was observed that she contained a coffin.

The French boatman had a mournful tale to tell. On board the lugger had been an Englishman suffering from an illness which soon proved fatal. In his last moments of consciousness he had begged the captain not to bury him at sea, but to keep his body until a resting place could be found for it under the green turf of a churchyard in his native land. Sympathy with his sad fate and the knowledge that the lugger was not far from the English coast had induced the captain to consent, and now he had sent the body ashore for burial. In spite of his broken English the Frenchman's spokesman told his tale well.

Both excise men and beach men—especially the latter—loudly expressed their admiration of the captain's conduct. A parson was summoned, and in a little while a mournful procession made its way from the beach to the churchyard. Even the chief officer of the excise men was present and is said to have shed tears.

That night the local "resurrectionists" were busy, and at dawn the churchyard contained a desecrated grave. A little way inland, however, in the midst of the marshes, a smuggler's store received the addition of a coffin filled with silks and lace—"Highways and Byways in East Anglia," by W. A. Dutt.

Surprising, What Kodol Will Do

For you, when you need it. But the longer you neglect indigestion, the more you will suffer before Kodol can restore Good Digestion.

And, of course, indigestion if neglected long enough, brings on serious diseases in which Kodol cannot benefit you. Some of these there is no help for at all.

There are, in fact, very few ailments which cannot be traced directly to impure blood. And impure blood is always due to a disordered stomach.

Use Kodol and prevent Nervous Dyspepsia.

Kodol will effectively assist Nature to secure a complete restoration of good digestion. It does this by at once digesting all food in the stomach, and keeping it digested, until the stomach is rested and can resume its own work. Kodol removes the cause—and the effect quickly removes itself.

When it is recalled that Apoplexy, Heart Disease, Cancer—and even Consumption—are due to poor digestion and poisons thus transmitted to the blood, and throughout the system—the importance of maintaining good digestion is at once realized.

Our Guarantee

Go to your druggist today and get a bottle of Kodol. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you are honestly satisfied that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate. Kodol is the only medicine that guarantees to do this. This offer applies to the large bottle only and to one bottle in a family. The large bottle costs five times as

Wonderful Stories
The brain of the tortoise was once supposed to contain a wonderful stone which was efficacious in extinguishing fire. When placed under the tongue would produce prophetic inspiration. Another stone possessing the latter property was, so it was said, to be found in the eye of the hyena.

The head of the cat, however, in those ancient days was thought to contain what would undoubtedly have been the most wonderful and most desirable treasure of all could it have only had a real instead of an imaginary existence, for men who was so fortunate as to possess this precious stone would have all his wishes granted. — Chambers Journal.

His Complaint.
An elderly gentleman was expressing dissatisfaction with his son-in-law. "What can you complain of against him?" he was asked.

"He cannot play cards," said the father-in-law.

"Why, you ought to be glad that he can't play cards," said the other.

"What do you mean? Be glad?" retorted the father-in-law. "He cannot play cards, but he plays nevertheless."

Talk Killed a Bear.
"I suppose," said the barber to the man who was wearing a bear's claw on his watch chain—"I suppose you killed that bear yourself?"

"Yes, I did," was the reply.

"Was it a grizzly bear?"

"It was."

"A big one?"

"About the size of a two-year-old steer."

"Use whis! How many bullets did it take to kill him?"

"Not any at all."

"Brain him with an ax?"

"No; I talked him to death."

It took the customer fifteen minutes to get the rest of his shave, and during that time the barber didn't speak another word. — Exchange.

A Militant Statesman.
The first congressman from Missouri was John Scott of Ste. Genevieve. He was the delegate in congress from Missouri territory for four years and then served as congressman for eight years. He was noted for the eccentricity of wearing winter and summer a cloth cap that almost covered his eyes, and his pantaloons were always at least four sizes too large for him. All his life he carried under his vest on his left side a beautifully carved dirk and on the other side a pistol. — Kansas City Star.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

Is a Bad Way.
In E. V. Lucas' volume on letter writing an Indian babu is quoted to this effect: "Honorable Sir—Kindly excuse this poor letter servant from attending on your Honor's office this day as I am suffering from the well known disease commonly called ache of the interior economy, and I shall ever pray. Yours ever painful, Itam Chauder, P. E.—Oh, death, where is thy sting?"

STOMACH TROUBLE CURED.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her stability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed a remedy for women's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and builds. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

Too Risky.
In boring for oil when the drill reaches the depth where it always gas to escape every precaution is taken against igniting it lest there should be a destructive explosion. This necessary precaution gives point to the following story, told by a writer in the Pittsburgh News:

"I can deal with men," growled a grizzled oil driller, "but a woman can outdo the best of us."

"I brought in a well in Virginia right close to the kitchen door of a little farmhouse. Just as we were getting to the (kitchen) point, where smoking wasn't allowed within forty rods, out comes the farmer's wife and goes to building a big fire in a Dutch oven."

"Mebby I didn't kick, but she just showed me a batch of dough 'n' said if she didn't bake it 'twould spoil. If I wanted the fire out I had got to pay for the dough—ten dollars too. She just dared me to touch that Dutch oven, 'n' I didn't touch it either. I just gave her the ten."

"Mebby we didn't get that fire out quick. If the well had broken loose it would have blown us 'n' the whole farmhouse out of sight."

"No, sir; I don't want any more dealings with women. They're too risky."

Turkish Rubarb.
Possessing a savor all its own, we come on scores of large cases full of big, irregular blocks of a bright yellow colored root. "Rubarb," says our guide, indicating it. "Ah! Then it comes from Turkey?" we cry joyfully, glad to find our learning for once, but our friend smiles contemptuously.

"There is no such thing as Turkey rubarb," he says, "and, what is more, there never has been." All the rubarb of commerce comes from China, reaching us through Russia for the most part, but because in olden days it made its journey by way of Turkey it became known as Turkey rubarb, and Turkey rubarb it will remain. — London Telegraph.

DIED.

Mrs. Harriet Rice, widow of the late Alfred Rice, passed away Sunday evening after a brief illness. The deceased was born in the Town of Mentz, Cayuga county, eighty-three years ago. She has resided in Hannibal for forty-three years. Her life was marked by strong and helpful traits of character, which made her a valued member of the community in which she lived. Unselfish and charitable, she was ever prompt to aid those in need or distress and her counsel and advice was sought by those whose acquaintance with her caused them to depend upon her judgement. The deceased was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, in which she was an untiring and devoted worker. There are left surviving her son, Ernest W. Rice of this village, and one daughter, Mrs. Dr. Plumb of Red Creek. The funeral services were held at 2:30 on Wednesday p. m. Rev. W. A. McKenzie officiating. Interment at Hannibal.

THE RIGHT AND WRONG WAY TO BURN COKE

KEEP THE FIRE POT FULL AND THE DRAFTS CLOSED. When all is said and done, that is the simple secret of successfully burning Genuine Gas Coke. It is the general rule for the general run of furnaces. Every man must study the peculiarities of his own furnace to get best results, whether he burns coal or coke.

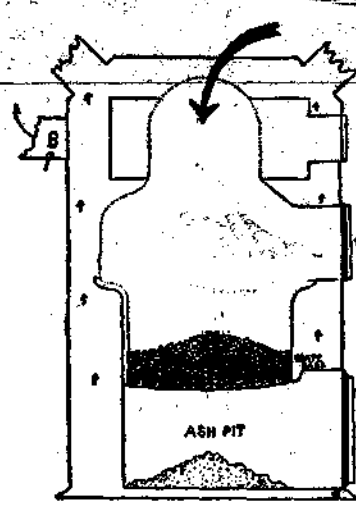

THE RIGHT WAY

The illustrations above give a clear idea of the right and the wrong way to burn coke and incidentally, the wrong way to burn coke is the ONLY way in which COAL can be burned, for its weight makes it IMPOSSIBLE to keep the same body of fire that you can with lighter, more bulky coke.

Now, Coke excels just at this point. You can fill up the fire pot with it, and thus the ENTIRE SURFACE OF THE FIRE POT becomes intensely hot, and in turn quickly changes the cold air in the air chamber around the fire pot into hot air, upon which you draw at will from your registers.

Contrast this with the average coal furnace, pictured on the right. Note that only a small part of the surface of the fire pot comes into direct contact with the fuel body. Therefore the only way the sides of the pot can be heated is by the hot gases on their way to the chimney, a large portion of which heat goes up the chimney and is wasted.

Some people have burned coke in this way, and have been dissatisfied. There could be no other result. But, let them burn Genuine Gas Coke as per the illustration at the left and they will be pleased.

Remember! Our Coke Expert is always at your command, absolutely free of charge, to assist you in every possible way.

Preaching services were held at the church here Sunday, Jan. 23, the first for some time on account of the weather.

MT. PLEASANT.

The Band Concert was well attended considering the roads and weather, and those who heard it felt well repaid for their trouble.

Charles Rowlee lost a valuable horse recently.

Mrs. Abby Lamb is critically ill at her home here.

Mrs. Mattie Barker spent Tuesday in Syracuse.

Mrs. Charles Osborne was called to Syracuse, Sunday, by the illness of her mother.

The Up-To-Date held a banquet at the hall last evening.

FEVER SORES.

Fever sores and old chronic sores should not be heated entirely, but should be kept in a healthy condition. This can be done by applying Chamberlain's Salve. This salve has no superior for this purpose. It is also most excellent for chapped hands, sore nipples, burns and diseases of the skin. For sale by E. A. Putnam.

MEN'S CHRISTIAN LEAGUE ORGANIZED

For Betterment of Fulton—Constitution Adopted—Officers Elected and Committees Chosen.

Last Wednesday evening, Jan. 26, there was a meeting of the men of the various churches of Fulton in the Presbyterian church, at which time an organization was effected that bears the name of the Men's Christian League of Fulton. The meeting was called to order by Mr. W. M. Dunham. Mr. John Hunter was chosen as chairman of the meeting, and Mr. Charles D. Wilcox was appointed secretary. A committee chosen prior to the time of this meeting made its report on constitution. Rev. W. L. Sawtelle presented this report and on a motion to adopt, the matter was open for discussion. At this point Mr. Harvey E. Dingley of Syracuse, the National President of the Brotherhood of the Methodist Episcopal church, was introduced and gave a splendid address on the things that should be attempted in, and for the city by the men of the churches. Mr. Dingley was in deep earnest, and his address was full of intense and spiritual strength. The address gave a strong impulse to the newly made organization.

Upon the adoption of the constitution a nominating committee was named, and as they retired to their duties the chairman conducted an "open parliament." Mr. A. W. Witsie, Prof. L. Dudley Wilcox, Mr. Almon Bristol, Mr. J. H. Howe and Mr. E. R. Redhead were called to speak extemporaneously on the various things that might be effected by this organization.

The committee on nominations offered the following names and the unanimous election of the nominees was made. President, Mr. Charles D. Wilcox; vice-president, Mr. William H. Klein; secretary, Mr. A. Lewis Rice; treasurer, Mr. C. W. Streeter. The executive committee was then formed of the above named officers, and three members elected at large, viz., Messrs W. L. Sawtelle, A. Z. Wolever and W. D. Hannum.

The object of the league as defined by an article of the constitution is "to encourage the growth of Christian fellowship, to conserve the best moral interests of the city, to co-operate in the enforcement of law and the suppression of vice, to seek the development of civic righteousness and to promote the social welfare of our citizens."

The Executive Committee has named six standing committees as follows: Membership committee, whose chief duty shall be to enroll men as members of the League. Any man who is in sympathy with the purposes of the League is eligible for membership and becomes a member by enrolling his name; City Mission Committee, whose duties shall be to take up the matter of the disposition and use of Grace Chapel, to devise and provide religious and social work among the foreign-speaking people of the city, to discuss the advisability of securing a city missionary, and to work out kindred problems connected with the religious interests of our city; Humane Society committee, to co-operate with and assist in the work of the local humane society; Law Enforcement committee, to co-operate with the Mayor and other city officials in the work of enforcing existing laws; Christian Association committee, whose duty it shall be to study the needs of the young men and young women of Fulton, and to seek to meet such needs so far as the religious sympathy and financial ability of our citizens will permit, and to supplement the work of our churches in the effort to exert a Christian influence upon the youth of the city; and a Finance committee whose work is clearly defined by its name.

There has been an idea prevalent among some of our citizens that this organization was simply a Law and Order League, whose function it would be to step in and show our city officials how to run the city. It is hoped that the readers of this article will see that the spirit of the Men's Christian League is infinitely truer to the constructive interests of Fulton. The committee are to face new problems, to undertake new things, and the motive and purpose of the organization should make a strong and legitimate appeal to the fair minded men who love their city.

POWER TRANSMISSION.

Albany, Jan. 29.—The Public Service Commission, Second district, has authorized the Oswego Power Transmission company to execute and deliver its mortgage in the sum of $100,000, securing five per cent. twenty year bonds for like amount. To issue presently $100,000 of bonds to be sold at not less than eighty five. The proceeds of the bonds now authorized are to be used for the payment of outstanding obligations to the amount of $30,647.02 and for new construction work to the amount of $21,831. The new construction includes substation site at Baldwinsville, pole line from Baldwinsville to Phoenix, completion of line from Baldwinsville to Oswego; substation building at Fulton, reconstructing building at Phoenix and sundry equipment.

ELECTRICITY MATTERS.

Mr. M. S. Powell informs The Times that the decision of the Public Service Commission, published in another column in The Times, removes all doubt as to Niagara power coming into Fulton and within the near future. That within a week the power will be available at the new North End Paper companies mill, 150 horse power having been contracted for, and that power will also soon be available to Fulton manufacturers. The power for the North End Paper company will be brought from Baldwinsville until such a time as it can be secured from the Fulton end of the line. There seems a wide difference of opinion regarding this matter of the decision of the Commission, many contending that the decision only grants to the Oswego River Power Transmission company the right to issue bonds to pay indebtedness already contracted and which can be done only providing they find a purchaser.

ELKS' FAIR A SUCCESS.

The fair in progress in the Elks home in First street, is proving a great success and large crowds are in nightly attendance. The country grocery, under the management of Mr. Orya Bogardus, the bird booth and the spun glass booth are most attractive and the dimes are pouring into the coffers of the E. P. O. E., from these various sources. Every evening there is a different program and good music is in attendance, so that one may go every night and still find new entertainment. The special prize is to be $100 in gold.

JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY COMING

Lecture on "The Misfortunes of Mickey" at Methodist Church next Wednesday Evening.

The final number of the Public Library course will be held in the First M. E. church on Wednesday evening, Feb. 3, and it is expected that the church will be filled.

It is very rarely indeed that Judge Lindsey is secured for Fulton. His autobiography now running in Everybody's Magazine treats of his struggles against the political ring at Denver as well as of his juvenile court work. While the Judge has become a national figure in his struggles against political ring rule, his juvenile court work in Denver has made him known throughout the civilized world and it is along this line that his lecture which he calls "The Misfortunes of Mickey" chiefly treats.

Single admission tickets have been placed at 50c for two reasons:

FIRST, that all may have an opportunity to hear him.

SECOND, that the deficit of about $60 may be met by this lecture.

These tickets at 50c each are now on sale at Lasher's.

MR. PARSONS APPOINTED.

Washington, Jan. 31.—The President today sent this nomination to the Senate: Collector of Customs for the District of Oswego, N. Y., John S. Parsons.

The above Associated Press dispatch brought pleasure to the many friends of Mr. Parsons throughout this section of the State. Mr. Parsons has always been a prime favorite in Fulton and he is receiving hearty congratulations from his friends here. He was born in Oswego and has never been long away from the city of his nativity. He has been an ardent, loyal Republican since his first vote and he has been honored by his party with elective and appointive offices prior to this appointment. He has been for several years successfully engaged in the ship chandlery business.

Mr. J. H. Cooper, the present Collector, and who will on account of his long and satisfactory service be retained in the position until April 1, has held the Collectorship for twelve years, or three terms. His tenure has been marked by strict attention to duty and by unfailing courtesy to patrons.

Mr. Parsons was recommended for the position by State Committeeman John T. Mott, Congressman Knapp, Senators Depew and Root. There will be no changes in the office force, the incumbents being all protected by Civil Service rules. The position is worth $3,000 a year, and the term is for four years. During that time Mr. Parsons will have charge of the offices in Oswego, Port Ontario, Fair Haven, Sodus Point and the bonded warehouse at Utica.

Judge Lindsey at the First M. E. church on Wednesday evening, Feb. 3. Don't miss it!

BILL APPROVING STATE SEALER.

Senator Cobb has introduced a bill providing for a State superintendent of weights and measures and abolishing the town sealers and the fee system. A similar bill has been introduced in the assembly by Assemblyman Merritt.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

Gertrude Stacy, my wife, has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation and I hereby forbid any person or persons from trusting her or harboring her on my account, as I shall pay no bills of her contracting.

Era Stacy,

Dated, Fulton, N. Y., Feb. 1, 1910.

"No better or more over present means of making information readily acceptable at all times and to all people has ever been discovered than the local newspaper, which can always be found in every house and nearly every place of business."—By the Public Service Commission, Second district, New York State.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS CHANGE.

Monday Mr. George Pomphrey decided to the fruit, confectionery and tobacco business which has been conducted very successfully for the last fifteen years by Mr. A. DeBarber. Mr. Pomphrey contemplates re-opening the store, installing modern fixtures, a new hardwood floor, new partitions, and he will continue to carry an unexcelled stock of the various lines always carried by Mr. DeBarber, besides adding other lines as demand may warrant.

Mr. Pomphrey has been manager of the Theatorium since its inception, and is deservedly popular with the public, having always been most courteous and accommodating to all whom he has come in contact. It is a safe guess that he will not abandon the trade, but he will augment a large number of his own and that he will be very helpful in his new venture.

John Pomphrey will take his father's interest in the Theatorium, and will also continue as soloist.

DeBarber, who has never enjoyed a days vacation from business, is coming to Fulton, is contemplating a recreation and business trip to the Pacific slope in the near future.

STATE GRANGE MEETING.

The State grange is in session in Watertown, to conclude on Friday. The emblem of the granges is an ear of corn. There is a goodly attendance, perhaps 100 from Oswego county.

There are thirteen delegates from this county as follows: S. C. Huntington, Pulaaki, chairman; Mrs. Amelie Rice, Volney; F. E. Alexander, Gayville; Mrs. F. R. Jones, Lacrosse; H. J. Bettinger, Paris; Mrs. F. J. Burd, Pennellville; C. S. Lockwood, Hamlet; Mrs. Neva Tice, Oswego; T. W. A. Seymour, Volney; W. C. Shepard, Granby; Mrs. Jennie B. Rott, Scriba; Mrs. O. A. Klipp, Hamlet; D. Jackson, Albion. These delegates were chosen at a meeting of the Oswego county grange.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS.

Instructions Concerning the Test for Census Enumerators—Examinations in High School Building.

At least sixty will engage in the test for the position of Census Enumerator in this city on Saturday, Feb. 5, at the High School building, beginning at 10 a. m. Candidates will be present from all the surrounding towns; Volney, Palermo, Schroepel, Granby, Constantia, West Monroe and also from the several wards in Fulton.

The examination will be held under the supervision of the secretary of the Civil Service Board of this city, Miss E. Fassell. As no expense can be incurred in examination, it is not regarded as probable that assistance from other members of the Board can be procured.

Cards of admission will be issued to the applicants under the hand of the Supervisor of the Census, and only those persons who have cards of admission can be admitted to the test.

When properly seated in the room they will be informed that the instructions should be carefully read before beginning work on the test; that there must be no conversation or communication after the work on the test has begun; that the entire test must be completed within three hours; that no candidates will be allowed to leave the room until he has completed the test or wishes to abandon it; that all work on the test must be done in ink; that no information as to how the test schedule should be filled out other than the printed instructions can be given.

When ready to begin the test each candidate must note the exact time of commencing in the proper space at the head of the sheet.

When a candidate has finished and wishes to hand in his paper, he should note in the proper space on the sheet the exact time of finishing; he should also complete the certificate on the back of the test schedule and the examiner will also sign the certificate which is provided for that purpose on the back of the schedule.

No candidate shall be permitted to handle his paper after he has turned them in, nor shall any candidate be allowed to handle the paper of any other.

Under no circumstances shall anyone be allowed to copy any of the questions or items on the schedules, or take from the room any paper used in the test.

Should newspaper men, or other citizens, visit the room during the progress of the test, they should be shown every courtesy, and given, if desired, information concerning the number of candidates, but under no circumstances should they engage in extended conversation, or look over any of the test papers.

Attention is invited to the following provision of law:

That any person in the public service, who shall willfully and corruptly, by himself or in cooperation with one or more persons, defeat, deceive, or obstruct any person in respect of his or her right of examination according to any such rules or regulations, or who shall willfully, corruptly, and falsely mark, grade, estimate, or report upon the examination or proper standing of any person examined hereunder, or aid in so doing, or who shall willfully and corruptly make any false representation concerning the same or concerning the person examined, or who shall willfully and corruptly furnish to any person any special or secret information for the purpose of either improving or injuring the prospects or chances of any person so examined, or to be examined, being appointed, employed, or promoted, shall for each such offense be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars, nor more than one thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not less than ten days, nor more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

ATTORNEY W. B. BAKER.

Associates in Oswego Part With Him Him Regretfully—Goes To a Wider Field of Usefulness.

The Oswego County Bar Association and friends to the number of about fifty, gathered at the Grill Danio on Monday evening to tender a farewell to ex-District Attorney W. B. Baker, who left on Tuesday for Gloversville, to become the junior partner in the law firm of Baker, Burton & Baker, one of the best known legal firms in that section of the State, and the firm with which Mr. Baker read law prior to his graduation.

Ex-Assemblyman F. O. Whitney

is a friend of a political leader, and he expressed the keenest regret at his decision to remove from Oswego county.

Around the banquet table were seated: Attorneys Thomas L. McKay, W. E. Lewis, E. E. Frost, H. C. Mize, Howard Stone, B. Coe Turner, E. A. Barnes, D. P. Morehouse, Jr., Assistant District Attorney Don A. Colony, H. M. Stacy, T. A. Ball, S. F. Wright, H. R. Carrier, W. S. Hillick, W. Gallagher, Spencer Brownell, J. T. Clark, N. S. Bentley, Dr. C. S. Albertson, H. D. Coville, I. G. Hubbs, J. B. Alexander, L. L. Sherman, C. I. Miller, H. L. Rowe, N. B. Smith, F. J. Davis, James Gallagher, C. E. Pitts, H. A. Jones, R. B. Simons, G. W. Johnson, E. H. Foley, Joseph H. Gill, E. J. Mizen, Joseph McCaffrey, John Henry, Francis E. Cullen, John R. Pidgeon and Albert Howard.

Mr. Baker expressed deep regret at leaving his many friends in his home county, and said that among his brightest memories would remain his home county and the friends he was leaving.

Equitable-Standard-Policy

Do you know that the EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES issues a policy which, at maturity, instead of being paid to the beneficiary in one lump sum, provides a monthly income for life? It is called a LIFE INCOME POLICY, and is well worth investigation.

Do you know that the Society has introduced a new policy of this kind, which provides a life-income not only for a man's wife or daughter, in the event of his death, but for his own support in after life, if he lives?

It works either way. It will protect you if you live. It protects your wife if you die. And if you both live, it protects you both.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dizziness, around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling, mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not irritate the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper function. So give and receive the benefit that only Chamberlain's Tablets can give. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion, constipation and dizziness. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents.

INVESTIGATIONS NOW IN FASHION

Resolutions Asking For Inquiry
Numerous In Legislature

ONE TO AIM AT WALL STREET.

State Commissioner of Agriculture R. A. Pearson Recites That Most Inspection of State Should Be More Thorough—Insurgent Senators Object to Mode of Senate Procedure in Trying Conger-Alida Charges—New Talks on "Black Horse Cavalry."

[Special Correspondence.] Albany, Feb. 2.—Investigations seem to be the latest fashion at the capital. If you have not a resolution on your sleeve providing for a state inquiry of one description or another, you are not in style should you happen to be a member of either the senate or assembly.

Undoubtedly when the present legislative year goes down into history it will be known as the "year of investigations," or at least as "the year of attempted investigations."

New Inquiries Proposed.

In spite of the fact that the legislature now has four especially created commissions looking into various conditions, at least a half dozen other commissions are suggested in new measures now before either house, or both of them, and at least two investigating commissions are called for in resolutions already drawn, but not yet introduced. The four legislative commissions now in existence are those investigating the telephone and telegraph companies, the question of direct nominations, the condition of the unemployed and also the New York city charter commission, which last week reported against the provisions of the suggested living charter. The committees provided for by the new resolutions introduced are as follows:

For investigation into the causes of the increased cost of living.

For investigation into the question of the existence of a meat trust.

For investigation into the question of the existence of a fire insurance combine to increase the cost of fire insurance.

Other Proposed Commissions.

The commissions demanded in resolutions ready for introduction are as follows:

For an inquiry into the methods of stock exchanges, stockbrokers and company promoters.

For an inquiry into the question of the existence of a milk trust.

For an inquiry into the practices of money lenders (so called "loan sharks") and pawnbrokers.

It is also deemed probable that the Voss measure of a year ago, providing for an investigation of the Sunday laws of the state, will be again introduced this year.

For Proper Meat Inspection.

R. A. Pearson, state agricultural commissioner, recommends to the legislature that laws be enacted to provide for a proper surveillance of abattoirs within this state and interstate traffic in meat.

The commissioner says that practically the only inspected meat sold in this state is the product of abattoirs enjoying federal protection. Limiting the inspection to those plants doing an interstate business. Some of the live stock which would not be accepted at such plants is killed, and the meat is sold wholly within this state. The federal meat inspection service, the proportional cost of which is borne by the people of New York state, being about $300,000 per annum, does not, he says, serve to fully protect the markets of this state against unwholesome meat and does serve to give an advantage to live stock interests of other states that desire to market their products in New York state.

Milk and Dairy Inspection.

Mr. Pearson also recommends that an amendment be made to the law so as to make more efficient the prohibition relative to the unnecessary cruelty in the shipment of immature calves. The increasing demand for milk and dairy inspection leads the commissioner to remark, "An investigation of conditions in the vicinity of seven different cities shows that great improvements can be made along the lines indicated."

During the period Jan. 1, 1907, to May 1, 1909, there were forty-five deaths of persons in New York city alone from rabies, and, commenting on these figures and the conditions now existing, the commissioner says that rabies has increased to an alarming extent, a large number of horses, cows, sheep and swine having died as the result of the bites of rabid dogs, and he calls upon sheriffs to enforce quarantines where they have been placed.

The department successfully coped with the foot and mouth disease and the brown tail moth during the past season, saving the farmers enormous sums.

Kept Attorney General Busy.

The commissioner referred 1,241 cases for prosecution to the attorney general during the year.

Of these 600 were for violations of the law relative to dairy products and imitations of them.

A large quantity of oleomargarine is being sold throughout the state. For flourishing the agricultural products collected in 1909 over $50,000, an increase of about 50 per cent over the previous year.

Besides this, the agricultural department turned into the state treasury last year $28,200 as license fees for the sale of fertilizers and commercial feeding stuffs and about $16,000 from other sources.

Object to Mode of Trying Alida Case.

Several members of the senate are displeased because the investigation of the Conger bribery charges against Senator Jetham P. Alida, majority leader, are to be tried by the senate sitting as the committee of the whole. The senators so expressing themselves are those who have become known as the "insurgents," by reason of boiling the "Republican caucus in Albany on the night of Jan. 4. It was on that night that Alida was chosen to be the party candidate for president pro tem. of the senate.

One of the Republican insurgents, Senator George B. Agnew, introducer of Governor Hughes' anti race track bill in the upper house two years ago, has the following to say in opposition to the "committee of the whole" plan: "I was one of those who wanted the thing to be thrashed out in a special committee," said he. "But all those citizens with whom I have discussed the subject seem to favor the more open hearing decided upon. The senators, on their part, think the proceeding will make a better public impression."

"Will Be a Mass Meeting."

"It seems to me, though, it will be like hearing a case in mass meeting. It can't be an orderly procedure, and to be thorough it must take three or four weeks, the regular business of the senate suffering greatly in the meantime."

"Do you think," he was asked, "that the legislature is on a higher plane morally than in 1901, when, according to Senator Conger, the alleged bribery episode occurred?"

"Yes, I do. I think we are all getting better. I'm an optimist. I can see no signs of the activity of the 'Black Horse Cavalry' in Albany today. The change for the better came about in 1903."

"As for the legislation advocated by the governor, the investigation probably won't have any effect one way or another."

To Conduct Alida Inquiry.

It has been officially announced that Senator George A. Davis, chairman of the judiciary committee and the oldest Republican member of the senate in point of service, will preside at the investigation which the senate in committee of the whole will make into the Alida-Conger bribery charges.

In the absence of Lieutenant Governor Whitford Senator Alida, president pro tem, Senator Davis is now the presiding officer of the senate. The revised senate rules make the presiding officer the chairman of the committee of the whole when charges against a member of the senate are investigated. Senators Edgar T. Brackett and Harvey D. Hinman had been mentioned for the position of chairman of the investigating committee, but as both were at the meeting at which Senator Conger is reported to have made the charge against Senator Alida they may be called as witnesses.

"It will not be an agreeable task to preside over or participate in the investigation," Senator Davis said.

"Many of the members prefer to remain away from Albany until the affair is settled. But to perform such tasks as this is a matter of duty. There must be a thorough inquiry, and the public must have the whole truth."

New State Medical Officers.

At the recent meeting in Albany of the State Medical association the following officers were elected:

President, Charles Jewett, Brooklyn;

first vice president, Charles Stover, Amsterdam;

second vice president, J. Grosvenor, Buffalo;

third vice president, C. W. Brown, Elmira;

secretary, Wisner R. Townsend, New York; and treasurer, Alexander Lambert, New York.

Senator Hamilton an Auto Authority.

Senator Charles M. Hamilton of Ripley, Chautauque county, while probably the handsomest man in the upper house, is an automobilist of note. The members of the senate naturally turn to the senator from the Fifty-first district for advice when a measure affecting automobiles is up for consideration.

When the present session of the legislature closes Senator Hamilton plans to go on an auto trip through Egypt—that is to say, through such parts as are not impassable for motorists.

If ex-President Roosevelt has not left the African continent at the time Senator Hamilton arrives there it is certain that the two will meet, and Mr. Hamilton will thus be the first man from his native state to greet the ex-president and give him the latest political news.

Perkins, Anti Race Track Leader.

Assemblyman Harry C. Perkins of Binghamton is the new leading anti race track legislator in the lower house.

Perkins is sponsor for the measure abolishing cral betting at race tracks as advocated by Governor Hughes in his last annual message. Perkins has been a member of the codes committee for three years, the committee which has control of all race track legislation, and at the capital is looked on as a reformer of the most pronounced type.

"The Purest of the Pure."

He is a forcible speaker, having a strong, resonating voice, and a year ago, in the closing days of the session, made a long address in favor of prohibition legislation. Some of his friends in the legislature have given him the following alternative appellations:

"Prince Perkins, Purest of the Pure."

CORRESPONDENCE.

Editor Times.—Of course you want to know by this time how San Diego is getting along with her project for an Exposition in 1915. They asked for a million dollars from the people of the city and already have almost $700,000;

there is a long list of subscribers every night as the shares are ten dollars each and all amounts have been taken from one to several thousand at a time.

Children are taking single shares and paying for them by the week out of their allowance for pocket money. San Diego asked for a day at the Aviation meet in Los Angeles last week at that time hundreds went up there and from all accounts scattered 1915 buttons and ideas about the Exposition to every state of the Union and more. Mr. J.

Hamilton to come down here with his biplane, in which he did so well at Los Angeles, for a three days showing. As the grounds and part of even the trolley receipts (40 per cent) were to be given to the Exposition fund, it will probably net that committee quite a nice sum.

There certainly is a marvelous fascination in seeing that machine, that measures more than a street car and though of much lighter construction is still far heavier than the air. He starts his aeroplane along the course of the race track and then simply begins to rise as easily as a bird. He does not incline the machine nearly as much as the grade he is making but is soon way up if he chooses; he seemingly makes marvelous speed when on a straight course as when he looks his flight down into Mexico and back, going about level with the tops of the lower mountains until we lost him as you would a bird that goes beyond your vision; after awhile the speck appeared again and upon we could see that it was the "man bird" he circles around and turns his machine back and forth as easily as I ever saw the drivers on the Fulton Fair go drive back and forth to show off a fine team, seemingly just as easy to manage.

The third day he took several gentlemen and ladies also for a short spin, of course he takes but one at a time. One trip he made the weight of himself and passenger was 350 pounds. I shall expect the up-to-date management of the

THE FULTON TIMES

Entered as second class matter, April 12, 1886 at the postoffice at Fulton, New York, under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

E. K. HUGHES, Editor
W. E. HUGHES, Proprietor

Issued Every Wednesday at No. 68 South First Street, Fulton, N. Y.

Official Paper of City of Fulton.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1910.

The opposition to the President's plan for the establishment of Postal Savings Banks is rapidly diminishing.

The snow, the snow, the beautiful snow, we'll be glad when we don't have to shovel you so.

Barth the English lords and the liberals announce themselves "satisfied" with the result of the elections "so far." From this we infer that it looks pretty squally all around.

In an address which Governor Hughes delivered during the recent conference of the governors in Washington he discussed the relative responsibilities of the State governments and the National governments. He agreed with President Taft that there must be "team-work" between State and National governments to assure the accomplishment of desirable results in government. He declared that national activities inevitably will widen but that the future prosperity of the country must largely depend upon the efficiency of State governments. These annual consultations, he believes, should be conducive to the bringing about of uniformity of State laws and that in cases where absolute uniformity may not be expected causes of friction may be avoided by comity of action. He declared that the "significance of this conference lies in our recognition of the fact that to make our system of government answer its intended purposes we must encourage the development of State comity without the loss of State prerogative." Here, he said, are forty-six commonwealths dealing with substantially the same problems of government, and he argued that from the interchange of views should be evolved not merely a nearer approach to uniform legislation and a better system of interstate comity, but, with respect to governmental machinery there should be devised the best State government possible.

As on numerous former occasions when internal strife threatened to temporarily disrupt the Republican party some strong man has arisen who was able to command peace. Thus in what promised to be a disastrous situation, when regulars and insurgents were struggling with might and main against each other, President Taft appeared in the field of strife and presented a treaty of peace which was eagerly signed by the combatants. From now on the internal struggles will ease until the President's legislative programme has been enacted and the party has a firm platform upon which to stand before the country in the coming Congressional elections.

COMMON COUNCIL.

The regular session of the Common Council was held last evening, with the following responded to their names as called by George B. Deuel, clerk pro tem: Mayor Connors and Aldermen Palmer, Smith, Johnson, Newton and Wolcott.

The minutes of the previous session, as they appeared in the official paper, were approved.

Alderman Smith called the attention of the Board to the necessity of securing a suitable place in the Fourth Ward in which to hold primaries and for election purposes. He stated that the basement of the Universalist Church was no longer available for that purpose. This matter was referred to the proper committee by Mayor Connors.

John W. Distin, commander of Post Schenck, asked that $200 be placed to his credit to augment the fund used to aid the families of indigent soldiers. Action was deferred until the next meeting of the Board.

The following bills were audited and ordered paid: Herman Reese, $5; Whitaker & Lovejoy, $216.70; F. J. MacNamara, $54.46; P. T. Conley, $18; Chas. E. Lockrow, $18; Harry Allen, $18.

Poor Fund: R. B. Carhart, $7.99; St. Francis Home, Oswego, $6.64; Cash-Papworth, $5.27; Clint Nichols, $1.68; J. H. Brooks, $4.43.

The bonds filed by George B. Deuel, city chamberlain; William MacNamara, city clerk; Stephen Martin, superintendent of Public Works, and W. D. Ferguson, Commissioner of Charity, were approved.

The report of the treasurer of the Board of Governors of the Fulton City Hospital for 1909 was received and placed on file.

The Board adjourned until Thursday evening, Feb. 3, at 8 o'clock.

OSWEGO COUNTY

FAIR MEETING.

There was a fair attendance at the adjourned annual meeting of the Oswego County Fair Association, Monday afternoon. The report of the treasurer showed the society in a very satisfactory condition. The receipts from admissions were larger at the last fair than ever before, and it was the opinion that if the trolley company would make proper concessions in fare the attendance would be very largely increased. The following directors were elected for the ensuing three years: John O'Brien, Phoenix; Eugene DeLong, Clay; N. A. Hughes, Phoenix; W. W. Spencer, Penningtonville. A. I. Melvin and C. E. Candee were elected inspectors of election for the ensuing year. The meeting of the board of directors for the election of officers was adjourned to Saturday, February 5th, at 2 o'clock.

In his remarks before the meeting President O'Brien stated that a bill would be introduced by Assemblyman of this county for the protection of agricultural societies in negligence cases— one against the local society being on the calendar of the present term of court at Oswego. The bill will compel all persons who are injured on fair grounds in the State to serve a written notice on the society within sixty days of their intention to bring suit for damages and the same must be commenced within one year from date of injury in order to maintain an action against a society.—Phoenix Register.

USE OF CONCRETE.

Concrete is displacing the barrel as a protection for springs on the farm. It never rots, it protects the spring, and keeps the water free from surface impurities.

A young farmer recently invented an ingenious device for making concrete water barrels. He took two wooden barrels of different sizes, knocked the heads out of both, put the smaller in side the larger, and filled the space between them with concrete, and a concrete barrel was the result.

This would be a good thing to show at the Chicago Cement Show, which is to be given in the Coliseum, February 18-26, 1910, for if it could be put before such gardeners and others using small stationary water supplies, it would probably assist them materially.

Draper was the first to cut prices on groceries, jewelry and crockery. You can save 10 per cent on groceries and 20 per cent on crockery at No. 11 South First street. Bring your jelly coupons.

DEATHS.

Ruth Elizabeth, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Martin, died on Monday at the hospital. The funeral services will be held from the home, No. 607 Hannibal street, on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Rebecca Mirsky, aged 51, died at her home in North Third street on Tuesday after a six years' residence in this city. Undertaker E. S. Brown took the remains to Syracuse on Tuesday afternoon where the funeral will be held. The husband and six children survive.

The death of Harry B. Barnshaw, aged 66, occurred at the Syracuse hospital on Tuesday, following an operation for cancer. The deceased was born in England but had resided in this country for 45 years. He had been a valued employee in the Oster Bros. & Chittillon knife works for several years and the firm and employees sent a magnificent floral piece as a token of their appreciation of the deceased as a man and an associate. The remains were brought to this city from where the funeral services were held on Friday. The immediate survivors are the widow and one daughter.

The death of Mrs. Emily A. Hotchkiss, aged 73, occurred at her home in Volney, three miles south of Fulton, on Tuesday, Jan. 26, after 14 months of suffering patiently born. The deceased was born in Bolton, Warren County, N. Y., where she resided until she was five years of age when she with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett, removed from that place to Fulton, and she resided for 68 years in the home from which she was carried by sorrowful friends on Friday. The funeral services were largely attended, the many floral offerings attesting to the high esteem in which she was held by all who knew her. The immediate survivors are three sons, William of Canastota; D. F. and Clinton, and two daughters, Mrs. B. B. Ingamells and Mrs. Frank Carrier, and one niece, Mrs. J. H. Johnson, all of this city.

CARD OF THANKS.

The children of the late Mrs. Emily Hotchkiss desire to thank their friends for the many kindnesses shown their mother during her illness, and for the beautiful flowers sent to the funeral, also to express their appreciation of the services of the nurse, Mrs. Housner, who attended her in her late sickness.

OSWEGO DEEPLY INTERESTED.

The idea that some of the interests in Fulton are laying plans to close the Oswego canal this coming season is not being looked upon with favor by the people of this city. The work of preparing to close the canal has been going on very quietly and nothing was known definitely about such a plan until yesterday noon. The meeting of the Chamber of Commerce resulted in a strong protest being telephoned to John S. Parsons, who happened to be in Albany, and he accompanied by L. W. Mott and F. A. Emerick, who was also at the Capitol, hurried at once to get in on the hearing and register a protest from Oswego against the closing of the canal.

When the Oswego delegation reached the hearing it was discovered that it had been deferred and nothing would be done in regard to the matter until some time next week. The people of Oswego will be prepared in the future for this hearing and will have a delegation present when it comes off.

From the general talk it would seem that the reason for the closing of the canal is that the work on the Fulton contract is in poor shape and there is a chance that if the canal is not closed that there will be further difficulty at that point. The contracting firm which has the work at Fulton has gone into the hands of a receiver and the bondsmen insist that they cannot do the work within the required time unless the canal is closed this year. It is also claimed by some people that the work in Fulton is in such shape that it would be a physical impossibility to open the canal until the work is completed.

The interests of Oswego in the canal are such, however, that every effort will be made to have the canal opened and to keep it open during the coming season.

BALL A SUCCESS.

The ball given on Friday evening by the Citizens club was one of the most successful social events ever held in Fulton. The ball room had been elaborately decorated for the occasion and elegant music was furnished by the Webb orchestra. Card tables were arranged in the club rooms for those who did not dance and there was also a goodly number of guests who merely looked on and enjoyed the pleasure of others, there being over one hundred couples in attendance.

Mrs. Deasum served luncheon during the intermission at 11 o'clock and a musical program was rendered during the hour. A great deal of praise is heard regarding the delightful event and the manner in which all detail was carried out by the committee on arrangements, Messrs. S. B. Mead, W. G. Mott, T. M. Webb, J. A. Foster and G. G. Chauncey.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS BALL.

Decorator Holden Pratt had converted the Knights of Columbus ball room into a scene of rare beauty for the ball which was held on Tuesday evening. Crepe paper in red, and white was used in profusion combined with garlands and sprays of evergreen. Attractive electrical designs were intermingled with the colored decorations making a unique and attractive combination. When the guests arrived they were received by Mayor Connors, Messrs. C. S. Carroll, D. M. Sullivan and M. M. Conley. Delightful music was furnished for dancing by Buell's orchestra, Prof. Fred Kenyon assisting in the musical program.

The ball room presented a brilliant spectacle when the guests were assembled, many handsome toilettes being noticed among the ladies. Taken in its entirety the event was one of the most successful ever given by the local lodge, and the many out-of-town guests were enthusiastic in their appreciation of the scene and the entertainment.

OSWEGO TOWN RECOVERS.

The Town Board of the Town of Oswego has received from Attorneys M. L. and A. S. Wright a check of $500 in settlement of the bond given by W. P. Cannon and E. G. Connette of Syracuse in 1903 in connection with a franchise for the construction of a trolley line from Syracuse to Oswego. The bond was for $1,000 and was given as a guarantee that work on proposed line would be started within a specified time. This was not done and the Town Board through Wright & Wright started suit, the firm making an agreement with the Board that it retain 50 per cent of the amount recovered the lawyers to pay all expenses and fees. The action was begun in Supreme Court against Cannon, Connette and the bonding company and was referred to Attorney D. P. Morehouse. One hearing was held in Syracuse and the defendants then settled for the full amount of the claim.

Under the agreement the Attorneys retained $500 from which must be paid all the expenses incurred in the action.

A bond of $5,000 was given the city of Oswego by Messrs. Cannon and Connette in the trolley matter but it was never recovered, owing it is said to the action of the Common Council which extended the time of the franchise without notifying the bonding company. Schroepfel recovered a bond similar to that of the Town of Oswego and other towns have done likewise it is said.

No bond has been required of the Beebe Syndicate in the towns through which the line will pass as the road will run over private right of way exclusively except in crossing highways. The company is required to keep the highways in condition where they cross, and a certain grade is specified.

DR. MORE RE-APPOINTED.

Last week the Senate confirmed the re-appointment of Dr. James L. More as Postmaster at Pulaski, his appointment having been sent in by President Taft. Dr. More is one of the best postmasters Pulaski ever had, and it is confidently expected that within this present term he will have been successful in raising the office to an office of the second class. He has been faithful in his work and most attentive to patrons, two requisites which made possible his re-appointment. The Times extends congratulations.

Albert A. Rowlee of North Fifth street remains about the same.

A masquerade party will be held on Monday evening, Feb. 7, at Church's Hall.

Mr. W. H. Klein, of the Observer office is rapidly convalescing from a severe illness.

Mrs. John C. Peach of Pulaski is spending the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Janet B. Kelley.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trask of Palermo have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Corn Trask to Mr. Hines Huggins of this city.

Large visiting delegations from Phoenix and Baldwinville were present at the Camp fire of Post Schenck last Tuesday evening.

The Misses Helen O'Hare and Katherine Maxey are enjoying a two weeks visit with friends in Northern New York. They anticipate attending the Elks ball in Watertown this week.

The marriage of Mr. Robert Johnson and Miss Irene Halliday will take place on Wednesday of next week. A shower will be tendered the bride-elect by a number of her friends on Monday evening.

A Utica resident named Eames has the contract for filling the ice house at the milk station in Second street, and many teams are engaged in the work of cutting, drawing and housing the thousands of tons necessary for the preservation of the lactal fluid during the hot weather.

Mr. J. J. McGinnis refuses to state definitely whether or not he has sold his hotel, corner of West First and Hannibal streets, for a depot to be used by the trolley company in connection with the extension to their road. It is definitely known that the company has negotiated with Mr. McGinnis to that end.

The Rev. Charles Otmsted of the Congregational church, will start the Seige Meetings of the Salvation Army in their hall on East First street on Sunday evening, Feb. 6, about 8 o'clock, immediately following his own church service. The Seige meetings will be conducted for one month with meetings every evening except Tuesday and Thursday.

The Court of Appeals now has the arguments in the matter of the appeal of the Hunter Arms company from a decision of the Appellate division affirming a verdict of $3,161.17 rendered by a jury in Supreme Court in Oswego on March 17, 1909, in favor of Frank W. Bartlette. Mr. Bartlette sued to recover for personal injuries received by himself by slipping through a trap door at the company's plant a year or so ago.

Tuesday evening, February 1st, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Wilson a luncheon was served in honor of the birthday of their daughter, Jessie. After the repast the guests were summoned to the parlor where a net work of ribbon was fastened. Each one was requested to follow up a ribbon at the end of which was fastened a violet card, the center of which disclosed the names of Ethel Lee Wilson and Herbert I. Rogers, popular young people of this city. Those invited were Mrs. Norman Dawley, Mrs. Eugene Dawley, Miss Margaret Rilla of Syracuse; Mrs. Edward Dawley, Mrs. Delmer Simpson, Mrs. William Sawyer, Mrs. Dewitt Dawley, Mrs. William Wormuth, Miss Lela Church, Miss Ruth Rogers of Fulton.

Mr. J. B. Mongin, former clerk of State, has been appointed master at Watertown by President Taft.

The Smith Davis property in Second street was purchased on Saturday morning by Mrs. Blakeman, now occupying the premises. The price paid was $3,000.

The inmate friend will find little to interest him in Fulton for some time, after completing his rounds this winter. All available material will have been added upon, few escaping the painful, disfiguring, but not necessarily fatal malady.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Washburn have reached Greensboro, North Carolina, and write Fulton friends that they are enjoying the warm sunshine and balmy breezes very much, sitting with open windows all the time.

Several residents have objected to paying the 1909 sprinkling tax, owing to the unsatisfactory service last year, the work being poorly and irregularly done. The Common Council will take up the matter again on Thursday evening.

A men's club in connection with Zion Episcopal church is in process of organization. The parish house provides an ideal place for meetings of such an organization and the membership, it is believed, will rapidly increase.

While employed at his duties in the Oswego Falls Pulp & Paper mill on Saturday, Frank Stacey of Highland street suffered a crushed foot as the result of a heavy roll of paper falling upon it. The injured man was cared for by Dr. E. A. Gladman.

The F. C. and C. W. Society has been organized for the purpose of studying Ceramics. Its officers are: President, William Pierce; secretary, Mrs. William Pierce; treasurer and distributor of prizes, Mrs. Lena Bennett. The last meeting of the club was held at the home of Mrs. E. W. Flaxington and the prize, a cut glass dish, was awarded Miss Flaxington.

Thomas Lawton, while suffering from an hallucination, attempted suicide last week at the home of Mr. Zabin Cole in Dexterville, by cutting his throat with a razor. Dr. E. J. Cusack was called and found it necessary to take twenty stitches in the ugly wound, although no artery was severed. Dr. Cusack brought the man to his home in this city and reported the case to Charities Commissioner Ferguson, believing the man to be insane and in need of special care.

Through some one leaving an electric flat iron heating all night in the City Laundry a conflagration was started which might have burned the block to the ground and endangered the surrounding stores. The fire department was not called, but the blaze had destroyed the ironing board, its cover, and was looking about for new worlds to conquer when the proprietor opened the door in the morning.

Postmaster and Mrs. W. E. Hughes leave on Thursday morning for Washington, D. C., where they will attend a reception given on Friday evening by Hon. and Mrs. C. M. Depeu to the New York State Republican Editorial Association. The trip from Jersey City to Washington and return will be made by special car. Other festivities and conferences have been arranged for the association members during their sojourn in Washington, the return special leaving Washington, D. C., some time on Sunday.

Mr. Decker, proprietor of the Volney Center hotel, is making strenuous efforts to the Mt. Pleasant Up-To-Date to play baseball at Volney Center instead of Mt. Pleasant during the coming summer. The offer made is a fast diamond, bleachers and a cash consideration. The residents of Mt. Pleasant have offered a new diamond and uniforms to the team if they will continue to play their Saturday afternoon games at Mt. Pleasant as formerly. Speculation is rife as to which will a license prevails at the Center and no license at Mt. Pleasant.

The employees of the McDermott Contracting company received their pay on Monday, after repeated disappointments in the past several weeks and many of them are leaving for their homes. It is reported that a local business man cleaned up considerable good money as the result of financial stringency in the affairs of the company, and that many employees, who were without work or pay for past services, discounted their time 10 per cent, the business man reaping in many shakels for his foresight when the company's pay roll was completed. It is hoped and expected that work will be continued on the local contract and that the company's affairs may be speedily adjusted so that neither they nor local creditors will lose.

WILL COMMENCE IN NEXT WEEK'S TIMES

Did the bear see his shadow this morning?

William June has sold property in Volney to Harvey Burcham for $400.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Ross have been visiting friends in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Goodelle have been entertaining Mrs. F. L. Sheldon of Weedsport.

Miss Sarah Perry has been confined to her home as the result of a bad fall which she sustained recently.

The many friends of Veteran Grove H. Fulton are very pleased to see him about the street again, and in much better health apparently than before he underwent a most critical operation in a Rome hospital. His complete restoration to health is devoutly hoped for.

A ready-to-wear parlor for women, with a millinery adjunct, is to be opened in South Second street in the near future. The business will be conducted by a merchant who is conducting a business of another line at present, a milliner from a local store and a clerk in still another store.

The Board of Public Works have voted to engage George W. Hackett, for the past two years deputy city engineer of Utica, to do surveying, engineering, map making and all other work in that line that may be needed by the present Board.

Mrs. James Keeler informally entertained a few friends on Friday evening in honor of her natal anniversary.

Fred Voglesang has been elected special delegate from the Oswego Falls Grange to attend the potato prize exhibition, on Feb. 2, at Cornell University. He shipped a large collection of potatoes last week, from the Grange, having eighty different varieties of his own.

Contractor Charles McDermott has returned from an extended business trip and states that the large canal work will be prosecuted in this section as vigorously all winter as the climatic conditions will permit. He expects that the total accomplished on contract No. 10, during the winter, will be in advance of that accomplished on any other contract in this section in the same period of time.

PLUCKING LIVE GESE

An Operation Necessary to Procure Good Feathers.

LOCKING THE BIRDS' WINGS.

This Trick Performed and Their Legs Bandaged Together, the Helpless Geese Are Ready, if Not Willing, Victims For the Expert Pickers.

"Yes," said a manufacturer and dealer in bed furnishings, "it is necessary that geese feathers should be taken from the live geese if we are to study the health and comfort of people who think they must have feather beds and pillows. Dead goose feathers are not much better than husks to be on and have not that great virtue of husks—wholesomeness.

"They say it doesn't hurt a goose to pluck it, but it seems to me that one might as well say that it wouldn't hurt a man to have his whiskers plucked out by the handful. The reason they give for believing a goose doesn't suffer when its feathers are being plucked out of it is that it never squeaks or squeals or makes a fuss while the plucking is going on.

"Now, I believe it hurts a goose like the mischief to have its feathers plucked out, coming as they do from the tenderest spots on its body, and the reason the fowl doesn't utter any protest prompted by pain is, according to the way I have sized geese up, because it is such a blime fool. A goose will squawk and clatter and cackle as if it were suffering more agony than a horse with the colic just at the mere sight of you, but if you corner it up and pet it with stones it seems to forget that it has a voice and will take all the punishment you give it without a further word.

"The Pennsylvania Dutch farmers pluck geese today just the same as their forebears did time out of mind, and I don't know as there is any other way. It certainly couldn't be made any pleasanter for the geese unless the plucker held chloroform or something like that to its nose while the plucking was going on. The geese to be bereft of their feathers are first got together in an inclosure used for the purpose. The perspicacity of geese may be strikingly made known to you when they are being rounded up in such an inclosure if there should happen to be a knot-hole in the door, the door being at the other. That door may be six feet high and three broad, but geese after geese will ignore it and try its best to get through the knot-hole. Indeed, though, to try the door, every goose will bob its head down as it passes through for fear of knocking it against the top of the door jamb, six feet above.

"There is a man or a boy in every neighborhood where geese are plucked who is an expert in getting the geese ready for the process. Not every one can do that. The wings of the geese have to be locked together by a peculiar arrangement of the two near the shoulder, and while they are not tied or fastened in any other way, the lock is such that no geese can unlock it. The geese's feet are tied together with a broad band of soft muslin. Then it is ready for the plucker.

"The pluckers, who are almost always women, go among the geese with their heads and faces entirely covered with hoods fastened around the neck with a shirr string. There are holes in the hoods for the eyes and also at the nose to supply fresh air for breathing. From the neck down the pickers are covered with a glazed muslin garment to which no feather or down will cling. The pluckers will sit on low stools around a large and perfectly dry tub. Each takes in her lap a goose made helpless by its interlocked wings and bound legs and with rapid plying of her fingers separates the feathers from it. This is done with such skill, though, that the plucker rarely breaks the goose's skin or causes blood to follow the plucking out of a feather. The air is constantly filled with the light feathers during the plucking, but they settle into the tub at last.

"But there isn't as much call for the goose to undergo this rapping of its feathers as there used to be. Not one pound of goose feathers is used today where there were fifty pounds twenty-five years ago. Odd as it may seem, asthma and hay fever long ago began to have a good deal to do with decreasing the demand for feather beds and pillows. It was discovered that asthma and hay fever had an affinity for such couches and head rests; that nothing would start an asthmatic off for a cheerful night's wheezing so quickly as a feather bed. This discovery spread, and the goose owes a great deal of its later day comfort to the asthma."—Detroit Free Press.

She Had Enough.

As Mrs. May of Birchdale Corners was leaving the exhibition hall of the county fair a man stepped out of a booth and accosted her.

"Won't you enter," said he, "and see the startling spectrophoric scintillations of radium?"

Mrs. May shook her head—with a smile, however, for she is courteous if not scientific.

"I'm obliged to you," she said, "but my bag is chock full of samples now."

—Youth's Companion.

Origin of the Word Canada.

On April 20, 1834, Jacques Cartier sailed from St. Malo, Brittany, with two ships and sixty-one men for Labrador, skirted Newfoundland, named Chaleur bay, crossed the eastern end of Anticosti and then headed for France again. The next year Cartier returned with three ships, thought he saw in the St. Lawrence the wished for passage to India and was only deceived by the freshness of the water on reaching the mouth of the Saguenay. Then was revealed the majestic size of the continent, for, with the exception of the Amazon and the Orinoco, no American river gives one such a sense of power and grandeur. As the Frenchmen inquired the names of the Indian villages along the banks they were answered "Canada," a Mohawk word meaning village, but which was applied by the Frenchmen to the country.

THE HORSE WON.

A Race With a Locomotive When Railroaders Were New.

In 1822 the first charter was obtained for a railroad in the United States. It was for a line from Philadelphia to a point on the Susquehanna river, but was never built. On the announcement of the project some one asked one of the Baltimore newspapers, "What is a railroad, anyhow?" The editor was forced to reply that he did not know, but that "perhaps some other correspondent can tell."

Seven years later on the little wooden track along the Luckawanna creek the first locomotive had its trial. The experiment was far from successful, and for a number of years afterwards the trains on most of the railroads continued to be drawn by horses. The first locomotive on the Baltimore and Ohio had sails attached. So did the cars. These sails were hoisted when the wind was in the right direction so as to help the locomotive.

The rivalry between the railroads using locomotives and those using horses was very bitter. In August, 1830, an actual trial of speed was held between a horse and one of the pioneer locomotives which did not result in favor of the locomotive. The race was on the Baltimore and Ohio, the locomotive being one built by Peter Cooper, who also acted as engine driver. The horse, a gallant gray, was in the habit of pulling a car on a track parallel to that used by the locomotive. At first the gray had the better of the race, but when he was a quarter of a mile ahead Mr. Cooper succeeded in getting up enough steam to pass the horse and terrific applause.

At that moment a band slipped from a pulley, and though Mr. Cooper lacerated his hands trying to replace it the engine stopped, the horse passed it and came in the winner.

As there were no brakes on the early trains, they used to stop and start with jolts which threw the passengers across the car. The coupling was with chains, having two or three feet of slack, which the engine in starting took up with a series of jerks. The shock on stopping was even worse and never failed to send the passengers flying.

There were no whistles in the old days. Signals were given by pushing up the valve on the dome by hand and letting the steam escape with a loud hissing noise. On the New Castle and Breckinridge railroad when the signal was heard the slaves around the station would rush to the arriving train, seize hold of it and pull back with all their might while the agent, stuck a piece of wood through a wheel.

There were so many collisions and explosions that some southern railroads introduced what they called a barrier car between the locomotive and the passenger coaches of the train. This barrier car consisted of a platform on wheels upon which were piled six bales of cotton, and it was claimed it would safeguard the passengers in two ways—it would protect them from the blowing up of the locomotive and would form a soft cushion upon which the passengers could land in the event of a collision. There is no record of how this experiment worked out.—American Cultivator.

A BLOW IN JAMAICA

Things That Happen When a Big Storm Breaks Loose There.

A WEST INDIAN HURRICANE.

It Will Leap Out of a Clear Sky and Level Almost Everything in Its Path—Then Comes a Torrential Downpour That Ends in a Flood.

"Have you ever been through a West Indian hurricane?" said a man who has lived in the tropics on and off for a number of years. "Do you want to know what the experience is like?"

"A hurricane will leap out of a clear sky, swoop down on a city, blow everything in its path flat and pass on. Then follows the tail of the hurricane, a steady breeze blowing in the same direction, but at a much lower velocity. This is likely to continue for many hours, sometimes for many days, and is always accompanied by a torrential downpour of rain.

"I was in Kingston, Jamaica, at the time of the hurricane of 1903. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon I was in my office on the top floor of a rickety wooden building. As suddenly as a clap of thunder the room went dark.

"I had a pretty good idea of what was about to happen and, going to the window, looked out across the roofs. A black cloud had whirled up out of the southwest, obscuring the sun, but the mountains back of the city were still golden with light.

"In less than a quarter of an hour the wind reached us. The first structure that went was a wooden watch-tower about 200 feet high that had been used in the old days to locate ships approaching the harbor. It had weathered all previous hurricanes, but this time it went down like a house of cards. Spars of lumber from that tower were carried as far as twenty blocks before they came to the ground.

"Then the spire of the church went, the roofs of a good many residences were torn off, and some of the palm trees in the public gardens snapped off about halfway from the ground. Buildings in Kingston, however, are calculated to stand a pretty severe blow. They are built only a few stories high, and the roofs present a broad and comparatively flat surface to the wind. Considering the velocity at which that hurricane was traveling, the damage was not great. Even my crazy office building withstood it. But the tail of the thing followed, with a heavier rain than I have ever seen before or since.

To say that it came down in bucketfuls would be mild. It was as if the clerk of the weather had taken the plug out of some huge vat suspended above our heads and allowed the water to plump straight down on us.

"In three hours the macadam on the streets had been washed into the harbor. The street outside my window was a rushing river as much as four feet deep in places. I saw a cart try to cross it, but with the water above the axle of the wheel and the horse's legs being washed away from under it it was an impossible task, and the driver turned back. Big casks and packing cases were dancing on the surface like corks.

"As you can imagine, I did not go home to supper that evening. It was 1 o'clock before the rain stopped and the water in the streets had drained into the harbor. Even then traffic had not begun to reorganize itself.

"The trolley car tracks had been washed out, and no cars were running. Cabs, however, were doing a roaring business, and eventually I got a cabman to drive me home for three times his customary charge.

"The damage to property in Kingston amounted up to hundreds of thousands of dollars, but the real destruction was wrought in the country districts. Floods wiped out many a negro village and sent the flimsy houses floating down the rivers. The railroads were tied up for nearly a week. Every banana tree in the path of the hurricane was uprooted. Oh, yes, a West Indian hurricane can do a lot of damage when it gets busy.

"Loss of life, did you say? Of course there was. Nearly 200 people were killed throughout the island on that occasion, but we grow accustomed to that in the West Indies. We expect a hurricane every once in awhile, and we know that it will take its toll of human life when it comes. If you had been telling the story you would probably have mentioned that first of all, but sudden death is so common below the tropic of Cancer that we get callous, I suppose."—New York Sun.

Albion and Columbia.

"Albion, the Gem of the Ocean," was written and composed by Jesse Hammond, an English government dock official, about 1820 and was heard above all others in the theaters, music halls and on London streets. It is apparent that "gem of the ocean" fits an island more aptly than our large tract of continent, and "borne by the red and the blue" (the red of the British army and blue of the navy) is more logical than the meaningless line "borne by the red, white and blue." The lines of the English songs are almost word for word identical with our version, "The Red, White and Blue."—Exchange.

A Manly Woman.

"Why do you say she is a manly woman?" asked Jinks.

"She always gets off a car properly," said Minks.—Buffalo Express.

His Father.

One of the representatives in congress very much addicted to appearing in the variety known as "loud" was on his way to the capitol one day when he encountered Senator Depew.

"If you're going to the capitol," said the senator, "we might as well walk together."

"I'm not going there just yet," said the representative. "I must first stop to see my tailor about a new coat."

"The tailor!" exclaimed Mr. Depew in mock astonishment. "Why, Jim, it has always been my understanding that you were clothed by a costumer!"

His College Training.

"Has Bill's son ever made any use of his college education?"

"I should say so. He was held up a few nights ago."

"And he tackled his assailant low and threw him for a loss of four ribs. He learned that trick on his college eleven."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Planing Machine.

As to the original inventor of the planing machine there is perhaps scarcely a machine about which there has been more controversy than this, and there are many claimants to the honor. There are records, however, showing that Nicholas Forq, a French clockmaker, used a metal planer in 1751 for machining pump cylinders, apparently being under the impression that they could be made more accurately in this manner than by a revolving cutter.—Cassier's Magazine.

On the second Thursday of each month, except August, at the Court House in the village of Pulaski, at 10 o'clock a. m.

Whenever one of the days above appointed falls on a holiday the Court will be held the day following.

CLAYTON I. MILLER, Surrogate.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

Women Suffer Agonies from Diseased Kidneys

And Most Women Do This Not Knowing the Real Cause of their Condition

These poor, suffering women have been led to believe that their misery of mind and body is entirely due to "ills of their sex." Usually the kidneys and bladder are responsible—or largely so. And in such cases, the kidneys and bladder are the organs that need and must have attention.

Those torturing, excruciating sick headaches, dragging pains in back, groin and limbs, bloating and swelling of the extremities, extreme nervousness or hysteria, listlessness and constant tired, worn-out feeling—are almost certain symptoms of disordered and diseased kidneys, bladder and liver.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills have, in thousands of cases, been demonstrated as remarkably beneficial in all such conditions of female organs—affording the most prompt relief and permanent benefit.

As an illustration of what these Pills will do, Mrs. P. M. Bray of Columbus, Ga., writes that she was very ill with kidney trouble, and that she is now well—and that these Pills are what cured her. They are very pleasant to take, and can in no case, produce any deleterious effects upon the system—no sypny, alcoholic, liquid preparations are apt to do. E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill., want every man and woman who have the least suspicion that they are afflicted with kidney and bladder diseases to at once write them, and a trial box of these Pills will be sent free by return mail post-paid. Do it to-day.

Diamonds

We are not advancing the price on diamonds despite the fact that the market is advancing all the time. When you are looking for investment you should first think of diamonds.
They will never depreciate in value; you can have the pleasure of wearing them and you can always get your money back on them.

We carry a large line of diamonds always, set and unset, from which you can make a se-

CORONER MARSH ENTERTAINED

The annual meeting of the Fulton Physicians and Surgeons Association was held at the offices of Dr. H. P.
Marsh on Thursday evening when the following officers were elected: President, Dr. H. J. Terpening; vice-president, Dr. A. L. Hall; secretary and treasurer, Dr. E. M. Anderson; censors, Dr. W. M. Wells, Dr. A. L.
Hall and Dr. E. J. Cusack.

The next meeting will be held on Feb. 17, at the home of President Terpening in West Broadway, at which time Dr. A. L. Hall will present a paper on, "What can be done to advance the interests of the medical profession in Fulton."

At the conclusion of the business session, Dr. Marsh invited the physicians present to remain, and refreshments, a smoker and a social hour were enjoyed.

EAGLES CLUB INCORPORATED.

Albany, N. Y.—A certificate of incorporation of the Eagles' club of Oswego has been filed with the State department. It formed for social and literary purposes, with the following as directors for the first year: Geo.
W. Ketchum, Joseph E. Davis, John
R. Tully, J. J. Malone and George Clancy, of Oswego.

Ely's Cream Balm has been tried and not found wanting in thousands of homes all over the country. It has won a place in the family medicine chest among the reliable household remedies, where it is kept at hand for use in treating cold in the head just as soon as some member of the household begins the preliminary sneezing or snuffling. It gives immediate relief and a day or two's treatment will put a stop to a cold which might, if not checked, become chronic and run into a bad case of catarrh.

Insulted.

Lord Cardwell was in the habit of using the church prayers at family prayers. One day his valet came to him and said, "I must leave your lordship's service at once."

"Why, what have you to complain of?"

"Nothing personally, but your lordship will repeat every morning. We have done those things which we ought not to have done and have left undone those things which we ought to have done. Now, I freely admit that I have often done things I ought not, but that I have left undone things that I ought to have done I utterly deny, and I will not stay here to hear it said."—Westminster Gazette.

Do you know that croup can be prevented? Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the child becomes cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It is also a certain cure for croup and has never been known to fail. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Yarmouth Rows.

Great Yarmouth contains what is said to be the narrowest street in the world, known as Kitty White's row, and its greatest width is fifty-six inches. Its entrance would seriously inconvenience a stout person trying to pass through it. Twenty-nine inches from wall to wall is all the room that can be spared in this part of the queer street.

Yarmouth is a quaint old town containing many streets like Kitty White's row. They are all called rows and are more picturesque than convenient. A hundred and forty-seven of these narrow streets of a length of over seven miles in all are to be found in the town.—Dunder Advertiser.

A Good Head For Business.

"I want a Baupin," said little Mary of four years as she gazed eagerly at the display of sparkling ornaments on the milliner's showcase. "How much is it?" she asked after making a very deliberate choice and laying her purchase money, a bright penny, on the counter. "Oh, nothing," returned the kind hearted Mrs. Briggs, as Mary's mother was one of her regular customers. Imagine her amusement as the little "bargain hunter" said most eagerly, "I'll take two, then."— Delmonico.

The First Aeroplane.

The earliest effort to construct a machine which, according to modern ideas, is entitled to be called an aero-plane was undoubtedly that of William Henson in 1842. Henson, who was a practicing engineer, with offices in New City chambers, Manoptegre, London, devised a machine which resembled very closely the type which has since been termed the monoplane—that is, having its supporting planes precisely forming a single deck, as distinguished from the box form of the biplane and multiplane devices of later inventors.—Cassier's Magazine.

hour came to J. R. Pitt, of Rocky Mt., N. C., when he was suffering intensely, as he says, "from the worst cold I ever had, I then proved to my great satisfaction, what a wonderful
Cold and Cough cure Dr. King's New Discovery is. For, after taking one bottle, I was entirely cured. You medicine like that." Its the surest

Hemorrhages, LaGrippe, Asthma, Hay
Fever, any throat or Lung Trouble.

Paper Money.

Marco Polo (1254-1324) of Venice was the first person to announce to Europe the existence of paper money.
In China under the moguls. The fact has induced the belief that the moguls were the originators of it. But in the history of Chengtsi Khan and of the mogul dynasty in China published in the year 1759 the author speaks of the suppression of the paper money which was in use under the dynasty of the Sung, who reigned in China previous to the moguls, and he also mentions a new species of notes which were substituted for the old in 1264.

The Berbers.

The people in Morocco known as Berbers are one of the most ancient and fanatical races of whom history speaks. Throughout all the centuries since Christ they have remained, as they were long before Christ came, savage nomads, unconquered, proud, fanatical, their hand against all mankind and living off their plunder, their flocks and their herds. They number about 2,500,000. They have but an apology for a written language and speak a corruption of Arabic.—New York American.

and liver and strengthen the digestion. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Had to Do It.

Champ Clark was showing a constituent about the capitol one day when he invited attention to a solemn faced individual just entering a committee room.

"See that chap?" asked Clark. "He reads every one of the speeches delivered in the house."

"What?" gasped the constituent.

"Fact," said Clark. "Reads every word of 'em too."

"Who is he?" queried the visitor, regarding the phenomenon closely.

"A proofreader at the government printing office," explained Champ.—

profession. Mrs. Goodart—A numismatist? Howard Haber—Yes, lady; a rare to me.—Philadelphia Press.

A Considerate Sheriff.

One of the most unpleasant of the sheriff's numerous responsibilities is that of seeing that criminals sentenced to death are properly executed. And if the hangman should fail him and he be unwilling to act as deputy the sheriff must enforce the capital penalty himself. Not many years ago one of the sheriffs of Middlesex, a well known baronet, on taking office bagged a prisoner with his own hands on the principle, he said, that he did not care to ask another man to perform a duty he would shrink from fulfilling himself.—London Chronicle.

Patriotism

The stomach is a larger factor in "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" than most people are aware. Patriotism can withstand hunger but not dyspepsia. The confirmed dyspeptic "is fit for treason, stratagems and spoils." The man who goes to the front for his country with a weak stomach will be a weak soldier and a tank tender.

A sound stomach makes for good citizenship as well as for health and happiness.

Diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition are promptly and permanently cured by the use of

GUN COTTON.

A Peculiar Characteristic of This Terrible Explosive.

Many and old are the materials entering into the manufacture of modern explosives, but perhaps the most interesting of all these elements of destruction as well as the simplest is gun cotton. The gun cotton manufacturing industry is large, as enormous quantities are used in the charging of torpedoes and for similar purposes.

The base of gun cotton is pure raw cotton or even cotton waste, such as is used to clean machinery. This is steeped in a solution of one part of nitric and three parts of sulphuric acid. It is the former ingredient that renders the mass explosive, the sulphuric acid being used merely to absorb all moisture, thus permitting the nitric acid to combine more readily with the cellulose of the cotton.

After being soaked for several hours in the solution described the cotton is passed between rollers to expel all nonabsorbed acid, a process carried to completion by washing the cotton in clear water. This washing process is a long one, requiring machinery which reduces the cotton to a mass resembling paper pulp. Should any nonabsorbed acid be allowed to remain it would decompose the cotton.

If the explosive is to be used after the manner of powder it is still further pulverized and then thoroughly dried, but if intended for torpedoes it is pressed into cakes of various shapes and sizes—disk shaped, cylindrical, flat squares and cubes. When not compressed gun cotton is very light, as light as ordinary batting.

A peculiar characteristic of this terrible explosive is that a brick of it when wet may be placed on a bed of hot coals, and as the moisture dries out the cotton will flake and burn quietly.
If dry originally, however, the gun cotton will explode with terrible force at about 320 degrees of heat.

In general it is the custom to explode gun cotton by detonation or an intense shock instead of by heat. In a torpedo the explosive charge is wet.
This wet cotton being exploded by means of dry cotton in a tube, this having been fired by a cap of fulmi-nate of mercury, the cap itself having been fired by the impact of the torpedo against the target.—Harper's Weekly.

Wanted a Little Credit.

A highlander fell into a river and after desperate efforts managed to reach the bank in safety. His wife, who had been a distressed onlooker, exclaimed as soon as her anxiety was relieved, "Ah, Donald, ye should ow terra thankful the Providence for saving your life!"

Donald was somewhat aggrieved at what he deemed an unequal apportionment of the credit.

"Yess, jess!" he replied. "Providence was very good, but I wass ferry clever, too, whatever."—London Mail.

Profitable Change.

A well known conjurer one day visited a Scotch village. After performing many astonishing tricks he asked for a halfpenny, which a collier lent him. The conjurer then said he would turn it into a sovereign. He did so, as the people thought, and handed it around for them to see. When it reached the collier he coolly pocketed it and said to the astonished conjurer, "Will ye change me another?"—London Mail.

A Scoop.

"What did your wife do when she found those poker chips in your pocket?" asked the practical joker.
"She took the matter very coolly. She found out where they came from and sent a messenger boy to get them washed."—Washington Star.

IF YOU CARE ANYTHING ABOUT YOUR HORSE SEE THAT HE IS SHOD RIGHT.

Watch the shoe that he does not narrow the feet any, as contracted feet and corns can be traced to poor shoeing. If your horses have bad feet, bring them to

A Sporting Chance.

"I'll teach you to play at pitch and toss!" shouted the enraged father. "I'll dog you for an hour, I will!"
"Father," instantly said the incorrigible as he balanced a penny on his thumb and finger, "I'll toss you to make it two hours or nothing."—Cassell's Journal.

Careless About Their Hair.

Peasant women in Siberia wear shawls or kerchiefs on their heads, while the rich women wear no head covering whatever. A Russian woman who is otherwise trim and modern in dress will go about with her hair disheveled to the point of the ludicrous.

A Great Many.

I found him a great many times, and it is a higher sphere of thought, and which other men rise with labor and difficulty. He has but to open his eyes to see things in a true light and in large relations, while they must make painful corrections and keep a vigilant eye on many sources of error.

He is a great man who is what he is from nature and who never reminds me of others.—Emerson.

Didn't Match.

"When I came of age," said Mr. Sotteligh, "I promised mother that I'd never marry until I found the right girl."
"Indeed?" exclaimed Miss Sharpe.
"Yes, and—er—you're the right girl."
"That's too bad, for you're the wrong man."

Spellbound.

"Why don't you go on writing my speech?" said the orator.
"I'm spellbound," replied the typist.
"Has my eloquence such an effect?"
"Yes, sir; I never worked for a man who used so many words I can't spell."—Washington Star.

Hardly.

Kindly Visitor—Mrs. A., what do you suppose makes you suffer so?
Mrs. A.—I don't know. I am sure, and I believe nothing but a postmortem will ever show.
Kindly Visitor—You poor thing! You are too weak to stand that.

Tactful.

Mrs. Neesepoke—John, don't you think it's about time for us to call on our new neighbors? Husband—Why, they only moved in this morning. Mrs. Neesepoke—Oh, I know, but all their stuff will be downstairs, and I can see it better.

Staging a Trial.

"Now, your conduct during the trial may have considerable effect on the jury."
"Ah, quite so!" responded the ultra swell defendant. "And should I appear interested or just mildly bored?"—Kansas City Journal.

Inquisitive.

After Sunday school:
Willie—Did you hear that boy swear, Johnny, when I told him to go away? Johnny—No. (Quietly persuasive.) Tell him to go away again and I'll listen.—Manchester Guardian.

Made It Clear.

Two Yorkshiresmen visiting London for the first time noticed a doorknob on which was engraved the word "Chloropodist." The following conversation was overheard:
"Hi, Geordie, what is a 'chloropodist'?"
"Why," says Geordie, "don't you know that a 'chloropodist' is a man what teaches caparises to whistles?"

Baby Army Officers.

It used to be the custom in England to buy commissions in the army for infants, and then they would be promoted as vacancies occurred. The way a boy would have high rank when he was old enough to become a general.

The Color of Air.

Pure air is blue in tint because, according to Newton, the molecules of the air have the thickness necessary to reflect blue rays. When the atmosphere is bleached with perceptible vapors the diffused light is mixed with a large proportion of white.

Hurry Up Santa Claus!

"Dreamin' 'bout de coming er de Christmuss!"
—Atlanta Constitution.

When Coronets Are Worn.

The only occasion upon which a British peer or peeress wears a coronet is at the coronation of a sovereign. At the moment when the archbishop of Canterbury places the crown on the head of the new monarch every peer present dons his own coronet.

A Club Affair.

Bronx—Why has Jones become so opposed to clubs? Harlem—He was introduced to his wife at a country club, proposed to her at a golf club, married her at a church club, and now the alimony he pays just meets her club dues.—Judge.

Ice as an Explosive.

Quarrymen in very cold districts sometimes economize in dynamite, by using water instead. Drilling several holes in a large block of granite, they pour in water, stop up the hole securely and leave it for a couple of days. The water freezes and in the process expands so much that it bursts the stone asunder. From this fact may be gathered some idea of the enormous forces contained in nature.

Anthony's Nose.

Anthony's Nose, at the northwest corner of Westchester county, N. Y., reaches an altitude of 1,228 feet above the Hudson river. The scenery from this point just at the entrance to the famous Highlands has been described as the most beautiful on the globe. This particular point has brought worldwide fame to the noble Hudson, the Rhine of America.—Magazine of American History.

One Way of Telling.

Curley—You see that fellow loading over there? He used to go to the same college that I did. I wonder if he remembers me. Burleigh—Ask him for the loan of $3. Curley—What for? Burleigh—If he remembers you, you won't get it.—Judge.

A Different Love.

An odd typographical error once appeared in a criticism of Elton Terry. The reviewer wrote, "Be ye of Fortunate Love!" The editor, who had corrected the error in the paper, said, "The love of Fortunate Love is a thing."—Detroit Free Press.

Statements made by the world's leading authority on the subject of candy, and which are not to be taken lightly, is that the candy is withdrawn by the use of time and skill, and the candy may then be used in the manufacture of that of any other species of candy.

—British Postoffice Girls.

On her marriage the British postoffice pays every girl in its employ a dowry amounting to one month's salary for every year of service on her record. Though the dowry may not exceed the sum of a full current year's remuneration, it frequently amounts to some $200 or $250, and a case has recently occurred in which the gift figured at no less than $400.

Sensible.

Clancy—O'm affther a ticket ter Chicago? Ticket Agent—Do you want an excursion ticket, one that will take you there and back? Clancy—Phwat's the sense of me payin' ter go there an' back when O'm here alreddy?—Hotel Register.

A Strong Man.

Sweet Child—Say, pa, you must be a pretty strong man.
Pa—Fairly so, my dear. Why?
Sweet Child—'Cause oncld said the other night that you could carry the biggest load of any man he ever saw without showing it.

A Joke.

"You have heard it said that there are only three original jokes."
"Yes."
"Well, I have seen at least one of them—a man arguing with a street car conductor over a transfer."—Buffalo Express.

A Long Job.

"A man has to work a long time before he can become independently rich."
"You're right. My wife was an heiress, and I had to woo her six years before she'd consent to marry me."—Exchange.

The White Ones.

One day as grandma was sewing beside the window the attention of her little five-year-old granddaughter was suddenly attracted by the white hairs in her grandmother's head, and, climbing upon a hassock, she began to pluck out the whitest ones. "What on earth are you doing, Lucy?" exclaimed grandma. "Oh," replied Lucy, "I am just picking the besting threads out of your hair, grandma."—Delineator.

Cause and Effect.

"Well, nurse, and how is our patient this morning?" He appears to be very much improved this morning, doctor. "Alive?" "Yes, sir; that medicine you said you were going to send out to us wasn't delivered."—Houston Post.

Universally True.

Our own jokes are real humor. Those of the other fellow are only cheap wit.—Judge.

Turkey's Tannery.

Turkey has a government tannery for turning out such products as are needed in the army.

People and Food.

We are too fond for our own good of people that agree with us and of food that doesn't—Puck.

One Sided.

"Do you and your husband ever disagree?"
"He never does."—Exchanges.

Unfair.

A clever but very eccentric man, who sings comic songs with a great deal of action, was singing one day at a concert given at a lunatic asylum. When he had finished an old woman exclaimed, with a sigh, "And to think I'm in and he's out!"

The Connection.

Willie—The Blanks are a kind of relation of ours. Our dog is their dog's brother.—United Presbyterian.

South American Tea.

It is said that mate, the South American tea, will sustain life many days without the pang of hunger.

Prehistoric California.

In prehistoric times the rhinoceros flourished in California, while large lions and tigers lived in the jungles.

False Doctrine.

The Vicar—Now, children, what is a false doctrine? Inspired Mailden—Elease, sir, bad medicine.—Puck.

First Words of the Phonograph.

When Edison was at work on the first phonograph, it is said, he was as much surprised as any one when the thing actually talked. It appears that the inventor had been working on some new variety of telephone receivers when he was led to put a piece of tin foil on a cylinder. It recorded sound, and Edison was convinced that the human voice could be recorded and reproduced. When the time came to make an actual test Edison, with his mind on mechanical details, accidentally tested his contrivance with the familiar phrase, "Mary had a little lamb." Accordingly this bit of nursery rhyme became down into it. The first words ever reproduced by the phonograph.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB MEETS

Matters of Interest Presented and Discussed—Will Cooperate with County Medical Association and Give Public Talks on Sanitation.

Messrs. M. S. Powell, A. W. Wiltse and Lewis Rice presented an interesting and instructive program on Monday evening to the members of the Current Events Club, at their usual fortnightly session, which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Benedict.

Mr. Lewis Rice, who had been selected as chairman, introduced Mr. A. W. Wiltse, who had recently returned from attendance at the New York State Horticultural Society, which had convened at Rochester, and who presented most interesting data concerning matters of special interest to horticulturalists. He expressed surprise at the awakening interest in agriculture and of the keenness and mental worth of those attending the convention. A marvellous change has been produced from the time when only a few students of agriculture were matriculated in Cornell University until now when over 900 are enrolled. At all events, after weighing the advantages elsewhere, it was generally conceded by experts that Western New York State was the finest fruit-producing district in the world.

Mr. Wiltse had also visited the work that is being prosecuted by New York City for the increase of its water supply. He quoted from Engineer Ralph E. Haven, who is a close personal friend, and presented a stupendous array of facts and figures which were instructive.

Engineer T. M. Ripley was called upon and he went into detail regarding the progress made on the Ashoken reservoir, which had been very gratifying to the officials who had charge of the work.

At this juncture an enjoyable innovation was presented. Mrs. E. J. Pegfield sang "Happy Days," in excellent voice, accompanied on the violin by Miss Rena Mend, and on the piano by Mrs. W. L. Sawtelle. "A Winter Lullaby" followed as an encore, which was insisted upon.

Mr. M. S. Powell filled the remaining moments with a brief outline of important events.

At the close of the program Mrs. M. S. Powell's rich contralto voice was heard to perfection in "Bond Low, O Dusky Night," and for an encore she sang in the same artistic manner, "Since We Parted."

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. John Hunter, on Monday, Feb. 21, under the following leaders: Messrs. H. L. Paddock, Arvin Rice and W. E. Hughes.

The Current Events club has agreed to collaborate with the Oswego County Medical Association in the matter of giving the public the benefit of a series of talks on sanitation. It has been practically decided that the first of the lectures will be given by Dr. Charles Low of Pulaski, in the library assembly room at a date to be agreed upon later. Dr. Low is well known throughout the county as a forceful and tactful speaker and has given the subject a good deal of thought.

Dr. Potter of Rochester, it is hoped, will later deliver his able lecture on "The Microscopic Origin of Disease." Dr. Doane and Mr. E. R. Redhead were selected as a committee of the Current Events club to bring the arrangements to perfection.

N. L. WHITAKER BUYS BLOCK

Mr. N. L. Whitaker on Thursday last purchased the Aubrey block, at the corner of Second and Cayuga streets, from Postman Hewitt, agent for Mr. Aubrey. The building is now occupied by the Modern Way Laundry on the ground floor, and the Prudential Insurance company agency upstairs. The first floor will be remodeled and fitted up for the offices of Whitaker & Lovejoy, to carry on their real estate and insurance business. They will take possession April 1.

PHILIPPINES MUCH TROUBLE

Ithaca, N. Y.,—Sergt. John Hazley of the United States army, now stationed in Luzon, has written his impressions of Uncle Sam's colonies in a letter to Alderman James F. Marshall of this city. He says in part:

"The Philippine Islands are a bunch of trouble gathered upon the western horizon of civilization. They are bounded on the west by hoodedism and smugglers; on the north by rocks and destruction; on the east by typhoons and monsoons, and on the south by cannibals and earthquakes. The climate is a deceptive combination of changes well adapted to raising cane; the soil is very fertile and large crops of insurrectos and treachery are produced. The inhabitants are very industrious; their chief occupations are trench building and making bolos. Their houses are made chiefly of bamboo and land-escape. Filipino marriages are very impressive, especially the clause wherein the wife is given the privilege of doing as much work as her husband desires.

"The chief amusements are cock-fighting and stealing. The principal diets, fried rice, boiled rice, stewed rice and rice. The animal of burden is the cariboo, and should a hundred-mile journey be undertaken with this animal the driver would die of old age before reaching his destination."

IN SURROGATE'S COURT

Letters were applied for in Surrogate's Court by Charles A. Candee on the estate of Augusta Gilbert late of Schroepfel. The estate is valued at $520 personal.

The appraisal of the estate of Smith Davis of Fulton, as filed in this city, shows the gross value of the property at $4,068.56 and the net value at $3,491.15. William E. Fuller, a grandnephew, of Fulton, is to receive $1,147.71; Esther A. Barhart, a niece, of Jonesville, Mich., will receive $1,121.72, and Cella J. Blake-man of Fulton will receive $1,121.72.

PROPOSED CLOSING OF CANAL

Assemblyman T. C. Sweet has introduced the Times with a copy of the bill introduced by Mr. Colbe, and referred to the Committee on Canals, relative to the closing of the Oswego Canal during the current year. Mr. Sweet informs the Times that a hearing will be given upon the measure on Feb. 25, 1910, at 12 noon.

The bill is as follows: Section 1. The Superintendent of Public Works is hereby authorized to close the Oswego Canal between Three River and Lock number eleven at Fulton during the entire year, nineteen hundred and eleven, provided that no navigation during any other year than that herein named; and provided further, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed to prevent the opening from time to time during the said year of any portion of said canal upon which actual improvement work is not in progress. In the judgment of the Superintendent of Public Works, the same may be done without detriment to improvement work upon said canal.

Section 2. All conflicting acts or parts of acts are hereby repealed to the extent that they are in conflict herewith.

Section 3. This act shall take effect immediately.

JUDGE LINDSEY'S LECTURE.

Don't fail to hear Judge Lindsey's lecture on "The Misfortunes of Mickey," tonight. The speaker is one of the foremost lecturers of the age and he should be greeted with an immense audience. Every age, every sect, should hear this fearless advocate of political purity and the best champion a friendless boy ever had. This is the last lecture in the Library benefit course and it is the best one scheduled to be heard in Fulton in many a day. At present there is a deficit in the course fund and it is hoped and expected that the proceeds from this lecture will be sufficient to cancel the indebtedness. All who hear the lecture will be conscious of having given themselves a treat and of aiding a good cause.

The tickets have been placed at 50c each and are on sale at Lasher's book store and at the door.

ALDERMAN JOHNSON ACTIVE.

Alderman Freeman H. Johnson of the Third Ward is very positive that some method can be evolved whereby a flagman will be stationed at the Broadway railroad crossing, and he intends to find the solution as to why the railroad company does not do as it was instructed to do over a year ago. In his determination to protect life at this point, Mr. Johnson has the earnest cooperation and zeal of City Attorney McNamara.

DEATHS

Mrs. Margaret Carr, aged 81, died on Saturday at her home in Hinmanville. The funeral services were held on Tuesday and interment was made in Chase's cemetery.

Sarah J. LeRoy, aged 80, died at the home of her daughter, in East Syracuse, after a stroke of paralysis. Mrs. George W. Blake of this city is a daughter of the deceased.

The death of Frank D. Ware, aged 52, occurred at his home near Hamal Center on Sunday. The deceased was one of the best known residents in this section of the county and leaves many friends to regret his death. The funeral services were held from the late home this Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. The immediate survivors are the widow, one son, Arthur Ware; seven brothers, Clarence, Jay, Charles, Burt, William, Orin, and Adelbert, and one sister, Mrs. L. D. Beardsley of Bowers Corners.

At her home near Gilbert Mills, on January 28, occurred the death of Mary Jane Pratt, aged 74 years. She was a native of New York and was survived by one daughter, Mary F. of Fulton, two sons, Frederick R. of Jacksonville Fla., and Arthur W. of Gilbert Mills, two sisters, three brothers and one granddaughter. The funeral was held from the late home on Tuesday Rev. W. Bassett officiating. Burial at Fulton.

The family wish to thank those who so kindly assisted in the sickness and burial. Also those who contributed flowers.

The death of John Wise, aged 89, and an almost life long resident of Mt. Pleasant, occurred on Sunday night at the home of his son, Mr. Harvey Wise, where he had been in failing health for some time. The deceased had a wide acquaintance and a large family of relatives, the yearly family reunions being attended by a jolly crowd. Last year the deceased was as sprightly and interested as any of the younger members who were present. The immediate survivors are four daughters, Mrs. Mary G. Goodfellow of Volney; Mrs. Amelia Cory and Mrs. Elizabeth Foster of Gilbert Mills; Mrs. Emma Allen of Palermo, one son, Harvey, and one brother, Harvey, of Cleveland, Ohio. Mrs. F. L. Darling of this city is a granddaughter and there are eighteen great grand children among the survivors.

Elizabeth Ann, wife of Peter Smith, a well known resident of Amsterdam, died at 8.30 o'clock last Thursday morning at her home, No. 46 Milton avenue, after a long illness, aged 70 years. Mrs. Smith has been a resident of Amsterdam for the past 31 years and had a wide circle of friends who loved her for her many beautiful traits of character and christian womanhood. She is survived by her husband, one son, Fred L., and one daughter, Grace, both of Amsterdam, as well as two brothers, Edward and James Waugh, a d two sisters, Mrs. Hannah Fish and Mrs. Ella Wolever, all of Fulton. The funeral was held at the house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Dr. McEwen officiating. Interment was made in Green Hill. Mrs. Ella Wolever and Mrs. Francis E. Waugh of this city attended the funeral services.

The many friends of the Hon. A. S. Roe, of Worcester, Mass., will sympathize with him in the loss of his wife, to whom he was devotedly attached and who passed to rest early in the morning of Feb. 1. For many years, accompanied by her husband and children, Mrs. Roe spent a portion of every summer at the home of Mr. Roe's parents in this city. The Rev. A. M. Roe and his wife deeming themselves happy in being able to thus meet and entertain their New England daughter. She was born in Franklin, Mass., April 1, 1856, the daughter of Alvah and Harriet (Vose) Metcalf, but early removed to Ashland, where her girlhood was spent. Removing to Worcester in 1875, that place remained her home to the end of her life. She excelled in writing ability, and many of her productions in prose, verse and music have enjoyed an extended popularity. Two children preceded her to the other world and two daughters, Misses Annabel C. and Harriet E., with her husband, survive. Her body was taken to Ashland for burial. To the afflicted family the Times extends sincere condolences.

HOSPITAL BOARD MEETS.

The annual meeting of the Board of Governors of the Fulton hospital was held at the home of Dr. Charles R. Lee on Wednesday evening, when the following officers were elected: Mayor J. H. Connors, ex-officio president; H. L. Paddock, vice president; T. H. Marvin, secretary and Thomas Hunter, treasurer. The following were also elected: Dr. W. M. Walters, Dr. C. E. Lee, Dr. Thomas Hunter, J. C. O'Brien, Dr. L. F. Joy, George C. Webb, Dr. C. J. Bacon, buildings and grounds, J. A. Morrill, G. S. Elper, F. A. Gage, furniture and equipment, H. L. Paddock, J. W. Rigley, Dr. N. H. Haviland.

In addition, a committee was appointed composed of H. L. Paddock, Dr. L. F. Joy and George C. Webb, to confer with a committee from the Women's Hospital Auxiliary, composed of Mrs. G. W. Morton, Mrs. George E. True and Mrs. Charles Olmsted, to formulate plans whereby the Woman's Auxiliary may take a more active part in the management and other affairs of the hospital. It is not thought probable that the Lee Memorial hospital will be turned over to the city before Spring. Mrs. Victorine Lee, the donor, is confined to her apartments in New York city by illness and will not be able to venture to Fulton in extreme weather.

FURNITURE FOR SALE.

The entire furnishings and fixtures of the Windsor Hotel, North First street, will be offered at a private sale until Feb. 10, after which all that remains will be sold at public auction commencing at 10 o'clock A. M. Included in the lot are a back bar that cost $500; black walnut front bar; beer pump and pipe; 2 show cases; carpets; 3 refrigerators; stove; side board; beds; bedding; dressers; commodes; dishes, etc. Inquire of P. ## EXCISE DECISION.

Judge Rowe has granted an order to the Excise Agents cancelling the three hotel licenses of W. A. Merriam, Michael Carey, and John Walling, all of the village of Phoenix. The papers in the case have been sent on to Excise Commissioner Clement and his agents will serve the notice on the hotel keepers. The hotelkeepers can then appeal to the Appellate Division, and if their appeal is lost there, it will put them out of the liquor business for a year.

BILL APPROVING STATE SEALER

Senator Cobb has introduced a bill providing for a State Superintendent of Weights and Measures and abolishing the town sealers and the fee system. A similar bill has been introduced in the Assembly by Assemblyman Merritt.

STATE GRANGE OFFICERS.

At the election of the officers of the State Grange held in Watertown on Wednesday the office of Ceres went to Mrs. F. E. Alexander of Gayville. Mrs. Alexander has been very prominent in the Oswego County Grange and has held a number of offices in it during the past few years. The officers elected were: Master Frank N. Godfrey, Cattaraugus; overseer, W. H. Vary, Watertown; lecturer, S. J. Lowell, Chautauque; steward, Albert Manning, Orange; assistant steward, R. M. Eggleston, Essex; chaplain, S. L. Strivings, Wyoming; treasurer, W. L. Bean, Cortland; secretary, W. N. Guitea, Oondaga; gate keeper, W. L. Seake, Seneca; Pomona, Mrs. Rice McCarthy, Ontario; Flora, Mrs. Lillian Albridge, Wayne; Ceres, Mrs. F. E. Alexander, Oswego; lady assistant steward, Miss Mabel Burchell, Columbia; Member of Executive Committee, Ira L. Sharpe, Lewis.

The charges that certain of the State officers had violated some of the bylaws brought by Mr. A. J. Bartlett of Seneca were investigated and the officers were acquitted of any wrong doing.

If you will just take Kodol now and then you need not fear or hesitate to eat all the good food that you want, for Kodol is for weak and sour stomachs. Kodol is pleasant to take, and it is guaranteed to give relief at once. Sold by all druggists.

LEASED MILK STATION.

The Fulton Milk Producers' milk station in this city, situated at the corner of Second and Erie streets on the Ontario & Western railroad, has been leased another year by the Lieberman Dairy Company of New York. The price this company will pay for June milk will be $1.10, which is 25 cents over last year's price.

The officers of the association elected for the ensuing year are: President, W. M. Hinesdale; vice president, F. J. Palmer; secretary, V. W. Shattuck; treasurer, Noah Merriam; directors, G. S. Piper, C. C. Wilcox, D. C. Chase, Archie Dunn, R. W. Hawthorne, William H. Mace, George Coles and M. S. Whitney. Six per cent. dividends were declared on the stock.

A few minutes delay in treating some cases of croup, even the length of time it takes to go for a doctor often proves dangerous. The safest way is to keep Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house, and at the first indication of croup give the child a dose. Pleasant to take and always cures. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eyes, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels but set up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion, constipation and dizziness. Sold everywhere. Price 15 cents.

A Flame Combination.

If a small quantity of chlorate of potash be powdered and mixed with an equal quantity of powdered sugar a candle may be lighted by means of the mixture without matches. Place a little of it in the depression around the wick of a candle that has been previously used and then touch the mixture with a glass rod the end of which has been dipped in oil of vitriol. It will burst into flame, lighting the candle.

THE WEIGHT OF MONEY

Do You Think You Could Lift a Fortune in Silver Coins?

IF YOU DO YOU ARE MISTAKEN

Two Hundred Pounds of Quarters Would Give You Only $500. While the Same Weight of Gold Would Give $54,050—Weight of Paper Money

"I wish I had all the money I could lift!" How many of the thousands who make this get-rich-quick wish have any idea of the amount they would have if the wish should be granted. Few name the denomination of the money on which they desire to test their strength, perhaps believing that their lifting powers would make them wealthy no matter what kind of money they lifted.

If they were asked how much they could lift in silver or small bills, the majority probably would name some fabulous sum which investigation would show several men could not budge. In gold or in paper money of large denominations the ordinary individual would be able to lift a fair sized fortune, but to win a million by lifting it in anything less than twenty dollar bills would need the strength of a veritable Sampson.

An official of the subtreasury who is interested in odd statistics in his department was asked how much money the average man could lift in the various denominations of gold, silver and paper.

"Well," he replied, "a man could make money on that proposition if he could get hold of paper money of large denominations, but on the smaller bills, silver and gold he would not be a millionaire by any means."

"The weight of money is very deceptive. For instance, a young man, a friend of mine, came in to see me one day with his fiancée. I was showing them through my department and asked my friend if he thought the young woman was worth her weight in gold. He did think so, most emphatically, and after ascertaining that her weight was one 107 pounds we figured that she would be worth in gold coin exactly $23,647. Her fiancée thought that would be pretty cheap."

"Perhaps more people are deceived on the weight of paper money than on the metals. Now, how many one dollar bills do you think would be necessary to weigh as much as a five dollar gold piece?"

Fifty was ventured as a guess, and the statistician laughed. "I have had guesses on that all the way from 50 to 500," he said, "and some of them from men who have handled money for years. As a matter of fact, with a five dollar gold piece in one scale you would have to put about six and a half bills in the other to balance it."

He produced figures to prove that a five dollar gold piece weighed two hundred and ninety-six thousandths of an ounce avoirdupois. An employee who makes the new bills up in packages of 100 each said that a hundred bills weighed four and one-half ounces. That would make one bill weigh forty-five thousandths of an ounce, and between six and seven would balance the gold piece.

Figures on the lifting proposition were furnished from the department where the money is weighed in bags as standards. The standard amount for gold coin, $5,000, weighs eighteen and a half pounds. Five hundred silver dollars weigh thirty-five and a half pounds, and $200 in half dollars, or 400 coins, weighs eleven pounds. Taking 200 pounds as a good lift for an average man, these results were obtained:

METAL MONEY.
Gold coin (each of standard weight) $54,050.00
Silver dollars ..... 2,672.00
Half dollars ..... 1,336.00
Quarters ..... 668.00
Dimes ..... 334.00
Nickels ..... 167.00
Cents ..... 83.50

PAPER MONEY.
One dollar bills ..... $1,111.11
Two dollar bills ..... 555.55
Five dollar bills ..... 222.22
Ten dollar bills ..... 111.11
Twenty dollar bills ..... 55.55
Fifty dollar bills ..... 22.22
One hundred dollar bills ..... 11.11
Five hundred dollar bills ..... 2.22
Thousand dollar bills ..... 1.11

Two hundred pounds of $10,000 gold certificates, the largest denomination issued by the United States government, would amount to enough to finance a full grown trust—$711,111.00. If the young woman who was worth $23,647 in gold coin had been worth her weight in these $10,000 certificates she would have been raised at $89,444.555.—F. T. Pope in Chicago Record-Herald.

Appreciated.
Tubb—Old boy, I want to congratulate you on your speech at the banquet last night. O'Suda (after waiting a moment)—I know you do, pard, and you're awfully sorry you can't do it truthfully. I appreciate the effort, just the same. Nasty weather, isn't it?—Chicago Tribune.

A Misunderstanding.
"The management of one of the big opera houses in New York has to pay $2,000 a week for conductors."
"Does it pay the same rate for motormen?"—Judge.

Clean Living.
James—A bath bun and two sponge cakes, please. Waitress—Two sponges and a bath for this gentleman, please.—London Opinion.

HIS THOROUGHBREED.

A Deal the Horseman Put Through on the Dead Quarter.

A man known roundabout as a lover and possessor of fine horses was lately driving one of his favorite steeds along a suburban road when he came upon another horse lover, almost as well known, who was driving in the opposite direction. Seemingly pleased to meet each other, both drew up alongside.

"I heard only yesterday that you'd gone army and brought back a new thoroughbred," greeted the second horseman.

"Yep," gleefully returned the first horseman; "I'm just about leaving her back home while I give this horse a little spin for his liver."

"Think she'll suit?" asked the second man, squinting good humoredly.

"Well, you know my style, old man. She can step along in the best class, and she's got a pedigree eclipsing any around here."

"How long have you had her?"

"Just four days," answered the first horseman in the same gleeful tone, "but I've had my eyes on her for some time back."

"Carried this deal through a little on the quiet, didn't you?"

"Yep," laughed the first man, with a head shake of satisfaction.

"Is she a record breaker?"

"Sure thing; wouldn't have any other. Wait till you fellows get a glimpse of her, and if you don't agree that I've still got my eyes for winners, I'll eat the tail off that horse there."

Suddenly the second horseman leaned over toward his friend and thrust out his hand in palpable earnestness.

"Accept my congratulations," said he, "and also give 'em to your—your thoroughbred!"

"I will!" heartily returned the other man, gripping the proffered fist. "Be sure to come in and see us," he added as his friend prepared to drive on. "I know she'll be tickled to meet a friend of mine; she isn't too high pitched for that, old man. That's her winning quality. She's a wife fit for a horse judge!"—Detroit Free Press.

THE QUICKEST WAY.

How One Might Travel 190 Miles in About Ten Minutes.

It is estimated that if all mechanical difficulties could be removed and sufficient power developed the minimum time in which passengers could be transported over the eighty-five miles from New York to Philadelphia would be six minutes and forty-four seconds and for the 190 miles from Boston to New York 22 minutes and four seconds. A correspondent of the Scientific American who has been working on the problem says that the trains would have to be run in a vacuum to prevent their being heated to incandescence by the resistance of the air. They would have to be held in suspension in the vacuum tube through which they traveled, for the slightest contact with the sides of the tube would result in enormous friction. The cars might be held in suspension by the propulsion of opposing magnets on the cars and on the tubes respectively. When thus isolated they could be propelled only by the power of magnetism. The energy consumed in propelling the cars would be comparatively low.

To avoid shock or jar the trains would travel faster and faster until one-half of the distance should be covered and then slow down until the destination should be reached. When the rate of acceleration is just such as can be borne with comfort the limit is attained. The effect on the passengers would be a continuous pressure against the back of the seat, as when a car is started suddenly, for the first half of the journey, and then in order to prevent them from pitching out of their seats the chairs would be turned in the opposite direction for the rest of the journey, during which the same sensation would be felt.

At the speed named the passengers would be traveling for each half of the distance one-third as fast as they could fall through the same space under the attraction of gravity.

The Two Angels.

The following allegory is told among the Turks:
Every man has two guardian angels, one on his right shoulder and one on his left. In doing good the angel on the right shoulder notes it down and sets a seal upon it, for what is done is done forever. When evil is committed the angel on the left shoulder writes it down, but he waits until midnight before he seals it. If by that time the man bows his head and says, "Gracious Allah, I have sinned; forgive me!" the angel blots out the fault, but if not he seals it at midnight, and then the angel on the right shoulder weeps.

A Canine Feast.

A blind man, guided by a large and athletic dog, went down the street the other day. Just as they turned a corner the blind man's dog saw a dog it knew and darted forward in a way that threw the sightless mendicant to the ground. He was speedily assisted to his feet, however, by a waggish passerby, who remarked that he had heard some remarkable stories of the feats performed by dogs, but this was the first time he had ever known one to pull down the blind.

The Arctic Weasel.

In cold countries where snow prevails during a long winter many of the animals change the hue of their coats to a white tint. The Arctic weasel and fox are white throughout the year. The northern hare is brown in summer and white in winter. The weasel is especially curious. It retains its brown coat until the first snow appears and then changes in a few hours.

Official Paper of City of Fulton.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1910.

It will doubtless prove a surprise to many of the critics of the Payne Tariff law to learn that more than half of the merchandise, measured in terms of value, imported during the first six months of the operation of the law came in free of duty. The exact figures, including the six days in August during which the Dingley law remained in force, show that 51.5 per cent. came in free. This is a larger percentage of free imports than has occurred under any previous bill except that of 1890, which admitted sugar free of duty. The principal articles which came in free during the last six months were hides and skins, India rubber, pig tin, raw silk, fibres, cotton, copper, coffee, tea, cocoa, chemicals, works of art and undressed furs.

A high official in France is quoted as expressing a fear a few days ago that the prevailing floods in that country would reach the proportions of a national disaster. Two members of the French cabinet now estimate the losses at $200,000,000, and the crisis has barely passed. Though more is known about the conditions in Paris than in the rest of France, calamitous ruin evidently exists in a vast area outside the capital. A pitiful picture is drawn of the lack of shelter and food from which thousands are suffering, of the general paralysis of business and the uncertainty of the safety of the residence dwellings. So powerful an appeal will this situation make to the sympathies of foreigners that relief measures will quickly be adopted in many other countries if France intimates that such help would be welcome. Meantime the French government is meeting the heavy responsibilities suddenly thrust upon its shoulders with courage and a fine spirit of devotion. The reason for the deluge not yet been sufficiently explained for scientists to make predictions as to what may happen in France during the vernal freshets.

The administration is gravely concerned, according to Washington advice, over the treatment which the Alaskan government bill has received at the hands of the Senate Committee on Territories, which in amending the measure has practically defeated the purpose of the President. In the opinion of the administration, so long as the affairs of Alaska are left to the immediate direction of Congress there will be maintained an unsavory lobby in Washington and improper influences will be brought to bear to obtain legislation inimical to the best interests of the district. The remoteness of Alaska and the inability of members of Congress to judge of the merits of the legislation urged contribute chiefly to this result. Holding this view the administration caused a measure to be prepared which conferred on a commission, to be appointed by the President, the

ALLIDS CASE A BATTLE OF WITS

Legislators Interested in the Skillful Maneuvering.

MEADE'S INSURANCE BILL

The Senator From Rochester introduces Measure to Provide Form of Insurance Policies, by Savings Banks, Amount of Each Policy Not to Exceed $500—How a Great Saving to Wage Earners Would Result.

[Special Correspondence.] Albany, Feb. 8.—The maneuvers by both sides in the Conger-Allds controversy thus far have won the admiration of the experienced lawyers and veteran legislators in senate and assembly.

Accustomed, as members of almost any legislature are, to the most skillful strategy in parliamentary proceedings and familiar with most devices to bog an issue or put an accuser on the defensive, yet the manner in which the head counsel for the two senators have combated each other is, to say the least, illuminating. First the advantage has swung to one side, then to the other, and the battle of wits has the attention of all of the Empire State and, in truth, of most of the entire country.

That Bill of Particulars. One of the recent moves of Martin W. Littleton, head counsel for Allds, that of asking Conger for a bill of particulars regarding his charges, was a master stroke. The recognition of this request by Conger, Littleton well knew, would reveal to Allds vital evidence which Allds could take immediate steps to rebut, if possible. He would thus have a better opportunity for defense than if he were to be suddenly confronted during the inquiry with the evidence alleged to exist. Conger's friends were not slow in naming the request for a bill of particulars as what the courts have styled a "fishing excursion."

Jeckering For a Technical Position. Another explanation given regarding the request for a bill of particulars as to the name of the man alleged to have paid Allds the $1,000, the time and place where the payment is alleged to have occurred, the identity of the bill alleged to have been killed by Allds for a consideration, etc., is that Littleton and Allds would be technically secure in a position to demand that the senate arbitrarily order Conger to file such a statement. Of course the senate could not correctly do this until it convened as the committee of the whole on Tuesday to begin the inquiry.

Regarding Allds and Other Legislation. It was learned today that counsel for Conger have been trying to secure evidence against Allds on legislation outside of that mentioned in the formal charges. However, the introduction of such collateral testimony—that is, collateral as to the main issue—can be secured only by skillful answers to questions on the cross examination of Conger or of such witnesses as he may produce.

Allds' Charge Against Conger. Another skillful maneuver was the wording of Allds' official reply in writing to the Conger charges. Allds stated therein that Conger had charged that he (Conger) himself had paid money to Allds as a bribe. So far as the general public is concerned there is no widespread feeling that Conger really made the claim alleged by Allds. At any rate, he does not so state in his official written charges. Therefore the Allds answer contains a cleverly inserted counter charge which Conger must disprove if he desires to emerge from the controversy unscathed.

Cheap Insurance Planned by Meade Bill. Widespread discussion has been caused here by the introduction by Senator George L. Meade of Rochester of a bill permitting savings banks to establish insurance departments.

The measure is considered a place of genuine statesmanship here by those legislators who have read it, and favorable consideration will undoubtedly be given to it by the insurance committee of both senate and assembly. The Meade bill would permit savings banks to issue policies in amounts not to exceed $500. In the opinion of legislators familiar with the subject the enactment of the bill into law would prove of great benefit to the wage earners of the state. They point to the evils known to exist in the business of industrial insurance in many sections of the country and state that the Meade bill is the only secure method of securing cheap insurance rates on policies of low amount.

It is pointed out that if this bill becomes a law the man who cannot afford to carry more than $500 of insurance may get it at the same rate per hundred as the man who can afford to carry a $1,000 policy.

Would Cause Big Savings. Statistics show that of the 20,936,595 level premium life insurance policies outstanding Jan. 1, 1905, 15,078,510 were industrial insurance policies and such insurance as the Meade bill covers. With this large number of policies in force the saving which could be effected to those carrying industrial insurance is not a small item. The cost of management of the business is reduced to a minimum, because the employees of the banks do a large part of the work. The insurance would be given at the lowest possible cost—a great reduction on that charged by the insurance companies. The profits to stockholders, noted in dividends, and large salaries to officers and employees are of course done away with in the bank plan for industrial insurance.

Branch Agencies. The bill also provides for the establishment of branch agencies. When people go to banks to make deposits an opportunity is afforded to take out an industrial policy.

What Meade Says. In discussing the advantage of the plan to the small policy holder yesterday Senator Meade said: "The average expectancy of life in the United States of a man twenty-one years of age is, according to Meech's table of mortality, forty and twenty-five one-hundredth years. In other words, take any large number of men who are twenty-one years old and the average age which they will reach is sixty-one and one-quarter years."

"If a man beginning with his twenty-first birthday pays through life 50 cents a week into the savings bank and allows these deposits to accumulate for his family the survivors will, in case of his death at this average of sixty-one and one-quarter years, inherit $2,263 if an interest rate of 3 1/2 per cent is maintained."

"If this same man should, beginning at the age of twenty-one, pay throughout his life the 50 cents a week to one of the larger insurance companies as premiums on a so called industrial life policy for the benefit of his family the survivors would be legally entitled to receive upon his death at the age of sixty-one and one-quarter years only $320."

"If this same man, having made his weekly deposit in a savings bank for twenty years, should then conclude to discontinue his weekly payments and withdraw the money for his own benefit, he would receive $740.20. If, on the other hand, having made for twenty years such weekly payments to an insurance company, he should then conclude to discontinue payments and surrender his policy he would be legally entitled to receive only $165."

In Force in Massachusetts. The plan has been in force more than a year in Massachusetts. Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, who was the first man to urge the adoption of such a plan, has written to Senator Meade explaining its operation in the Bay State.

Mr. Brandeis says the industrial insurance companies have made a reduction of about 20 per cent in the cost of the premiums since the plan has been in force, there and that the savings to the workmen who carry industrial life insurance has been from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000.

The Next Republican State Ticket. Considerable talk is heard here regarding the makeup of the next Republican state ticket. With Governor Hughes voluntarily out of the running for the head place an open field of contest for the governorship exists. Already there are at least seven prominent men who could be "persuaded" to fill the governor's shoes.

Concerning the next Republican nominee for attorney general, much significance is attached to expressions made by members of the New York city delegation in both houses of the legislature. While it had been conceded in various quarters for some time that Attorney General Edward O'Malley of Buffalo could be re-nominated if he so desired, yet it is doubtful if he could again get on the ticket without the New York city delegates' votes in the convention.

As to O'Malley's Successor. And from the opinions of the New York legislators the boom for Abraham Gruber, the New York lawyer, has a good chance of landing Mr. Gruber on the ticket. This boom originated in New York city among many of the Republican district leaders. "Colonel" Gruber refuses to confirm the reports in New York that he would accept the nomination if offered to him. He is well known throughout the state as a lawyer, orator, humorist and poet. He was for years a law partner of ex-Governor Frank S. Black and frequently is seen in Albany arguing cases before the court of appeals.

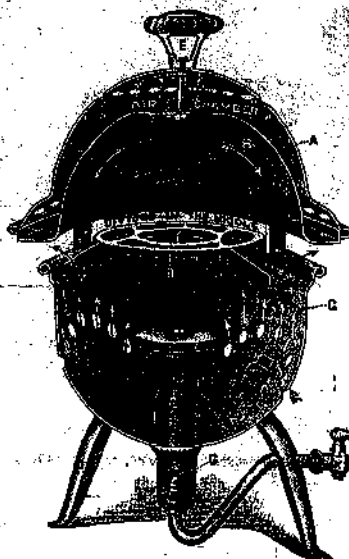

It is believed that Secretary of State Samuel Koenig will be re-nominated, but he is anxious to be a candidate for lieutenant governor.

Assembly Humorists at Their Tricks. The legislative humorists have again leaped into the saddle. A new member of the assembly, hailing from Buffalo, was awakened from a sound sleep in his hotel a few mornings ago by the ringing of the telephone bell. The hour was exactly 3 a. m. Thinking the hotel was on fire, he frantically jerked the receiver from the hook. The clerk's calm voice, however, reassured him:

"The sergeant-at-arms has notified me that you are wanted at once in the speaker's room at the capitol to attend an important conference at which the speaker, the lieutenant governor and the majority leaders of both houses will be present."

Greatly elated, the blushing statesman hurried into his clothes and made his way laboriously to the capitol. "What a great honor," he murmured. "Guess these wise guys up here recognize merit when they see it." And when he reached the capitol there was not a light to be seen or a soul to be seen. Every door was locked. Now he is looking for the person who sent the telephone message.

STRANGE COMPANIONS.

The "Happy Family" and a Kitten and a Hawk.

The first public exhibition of a "happy family" in England was given about fifty years ago, when there were shown a monkey, a cat, several rats and three or four pigeons in one cage. The monkey was on excellent terms with the cat so long as puss would allow him to warm himself by cuddling her; otherwise he would show his vexation by slily giving her tail a nip with his teeth.

The birds perched on the cat's back and pecked at her fur, and the rats were as friendly with their natural enemy as if she were one of their own sort.

A lady walking in the Isle of Wight observed a little kitten curled up on a mossy bank taking a midday nap. As she stopped to stroke it a hawk swooped down and, pouncing upon the kitten, hid it from sight.

The lady, fearing for the life of the kitten, tried to rescue it, but the hawk firmly faced her, stood at bay and refused to move. She hastened to a fisherman's cottage and told the inmates of the impending tragedy.

"It's always so," they said, laughing. "That hawk always comes down if any one goes near the kitten. He has taken to it and stays near at hand to watch whenever it goes to sleep."

The lady, greatly interested, made further inquiry and learned that the kitten's mother had died, after which the nursing was missed for several days. One day the hawk was seen about the cottage picking up scraps of meat and carrying them to the roof of the cottage.

The fisherman climbed up and found the lost kitten nestled in a hole in the thatch and thriving under the care of its strange foster father. It was brought down and restored to the cottage, but the hawk would not resign his charge and was always at hand to rescue the kitten from the caresses of strangers.—Philadelphia North American.

BLUNDERING REPORTERS.

Mistakes That Mangled the Speakers' Words and Feelings.

"Drunkness is folly!" earnestly exclaimed Bishop Magee in the house of lords on a celebrated occasion. How horrified was the prelate to read in the papers next morning that he had given utterance to the very bacchanalian sentiment. "Drunkness is folly!"

Lord Salisbury was a master phrase-maker, but one of his best points was spoiled when a careless reporter turned his reference to "manacles and mantles" into the meaningless "manacles and men at the bar."

Sir William Harcourt was badly misquoted once. "Great is Diana of the Ephesians!" he exclaimed upon the platform, but a country paper had it: "Great Dinah! What a farce is this!"

Lack of knowledge of familiar quotations is a prolific source of misreporting. For instance, a speaker once made use of the well known lines from Milton's "L'Allegro":

But come, thou goddess, fair and free, In heaven yepest Euphrosyne.

The country reporter deputed to "take him down" was in despair. He could not make head or tail of this mysterious utterance. But, following the sound as far as possible, he seized his pen and produced the following gem:

But come, thou goddess, fair and free, In heaven she crept and froze her knee.

The speaker was taken down in more senses than one.—London Answers.

Celebrating.

"What was that terrible noise going on in Popkin's apartment last night?" asked Wickley of the janitor. "They were celebrating their wedding," smiled the janitor. "Mrs. Popkin was hitting Popkin on the head with a rolling pin."

"Knocking wood for luck, eh?" grinned Wickley as he passed on, while the janitor chuckled.

The Actor's Mustache.
"You can always tell how long an actor has been out of work."

The speaker, an actor, stroked his long mustache.
"It is our long mustaches," he said, "that give us away. At work we must keep clean shaven. Once out of work, we start mustaches, for we love them. It is our nature to love them, as it is a woman's nature to love dress."

"Lend money, if you will, to the actor with a young mustache. He but recently lost his job. No doubt he will soon hook up again. But the actor with a long, luxuriant, drooping mustache should be advised to take office as a bodenearer, for his day is done on the boards."—Washington Post.

Curing the Liquor Habit.
When a man is found drunk in the streets of Pristrend, Albania, he is tied to a kind of triangle upon a donkey's back and is then paraded through the streets with a boy beating a drum in front of the procession. The innkeeper, too, who gave the man the drink is fined, and the money goes to the pasha. The drunkard is sentenced as well to several days of hard labor.

Chinese Opium Smugglers.
Of opium smuggling in China a Yunnan correspondent writes: "The other day some men passed through several towns on the way to the capital with three coffins. In the first was a corpse. The other two were packed with opium. Being suspected at Yunnanfu, the first coffin was opened, but the carriers made as much noise as they could for having their coffin burst, and the second and third coffins were not examined. Quite common is it for men to travel in small crowds, smuggling opium from the province of Kweichow. They travel by night only, by lantern light over the mountains, and in the day hide from any possible official searchers."

His Style of Voice.
"Most musical critics are fools," said Robinson. "Why, one of them recently wrote in his report of a concert where I sang that my voice was a baritone, whereas my voice is a pure basso."

"Yes," said Jones, "a basso relievo."
"Basso relievo?" replied Robinson, sharply. "Why, there is no such voice!"
"Oh, yes, there is," added Jones, "basso when you sing and a relief when you leave off, you know."—Medical America.

Yielding to the Majority.
A Philadelphia physician in declaring that insanity was frequently produced of sound logic tempered by wit told the story of a patient he once met in an asylum.

He came across this patient while strolling through the ground and, stopping, spoke to him. After a brief conversation the physician said:
"Why are you here?"
"Simply a difference of opinion," replied the patient. "I said all men were mad, and all men said I was mad, and the majority won."—Lippincott's.

A Humorous Thief.
A Belgian paper relates a story of a banker and municipal treasurer in an Italian town who disappeared, leaving a deficit of $100,000. The authorities proceeded to break open his strong box, which was found to contain a piece of paper including 50 cents and stating that the money was for the locksmith who should be deputed to break open the safe.

Effects of Ivy on Walls.
A writer in the Paris Revue Scientifique discusses the effects of ivy growing on walls of various kinds and arrives at the following conclusions: It is not advisable to allow the plant to grow on walls formed of newly cut stone, since it soon destroys the smooth surface, although the damage does not extend to any noticeable depth; it is bad for ancient walls of cut stone, the joints of which have been opened by the various effects of time and the weather; it is not injurious on brick walls if the inhabitants are not subject to rheumatism, and it is useful on ancient walls of rubble since its interlaced branches tend to prevent the fall of loose stones.

Dumas and "Monte Cristo." Alexandre Dumas, the great French novelist, never set foot on the island of Monte Cristo. When visiting Elba in 1842, the novelist sailed across to Monte Cristo in the hope of shooting some wild goats. On the point of landing, however, he learned from one of the sailors that as the island was uninhabited, no boat was allowed to touch there under penalty of six days' quarantine at the next port of call. It was therefore decided not to disembark, but Dumas insisted on rowing all round the island, because, he told his companion, Prince Napoleon, "I intend in memory of this trip with you to give the name of Monte Cristo to some book which I shall write later on."

Samuel Johnson and the Sauce.
"Long ago," writes a correspondent of the London Spectator, "I had an elderly acquaintance who told me that she had formerly known an aged lady who in her youth had met Samuel Johnson at dinner. The matron—so to call her—being asked whether she remembered any sayings or doings of the great man, unwillingly admitted that the only action of his which she could recall was that he took up a sauce tureen of melted butter and complacently poured its contents down his throat."

A Confident Life Guard.
A Philadelphia physician who was a member of an examining board at a New Jersey seaside resort to determine the fitness of applicants for appointment as life guards tells a good story in connection with the examination of one man. After a demonstration of the practical methods of reviving the apparently drowned the physician asked the applicant:

"Now, how long would you persevere in these motions of the arms?"
"Until the patient was dead, sir," was the applicant's startling response.

A Story of Graustark
By GEORGE BARR
M'CUTCHEON

Truxton King, a millionaire's son, sets out in search of adventure. Where better could he look for stirring events than in faroff Graustark, where the age of chivalry yet survives in all its romantic opportunity; where rules Prince Robin, the most precocious boy monarch in the realm of fiction; where the reds of Europe plot his murder in mysterious underground retreats; where gallant Truxton King and brave "Uncle Jack" fight valiantly for the preservation of the prince, and the love of beautiful princesses; where American pluck and manhood are pitted against foreign intriguers, and where honesty and courage are mightier than the sword? Read of Prince Robin, son of an American princess; of Olga Platanova, the girl with the dread mission; of Marlanx, the Iron Count; of John Tullis, the American bu-lwork of a foreign throne; of lovely Loraine and of daredevil Truxton King, and then you will understand why an American lad is Prince of Graustark and an American author prince of story tellers.

CHAPTER I.

HE was a tall, rawboned, rangy young fellow with a face so tanned by wind and sun you had the impression that his skin would feel like leather if you could affect the impertinence to test it by the sense of touch. His clothes fitted him loosely and yet were graciously devoid of the bagginess which characterizes the appearance of extremely young men whose frames are not fully set and whose joints are still parading through the first stages of college development.

This tall young man in the Panama hat and gray dannels was Truxton King, embryo globe trotter and searcher after the treasures of romance. Somewhere up near Central park, in one of the fashionable cross streets, was the home of his father and his father's father before him—a home which Truxton had not seen in two years or more. It is worthy of passing notice, and that is all, that his father was a manufacturer; more than that, he was something of a power in the financial world. His mother was not strictly a social queen in the great metropolis, but she was what we might safely call one of the first "ladies in waiting," which is quite good enough for the wife of a manufacturer, especially when one records that her husband was a manufacturer of steel. It is also a matter of no little consequence that Truxton's mother was more or less averse to the steel business as a heritage for her son. Be it understood here and now that she intended Truxton for the diplomatic service.

But neither Truxton's father, who wanted him to be a manufacturing Croesus, nor Truxton's mother, who expected him to become a social Solomon, appears to have taken the young man's private inclinations into consideration.

Young Mr. King bellowed in romance. He grew up with an ever increasing bump of imagination, contiguous to which, strange to relate, there was a properly developed bump of industry and application; hence it is not surprising that he was willing to go far afield in search of the things that seemed more or less worth while to a young gentleman who had suffered the ill fortune to be born in the nineteenth century instead of the seventeenth.

We come upon him at last—luckily for us we were not actually following him—after two years of wonderful but rather disillusioning adventure in mid-Asia and all Africa. He had seen the Congo and the Euphrates, the Ganges and the Nile, the Yangtze and the Yenisei; he had climbed mountains in Abyssinia, in Siam, in Tibet and Afghanistan; he had shot big game in more than one jungle and had been shot at by small brown men in more than one forest; to say nothing of the little encounters he had had in most unaccountable towns and cities.

For twenty days he had traveled by caravan across the Persian uplands, through Herat and Meshed and Bokhara, striking off with his guide alone toward the sea of Aral and the eastern shores of the Caspian, thence through the Ural foothills to the old Roman highway that led down into the sweet green valleys of a land he had thought of as nothing more than the creation of a harebrained fictionist. Somewhere out in the shimmering east he had learned, to his honest amazement, that there was such a land as Graustark. At first he would not believe, but the English bank in Meshed assured him that he would come to it if he traveled long enough and far enough into the north and west and if he were not afraid of the hardships that most men abhor. The dying spirit of romance flamed up in his heart. His blood grew quick again and eager. He would not go home until he had sought out this land of fair women and sweet tradition, and so he traversed the wild and dangerous Tartar roads for days and days, like the knights of Scheherazade in the times of old, and came at last to the gates of Edelweiss.

Not until he sat down to a rare dinner in the historic Hotel Regenitz was he able to realize that he was truly in that fabled, mythical land of Graustark, a quaint, grim little principality in the most secret nook of the earth's great mantle. This was the land of his dreams, the land of his fancy. He had not even dared to hope that it actually existed.

And now it becomes my deplorable duty to divulge the fact that Truxton King, after two full days and nights in the city of Edelweiss, was quite ready to pass on to other fields, completely disillusioned in his own mind and not a little disgusted with himself for having gone to the trouble to visit the place.

Where were the beautiful women he had read about and dreamed of ever since he left Teheran? On his soul, he had not seen half a dozen women in Edelweiss who were more than passably fair to look upon. True, he had to admit, the people he had seen were of the lower and middle classes—the shopkeepers and the shopgirls, the tucksters and the fruit vendors. What he wanted to know was this: What had become of the royalty and the nobility of Graustark? Where were the princes, the dukes and the

On several occasions he had seen a grim, sharp featured old man in the doorway of the shop, but it was not until after he had missed the Thursday train that he made up his mind to accost him and to have the broadsword at any price. With this object in view, he inserted his tall frame into the narrow doorway, calling out lustily for attention.

"What is it?" demanded a sharp, angry voice at his elbow. He found himself looking into the wizened, parchment-like face of the little old man.

"That broad—say, you speak English, don't you?"

"Certainly," snapped the old man. "Why shouldn't I? I can't afford an interpreter. You'll find plenty of English used here in Edelweiss since the Americans and British came. They won't learn our language, so we must learn theirs."

"What's the price of that old sword you have in the window?"

"Three hundred gawes."

"What's that in dollars?"

"Four hundred and twenty. It is genuine, sir, and 300 years old. Old Prince Boris carried it. It's most rare."

"I'll give you a hundred dollars for it, Mr.—er—"

"The open door—Mr. Spantz."

"I don't want your money. Good day."

Truxton King felt his chin in perplexity. "It's too much. I can't afford it," he said. Disappointment in his eyes.

"I have modern blades of my own make, sir, much cheaper and quite as good," ventured the excellent Mr. Spantz.

"You make 'em?" in surprise.

"The old man straightened his bent figure with sudden pride. 'I am an armorer to the crown, sir. My blades are used by the nobility—not by the army, I am happy to say.'"

"I say, Herr Spantz, or monsieur, I'd like to have a good long chat with you. What do you say to a mug of that excellent beer over in the cafe garden? Business seems to be a little dull. Can't you—er—look up?"

Spantz looked at him keenly.

"May I ask what brings you to Edelweiss?" he asked abruptly.

"I don't mind telling you, Mr. Spantz, that I'm here because I'm somewhat of a fool. False hopes led me astray. I came here looking for romance—for adventure."

"I see," chuckled Spantz, his eyes twinkling with mirth. "You thought you could capture wild and beautiful princesses here just as you pleased, eh? Let me tell you, young man, only one American—only one foreigner, in fact—has accomplished that miracle. Mr. Lorry came here ten years ago and won the fairest flower Graustark ever produced—the beautiful Yette—but he was the only one."

"No. I'm not looking for princesses. I've seen hundreds of 'em in all parts of the world."

"You should see Prince Robin," went on the armorer.

"I've heard of nothing but him, my good Mr. Spantz. He's seven years old, and he looks like his mother, and he's got a jeweled sword and all that sort of thing. I dare say he's a nice little chap. Got American blood in him, you see?"

The old man retired to the rear of the shop and called out to some one upstairs. A woman's voice answered.

"My niece will keep shop, sir, while I am out," Spantz explained.

They passed near the door until the old man's niece appeared at the back of the shop. King's glance became more or less in the nature of a stare of amazement.

A young woman of the most astounding beauty, attired in the black and red of the Graustark middle classes, was slowly approaching from the shadowy recesses at the end of the shop. His heart enjoyed a lively thump. Truxton King, you may be sure, did not precede the old man into the street. He deliberately removed his hat and waited most politely for age to go before youth. In the meantime blandly gazing upon the face of this amazing niece.

Across the square, at one of the tables, the old man, over his huge mug of beer, became properly grateful. He was willing to repay King for his little attention by giving him a careful history of Graustark, past, present and future.

The old man was rambling on. "The young prince has lived most of his life in Washington and London and Paris, sir. He's only seven, sir. Of course you remember the dreadful accident that made him an orphan and put him on the throne with the three wise men of the east as regents or governors—the train wreck near Brussels, sir. His mother, the glorious Princess Yette, was killed, and his father, Mr. Lorry, died the next day from his injuries. That, sir, was a most appalling blow to the people of Graustark. There never will be another pair like them, sir. God alone preserved the little prince. The collision was from the rear, a broken rail throwing a locomotive into the prince's coach. This providential escape of the young prince preserved the unbroken line of the present royal family."

"I say, Mr. Spantz, I don't believe I've told you that your niece is a most remarkable being!"

"As I was saying, sir," interrupted Spantz, so pointedly that Truxton dashed. "The little prince is the idol of all the people. Under the present regency he is obliged to reside in the principality until his fifteenth year, after which he may be permitted to travel abroad."

Spantz was eying him narrowly. "You do not appear interested in our royal family," he ventured coldly.

Truxton hastened to assure him that he was keenly interested. "Especially go now, I appreciate that the prince is the last of his race."

"There are three regents, sir, in charge of the affairs of state—Count Halfont, the Duke of Perse and Baron Jasto Dangleos, who is minister of police. Count Halfont is a granduncle of the prince by marriage. The Duke of Perse is the father of the unhappy Countess Ingomede, the young and beautiful wife of the exiled Iron Count Marlanx. No doubt you've heard of him."

"I remember that he was banished from the principality."

"Quite true, sir. He was banished in 1801 and now resides on his estates in Austria. Three years ago in Budapest he was married to Ingomede, the daughter of the duke. Count Marlanx has great influence at the Austrian court. The Duke of Perse realized this when he compelled his daughter to accept him as her husband. The fair Ingomede is less than twenty-five years of age. The Iron Count is fully sixty-five."

"I'd like to see if she's really beautiful. I've seen but one pretty woman in this whole blasted town, your niece, Herr Spantz. I've looked 'em over pretty carefully too. She is exceedingly attractive."

"You will not find the beautiful women of Edelweiss in the streets, sir," snapped Spantz.

"Don't they ever go out shopping?"

"Hardly. The merchants, if you will but notice, carry their wares to the houses of the noble and the rich. But tomorrow the garrison at the fortress marches in review before the prince. If you should happen to be on the avenue near the castle gate at 12 o'clock you will see the beauty and chivalry of Graustark. The soldiers are not the only ones who are on parade. There was an unmistakable sneer in his tone.

"You don't care much for society, I'd say," observed Truxton, with a smile.

Spantz's eyes flamed for an instant and then subtly resumed their most ingratiating twinkle. "We cannot all be peacocks," he said quietly.

"You will also see that the man who rides beside the prince's carriage wheel is an American. While Graustark nobles take less excited places."

"An American, eh?"

"Yes. Have you not heard of John Tullis, the prince's friend? He, your countryman, is the real power behind our throne. On his deathbed the prince's father placed his son in this

Surprising, What Kodol Will Do

For you, when you need it. But the longer you neglect indigestion, the more you will suffer before Kodol can restore Good Digestion.

And, of course, indigestion if neglected long enough, brings on serious diseases in which Kodol cannot benefit you. Some of these there is no help for at all.

There are, in fact, very few ailments which cannot be traced directly to impure blood. And impure blood is always due to a disordered stomach.

Use Kodol and prevent Nervous Dyspepsia.

Kodol will effectively assist Nature to secure a complete restoration of good digestion. It does this by at once digesting all food in the stomach and keeping it digested, until the stomach is rested and can resume its own work. Kodol removes the cause—and the effect quickly removes itself.

When it is recalled that Apoplexy, Heart Disease, Cancer—and even Consumption—are due to poor digestion and poisons thus transmitted to the blood, and throughout the system—the importance of maintaining good digestion is at once realized.

Dictionary Lore.

"Poison" and "poison" are doublets, the former being an older form of the latter. Both are derived from the Latin "poare" to drink, and "poison" in its original sense signified merely something to drink.

While the word "human" used as meaning "a human being" is now only colloquial or humorous, Lowell in the introduction to the "Biglow Papers" chided Bartlett for including it in his "Dictionary of Americanisms" and remarked that it was Chapman's habitual phrase in his translation of Homer and that it is found also in the old play of "The Hog with Lost His Pearl."—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

The Thrifty Maid.

"Goodby forever!" said the young man coldly as he prepared to depart. "I leave you now, never to return."

"Goodby," said the fair maid in the parlor scene, "but before you go let me remind you that you can telephone me in the morning ever so much cheaper than you can send a messenger, and you can buy me a box of chocolates with the difference."—Chicago News.

Surprising, What Kodol Will Do

For you, when you need it. But the longer you neglect indigestion, the more you will suffer before Kodol can restore Good Digestion.

And, of course, indigestion if neglected long enough, brings on serious diseases in which Kodol cannot benefit you. Some of these there is no help for at all.

There are, in fact, very few ailments which cannot be traced directly to impure blood. And impure blood is always due to a disordered stomach.

Use Kodol and prevent Nervous Dyspepsia.

Kodol will effectively assist Nature to secure a complete restoration of good digestion. It does this by at once digesting all food in the stomach and keeping it digested, until the stomach is rested and can resume its own work. Kodol removes the cause—and the effect quickly removes itself.

When it is recalled that Apoplexy, Heart Disease, Cancer—and even Consumption—are due to poor digestion and poisons thus transmitted to the blood, and throughout the system—the importance of maintaining good digestion is at once realized.

Local and Personal

Photographer and Mrs. W. H. Langdon and daughter, Cecil spent Sunday with Syracuse friends.

Mrs. M. A. Barnes recently spent a few days with relatives at Watertown and Three Mile Bay.

Miss Rhobe Barnes, assistant bookkeeper at the M. Katz store is spending a few days with relatives at Three Mile Bay.

The Standard Bearers of the First M. E. Church will give a cobweb social in the church parlors, Friday evening Feb. 11. A fine program will be given and dainty refreshments served. Doors open at 8 o'clock. Admission 10 cents. Everyone invited.

Mr. Walter Nelson and Miss Mae Parmlee gave about 20 of their friends a straw ride last Friday evening after which they were served to an oyster supper at the home of Miss Parmlee. Games and music were enjoyed until the early hours, when the guests departed. All report a very enjoyable time.

The investigation in the case of Fireman Clarence Merriam by the Fire Board was taken up again Thursday night, and warmly rehearsed until 2 o'clock that morning, when it was decided that the department had no cause for action in dismissing "Ching," so he will retain his position. It is evident there is some little friction in some departments as the chiefs of the department claimed Merriam left no substitute when he took a few days' leave for a fishing trip, and Merriam claimed he left one and one that was competent.

The engagement of Miss Sueie Hannis to Clayton Hall was very uniquely announced Thursday night at a dinner party held at the home of Mrs. F. E. La Porte. No one knew a thing about it until the guests were seated at the table, where they found place cards with long pink ribbons attached. The ribbons all led to the centerpiece of the table, where there was a beautiful bank of sweet peas, and at the ends of the ribbons were attached small cards, with Miss Hannis and Mr. Hall's names ascribed on them. There was much merriment and congratulating after the cards had been withdrawn, as the affair was a complete surprise to nearly everyone. Miss Hannis is one of the popular young women of the city. Her father is O. Hannis, proprietor of the Lewis House. Mr. Hall is one of the rising young men of the city, having been interested in the restaurant business here and later taking up journalistic work successfully. Mr. Hall is also a prime mover in the K. of P. lodge.

TROLLEY TIME CHANGED.

On Thursday last a new schedule went into effect on the Syracuse, Lakeshore and Northern railroad, the purpose being to improve the service and reduce the time between Fulton and Syracuse. There are now nineteen cars a day leaving Fulton, the first at 6:35 a. m. and the last at 12:45 p. m. Eight of these are limited cars, stopping only at Phoenix and Baldwinsville, and arriving in Syracuse in one hour and four minutes.

Following is the time table:
North Bound
Local cars—making all stops, leaving Syracuse at 5:22 a. m., 6:05 a. m., and every two hours until 10:05 p. m. then the last car at 11:35 p. m.

Limited cars—stopping only at Baldwinsville, Phoenix and Fulton, leaving Syracuse at 7:05 a. m., and every two hours until the last car north at 9:05 p. m.

South Bound
Local cars—making all stops, leave Fulton at 6:35 a. m. and every two hours until 10:35 p. m., then 11:35 and 12:45 p. m.—the last car.

Know Where He Was.
"When I was studying in Boston," said a musician, "they used to tell a tale about a man named Harper, an odd old character, who played a trombone in one of the small theaters there. One time they were rehearsing a new overture. Throughout the piece Harper was a little behind the rest of the men. Before they started it a second time the leader reproved Harper for not coming in more regularly with the other players. When they attempted it again Harper came in, as usual, two or three beats behind time. The leader stopped and, after letting loose a lot of profanity, demanded to know if the trombonist knew he was playing about half a dozen notes behind the others."

"Harper nodded. 'That's all right,' said he. 'I can catch up with the others any time I want to.'"—Philadelphia Telegraph.

Niagara Falls.
So far as our present knowledge goes, the earliest printed reference to Niagara falls is in the record of a voyage by the celebrated Jacques Cartier in 1535. Its position was first mentioned by Champlain in a map attached to his voyages, published in 1613. The earliest description of the falls is that of Father Hennepin, who visited them in 1678. His account was published with a sketch giving a full view of the cataract. The name "Niagara" means "thunder of waters" and was given it by the Indians. Opinions differ as to the age of the falls, some placing it at 500,000 years, others as low as 20,000 years.—New York American.

An attack of the grip is often followed by a persistent cough, which to many proves a great annoyance. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been extensively used and with good success for the relief and cure of this cough. Many cases have been cured after all other remedies have failed. Sold by E. A. Talk.
Good talk has so much shorthand that it cannot be reported. The infection, the change of voice, the shrug, cannot be caught on paper. The best of it is when the subject unexpectedly goes cross legs, by a flash of short cut, to a conclusion so suddenly revealed that it has the effect of wit. It needs the highest culture and the finest breeding to prevent the conversation from running into mere persiflage on the one hand—its common fate—or monologue on the other. Our conversation is largely chaff.—Charles Dudley Warner.

THE BEST HOUR OF LIFE
medicine like that. Its surest discoverer some wonderful fact. This hour came to J. R. Pitt, of Rocky Mt., N. C., when he was suffering intensely, as he says, "from the worst cold I ever had. I then proved to my great satisfaction, what a wonderful Cold and Cough cure Dr. King's New Discovery is. For, after taking one bottle, I was entirely cured. You can't say anything too good of a medicine like that." Its surest and best remedy for diseased lungs, Hemorrhages, LaGrippe, Asthma, Hay Fever, any throat or Lung Trouble, 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

A Scriptural Weapon.
Children tumble into strange morasses when they grapple with theology. They trip over words. For example, the other day a teacher at Stepien took for the Bible lesson the story of Samson. At the end of the lesson questions were put to test the understanding of the scholars. "With what weapon did Samson slay a thousand Philistines?" was the question. For a space there was silence. Then a little girl spoke up. "With the ax of the apostles," she said.—London Chronicle.

Now They Only Nod When They Pass.
Two members of the Occultism club met at a social function recently. They were both trying to be elected to office in the club, and there was much rivalry between them.

"The swami tells me," said No. 1 sweetly, "that you were a nihilist in your last incarnation. He knew you. It seems, isn't it wonderful what changes are wrought?"

"It is indeed," remarked the other blandly. "He knew you also, you know, my dear, in that other condition."

"And what was I?" asked No. 1, startled out of all caution.

"You were my cow, dear," was the reply, and the two women separated almost rudely.—Chicago Tribune.

A Primitive Clock.

A naturalist while visiting Great Saiguit, one of those islands of the Indian ocean known as the Celebes or Spice islands, found a curious time recorder lodged at the house of a rajah. Two bottles were firmly lashed together and fixed in a wooden frame. A quantity of black sand ran from one bottle into the other in just half an hour, and when the upper bottle was empty the frame was reversed. Twelve short sticks marked with notches from one to twelve were hung upon a string. A book was placed between the stick bearing the number of notches corresponding to the hour last struck and the one to be struck next. The sentry announced the time by striking the hours on a large gong.

THE AGILE ESKIMO.

Habit Enables Him to Scale Ice Clad Heights With Ease.

"In all my experience I had never encountered a rougher, more difficult country in which to hunt than in Ellesmere Land," writes Harry Whitney in Outing. "Ordinarily I should have believed these mountain sides, with walls of smooth rock sheathed with a crust of hard ice and snow, quite unscalable."

"In places they were almost perpendicular. Rarely did they offer a crevice to serve as foot or hand hold, and jutting points and firm set bowlders were too widely scattered to be of much help."

"In this his native land the Eskimo has a decided advantage over the white hunter. His lifetime of experience has taught him to scale these ice clad heights with a nimbleness and ease that are astounding. He is quite fearless, and even the mountain sheep is not his superior as a climber."

"As if by magic and with little apparent effort the two Eskimos flew up the slippery walls, far outstripping me. How they did it I shall never know. Now and again I was forced to cut steps in the ice or I should, inevitably have lost my footing and been hurled downward several hundred feet to the rocks beneath."

"I was astonished even at my own progress, and when I paused to glance behind me I felt a momentary panic. But there was no turning back, and one look robbed me of any desire to try it."

"The Eskimo has no conception of distance. He is endowed with certain artistic instincts which enable him to draw a fairly good map of a coast line with which he is thoroughly familiar, but he cannot tell you how far it is from one point to another. Often when Eskimos told me a place we were bound for was very close at hand it developed that we were far from it. This they are never sure of and cannot indicate."

"The Eskimos—have a white man 'stung to death' from every point of view. They not only can go to sleep promptly, but sleep soundly and well as they travel when circumstances permit. They get sustenance, too, by eating hard frozen walrus and seal meat or blubber. This I could never do, for it is so strong in flavor that it invariably nauseated me, though I did succeed very well with raw hare or deer's meat when I had it."

Self Protection.
"You didn't really need a wig."
"I was driven to it. Now the barber won't try to sell me any toques or hair restorer."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Never add the burden of yesterday's trouble to that of tomorrow. The one is past; the other may never come.

THE SILVANDO.

Queer Whistling Language of the Canary Island Natives.

In Gomera, one of the smallest of the Canary Islands, the silvando, or whistling language, survives. A correspondent writes: "A traveler must land at the little port of San Sebastian and there find a muletter from the interior. With him he must ride up the steep bridge paths that wind through the mountains. When no longer any living thing is within sight and the wilderness is only broken by the crimson flower of the cactus growing in the clefts of the rock, the muletter dismounts, sets his forefingers together at a right angle and places them in his mouth. An arrow of piercing sounds shoots across the ravines and up the stony terraces into the fastnesses of the mountains. A muletter's pause and there comes a thip, almost uncanny, answering whistling from far away. Conversation begins and as the sounds rise and fall, are staccatoed or drawn out, so they are faithfully echoed and transmitted by the hills."

"Then comes the ghostly reply, and then question and answer follow without hesitation or misunderstanding. Perhaps the stranger will ask, 'What are you doing there?' Answer: 'There is a traveler with me. One of our mules is lame. Can you bring us a fresh one?' 'Yes, I can. Do you want anything else?' 'You might bring some milk along if you have any,' and so on. That the conversation is correctly interpreted is presently confirmed by the arrival of the mule and the milk, and the distance that separated the parties to the dialogue turns out to be about three miles."

"Long notes and short notes, rising and falling tones, go to make this marvelous means of communication. No record is to be found of its origin or history, and it will be a thousand pities if scientific investigation is not made before the silvando is added to the list of dead languages, as assuredly it will be within the next two or three generations."—Chicago News.

first, because it is a necessity—that is the rule in magazine buying of America's intellectual aristocracy. It is indispensable to the busy business man, who must keep abreast of the times, because it gives him the real news of the day in concise, readable form; it is invaluable to the thinking man, who demands only the truth; and then draws his own conclusions, because it gives him just plain, straight facts.

It is helpful to the whole family. In it you will find a monthly picture of men, and affairs by Dr. Albert Shaw, in his comprehensive editorial, "Progress of the World," a clever cartoon history of the month; book reviews; the gist of the best which has appeared in the other magazines and newspapers of the world; witty character sketches; and interesting articles on the all-important topics of the day. ### OSWEGO CANAL TO CLOSE.

Albany, Feb. 2.—Legislation to provide for the closing of the Oswego canal between Three Rivers and Lock No. 11, just north of the city of Fulton, will be urged at once in connection with a decision given today by Superintendent F. C. Stevens of the State Department of Public Works to permit McDermott & Co., contractors, to continue work on contract No. 10 of the barge canal, involving the dredging of the Oswego river, the building of two locks and the raising of two dams at Fulton.

"This contract was let for $1,125,000 and involves some of the most difficult work on the barge canal. McDermott & Co. went into the hands of a receiver recently and there was doubt as to the methods to be adopted to close the job. Bankers of the firm accompanied the contractors to Albany and explained that the receivership was a friendly proceeding and that the interest of the firm, covering work in different sections of the country, would be protected until the work on the contract was finished.

Representatives of business interests in Fulton and Oswego were in Albany with the contractors and backed up applications which had been made to Superintendent Stevens to have the canal at Fulton closed this season in order that the work here may be rushed to completion without further interference with navigation. It is proposed to continue the operation of the Oswego canal in the regular season between Three Rivers Point and Syracuse and also between Fulton and Oswego, which makes the closed portion of the canal a section only about three miles long at Fulton.

Guy Moulton, Division Engineer, says that the closing of the Oswego canal would have no serious effect upon through traffic.

"The traffic between Syracuse and Oswego over the Oswego canal," he says, "is never very large. Practically the only regular boat over this waterway is a freighter, which makes the trip daily. There is some traffic in clay from Three Rivers to this city, but that of course, might be brought here by rail. The transportation of wood pulp from points in Canada to the paper mills at Fulton would be affected."

SALVATION ARMY SIEGE MEETINGS LASTING ONE MONTH

JOY THAT BRINGS WOE

Shock of Sudden Glad Tidings at Time Turns the Brain.

IT HAS DRIVEN PEOPLE MAD.

Some of the Saddest Cases of Lunacy Are Those Where the Mind Is Unable to Stand the Strain of News of Unexpected Good Fortune.

It is no exaggeration to assert, said an asylum doctor of long and varied experience, that there are scores of men and women in insane asylums who have literally been sent there through excess of joy. Many of these cases which are, in my opinion, the saddest of all have come under my own observation.

I remember in the very first asylum with which I was connected one of the patients was a strikingly handsome and very well educated man, who was as sane as you or I except on one point. He was really a man of considerable wealth, but his delusion was that he was a pauper, and he would tell the most pitiful tales of his destitution, begging, with tears in his eyes, for a few coppers with which to buy bread.

According to the story told me, he was the only son of a wealthy merchant. In his youth he had fallen among evil companions and had led such a dissolute life that his father not only threatened to disinherit him, but forbade him ever to enter his house again. After that he seems to have sunk into the lowest depths of poverty until he was glad to earn a few coppers by selling papers or matches in the streets.

It was at this last and lowest stage that news came to him that his father had died intestate and that he was heir to all his vast fortune. The sudden news completely turned the man's brain and brought on such a condition of excitement that he had to be sent to an asylum, and when he calmed down again he had lost all recollection of his good fortune, and nothing could shake his delusion that he was on the verge of starvation.

Another patient in the same asylum was a young and in his luck moments a most intelligent fellow, whose "brin" was turned, as the saying is, on learning that he had passed an examination. He had sat for the matriculation examination at the University of London, on passing which he had set his heart and had asked a friend in London to wire the result as soon as the names were screened at Burlington House.

About three weeks later came a fatal telegram, "Failed—sorry," which sent the young man into the lowest depths of despair, for he was too old to sit again. Not many hours later, however, came another telegram, "Passed honors—very sorry crash so great did not see same this morning."

The revulsion of feeling was so great that the student's reason gave way, and he became so violent in his excitement that he had to be confined. Fortunately he was not with us long and is now, I am glad to know, doing very well as a solicitor.

Disappointed love sends many people to asylums, but it is very seldom that success in wooing drives a man mad. It had this strange effect, however, on one of my late patients. The girl he loved had gone out to India to keep house for her brother before he had screwed up his courage to the point of proposing to her, but an offer followed by mail very quickly after her.

Weeks and months passed and no answer came to the impatient lover until, after waiting two years in despair, he became engaged to a girl who had nothing but her money bags to recommend her and for whom he had not a particle of love. Scarcely, however, was his fate sealed than he received the long despatch of letter from India, accepting his offer and explaining that the girl's brother had received and mislaid the letter, which had only just been found and had come into her hands.

Within an hour of the receipt of this letter the man was a raving maniac, and, although his condition is improved, I doubt whether he will ever recover his reason.

In another remarkable case it was the joy at seeing her husband again that robbed a lady patient of her reason. Her husband was the captain of a merchant ship which was reported to have gone down with all hands. The widow had deeply mourned her husband for nearly a year when one day on returning from a walk she found him sitting in the drawing room as hale and robust as ever.

With a shriek she fell unconscious on the floor, and when she recovered her reason was gone. It seems that her husband, after floating for some time, had been picked up by a passing "tramp" and had been landed on the west coast of Africa, from which he had returned home by the first available vessel.—London Spectator.

Charitable.

It is said of the author of a volume of biography that his verdict on the great of his chosen period is much that of the New Hampshire parson at the highly approved funeral of a parishioner: "Brother, we must agree that our deceased friend was mean in some things, but let us in Christian charity allow that he was meaner in others."

HIS TRAGIC DREAM.

A Grim Ghost Story That Comes From the Netherlands.

The following remarkable ghost story is told of two brothers, members of a distinguished family in Friesland, a province of the Netherlands. The young men were officers in the same regiment, and their only fault—a certain rash valor—was different from the quiet prudence so characteristic of their nation—made their comrades almost idolize them.

These young officers were exceedingly anxious to see a ghost and took a great deal of pains to plunge into all sorts of gloomy places in the hope of finding them haunted by beings from the other world. At last they seemed to find the orthodox old castle with its haunted room. Everybody bore witness to the horrible sights and sounds which to be seen and heard therein, and these young gentlemen determined to pass the night there.

It was Christmas eve, and they provided themselves with a good supper and a bottle of wine each, a fire, lights and loaded pistols. The hours wore on. No ghost was seen; no ghastly sounds were heard. The younger brother, wrapped closely in his warm cloak, laid his head on the table and deliberately resigned himself to a comfortable sleep. The elder brother, though exceedingly weary, determined to remain awake and await the issue of events.

After while a noise roused him from a reverie into which he had fallen. He raised his eyes and beheld the wall opening in front of his seat. Through the opening glided a tall figure in white, who signed to him to follow.

The rose and followed the figure through long, damp, dark passages till they reached a large, brilliantly lighted room where a ball was going on. Above the strains of music and the din of voices pierced a strange, sharp, clicking sound, like the notes of castanets.

Bewildered and dazzled by this sudden transition from darkness and silence to this gay festive scene, it was some moments before he could collect his senses, but he was shocked by perceiving that these gayly dressed ladies and their richly uniformed cavaliers were skeletons, and the curious sound that impressed him so strangely was the clicking of feeble jaws!

The figure at his side ordered him to take a parting from this hideous throng, which he refused to do. Irritated at this refusal, the figure raised his arm to strike, but the officer instantly leveled at him the pistol he had continued to grasp and discharged it full in his face.

With the shock and report he started to his feet. The white figure, the ballroom, the fearful, ghastly dancers, all had vanished, and he was in the room where he had supped, but his brother lay dying at his side.

He had shot him in his dream and awakened only to receive his last utterance. From that awful Christmas night he was an altered man. All the gayety had gone out of his life, all the sunshine had faded from his days, and after a few years of unrelenting anguish of remorse he found himself unable to bear the burden of his regrets and put an end to his life.

To Gauge His Wife's Temper.

"I heard about a peculiar case of henpecked husband recently," said a young woman the other day.

"What was it?" her friend inquired.

"There is a man who has some difficulty in gauging his wife's temper, and at other times—well, he rather thinks that married life is a failure."

"He has a peculiar manner of finding out the state of his wife's feeling toward him. In the evening when he returns home from work he never steps into the house without going through a sort of ceremony. First he throws his hat in the house, and then he seats himself on the steps and waits. If five minutes pass without the hat being thrown out again he enters and generally finds his wife very agreeable. However, if the hat is thrown out again the unfortunate man seeks hospitality for the night somewhere else rather than brave the anger of his helpmeet."

The Fishing Otter.

The otter used by Scottish poachers is one of the most deadly fishing instruments known. In some waters it is far more effective than a net. It may be described as a water kite, which serves to take out over the water a line bearing fifty or more flies. The otter itself is a floating piece of board loaded along one side to keep it upright. The poacher walks along the side of the loch or river, letting out the fly decorated line as he goes, the otter board gradually working out toward the center. An enormous area of water is fished at one time and numbers of fish are killed.

DEATHS

Medina, the 13-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer of the town of Fulton, died on Monday night from abscesses in the head caused by a release from an attack of mumps.

The death of John Shackleton, aged 61, and for 34 years a resident of the city, occurred on Thursday at his home in West Fourth street. The funeral services were held on Sunday from the late home and burial was made in Mt. Adnah. The deceased was born in England. The immediate survivors are two sons, Messrs. Joseph of this city and James of Philadelphia, Pa.

Ransom P. Alger, aged 84, passed away at his home in Worth street on Wednesday after a long period of illness. Mrs. Alger died a few months ago and the husband has been steadily failing since her demise. The funeral services were held from the late home, Dr. J. G. Cornwell officiating. Interment was made in the family lot in Mt. Adnah. The survivors are two daughters, Mrs. Elizabeth Coy of Ithaca and Mrs. Effie Allen of Chelsea, Wis.

The death of Thomas Guilfoyle, a life long resident of this city, occurred at his home on Tuesday morning after a tedious illness. The funeral arrangements have not been made. The immediate survivors are the widow, three daughters, Mary M. Guilfoyle and Anna Irene Guilfoyle of Fulton, and Mrs. Fred W. Guilfoyle of Niagara Falls; one son, James Guilfoyle, and one sister, Mrs. Maggie Heslen of Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Summerville attended the funeral of Mr. Summerville's cousin, Bernice Heron, of Plainville, on Thursday; they also attended the funeral of Mr. Summerville's aunt, Mrs. William Bruce of Syracuse, formerly Miss Clara Summerville of Bowen's Corners on Sunday. The remains were brought to Fulton and interment was made at the Rural Cemetery, Gravelly. Mrs. Bruce is survived by her husband, two sons, George and William, of Syracuse, and four brothers.

William White, resident of the town of Hastings, died Thursday at the home of his nephew, Clinton Harrington, near his village. He was born in England and in 1873 went on muleback to Auburn to be naturalized. He was a Democrat and took an active part in politics, being carried to the polls last Fall to cast his vote. He was a prominent Odd Fellow and was initiated into Central Square Lodge in 1851. One son, John W. White, survives. The funeral will be held Sunday.

Patrick Kennedy, aged 68, died at his home in this city on Feb. 8, after several months illness. The funeral services were held from the late home and the Catholic church on Friday morning, the Rev. J. L. Lindsman officiating. Burial was made in St. Mary's. The immediate survivors are the widow; one daughter, Mrs. John McCue, Waterloo; two brothers, Andrew, of Virginia City, Nev., and James, of Minnesota. The death of Mr. Kennedy is the third of his family in one year, his sisters, Mrs. James McDonough and Mrs. Mary Motue, having passed away last January and June respectively.

CORPORATION TAX RETURNS TO BE FILED MARCH 1

Government Takes First Steps Towards Enforcement of the Penalty Against Corporation That Fail to File Returns Within the Prescribed Time.

The Department at Washington has issued an order to Collectors of Internal Revenue, directing that all corporation tax returns filed after March 1st be stamped with the date of receipt, and that those received through the mail have the envelopes bearing post marks showing the time of mailing, attached to the return contained therein and forwarded to Washington as a part of the report. All insurance companies, including those operating under the lodge system, and all manufacturing, mercantile, public service, and insurance companies, are required to make returns regardless of the amount of business transacted during the year. The companies under suspension must make the same reports as an active concern and failure to receive notice will not relieve any corporation from the penalties imposed for failure to make the return. Any company or corporation that has not received a notice, and is required to file a return, should secure them by addressing P. B. Gardick, Collector, Syracuse, N. Y.

JUDGE BEN LINDSEY

Fortunes of "Mickey" Told in a Public Manner: Work of Juvenile Court Described.

Those who were permitted to listen to Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver, at the Wednesday evening in the E. Church, will probably remember a very distinct recollection of the story told by the originator of the Juvenile Court as long as they are of anything like over-enthusiasm and sentimentality and told with a very definite fact, the assemblage being imbued with a consciousness of the Judge Lindsey's services, rendering a class of human beings who are hitherto regarded as outcasts, to the highest.

Judge Lindsey might not be classified as an orator, yet he possesses the qualities that inspire and arouse the enthusiasm of his audiences. In physical appearance he is small of stature, with black eyes and hair worn thin at the temples.

The Judge was introduced to the Fulton assemblage by Mr. John Hunter, who paid a well-deserved compliment to the superb work of which Judge Lindsey was the originator and which is now being conducted in some form for the benefit of the city in every important city of the West.

Judge Lindsey spoke for over two hours, holding the closest attention of his audience, after which an informal reception was held, the assemblage bidding him Godspeed in his work. The lecture closes the entertainment for the benefit of the Public Library, held under the auspices of the Current Events Club, and while not financially successful, was of the highest class and throughly enjoyed.

CITY WATER ANALYZED

Officer R. J. Casack has received from the State Department of Health an analysis of the city water supply. It is of a nature to be gratifying to the users of the fluid; the last report received for publication being far from satisfactory. The supposition is that the annexing by the former superintendent of public works of the cow wallow and duck ponds on the Taylor farm had polluted the supply and this pollution has now been overcome.

The report is relative to a sample taken from a public tap on Jan. 18, 1910, at 10 a. m., by a director of the State Hygiene Laboratory and it was secured and sealed by a representative from Cornell University. Following is the result of the analysis: Color, trace; odor, hot, too sweetish; odor, cold, too musty; turbidity, clear; solids, total, 360; loss on ignition, 83; mineral residue, 277; nitrogen of ammonia, free, trace; ammonia, albuminoid, total, .006; nitrites, .001; nitrates, .04; oxygen consumed, .931; chlorine, .108; hardness, total, 173.6; bacteria, per c. m., 33; bacteria coli communis, not present. Remarks:—The organic nitrogen content is low and the water is hard. The bacterial count is low and organisms of the bacilli coli type were not found.

POSTAL PRINTING RESTRICTED

Washington, Feb. 14.—A restriction of the printing duties of the Postoffice Department is included in the postoffice appropriation bill, which is practically completed. This prohibits the department from furnishing stamped envelopes containing the names and addresses of business houses to which they are supplied. Heretofore for a slight additional compensation the department has been permitted to perform this work, and banking firms found it particularly useful. Various printing firms throughout the country protested, however, and the committee decided to stop the practice. It will still be permissible for the department to print the words, "If not delivered in days, return."

OSWEGO DETERMINED

Representatives of manufacturing plants in Oswego that take water from the Vortick and Hydraulic canals are planning to attend the hearing on the bill relative to the closing of the Oswego canal between Fulton and Three Rivers to be held before the Senate February 16th, and ask that the measure be amended so as to provide for the closing of the canal from Oswego to Fulton. Unless this is done the manufacturers claim that they will have no water power at all this summer, and will have either to run their plants by steam or close down.

POSTAL SAVINGS INSTITUTION

National Republican Administration Very Much in Earnest in Advocating Their Adoption.

"We favor the establishment of a postal savings bank system for the convenience of the people and the encouragement of thrift."—Republican National Platform.

The foregoing was emphasized by President Taft during his address before the Republican Club in New York City last Saturday, in celebration of Lincoln's birthday.

The establishing of the postal savings bank is a measure to which the National Administration is fully committed. What is required and reasonably expected by President Taft from Congress is a postal savings system conducted in a manner best adapted to bring the largest measure of good to all the people and produce a stable and well-ordered financial system which shall keep pace with our onward progress in social, intellectual, and moral development.

To contrast the measure locally, the argument has been put forth that the banks in our city have ample facilities for taking care of all the business entrusted to them. This is quite true, and also that they enjoy the fullest confidence of citizens and the more intelligent foreigners.

Ample food for reflection, however, might be found in the following: Acting under instructions from the Department, Postmaster Hughes was required to furnish a careful estimate of the total amount of money orders which had been obtained at the Fulton post office during the past fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1909, ostensibly for savings purposes. The estimate was obtained from the money order applications remaining on file in the office, and it was discovered that the enormous total of $37,668.29 had been forwarded to Italy and southern Europe for the purpose designated.

If it had been possible to retain 50 per cent. of this amount in our local banks it would have been worth while. There is no use disguising the fact that foreigners are distrustful of our banking institutions. They have been accustomed to deposit their accumulations in postal savings banks in their native land and exhibit a decided preference for them.

Again, it can not be disputed that there is more or less money stored away in hiding places at all times, especially during financial scare periods, for there is nothing so sensitive as capital, which will fly to a place of safety whenever there is the slightest suspicion in the air. This may be truthfully stated without any reflection upon the stability of our banks.

It is also unreasonable to suppose that any man would keep a great amount of money in the postal savings bank indefinitely, because it would pay him better to put his savings into a regular institution or invest them. Therefore the argument that the postal savings bank would attract a great amount of money at all times, simply for safekeeping, is not tenable. 2 per cent. per annum, as against 3 1/2 or 4 per cent. paid by savings institutions throughout this country would preclude the possibility of the postal savings banks competing with existing institutions.

The question might naturally be asked why should not this country, with all its wealth, have a greater percentage of savings bank deposits than any other? To be sure we have the highest per capita amount of deposits by great odds, but we should also have the greatest per centage of depositors, and we would have with postal banks. England has a population of 43,000,000, with 11,000,000 depositors, or 25 per cent. of the population, while in the United States, with 82,000,000, there are 7,500,000 depositors, or 9.13 per cent. The only explanation that can be given is that there is a lack of facilities in this country, and not because we lack the prosperity to make the savings possible, if our people had the proper advantages.

Statistics show that 38 per cent. of all the savings banks deposits in the United States are in New York State, 33 per cent. in the New England States, 19 per cent. in Massachusetts, about 8 per cent. in California, 4 per cent. in Pennsylvania, 5 per cent. in Illinois, 4 per cent. in Iowa, and about 8 per cent. in all the remaining States of the Union.

PROSPEROUS SOCIETY.

The society of the Church of the Immaculate Conception is in a most prosperous condition and the Rev. J. L. Lindsman and his members are to be congratulated upon the showing given by the report of the year's work which ended on Dec. 31, 1909.

During the past year, the society of pious people has paid off a mortgage of $4,500; cleared up a floating debt; expended several thousand dollars in repairs and improvements to church and parsonage. There is not a penny of outstanding indebtedness—at present and the treasury contains a balance of $4,200.

This splendid showing could not be without the best of understanding and the heartiest co-operation between the pastor and his people.

Contributions for the fair to be held after Easter, continue to be sent, and without solicitation. Many really choice articles having been received by the committee since the list was published. The fair gives promise of being the most successful ever held in Fulton.

SCHOOL MONIES APPORTIONED

School Commissioners Gardner, Kandt and Richards met on Monday and apportioned the school moneys of the County to the various towns. The total amount is $53,225 which does not include the amount allowed for Oswego City and Fulton.

One half of the money will be available March 15th and the balance about May 1st.

The apportionment is as follows:

First District—Granby, $2,850; Hannibal, $2,950.00; New Haven, $2,400; Oswego Town, $2,325.00; Scriba, $2,875; Volney, $2,100; total, $14,900.00.
Second District—Amboy, $1,300.00; Constantia, $3,475.00; Hastings, $2,975.00; Palermo, $2,250.00; Parish, $2,800; Schroepel, $3,525; West Monroe, $1,375; total, $17,300.
Third District—Albion, $2,950; Boylston, $1,800; Mexico, $3,425; Orwell, $1,750; Richland, $4,500; Redfield, $1,800; Sandy Creek, $3,025; Williamstown, $1,675; total, $20,925.

FARMER'S INSTITUTE

Session Will Be Held in Fulton, March 2-3, 1910

The programs issued by the Department of Agriculture for the Farmers' Institutes to be held in Oswego County from February 25 to March 11, inclusive, indicate the improvement made in this work, year by year, and also the corresponding advance in agricultural practice.

The conductor of these institutes, F. E. Gott, of Spencerport, is ably assisted by T. B. Wilson, of Halls Corners; J. A. Egan, of Pattersonville; Calvin L. Huson, of Penn Yan; A. J. Merrell, representing the State Education Department; Mrs. S. N. Judd, of Canton, regular institution lecturer; and C. M. Taylor and W. H. Alderman, from the Geneva Experiment Station, specialists in orchard management and small fruit growing. Several local speakers will also be heard.

Mr. Gott is a practical farmer engaged in fruit and vegetable growing. He has been most successful in raising an apparently worm-out farm to a condition of great productiveness by means of efficient methods in soil improvement. The institute work of Mr. Gott covers a period of several years in various parts of the state. Mr. Wilson is best known in connection with the dairy work of fruit trees and the ten miles of upland, but he raises large general farm crops, and represents the class of farmer who have attained success by employing modern business methods. As a dairyman, Mr. Egan has had a usual success in the care and feeding of the dairy herd and in the production of milk. In the improvement and freeing from debt of a much run-down farm, he has demonstrated that farming may be made a paying business. Mr. Huson, a prominent breeder of Berkshire swine, is authority on all questions relating to pork production. Mr. Merrell's long experience as an educator enables him to treat comprehensively that subject of so great importance to every home—the school. By training and years of experience Mrs. Judd has qualified in home economics and for the interesting discussion of this subject.

Those to whom the farm is a business enterprise and those interested in any of the subjects announced are urged to be present—there will be something for everyone. The places and dates are: Hannibal, February 25-26; South West Oswego, February 28; Phoenix, March 1; Fulton, March 2-3; Central Square, March 4; Williamstown, March 4-5; Pulaski, March 7; and an Institute School at Mexico, March 8, 9, 10 and 11.

TO GUARANTEE 100 CENTS ON A DOLLAR

The stockholders of the Aetna Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., have increased their capital stock $1,000,000, making it now $5,000,000 and their net surplus $1,000,000, making it over $6,000,000. THIS OLD TIME-TRIED AND FIRE-TESTED COMPANY and others of like ability are represented by C. W. STREETER "Insurance that Insures" 3.9

A FARM BARGAIN.

This place will suit you. Eighty acres, located near pleasant village. Buildings and land first class. House for two families. Has been owned and occupied by one family over 40 years. Possession could be had at once or April 1st. For particulars address, "Owner," care Times office, 66 First street, Fulton. 2.16

ORDER TO COLLECT JUDGMENT

Surrogate Miller on Monday entered an order permitting Cora M. Le Pointe, of Fulton to collect a judgment rendered in the case of John LePointe against Mober and Pratt of Lewis County. Mr. Le Pointe was killed there over a year ago.

FEDERAL BUILDING PROJECT

Congressman Knapp Asks for $90,000, Instead of $85,000, in Conformity With Suggestion from Architects Department.

A Times representative recently called on Congressman Charles L. Knapp at Washington and was permitted to enjoy a few moments conversation with him regarding the status of the proposed Federal building for this city.

Congressman Knapp stated that in conformity with a suggestion from the Architects department it was considered advisable to ask for an increased appropriation in order that a more substantial fire-proof building might be erected. The amount asked for now is $90,000, instead of $85,000.

"There is no disputing the fact," said Mr. Knapp, "that congress, acting under the advice of President Taft, is husbanding its financial resources and adopting an extremely conservative course regarding the building of a Federal building. I am for the fact that the measure will become a law this session. I shall be ready, if an opportunity presents in the shape of an omnibus bill, to attach to it the Fulton proposition, because of my knowledge of the necessity of the case."

"Should the measure become a law, Congressman Knapp continued, "it does not mean that the full amount called for by the bill will be limited. It simply means that a careful estimate will be made by the proper officials in the Treasury Department of the necessary amount of money required for the prosecution of the work for one year and that amount will be forth coming."

"The letting of the contract and preliminary work will consume some time, so that while I am hopeful, yet I am not confident that any great progress will be made in the project during this session. However, I stand ready to push the legislation with all imaginable zeal."

A very frank discussion of measures before Congress followed, which was both interesting and instructive.

Although Congressman Knapp had not committed himself in favor of the Postal Savings Bank bill now before the Senate and House of Representatives, he was most sincere in his advocacy of standing by the National Administration in any reasonable policy advocated.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Arrangements for Holding a Farmer's Institute School at Mexico Nearing Completion

Arrangements are nearing completion for holding a four-day Farmer's Institute School at Mexico on March 5-10, inclusive. The nature of these preparations indicates that the State Department of Agriculture is providing for one of the best institute schools ever in session in any part of the State. A large force of instructors, the best obtainable for this work, is promised, and include regular institute workers and specialists in various branches of agriculture. Sessions devoted to woman and her interests in the home will be an attractive feature of the program, and there will be practical discussions of the school question. The lectures at the several sessions are free and will be of interest to all to whom men and to the younger people. Every one is invited of whatever occupation. The program will be published in a later issue of this paper.

INTERESTING COMMUNICATION.

Mr. S. D. Gardner has received the following letter from Mr. M. V. Connell of this city, who, with Mrs. Connell, is spending the winter in the general climate of Orange City, Florida:

Orange City, Fla., Feb. 2, 1910.

Dear Friends: Just three weeks ago today we reached here at 4:45 p. m., were met at station by the Curtis and Bacon people and taken up to the Curtis cottage to tea, and in evening came to our own cottage where we found a good fire burning in the fireplace so as to take the cool air out as the night air is much cooler than through the day, at that time the mercury stood at 62 degrees and except late at night or early in the morning it has kept along about the sixties, with four nights when it has been cold enough to make ice since we came. The cold weather they had before we came froze all the fruit that was not protected by building fires about the trees, and of course rosebushes and all flowering shrubs are still looking poorly, but will soon be flowering again. The people that have lived here for 18 or 20 years say they have never had such continued cold weather as we are getting this winter but know of three or four days in succession when it has been much colder than it has this season, but it did not keep as cold as it has this winter. We do not mind it as much as you would, for every known part of the world the cold has been more severe and intense.

We stood our journey well and made our railroad connections all O. K. Have been feeling first rate all the time we've been here. We are nicely situated in a fine cottage close to Dr. Curtis on one side and on the other by Mr. Walden from we rent, and it is a nice part of the city with the best of water and sunshine. The city has a population of about five hundred, but one would think there could be only about half as many, for it was laid out for a large city and so of course it covers much surface; has one hotel, three stores, postoffice and library. The people are mostly from the North, East and West and very cordial and friendly. We are enjoying ourselves and taking lots of rest and comfort, have been invited out to digress and asked to the churches and Bible studies, so we are much at home among the people.

Jane Osborne and Cassie Wells called on us from De Land, six miles from here one day last week and it seemed good to see them, and Mrs. Osborne brought one extra good letter from Edward Henderson for us to read and we were very glad to hear from him. Mrs. Connell expects to go over to De Land in a few days and will call on them. The sun has been pretty hot all this forenoon but this afternoon it is cloudy, but still we do not need any fire in our house though we will quite likely start one about five and keep same through the evening. We have had all the oranges and grape fruit we wanted, have a box of oranges on hand now and yesterday I bought twice large grapefruit for forty cents per dozen.

I think I shall not be able to find out anything about those places you wished me to unless I can run across someone who has been down south so far, for I do not expect to go much farther south this trip. Dr. Curtis received a

DR. KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

For KIDNEYS, BLOOD and LIVER

Backed by over 20 years of reputation, this remedy is the only one that cures all the diseases of the kidneys, blood and liver. It is a powerful purifier and cleanser, and is the only remedy that can be taken without any danger to the system. It is the only remedy that can be taken without any danger to the system. It is the only remedy that can be taken without any danger to the system.

postal from Wadley Brewster that kept store in Hannibal, saying he was going through here and would call on the Dr. so we are hoping to see him soon. It is quite homelike to have the Curtis and Bacon families running in and talking over things at home. Since I wrote the first three pages of this letter we and self have been out and called on Mr. and Mrs. Markham, they have a good home here and orange grove, and came here to spend the winter, but have a home and business in Hootick Falls N. Y. Many have called on us and we are returning them as we feel like it. The Methodist prayer meeting is held here on Wednesday evenings.

If you feel in the mood write, as we will be glad to hear from you.

Yours, M. V. Connell.

THE EDITORS ALL LIKE THIS MAN

Good morning, sir: Mr. Editor, how are the folks to-day? I owe you for next year's paper, and I thought I'd come in and pay. And Jones is going to take it, and this is his money here. I shut down leadin' it to him and then coaxed him to try it a year. And here is a few little items that happened last week out our way. I thought they'd look good in the paper and so I jotted 'em down. And here is a basket of apples my wife picked expressly for you; and here is a pumpkin from Jennie—the thought she must send something, too. You're gettin' out a mighty good paper, as all our family agree; just keep your old goose quill flappin' and give the bad men one for me. And now you are shook full of business, and I won't be takin' your time; I've things of my own to tend to—good day, sir, I believe I will climb.—Exchange.

BRILLIANT IDEA!

(Oswego Palladium)

Hotel and restaurant men are buying beef in Chicago in fifty pound lots and having it shipped here at a saving of about fifty per cent. in their meat bills.

Several private families are getting in on the plan and all say that they are more than satisfied with the result. All bone is removed from the meat, which is trimmed ready for use and the prices for sirloin steak range from 11½ to fifteen cents per pound delivered. If sirloin roasts are desired they can be had at the same price.

There are no porterhouse steaks quoted, but the tenderloin sells for eighteen cents a pound for light cuts to twenty-eight cents a pound for the heaviest. These prices are for the meats laid down by the express company in the houses of this city. Libby, McNeil & Libby make the prices and do the shipping.

Do the right thing if you have Nasal Catarrh. Get Ely's Cream Balm at once. Don't touch the catarrh powders and snuffs, for they contain cocaine. Ely's Cream Balm releases the secretions that inflame the nasal passages and the throat, whereas medicines use it with mercury merely dry up the secretions and leave you no better than you were. In a word, Ely's Cream Balm is a real remedy, not a delusion. All druggists, 50 cents, or mailed by Ely Brothers, 50 Warren Street, New York.

CONTRACT AWARDED

The Supply Committee of the Board of Supervisors have awarded the contract for building a new work shed at the jail to William Lennan for $566.50.

The building is to be a one-story frame structure, seventy feet long, seventeen feet wide and sixteen feet high. It is to be used to work the prisoners in, in stormy weather. Work on the shed will start immediately and it will be completed in thirty days or less.

HEIRS TO $20,000

Attorney Ezra A. Barnes, of Oswego is looking for some one to claim a $20,000 estate. The property was left by Abby L. Myers, who died last November in Savannah, Ill. Mrs. Myers, according to Attorney Arthur J. Gray, of that city, was a native of Oswego and was raised here. Her maiden name was Abby Lucy Volter, he says. Mr. Gray believes that there must be some heirs around Oswego, and if there are any they should communicate with Mr. Barnes.

KNOWN IN FULTON

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morton Adkins entertained delightfully at dinner Friday evening in honor of the Rev. and Mrs. Murray Shipley Howland. Spring flowers decorated the pretty dinner table, a basket of jonquils and delicate white blossoms forming the centerpiece.

ASK FOR $30,000

Henry W. Albert W. and Clara Louise Schroeppel yesterday filed a claim for $30,000 against the State for lands and riparian rights appropriated in the town of Schroeppel, Oswego county, for barge canal purposes.

NATIVE OF OSWEGO DEAD

New York.—George H. Fisher, former Alderman, City School Commissioner, Member of Assembly, and a bank director, a leader in the bar and a native of Oswego, was buried in Cypress Hill cemetery on Wednesday. The casket, wrapped in the National flag and covered with white roses and lilies, was carried from Plymouth church, followed by one of the largest processions ever seen in Brooklyn. The ceremonies at Plymouth were conducted by Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor, and the Rev. Ward Brigham, pastor of All Souls Universalist church. The services were attended by a large congregation, comprising bankers, business men, lawyers, politicians and philanthropists.

Mr. Fisher was born seventy-eight years ago in Oswego, N. Y.; a son of George Fisher, the first practicing lawyer of that place. His grandfather was a member of the Massachusetts Congress.

He died Sunday night after a week's illness of pneumonia at St. George's Hotel, Brooklyn, where he lived in the winter, his summer home being on the shore of Sheepshead Bay. Besides his widow, Mary Benoit, he leaves a son, George O. Fisher, a prominent citizen of San Francisco.

CONGRESSMAN'S EFFORTS SUCCESSFUL

Through the determined efforts of Congressman Charles L. Knapp of this district, an appropriation of an additional $125,000 has been secured for the improvement of the Oswego harbor breakwater. This additional appropriation makes available for this local work a sum of $200,000.

It is probable that none of Congressmen Knapp's predecessors had ever secured for this congressional district the many concessions secured by Congressman Knapp during his tenure of office. He has labored incessantly and persistently for his district and the high regard in which he has been held by his colleagues in the United States legislature has enabled him to gain practically his every demand.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALM

CLUB'S BANQUET

The Twentieth Century Club held their annual banquet from 5 to 7 on Monday at the home of Mrs. Fred G. Polley on Main street. Six courses were served, the caterer being Mrs. Flora Ayers Thomas. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. George L. Munroe, Mrs. Sidney W. Moore and Mrs. Charles F. Lee. The dining room was very prettily decorated with pink and white carnations and potted plants. After the banquet Mrs. C. Fred Roberts, the president, introduced the toastmistress, Mrs. Victor J. Loomis.—Oneida Dispatch.

GETS A $1,700 SETTLEMENT

An additional bond of $3,400 was filed in Surrogate's Court by the administrator of the estate of John LaPointe, late of Fulton, who died about two years ago. An action for LaPointe's death has just been settled for $1,700.

20 Years With Heart Trouble

"Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has cured me of heart disease of over 20 years' standing. I was so bad that I could not do my work, and could scarcely draw a full breath without fainting or smothering. The doctor told me he could do no more for me; then I commenced taking the Heart Remedy. I shall never forget that night. I slept better than I had before in months. I kept right on getting better, until I was perfectly well."

MRS. LAURA RUSSELL, Logan, Iowa.

When the heart action is weak, it fails to pump the blood through the lungs with sufficient rapidity. Then the lungs do not absorb the proper amount of oxygen, although they may be taking in a normal amount of air. The result is shortness of breath, smothering spells, difficult breathing, oppressed feeling in chest: Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy strengthens the heart nerves and muscles, and in this way increases the circulation.

Brain Spelling

Two Frenchmen, admiring a pastoral scene from the brush of a young American, "It chanced that the artist was in the gallery."

"And how did monsieur ever create such a wonderful painting?" asked one in broken English.

"Ah," said the artist, with a far-away look, "that picture was the offspring of my brain."

The other Frenchman was interested.

"What did he say, Henri?"

"I can hardly explain," whispered the other excitedly, "he said the picture was one spring of his brain. He set any wonder that we Americans act queerly when they have springs on their brains?"—Chicago News.

Rossini's Memory.

The composer of "Il Barbiere di Siviglia" was blessed with a not very retentive memory, especially for names of persons introduced to him, a forgetfulness which was frequently the cause of much merriment whenever Rossini was among company. One day he met Bishop, the English composer. Rossini greeted him the face well enough and at once greeted him. "Ah, my dear Mr. Bishop. But he could progress no further. To convince him that he had not forgotten him Rossini commenced whistling Bishop's glee, "When the Wind Blows," a compliment which "the English Mozart" recognized and would as readily have heard as his less musical surname.

Take a hint, do your own mixing. Rough on rats, being all poison, one 15c box will spread or make 50 to 100 little cakes that will kill 500 or more rats and mice. It's the unbeatable exterminator. Don't die in the house. Beware of imitations, substitutes and catch-penny, ready-for-use devices. 2-1

A Curious Fruit.

A fruit that is in season all the year round in India is the papaw. This grows on a short, pulpy looking tree with leaves like the castor oil plant in shape, but woolly on the surface, and the green-pumpkin-shaped fruit grows in a cluster at the top. When cut open it has orange colored flesh and a number of black seeds in the center. Its flavor slightly resembles mustard and cream, and, though not generally liked, it is said to be excellent as a digestive aid and to lengthen the lives of those who partake of it regularly.

A Jolt For the Doctor.

Among the patients in a certain hospital there was recently one disposed to take a dark view of his chances for recovery.

"Cheer up, old man!" admonished the youthful medic attached to the ward wherein the patient lay. "Your symptoms are identical with those of my own case four years ago. I was just as sick as you are. Look at me now!"

The patient ran his eyes over the physician's stalwart frame. "What doctor did you have?" he finally asked feebly.

STRUCK A RICH MINE.

S. W. Bonds, of Coal City, Ala., says he struck a perfect mine of health in Dr. King's New Life Pills for they cured him of Liver and Kidney Trouble after twelve years of suffering. They are the best pills on earth for Constipation, Malaria, Headache, Dyspepsia, Debility. 25c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

The Suspension Bridge.

There is no doubt that the first idea of a suspension bridge was suggested to primitive man by the interlacing of tree branches and parasitical plants across rivers. Probably monkeys used them before men did. In very mountainous countries, such as Tibet and Peru, they have apparently been used since the dawn of history, possibly earlier.

PHOENIX ITEMS

Last week Mr. C. A. Larned severed his connection with F. B. Woodbury's chair manufacturing, after filling the position of bookkeeper for fifteen years. Mr. Larned's rapidly increasing wholesale lumber business making the change imperative. Mr. Larned has been associated with Mr. Woodbury since the start of his chair business and it was due to a great extent to his favorable impression of our town that decided Mr. Woodbury on the location of his chair factory here after the disastrous fire in Orwell several years ago. Mr. Larned has recently added several new lines to his lumber business and it has increased to such an extent that it requires his undivided attention besides the assistance of an extra office force. He has opened offices in the rooms over the bank.

Contractor E. R. Sweet has the paper mill, which was recently destroyed by fire entirely enclosed and the work of placing machinery is going on rapidly. In one day the past week over 10,000 feet of lumber was used in the construction which is considered quite remarkable in the building line in this village.

Repairs to Sweet Brothers' paper mill are being rushed and it is expected that they will be able to start up within a month. It is the firm's intention to erect a fire proof boiler house in the place of the one destroyed by fire.

STAGGERS SKEPTICS.

That a clean, nice, fragrant compound like Bucklen's Arnica Salve will instantly relieve a bad burn, cut, scald wound or piles, staggers skeptics. But great cures prove it's a wonderful healer of the worst sores, ulcers, boils, felons, eczema, skin eruptions, also chapped hands, sprains and corns. Try it. 25c at the Red Cross Pharmacy.

WILL GO TO PINE PLAINS

Washington.—The War Department will draw heavily on Fort Niagara and Ontario for troops to join Army and National Guard manœuvres during the coming Summer. To the manœuvres camp at Pine Plains, Jefferson county, the Department will detail one-half of Company C of the Hospital Corps from Fort Niagara and twelve companies of infantry from the Twenty-fourth Infantry stationed at Fort Ontario and Madison Barracks.

Members of the Twenty-ninth Infantry at Fort Niagara will go into camp in Pennsylvania.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eyes, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangement, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves in women later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely treat the trouble but they get to the cause and remove it. They are gentle and do not do any harm to the system. They have been used by thousands of women and have given them a clear complexion, bright eyes and a healthy feeling. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to remove all these troubles. Constipation, indigestion and biliousness. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents.

EXAMINING THE PAPERS

Lowville.—Frank C. Wisner, Supervisor of Census in the Twenty-eighth Congressional district, is busy looking over the examination papers submitted by applicants for the position of enumerators, the examination of which was held Saturday. Mr. Wisner has two clerks at work and they have just got fairly started on the task of examining the 500 or more papers. The marked and corrected papers are to be sent to the Census Department at Washington, with recommendations, and the appointments will be made about the middle of March.

INJURED IN MINETTO

Minetto.—Harry Crouse, son of John Crouse, employed in the Minetto-Meriden plant, was severely injured Wednesday afternoon at the plant. His clothing became caught in the machinery and he was wound several times around the shaft. His cries attracted attention and the machinery was stopped in time to save his life. Crouse was badly injured about the arms and is believed to be internally hurt. Dr. Jones is attending him.

AUDITING HIGHWAY ACCOUNTS

The auditing of the accounts of town Highway Superintendents Ballister, of Williamstown, and Hubbard, of Granby, was started by State Inspector Gettman Wednesday. Supervisor Ockerker and Town Clerk Arnold, of Granby, and Supervisor Tighe and Town Clerk Rosa, of Williamstown, were present.

SURROGATE'S COURT

Letters on the estate of Emily A. Hotchkiss, who died in Volney January 25, leaving $2,500 real and $150 personal property, were applied for by Dr. H. L. Lake. The entire estate is left to five children, Willie A., of Canastota, and George F. and Clinton, of Volney, and Emma Lagomellis and Helen Carrier, of Fulton.

WAS BORN IN FULTON

Charles J. Williams, former President of the village of Camden, died there last week. He was born in Fulton in 1859 and later was in business in Redfield, Williamstown and Kazoo.

GRANTED A DIVORCE

Judge Andrews, before adjourning Special Term, granted a divorce to William Cousineau from his wife, Emma Cousineau. The parties live in Fulton.

If you will just take Kodol now and then you need not fear or hesitate to eat all the good food that you want, for Kodol is for weak and sour stomachs. Kodol is pleasant to take, and it is guaranteed to give relief at once. Sold by all druggists.

The receipts at the county clerk's office for January show that during the first month of County Clerk McCarthy's administration they were $914.89. The receipts from the mortgage tax, a separate account, were $598.71. From searches, which are included in the $914.89, the sum of $242.30 was received.—Oswego Times.

BITTERNESS IN ALLDS' INQUIRY

Both Sides Indulge in Vilipendation.

THE TROUBLES OF MR. MOE

How the Ex-Sunday School Superintendent Has Been the Chief Target of the Defense—Commissioner Draper Recommends Change in Administration of the Country Schools—The Now Famous Legislative Session of 1901.

[Special Correspondence.] Albany, N. Y., Feb. 16.—The Allis-Conger investigation is now at its height. The inquiry was renewed yesterday and will continue for at least a week, according to all indications. The surprising outward show of temper toward each other by the two sides concerned in the imbroglio is one of the unusual features of the case. Between Conger and Allis, the two men there is a degree of animosity that hardly be said to promote the chances of there being a correct verdict four at the finish.

While it could hardly be expected that Allis and Conger would speak to each other, yet that the opposing counsel at the senate sessions should continually call each other names, impugn the conduct of the case by this other side and make bitter personal attacks on witnesses only goes to show the tenseness of the situation here and to illustrate that neither side will lose an opportunity to gain whatever it may consider an advantage.

Bombardment of Moe. Probably the chief sufferer from the tactics of the opposing camps at the inquiry is Hiram G. Moe, the retired Sunday school superintendent of Groton, who claims that the money alleged to be paid to Allis was carried to Albany by him.

Martin W. Littleton has made Moe bear the burden of the pyrotechnics of the defense. Any time that Littleton wanted to put forth a particularly picturesque bit of description he would include Moe in it without fail, or, if it was an epigram that must be born, again did Moe involuntarily become the foundation for it, and if Mr. Littleton desired to hurl a particularly handsome bit of invective at somebody, what more fit person could there be to receive it than Moe? At least that is the way it looked.

No, Mr. Moe has not been having a very happy time, and the Conger family undoubtedly owe him a debt that they will have difficulty in paying, for day after day he sat on the grill in the crowded senate chamber and withstood calmly and willingly the ridicule and abuse such as only an expert criminal lawyer like Mr. Littleton can put forth. Of course Moe was assailed thus for a definite purpose—that of endeavoring to discredit his credibility as a witness. That is a perfectly legitimate course of procedure. The counsel for Allis, in fact, would be neglectful of their duty if they did not try to do so. But this fact does not lessen the sting of the verbal barbs that have been shot into the old man who for years has been an employee of the Conger family of Groton.

There is no denying that Moe's testimony has injured the Allis side. Even the most intimate friends of the majority leader here at the capital confess to this opinion when talking confidentially.

There is heard less of the talk that "at any rate, Conger must resign from the senate," and there is heard more of the talk that "to save their party further embarrassment both men should resign from the senate."

That there are many men prominent in public life who are taking the keenest interest in the Conger-Allis controversy is evident as the result of a scrutiny of the journal of the assembly for the year 1901. It appears that Attorney General O'Malley, Adjutant General Nelson H. Henry and Otto Kelsey, recently deputy state comptroller, were members of the lower house.

Minority Leader Daniel Frisbie of Schoharie was an assemblyman in 1901; so was Jesse Phillips of Allegany, at present chairman of the judiciary committee. Senator Frank C. Platt of Painted Post, at present a member of the senate, was also at that time a member of the assembly. Senators Allis and Conger as is known, were also.

The only available red books containing the photographs and sketches of the members of the assembly in 1901 bear the name of Jotham P. Allis stamped on the fly leaves and stating that the volumes are extended with his compliments.

The assembly journal of 1901, which has been freely thumbed since the bribe charge was aired, is being carefully guarded, and it is only to be scanned by requesting the assembly librarian to exhibit it. Though perfectly willing that it may be perused, the librarian offers to look up whatever data are desired, whether through natural courtesy or the result of instruction is not known.

The assembly journal of 1901 shows that the committee on internal affairs, before which was the bill which Senator Allis is said to have been interested in, consisted of the following members: Lloyd D. Adams, of Oswego; George B. Baker, of Oneida; Edwin C. Washington, of Orleans; Reynolds of Rensselaer; Robinson of Suffolk; Swartz of Yates; Brill of Oneida; Weber of Kings; Delaney of Kings; Fitzpatrick of Kings; and Kiernan of Queens.

No members of that committee are now in the assembly.

It is very probable that some of those former committeemen will be subpoenaed to try to cast some light on some of the actions to the committee.

In the group of counsel and others around Senator Conger is N. P. Bonney of Chenango county, the home county of Senator Allis. Bonney has two years in succession endeavored to beat the Republican nominee for assembly with no success.

Commissioner Draper's New Education Bill.

State Commissioner of Education Draper would fly in the face of tradition and all the penchants and principles of Governor Hughes as expressed in his various educational campaigns and appeals to the people. If there is one thing which Governor Hughes is insistent upon it is the participation of the people down to the humblest voter, in the affairs of government, party or otherwise.

In a bill drafted down in Dr. Draper's educational department and introduced by Assemblyman G. H. Whitney of Saratoga it is proposed to abolish the time honored office of country school commissioner and create a new system and scheme which shall be largely within the control of the state commissioner of education and his influence. Dr. Draper has had some trouble with school commissioners as now constituted, and he purposes to avoid trouble in the future by abolishing the office—that is, if the legislature permits him to do so and Governor Hughes signs the measure after it is passed.

Provisions of Whitney Bill.

Mr. Whitney's bill would abolish the school commissioner after 1912 who is elected by the people of his district now and substitute a school district superintendent who shall be chosen by the town delegate plan. Thus two school directors are to be elected as town officers at general town elections and receive salaries of $2 a day and serve for five years.

Democrats in Charge of Allis-Conger Inquiry.

Most of the leading counsel in the Allis-Conger case are Democrats, although the two principals are Republicans.

James W. Osborne, chief of staff for Conger, is a leading New York city Democrat. He was the regular Democratic candidate for district attorney of New York county four years ago, running against Jerome. It was during that campaign that Osborne made a violent attack on Jerome, which the latter turned into a boomerang and lost many votes for Osborne. Jerome's description of Osborne at that time as "Poor Jim" followed the lawyer for several years. And yet Osborne had been the chief trial lawyer of Jerome's office for a long period.

Martin W. Littleton, chief counsel for Allis, has been very prominent as a Democrat in Brooklyn and is frequently mentioned as a possible candidate for governor. He is one of the most popular after dinner speakers in the state and, like Osborne, is a southerner by birth.

Judge Van Wyck of Conger's staff of legal notables is one of the most prominent Democrats in Brooklyn and was a candidate for governor several years ago.

Funds For Special Committee?

To furnish funds for the continuance of the investigation into the question of employers' liability and the causes of unemployment in this state by the special committee authorized by the last legislature the senate finance committee reported a bill providing an additional fund of $20,000.

Representatives of the public service commissions have conferred regarding proposed amendments to the public service commissions law. Chairman Wilcox of the New York city commission called on Governor Hughes and it is believed, recommended that express companies be brought within the control of the commission.

Beginning a campaign of education in the capital, the Equal Franchise league, through Mrs. Harriett Stanton Blatch and others in charge of the Albany headquarters, put on the desk of each member of the legislature today a pamphlet showing the growth of the woman's suffrage movement in this state in the last few years.

This will be followed by the distribution of other literature, the league wishing to familiarize the legislators with its arguments before the hearing of March 9.

New Auto Legislation.

Chairman Whitney of the committee on internal affairs says that he believes the result of the committee's consideration of the various automobile restriction measures would be a committee bill embodying the best features of all of them.

The sentiment of the members of the committee seems to be that the bill which will be reported will be based largely on the Allis-Hanna bill which the governor vetoed last year.

The objection of the governor to the measure of last year, however, will be met by providing more explicit conditions in reference to a speed limit, the Allis-Hanna bill merely stating that the rate of speed should be based on what might be considered the safety of the public.

The bill, it is expected, will provide for an examination of chauffeurs and for more certain means of identifying automobiles; also municipalities will have certain powers of making their own speed regulations.

CERTIFIED MILK IN FULTON
The Stranahan Farm to Furnish the Milk to Customers

In many of the cities there has been established what is known as certified milk routes. One of these routes is to be established in Fulton. Hon. N. N. Stranahan has interested himself and it is understood that Mr. B. Coles, who is on the Stranahan farm, is to meet the requirements of the State Inspector so that Fulton people may have absolutely pure milk.

In order to have the certificate necessary the most rigid rules for caring for the cows and milk are enforced. Absolute sanitary methods must be employed. The milk is put up in sterilized and sealed bottles and will keep for several days.

The price, of course, will be somewhat above the ordinary price charged by milk dealers, but it is thought there will be no difficulty in selling the certified milk in Fulton.

There are now on the Stranahan farm 25 healthy cows and it is proposed to start the sale of this milk about the first of May.

MONEY IN CIRCULATION

Increased During Twelve Months
$34,274,174—Circulation Per Capita $34.82

Washington.—The Treasury Department reports the total money in circulation on February 1st as $34,274,174, which compares with $32,125,538 on January 2d, and $31,312,546 on February 1st, 1903. National bank notes are $172,582,889 against $167,118,824 last month and $163,310,371 last year. Total money in circulation amounts to $3,125,586,720 against $3,122,154,538 on January 2d, and $3,091,312,546 on February 1st, 1903. Circulation per capita is $34.82 as compared with $35 last year.

Official Paper of City of Fulton.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1910.

DR. ANDREW WHITE has discovered that only one murderer out of seventy-four is executed. The wave of sentimental reform that is sweeping justice and restraint away is responsible not only for the number of unconvicted murderers but may also be held responsible for much of the crime of the country. Law, law, easy evasion of sentence, warm prisons and appetizing fare all contribute to make crime attractive. The hysterical and sentimental reformers who are demanding probation sentences for all criminals forget everything and everybody but the criminal and are oblivious to the fact that the chief object of conviction and punishment is to restrain the criminal impulses of the potential malefactor. Justice tempered by mercy is admirable but justice negated by hysteria is the spectacle we see only too frequently in our courts.

TRACING laboriously the causes of the high cost of living to marketing by telephone, the waste of the cooks, the bridge playing of the women and the employment of delivery wagons by the retail grocers while food, trays, cold storage and the tariff are overlooked, reminds us of Yankee Doodle who couldn't see the town for the houses. Let us reform the extravagant woman and the wasteful cooks but let us also try not to be diverted from the big offenders.

Tax toll for loss by fire in the United States during the year 1907 amounts to $456,485,000. In these fires 1443 people were killed and 5,654 other injured. These are figures upon which to base a public demand for better building and better fire protection in this country, which suffers more from fire than any country in the civilized world.

Shall women vote does not seem to be so burning a question now as the one—shall women run the United States Navy. The petticoat court martial at Boston suggests the time honored thought that "woman's place is in the home", and that feminine feuds should be settled at pink teas and over bargain counters rather than by naval boards of inquiry.

CONGRESSMEN are to have a gymnasium in the Capitol. It is to be the best equipped one maintained in the United States, and since Bailey of Texas and Tillman of Carolina have been trained to stand hitched, the need of such a chamber for the exercise of members has been sorely felt.

The Board of Public Works is still trying to find the best way for protecting and conserving the water supply. The question of securing the best attention to the water supply is expected that the board will determine whether or not the plan is a feasible one.

On March 15, P. H. Phillips of New York City will open an exhibitively ready-to-wear store for women in the Boardman block in Second street, Mrs. C. B. Boardman to be the resident manager. In the same store Mrs. Eugene Searles and Mrs. Clara will also open millinery stores.

The Toronto Male Quartette will be heard in the Baptist church on Thursday evening, Feb. 17, the date having been changed from the original date set. Owing to Thursday evening being prayer-meeting, the hour has been changed from 8 to 8:30 o'clock. This will be one of the finest programs ever heard in Fulton.

BIG CUT IN N. P. L. DIVIDENDS.
Local members of the National Protective Association are considerably disappointed over the big cut in the annual dividends made at Watervly last week. In 1909 the dividend was $118.96 and while the members expected the amount this year would be somewhat lower, they were disappointed to learn that those whose certificates mature in 1910 will receive only $51.12.—Oneida Dispatch.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.
At the adjourned meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held last evening, Mr. E. J. Penfield of the E-Z-Opener Bag Company was introduced to accept the presidency of the organization. He was very reluctant to assume the office but believed that every member would co-operate with him to make the Chamber a factor for advancement of Fulton. The annual dues were reduced from $5 to $2.
Mr. Harry L. Stout will continue as secretary of the Chamber.

Famous Men Who Remained Bachelors.
Among the illustrious men who passed through life in single blessedness may be mentioned Sir Isaac Newton, Thomas Hobbes, author of "The Leviathan", Adam Smith, the father of political economy; Chamfort, the greatest of French talkers; Gassendi, Gaillet, Descartes, Spinoza, Locke, Kant, Bishop Butler, the author of "Analogy", Bayle, Leibnitz, Hamel, Gibbon, Macaulay, Buckle, Pitt, Charles James Fox, Leonardo da Vinci, Raphael, Michelangelo, Sir Joshua Reynolds, the artist Turner, Handel, Beethoven, Schopenhauer, Goethe, Mendelssohn and Meyerbeer.—Detroit Journal.

Waited Twenty Years For a Soliloquy.
A bit of pure and harmless mischief at reflection at Yale was the device of a member of the class of '92, who introduced at recitation a turtle covered by a newspaper posted on the shell. The tutor had too much pride to come down from his perch and solve the mystery of the newspaper movement, but twenty years after, meeting a member of the class, his first and abrupt question was, "Mr. W., what made that paper move?"

A Nice, Cheerful Companion.
"I am an advocate of hunting for women," said a titled Englishman. "Women's mounds entice the dead. But no business should ever take advantage of her sex. That is most annoying. For instance:

"A friend of mine on a cold, gray morning in January was dashed into by a woman on the edge of a stream. His horse slipped, and horse and rider together rolled down the bank and were submerged in six feet of water. But the lady came off better. She only lost her hat in the brook.
"As my friend, shivering, crawling and dripping, crawled out and laid down, she said to him, 'My dear friend, and how would you mind going in again for my hat?'"

SMASHED BY THE SEA

The Story of a Shipwreck in the English Channel.

PIERCE FURY OF THE STORM.

Wind and Wave Battered the Ship Till Only a Shattered Hulk Remained—A Battle Against the Elements That Ended in Defeat.

We met the weathered western lands and entered latitudes where the prudent mariner shortens sail and keeps a wary eye on the barometer, for the seafarer may talk lightly of mountainous seas off the Horn, but not of a winter gale in the mouth of the English channel when the coast is strewn with wreckage from the Lizard to Benchy and his imagination, accustomed to vast expanses of lonely sea, pictures all sorts of craft jostling one another in dangerous proximity.

A favoring gale from the northwest, not more vicious than the ordinary north Atlantic gale, had kept the ship lively all day and set all hands figuring on pay day. It was not until the afternoon watch that the weather outlook became really threatening. Mountainous walls of green water swung out of the darkness and buffeted her as they passed. Fierce squalls smote her in rapid succession, enveloping her in a smother of spray, heeling her until the yardarms dipped in the crests of the waves.

At eight bells the wind lulled and hauled a point to the westward, then hurried itself against the ship with accumulated fury. There was a sudden confusion of flying cordage, overwhelming seas hammering upon the decks and the cannonade of canvas stripped from the spars and blown like thisledown to leeward.

Relieved of her top hamper, she staggered erect, dripping like a half tide rock and shaken with the shock of the seas pounding her sides. Halfway on the upward oscillation she poised, checked by the renewed onslaught of the gale as if by the impact of a material obstacle. Rags of canvas streamed from her empty yards. Every wire of her rigging twanged and stretched under the strain.

The deck round the mainmast heaved and was starred with white foam running along its well oiled planks. The heavy steel spar dangled on one side, then buckled and crashed overboard in a tangle of wreckage. The ends of severed wire whipped the air, and twisted shrouds sawed to and fro along the ruined bulwarks and struck showers of sparks from the tortured iron work. The hatch covers were stripped from their coverings, hoists smashed to firewood and all the intricate superstructure of the vessel swept and broken. Shouted orders were blown back, inaudible to the men cowering under the break of the poop, and useless if audible.

What seamanship could contrive was done. Men worked for their lives, finding a foothold on the sea swept deck, haching the jagged ends of iron wire. But the day of cutting wreckage adrift is gone with wooden spars and bumpy cordage. Although the plates gaped and rivets started, the heavy spar held fast alongside, pounding against the iron hull as she rolled in that trough of the sea.

A couple of spare spars were lashed together and launched with infinite danger through the gap in the broken bulwarks. But no improvised sea anchor could hold her to windward amid the tumult of such a sea. She was no longer a ship, but a ruined fabric, crushed and sagging to leeward under the weight of the elements.

Morning brought an abatement of the fury of the gale. Standing on the poop, surveying her shattered bulk, her skipper turned quietly to his mate and asked, "Is the port lifeboat seaworthy?" "Carpenster reports that it is, sir," replied his subordinate.

The skipper stood for awhile in silence, noting the sluggish life of the deck under his feet. "Suppose we've got to leave her," he said. "What d'ye think?" "It is the sole occasion where the master mariner will doign to consult and be advised by his inferior officer."

"She can't float much longer, sir," replied the other sympathetically. It might be that in his time he, too, would require to seek similar advice. "Ah," said the skipper heavily, "and I saw her launched." He crossed over to the peak life rail and laid his hand on it, fondling it affectionately. "All right, mister," he said at last. "We're right in the track of shipping. Pass the word along to put a bag of biscuits aboard and all the breakers with water."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Short and to the Point.
One of the shortest speeches recorded in forensic annals is that of Tainton, afterward a judge. Charles Elliot, an Irish orator, had made a flowery speech in an assault case. Tainton, who was for the defense, said in reply, "My friend's eloquent complaint amounts, in plain English, to this—that his client has received a good, sound horsewhipping, and my defense is as short—that he richly deserved it."

The Boy and the Bear.
"Have you ever heard the story of Aloy and the bear?" asked a boy of his father. "It's very short. Aloy met a bear the day he was born; the bogle was Aloy."—London News.

LOVE AND FLOWERS.

The Advice a Discerning Woman Gave Her Daughter.
My daughter, wouldst thou know a man's secret? Go to the florist, then. O simple one, for in him every man reposes his confidence.

Yes, by the flowers which he sendeth a woman shall ye judge the quality of a man's love, likewise the quantity and exact stage.

As violets pass unto roses, and roses unto cheap carnations, and carnations unto naught, so passeth his grand passion from the first throes into matrimony.

Lo, at the beginning of a love affair mark with what care a man selecteth his flowers in person, that not a wilted violet shall offend thine eyes!

Yet as time passeth he telephoneth his orders and leaveth it all to the clerk. And there cometh a day when he murmureth wearily, "I say, old chap, make that a standing order, will you?"

Then the florist heareth a sigh, for he knoweth that the end is at hand. Yea, this is the mark of an engaged man who doeth his duty. So after the wedding bouquets all orders shall cease together, and until he seeketh flowers for his wife's grave that man shall not again enter a florist's shop.

For stale carnations, bought upon the street corner and carried home in a paper bag, are a fit offering for any wife. Yet a funeral rejoiceth the florist's heart and maketh him to smile, for he knoweth that a widower's next order shall be worthy of a new cause and the game shall begin all over again.

Verily, verily, my daughter, I charge thee, account to man in love until he hath gone forth into the gardens and the fields and plucked thee a few dinky pansies or stray weeds with his own hands.

For when a man sendeth thee violets it may mean only sentiment, and when he sendeth thee orchids it may be only a bluff, but when he doeth real work for any woman it meaneth business. Selah!—London Tit-Bits.

How Piccadilly Was Named.

It's curious how the names of towns and streets come from something that has been the fashion of the day. Who knows where the word "Piccadilly" originated from, the name of that wonderful street of which it is written that "some make love and some make poetry in Piccadilly"? The street was built by a tailor named Hagins, whose fortune was made in a kind of collar called Piccadilly or Piccadilly or Piccadilly, which was worn by all the beaux of the day. Of course it is not meant that the street as it stands today was built by him, but he erected a few houses to which he gave the name the street now bears.—London Saturday Review.

Women's Curiosity in a Shoe-shop.

"Women are proverbially curious," said the shoe salesman, "but I think they show it more in a shop of this sort than anywhere else. At times it's hard to get a customer's attention, she's so busy watching what the women on either side are buying. And when a sale is completed and a woman walks out with her new boots on, watch the others. Every eye is fixed on the newly clad feet, and if the wearer happens to be smartly dressed there'll be a sudden demand from the others to be shown shoes of the same type. I think it's for that reason that women are so particular about not having holes in their stockings when they buy shoes. Men don't seem to care."—New York Sun.

HAD LUCK ON THE WAY.

The English Thief That Dropped in to See His Lawyer.
Here is a story of a genuine instance of the kind of business which fell to the lot of a once notorious London "thieves' counsel." One day a thick-set man, with a cropped pull of unmistakably Newgate cut, slunk into this counsel's room, when the following dialogue took place:

"Morning, sir," said the man, touching his forehead.
"Morning," said the counsel. "What do you want?"

"Well, sir, I'm sorry to say, sir, our little Ben, sir, has 'ad a misfortune. First offense, sir, only a wiper."

"Well, well!" interrupted the counsel. "Get on!"

"So, sir, we thought as you'd 'ad all the family business we'd like you to defend him, sir."

"All right," said the counsel; "see my clerk!"

"Yes, sir," continued the thief, "but I thought I'd like to make sure you'd attend yourself, sir. We're anxious cos it's little Ben, our youngest kid."

"Oh, that will be all right! Give Simmon the fee."

"Well, sir," continued the man, shifting about uncomfortably, "I was going to arrest you, sir, to take a little less. You see, sir, wheedlingly—" "It's little Ben—his first misfortune!"

"No, no!" said the counsel impatiently. "Clear out!"

"But, sir, you've had all our business. Well, sir, if you won't you won't, so I'll pay you now, sir." And as he doled out the guineas, "I may as well tell you, sir, you wouldn't 'a' got the counters if I hadn't had a little bit of luck on the way."—From "The Recollections of a K. C." by Thomas Edward Crisp.

Candy and Courting.

"Behind a candy counter is a great place to see things," said an observing young woman who sells sweets in a downtown store. "That man who just went out used to buy a big box of candy every Wednesday. We know he was engaged by the way he bought. Then he stayed away two weeks. We know that was when he got married. Then he came regularly once every two weeks, but got cheaper candy. Now he comes once in a great while and takes home the old fashioned broken kind. There's all that way, but take a little fresh start when they become interested some time later in chocolate cigarettes."—New York Tribune.

She Took Notice.

An inspector one day visited a country school taught by a young lady and in the course of the lesson said: "Now, children, I wish you to take notice of what I do and then write an account of it."

Then he stepped to the blackboard and wrote a sentence upon it. All the children except one wrote in effect that the "master" came into the school and wrote on the blackboard, "I love a good school."

One little girl, however, followed instructions more literally and completed the story by adding: "And then he went to the platform, sat down, played with his watch chain, twirled his mustache and winked at the lady teacher."—London.

A CHINESE SOLOMON.

His Decision in a Case of a Woman With Two Husbands.

There was a Chinese judge named Wang, who was as wise as Solomon. Before Wang two men and a woman appeared. The older man was the woman's first husband. He had gone to the wars and been reported dead. Now he returned alive to claim his wife. But she meanwhile had married the younger man, who refused to give her up; hence all three came before Wang that he might decide this truly difficult case.

"Yang Ki," said the judge to the woman, "which of these two men made the better husband?"

"Both were perfect husbands, my lord judge," Yang Ki modestly replied. So the judge told the men that he would keep the woman by him for a week, examining her thoroughly, and a week hence he would decide the case. Well, the week passed, and the two husbands came once more before the judge. He shook his head gravely and said to them:

"The woman, Yang Ki, has died. There is no case. Let her original husband take the body away from my house and pay for the burial."

"Ho, not I!" said the original husband. And, so saying, he darted from the court and was soon lost to view.

"You, then," said the judge to the other man, "must stand these burial expenses."

"Yes," the man answered, "that is just, and I will give this woman, who was good and kind, the finest burial my purse will allow."

The judge clapped his hands. Yang Ki blushing and smiling, entered the courtroom in a rich dress of gold brocade.

"Take her," said the wise judge, "for you and not the other merit her love and service."

A Deadly Insult.
"Do you like my new hat?" asked Mrs. Brooke.

"Yes, indeed," replied Mrs. Lynn. "I had one just like it when they were in style."—Lippincott's Magazine.

How the Rash Comes.

In measles a rash appears on the fourth day of the fever. It is first seen on the forehead, face and neck, afterward over the whole body. It consists of raised red spots. In scarlet fever the rash appears on the second day of the fever, commencing on the upper part of the chest and neck, whence it spreads over the body. In smallpox an eruption is seen on the third or fourth day on the face, neck and wrists. In chicken pox the eruption is made of small blebs. In typhoid fever the rash rarely shows itself before the seventh day of the fever. The spots are rose colored, and they disappear on pressure.

A Story of Browning.

Browning, himself, couldn't always explain his meaning at first reading. Dr. Carroll, founder of the English Browning society, frequently consulted the poet as to the meaning of some passage in his works. "Bless me," Browning would say, "I really have forgotten what I did mean, and as I haven't got a copy of my works by me I really can't enlighten you. Just lend me the book, there's a good fellow. I'll look it over at my leisure and try to find out what was in my mind at the time."

A Story of Graustark

SYNOPSIS

Chapter I—Truxton King arrives in Edelweiss, capital of Graustark, and meets the beautiful niece of Spantz, a gunmaker.

CHAPTER II

A MEETING OF THE CABINET.
T his time the principality of Graustark was in a most prosperous condition. Its affairs were under the control of an able ministry, headed by the venerable Count Halfont. The Duke of Perse, for years a resident of St. Petersburg and a financier of high standing, had returned to Edelweiss soon after the distressing death of the late Princess Tefve and her American husband, and to him was intrusted the treasury portfolio.

The opening of this narrative finds the ministry preparing to float a new 5,000,000 guvvo issue of bonds for construction and equipment purposes. Agents of the government were ready to depart for London and Paris to take up the matter with the great banking houses. St. Petersburg and Berlin were not to be given the opportunity to gobble up these extremely fine securities. This seemingly extraordinary exclusion of Russian and German bidders was the result of vigorous objections raised by an utter outsider, the American, John Tullis, long time friend and companion of Grenfall Lorry, consort to the late princess.

Tullis was a strange man in many particulars. He was under forty years of age, but even at that rather immature time of life he had come to be recognized as a shrewd, successful financial power in his home city, New York. At the very zenith of his power he suddenly and with quietude disregarded for consequences gave up his own business and came to Graustark for residence, following a promise made to Grenfall Lorry when the latter lay dying in a little inn near Brussels.

They had been lifelong friends. Tullis jokingly called himself the little prince's "morganatic godfather." For two years he had been a constant resident of Graustark.

His wide awake, resourceful brain, attuned by nature to the difficulties of administration, lent itself capably to the solving of many knotty financial puzzles; the ministry was never loath to call on him for advice and seldom disposed to disregard it. An outsider, he never offered a suggestion or plan unasked. To this single qualification he owed much of the popularity and esteem in which he was held by the classes and the masses. Socially he was a great favorite. He enjoyed the freedom of the most exclusive homes in Edelweiss.

There was but one man connected with the government to whom the popularity and influence of John Tullis proved disagreeable. That man was the Duke of Perse. On more than one occasion the cabinet had chosen to be guided by the sagacity of John Tullis in preference to following the "lines laid down by the illustrious minister of finance." The decision to offer the new bond issue in London and Paris was due to the earnest, forceful argument of John Tullis—outside the cabinet chamber, to be sure. "This was but one instance in which the plan of the treasurer was overridden. He resented the plain though delicate influence of the former Wall street man. Tullis had made it plain to the ministry that Graustark could not afford to place itself in debt to the Russians, into whose hands sooner or later the destinies of the railroad might be expected to fall. The wise men of Graustark saw his point without force of argument and voted down in the parliament the duke's proposition to place the loan in St. Petersburg and Berlin. For this particular act of trespass upon the duke's official preserves he won the hatred of the worthy treasurer and his no inconsiderable following among the deputies.

But John Tullis was not in Edelweiss for the purpose of meddling with state affairs. He was there because he elected to stand mentor to the son of his lifelong friend, even though that son was a prince of the blood and controlled by the will of three regents chosen by his own subjects.

To say that the tiny prince loved his big, broad shouldered, ruddy cheeked, adoring mentor would be putting it too gently; he idolized him. Tullis was father, mother and big brother to the little fellow in knickerbockers.

One woman in Graustark was the source of never ending and constantly increasing interest to this stalwart companion to the prince. That woman was, alas, the wife of another man. Moreover, she was the daughter of the Duke of Perse.

The young and witty Countess of Marlanx came often to Edelweiss. She was a favorite at the castle, notwithstanding the unhealthy record of her ancient and discredited husband, the Iron Count. Tullis had not seen the count, but he had heard such tales of him that he could not but pity this glorious young creature who called him husband.

At present we are permitted to attend a meeting of the cabinet, which sits occasionally in solemn collectiveness just off the throne room within the tapestried walls of a dark little antechamber known to the outside world as the "room of wrangles." The question under discussion relates to the loan of 5,000,000 guvvos, before mentioned. At the head of the long table, perched upon an argumentary pile of lawbooks, surrounded by a little red cushion, sits the prince, almost lost in the huge old walnut chair of his forefathers.

The prince was a sturdy, curly haired lad, with his brown eyes and a lamentably noticeable scratch on his nose, acquired in less stately but more profitable pursuits. It seems that he had peeled his nose while striving to second base in a certain American game that he was teaching the juvenile aristocracy how to play.

About the table sat the three regents and the other men high in the administration of affairs, among them General Brase of the army, Baron Pulitz of the mines, lordship of agriculture. The Duke of Perse was discussing the great loan question. The prince was watching his gaunt, saturnine face with more than usual interest.

"Of course it is not too late to rescind the order promulgated at our last sitting. There are five bankers in St. Petersburg who will finance the loan without delay. We need not delay the interminable length of time necessary to secure the attention and co-operation of bankers in France and England. It is all nonsense to say that Russia has sinister motives in the matter. We need the money before the winter opens. Why should we prefer England? Why France?"

For some unaccountable reason he struck the table violently with his fist and directed his glare upon the astonished prince.

"BECAUSE UNCLE JACK SAID WE SHOULD."

It goes without saying that the innocent rejoinder opened the way to an acrid discussion of John Tullis. If that gentleman's ears burned in response to the sarcastic comments of the Duke of Perse and Baron Pulitz, they probably tingled pleasantly as the result of the stout defense put up by Halfont, Dangloss and others.

The duke's impassioned plea was of no avail. His conferees saw the wisdom of keeping Russia's greedy hand out of the country's affairs—at least for the present—and reiterated their decision to seek the loans in England and France. The question, therefore, would not be taken to parliament for reconsideration. The duke sat down, pale in defeat; his heart was more bitter than ever against the shrewd American who had induced all these men to see through his eyes.

At this juncture the prince, gathering from the manner of his ministers that the question was settled to his favor, rose to his feet, and, turning to his uncle, the premier, "I'm tired, Uncle Caspar. I'm going home."

Count Halfont coughed. "I shall just a few minutes, your highness. Pray be patient—my little man."

Prince Bobby dashed. "He always knew that he was being patronized when any one addressed him as 'my little man.'"

"I have an engagement," he said, with a stiffening of his back.

The Duke of Perse smiled grimly. In his most polite manner he arose to address the now harassed princeling, who shifted uneasily on the pile of lawbooks.

"May your most humble subject presume to inquire into the nature of your highness' engagement?"

"You may, your grace," said the prince.

The duke waited. A smile crept into the eyes of the others. "Well, what is the engagement?"

"I had a date to ride with Uncle Jack at 11 and to review the troops."

Count Halfont interposed good-humoredly: "There is nothing more to come before us today, your grace, so I fancy you may as well close the meeting. To my mind it is rather a silly custom which compels us to keep the prince with us—after the opening of the session. Of course, your highness, we don't mean to say that you are not interested in our grave deliberations."

Prince Bobby broke in eagerly: "Uncle Jack says I've just got to be interested in 'em whether I want to or not. He says it's the only way to catch on to things and become a regular prince. You see, Uncle Caspar, I've got a lot to learn."

"Yes, your highness, you have," solemnly admitted the premier. "But I am sure you will learn."

"Under such an able instructor as Uncle Jack you may soon know more than the wisest man in the realm," added the Duke of Perse.

"Thank you, your grace," said the prince so politely that the duke was confounded. "I know Uncle Jack will be glad to hear that. He's—he's afraid people may think he's butting in too much."

"Butting in?" gasped the premier.

At this the Duke of Perse came to his feet again, an angry gleam in his eyes. "My lords," he began hastily, "it must certainly have occurred to you before this that our beloved prince's English, which seems, after all, to be his mother tongue, is not what it should be. Butting in! Yesterday I overheard him advising your son, Pulitz, to 'go chase' himself. And when your boy tried to chase himself—'my word he did—what did our prince say? What did you say, Prince Robin?"

"I—I forget," stammered Prince Bobby.

"You said 'Mice' or was it 'I'?"—"No, your grace; rats. I remember. That's what I said. That's what all of us boys used to say in Washington."

"God deliver us! Has it come to this—that a prince of Graustark should grow up with such language on his lips? That confounded American has every one hypnotized!" exploded the duke. "His influences over this boy is a menace to our country. He is making an out of him—a slangy, impudent little—"

"Your grace," interrupted Baron Dangloss sharply.

"Uncle Jack's all right," declared the prince, vaguely realizing that a defense should be forthcoming.

"He is, eh?" rasped the exasperated duke, mopping his brow.

"He sure is," pronounced the prince with a finality that left no room for doubt.

"He is a mountebank, a meddler, that's what he is!" exclaimed the overheated duke.

But the prince had slid down from his pile of books and planted himself beside him so suddenly that the bitter words died away on the old man's lips.

"You awful old man!" he cried, trembling all over, his eyes blazing. "Don't you say anything against Uncle Jack. I'll—I'll tanish you—yes, sir—tanish you like my mother fished Count Marlanx out of the country. I won't let you come back here—never. And before you go I'll have Uncle Jack give you a good licking. Oh, he can do it, all right! I—I hate you!"

The duke looked down in amazement into the flushed, writhing face of his little master. For a moment he was stunned by the vigorous outburst. Then the hard lines in his face relaxed, a softer expression came into his eyes, and he smiled kindly on the boy.

But Prince Bobby was still unrepentant. "I could have you beheaded," he said stubbornly. "Couldn't I, Uncle Caspar?"

The Duke of Perse suddenly bent forward and placed his bony hand upon the unshrinking shoulder of the prince, his eyes gleaming kindly, his voice strangely free from its usual harshness. "You are a splendid little man, Prince Robin," he said. "I glory in you. I shall not forget the lesson in loyalty that you have taught me."

Bobby's eyes filled with tears. "The genuine humility of the hard old man touched his tempestuous little heart."

"It's—it's all right, du—your grace. I'm sorry I spoke that way too."

As the prince strode soberly from the "room of wrangles" every eye was upon his sturdy little back, and there was a kindly light in each of them, bar none.

Later on the prince in his knickerbock riding suit loped gayly down the broad mountain road toward Gansok beside the black mare which carried John Tullis. He had told Tullis of his valorous defense in the antechamber.

"Say, Uncle Jack, when are you going to take me to the witch's house?" The thought abruptly banished all else from his sturdy little brain.

"Some-day soon," said Tullis. "You see, I'm not sure that she's receiving visitors these days. A witch is a very arbitrary person. Even princes have to send up their cards."

The witch's house was in the mountain across the most rugged of the canyons and was to be reached only after the most hazardous of rides. The old woman of the house was an ancient character about whom clung a thousand spookish traditions, but who, in the opinion of John Tullis, was nothing more than a wise fortune teller and a necromancer who knew every trick in the trade of hoodwinking the superstitious.

"YOU AWFUL OLD MAN!" HE CRIED.

As they rode back to the castle after an hour, coming down through Castle avenue from the monastery road, they passed a tall, bronzed young man whom Tullis at once knew to be an American. He was seated on a big bowlder at the roadside enjoying the shade. At his side was the fussy, well known figure of Cook's interpreter eagerly pointing out certain important personages to him as they passed. Of course the approach of the prince was the excuse for considerable agitation and fervor on the part of the man from Cook's. He mounted the bowlder and took off his cap to wave it frantically.

"It's the prince!" he called out to 'Truxton King. 'Stand up! Hurry! Long live the prince!'"

The man from Cook's came to grief. He slipped from his perch on the rock and came floundering to the ground.

The spirited pony that the prince was riding shied and reared in quick fright. The boy dropped his cap and clung valiantly to the reins. A guardsman was at the pony's head in an instant.

Truxton King picked up the riding crop, strode out into the roadway and handed it up to the boy in the saddle.

"Thank you," said Prince Bobby.

"Don't mention it," said Truxton King, with his most engaging smile.

"No trouble at all."

A COMEDIAN'S TRICK.

Rule by Which He Escaped Arrest and Had His Debts Paid.

Many amusing stories are told of Joe Haines, a comedian of the time of Charles II., sometimes called "Count Haines." It is said that he was arrested one morning by two bailiffs for a debt of £20, when he saw a bishop to whom he was related passing along in his coach. With ready resource he immediately saw a loophole for escape, and, turning to the men, he said, "Let me speak to his lordship, to whom I am well known, and he will pay the debt and your charges into the bargain."

The bailiffs thought they might venture this, as they were within two or three yards of the coach, and acceded to the request. Joe boldly advanced and took off his hat to the bishop. His lordship ordered the coach to stop when Joe whispered to the divine that the two men were suffering from such scruples of conscience that he feared they would hang themselves, suggesting that his lordship should lay it to them to his house and promise to satisfy them. The bishop agreed, and, calling to the bailiffs, he said, "You two men come to me tomorrow morning, and I will satisfy you."

The men bowed and went away pleased, and early the next day waited on his lordship, who, when they were ushered in, said, "Well, my men, what are these scruples of conscience?"

"Scruples!" replied one of them. "We have no scruples! We are bailiffs, my lord, who yesterday arrested your cousin, Joe Haines, for a debt of £20, and your lordship kindly promised to satisfy us."

The trick was strange, but the result was stranger, for his lordship, either appreciating its cleverness or considering himself bound by the promise he had unintentionally given, there and then settled with the men in full.

That Lane Back Means Kidney Disease

And to Relieve the Lane and Aching Back, You Must First Relieve the Kidneys

There is no question about that at all—for the lane and aching back is caused by a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder. It is only common sense, any way—that you must cure a condition by removing the cause of the condition. And lane and aching back are not by any means the only symptoms of derangement of the kidneys and bladder. There are a multitude of well-known and unmistakable indications of a more or less dangerous condition. Some of these are, for instance: Extreme and unnatural lassitude and weariness, nervous irritability, heart irregularity, "nerves on edge," sleeplessness and inability to secure rest, scalding sensation and sediment in the urine, inflammation of the bladder and passages, etc.

Dewitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are an exceptionally meritorious remedy for any and all affections or diseased conditions of these organs. These Pills operate directly and promptly—and their beneficial results are at once felt.

They regulate, purify, and effectually heal and restore the kidneys, bladder and liver, to perfect and healthy condition—even in some of the most advanced cases.

B. C. Dewitt & Co., Chicago, Ill., want every man and woman who have the least suspicion that they are afflicted with kidney and bladder diseases to at once write them, and a trial box of these Pills will be sent free by return mail postpaid.

gain in health.

A son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Frank Foster spent Sunday in Syracuse.

Mrs. James Morrow's physical condition continues about the same.

A daughter was born on Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. John Painter.

Miss Florence Dexter has been the recent guest of friends in Rochester.

Mr. Ebert Carver contemplates attending the Cement Show in Chicago, Ill.

Mr. Charles E. Stewart has returned from a sojourn of several weeks in Florida.

Mr. John C. Peach of Pulaski spent Sunday in the family of Postmaster Hughes.

Miss Myrtis Gilbert has been enjoying a visit from Miss Lillian Winchell, of Syracuse.

Mr. William Staring has been confined to his home for several days by illness.

J. C. Dwyer, son of ex-Alderman Andrew Dwyer, has been appointed as a regular fireman.

Mrs. John C. Sadelmeyer of Ilion has been the recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Sadelmeyer.

Miss Freda Siler entertained a party of friends on Wednesday evening at her home in Cayuga street.

Ex-County Clerk A. B. Simpson was in Fulton on Thursday in the interest of his candidacy for the county treasurership.

The veteran coal dealer, Mr. Orrin Henderson, has been confined to his home with a severe cold. He is now greatly improved.

Mrs. Harvey McMurchey is spending some time with friends at Heartwell, Ohio. Her son, Neil Moore, is slowly regain his health in a sanatorium.

Mrs. George A. Gule gave a hospital tea at her home in Fourth street on Tuesday afternoon of last week. A delightful afternoon was enjoyed.

Dr. S. A. Russell is able to be about again after an illness. Mrs.
Russell is also slowly regaining her health after a severe illness with pneumonia.

Owing to the small attendance at the Baptist church meetings held on Wednesday evening it was decided to postpone the discussion of the new church building, until Church Day, March 10.

Mrs. Norman Stafford had as her guests at Monday luncheon Mrs.
Charles Kellogg and Miss Betsey C.
Kellogg of Chittenango and Mrs. S.
A. Forbes, Miss Ida S. Sayles and Miss Edith Lewis of Canastota.

Attorney W. B. Baker writes The Times, under date of Feb. 10, that he and his family are nicely settled in their new home in Gloversville, taking their first meal there on Thursday, and that they are delighted with the city and the residents they have met.

Mrs. John O'Brien, president of the Wednesday Evening Card club, was presented with a handsome cut-glass dish at the meeting held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Michael Owens. The club will not hold another meeting until after Lent.

This section experienced one of the worst snow storms of the season on Friday night and Saturday. Superintendent of Public Works Martin experienced considerable difficulty in handling the fluffy stuff as the last administration left but $200 in the fund to be used for street cleaning purposes.

It is very probable that the encampment of the Grand Army to be held in Syracuse next June will be the last of the big gatherings of the survivors of the civil war in the State of New York, and it proposed to make it a memorable event. All of the veterans are nearing the limitations of life, and in the course of a year or two more at the outside there will be a great decrease in the membership of the Grand Army of the Republic.

TO WRITE NEW YORK CHARTER

The Redcoats.
An incident at the siege of Rotten in 1591 shows that red was looked upon as the English color, for in mentioning the death of one of the Earl of Essex's captains it is remarked that the Frenchman who shot him got near enough to do so by putting on the red coat of a dead English soldier. In 1643 the king's life guards, as also the queen's and Prince Rupert's, wore red coats.

Spanish Politeness.
In Spain no one enters or leaves a railway carriage without bowing politely to the occupants, and the person who enters a shop and asks for what he wants without first greeting the shopkeeper is considered very ill mannered.

An attack of the grip is often followed by a persistent cough, which to many proves a great annoyance.
Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has been extensively used and with good success for the relief and cure of this cough. Many cases have been cured after all other remedies have failed.
Sold by E. A. Putnam.

The Noble Horse.
A request in an English school for a composition on the horse brought out the following gem:
"The horse does not belong to the rat tribe, because its paws are hoofs.
It breathes with its gills when it is young, and chews the cud just like other people. A mule is a horse with long ears, and if a horse had long ears it would be called a donkey. You can see the age of a horse if you look in its mouth. It is defensive with his hind legs, and when they kick you you say woe!"

THE BEST HOUR OF LIFE
medicine like that." Is the surest discoverer some wonderful fact. This hour came to J. R. Pitt, of Rocky Mt., N. C., when he was suffering intensely, as he says, "from the worst cold I ever had. I then proved to my great satisfaction, what a wonderful
Cold and Cough cure Dr. King's New Discovery is. For, after taking one bottle, I was entirely cured. You can't say anything too good of a medicine like that." Its the surest and best remedy for diseased lungs,
Hemorrhages, LaGrippe, Asthma, Hay
Fever, any throat or Lung Trouble.
50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by the Red Cross Pharmacy.

When Raleigh Lost His Head.
Sir Walter Raleigh had just spread his cloak over the mud puddle so that Queen Lisa might not wet her understandings as she crossed the street.
"What a sign of high breeding!" enthused her majesty.
"Say, rather, madam," smiled Sir Walter, bumping his nose on the curb stone as he bowed, "waterproof of devotion!"

Now we know why Raleigh was executed.
It was on account of this occasion when he undoubtedly lost his head—London Scraps.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM.
is the old reliable cough remedy.
Found in every drug store and in practically every home. For sale by all druggists, 25c, 50c and $1.00 bottles.

Cooking a Mackerel.
Many a dainty mess with beauty and fortune behind it has been stripped at the mention of plain, old fashioned salt mackerel, but never at the salt mackerel as cooked by the famous John Chamberlain of Washington. Here is the method to be used:
Take one or more mackerel and soak about forty-eight hours, changing the water once. Then put them in a pan large enough to hold them, cover them with cream or the nearest you can get to it, put in oven and cook until cream is brown. This beats any mackerel cooking on earth.

No Man is Stronger Than His Stomach

A strong man is strong all over. No man can be strong who is suffering from weak stomach with its consequent indigestion, or from any other disease of the stomach and its associated organs, which impairs digestion and nutrition. For when the stomach is weak or diseased there is a loss of the nutrition contained in food, which is the source of all physical strength. "When a man 'doesn't feel just right,'" when he doesn't sleep well, is nervous, irritable and despondent, he is losing the nutrition needed to make strength.

Such a man should use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It enriches the blood, invigorates the liver, strengthens the kidneys, nourishes the nerves, and so GIVES HEALTH AND STRENGTH TO THE WHOLE BODY.

You can't afford to accept a secret system as a substitute for this consolidated medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit. Ingredients printed on wrapper.

SPIDER INSTINCT.

Cutting a Web Thread to Escape From an Intruder.

The instinct of the spider is always an interesting subject for study. Recently a naturalist placed a small spider in the center of a large spider's web some four feet above ground.
The large spider soon rushed from its hiding place under a leaf to attack the intruder, which ran up one of the ascending lines by which the web was secured to the foliage.

The big insect gained rapidly upon the little one, but the fugitive was equal to the emergency, for when barely an inch ahead of the other it cut with one of its rear legs the line behind itself, thus securing its own escape, the ferocious pursuer failing to the ground.

The naturalist says: "It is not the habit of spiders to cut the slender thread below them when they are ascending to avoid some threatened danger unless there is a hole close at hand—and a hole that is known to be unoccupied." From this it would seem that the little creature's action was the result of some sort of reasoning. Instinct led it to run away, but it must have been something more than instinct that led it to sever the line and so cut off the pursuit.

The same naturalist says that spiders are cannibals and that they are naturally pugnacious. But they do not fight for the satisfaction of eating one another. "When two spiders fight there is generally a very good reason for the attack and the vigorous defense that follows."

"It is not generally known that after a certain time spiders become incapable of spinning a web from lack of material. The glutinous excretion from which the slender threads are spun is limited, therefore spiders cannot keep on constructing new snares when the old ones are destroyed. But they can avail themselves of the web producing powers of their younger neighbors, and this they do without scruple. As soon as a spider's web constructing material has become exhausted and its last web destroyed it sets out in search of another home, and unless it should chance to find one that is tenacious a battle usually ensues, which ends only with the retreat or death of the invader or defender."

THACKERAY WAS BORED.

Amusing Incident of the Author's Second Visit to Boston.

During Thackeray's second visit to Boston Mr. James T. Fields, his host, was asked to invite Thackeray to attend an evening meeting of a scientific club, which was to be held at the house of a distinguished member.

I was, said Mr. Fields, very reluctant to ask him to be present, for I knew he was easily bored, and I was fearful that a prosy essay or geological paper might be presented and felt certain that should such be the case he would be exasperated with me, the innocent cause of his affliction.

My worst fears were realized. I dared not look at Thackeray. I felt that his eye was upon me. My distress may be imagined when I saw him sit quite deliberately and make his exit very noiselessly into a small anteroom adjoining. The apartment was dimly lighted, but he knew that I knew he was there.

Then began a series of pantomimic feats impossible to describe. He threw an imaginary person—myself, of course
—upon the floor and proceeded to stab him several times with a paper folder, which he caught up for the purpose.

After disposing of his victim in this way he was not satisfied, for the dull lecture still went on in the other room, so he fired an imaginary revolver several times at an imaginary head.

The whole thing was infinitely done. I hoped nobody saw it but myself. Years afterward a pious, sonnet-witted young man put the question squarely to me:

"What was the matter with Mr.
Thackeray that night the club met at
Mr. —'s house?"

The Thorns and the Rose.
Mrs. Tempterton—I've got the dearest old darling of a husband that ever happened. He has an awful temper, and tears up my best hat. Miss Singleton after that? How can you? Mrs. Tempterton—Well, you see, he always has a fit of remorse next day and buys me a better one.—Chicago News.

SENATOR DEPEW'S

QUESTS GRATEFUL

The invasion of the nation's Capitol by about 150 members of the new State Republican Editorial Association, accompanied by wives and children, occurred on Friday, Feb. 4, the event proving a most enjoyable and memorable occasion.

This excursion was made possible through the generosity of Senator Depew of the Empire State, who, with his accustomed liberality, placed in control of the expedition agents of capacity who worked out every detail. Nothing, therefore, that could have added to the convenience, contentment or happiness of the guests was omitted from the program from the time of leaving their home-town (from which transportation was provided) until their return.

It was arranged that the members of the Editorial Association should rendezvous in New York City at the Pennsylvania ferry, foot of West Twenty-third street, on the morning of the 4th, and reach Jersey City, under the chaperonage of President John A. Bleicher and Secretary Bun-nell, where a special train of seven cars, with dining-car attached, awaited them. The train was in charge of an agent of the New York Central road, who placed at the disposal of the guests everything that might contribute to the pleasure of the occasion.

Leaving the frozen region of Western and Northern New York, the change to a more congenial climate as the excursionists sped southward, was most noticeable and fully appreciated. The balmy sunshine of Southern New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia, warmed the marrow in one's bones and gave quaint faces more kindly looks.

When the superb building known as the Terminal Station in Washington was reached—which it is stated cost upwards of $17,000,000 to construct—Senator Depew, accompanied by Ex-Lieutenant Governor Woodruff and many of the New York State Congressmen, extended a most cordial welcome.

After formalities were exchanged, the members of the Editorial Association repaired to their several hotels to await the carrying out of a program which had been arranged.

In the evening at 9 o'clock Senator Depew's palatial residence was resplendent with electrical illuminations, the costumes of beautiful women interspersed with the more sombre costumes of the men. Senator and Mrs. Depew, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Woodruff, President John A. Bleicher and Secretary Bun-nell of the Editorial Association received the guests in the spacious reception hall, and then followed a most delightfully informal, jovial and ever-to-be-remembered social time. Members of the cabinet, of Congress, dignified Senators and Supreme Court Justices vying with each other in the cordiality of the welcome extended. President Taft, at a later hour was discovered among the guests, and after a formal greeting repaired to the ball-room, where he danced with many of the ladies, performing the intricacies of the waltz in a most graceful manner, notwithstanding his 320 pounds of avoirdupois.

Substantial refreshments were served in the dining-room to not less than 300 guests.

Every room in Senator Depew's home was decorated with roses, and potted plants of a brilliant hue. The bric-a-brac, souvenirs, bronzes, rare pictures and marble statuary in the parlors, library, dining, reception hall and ball-room, kept additional interest to the magnificent display.

The next day, Saturday, the guests were received informally by President Taft at the Executive Mansion. A visit to the White House followed, after which the members were hurried in automobiles to the Government printing office, the largest institution of the kind in the world.

In the afternoon at 8 o'clock conveyances were again brought into requisition and every point of interest throughout the city was visited and incidents of an historical nature revealed by a competent guide.

In the evening a tired but happy theatrical party, numbering 114, assembled at the New National Theatre and witnessed an exceedingly clever presentation of "The Harvest Moon." This was all made possible through the generosity of the Senator Senator of the Empire State.

A special train with the same equipment, awaited the guests on Sunday morning, on which they sped northward, leaving Washington at 2 o'clock and reaching New York at 2 p. m.

The members of the Editorial Association are deeply grateful to Senator Depew for the princely manner of their entertainment. The generosity and especially, worked details of the expedition aroused the admiration and awakened a feeling of the deepest gratitude toward the donor in the hearts of the recipients.

The March meeting of the W. F. M. and Sunshine Societies will meet with Mrs. Frank Howell.

Members of the Golden Grain, I. O. G. T. Lodge enjoyed a sleighride and visit to South West Oswego Lodge last Tuesday evening. Upon starting home they indulged a little too freely in the blowing of horns and making a noise in general and so took the wrong fork of the road for home. After traveling some five or six miles without sighting the familiar scenes of North Hannibal, a number of the masculine element braved the howls of the mid-night dog and the displeasure of people who were sleeping the sleep of the just, to inquire their exact geographical position, and found to their dismay that they were some where in Sterling. After a long and tedious journey the party again returned to Oswego County and reached their homes before the break of day.

Nothing but the fact that it was a party of excellent Good Templars, saves one from fearing they had indulged in something besides "noise."

NORTH VOLNEY

The next social is to be a Valentine social Friday evening, Feb. 18.

Too Late For Last Week

Saturday morning came the news of the death of John Butler of Lamson; he had been poorly for some time with his heart but died very suddenly at the last, he was much thought of in this place where he had sold groceries for a number of years and had many friends who will mourn his loss. He was a good man and very much respected. He was a brother of Mrs. Ezra Baker whose husband died three weeks ago yesterday. He leaves a wife and one daughter, Mrs. Addie Thomsen, who will miss him so much.

GET YOUR COPY IN EARLY.

Advertisers and others are earnestly requested to get their copy to The Times office as early as possible. Frequently the matter of sending in an item, announcement or advertisement, is left until the paper is ready to go to press, while it could have been sent in the previous day, or at least several hours' earlier. While we desire to accommodate patrons in every particular, we insist that they in turn accommodate us by getting copy to us at the earliest possible moment. Please bear this request in mind.

Needed a Rest.

"Rest is not quitting the busy career," says the poet. The truth of the saying was impressed on a family by Lulu, their colored cook. She was fat, lazy and "notional," but her cooking was perfect, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawton ignored her whims and reduced her work to minimum.

Good cooks were so hard to get that the question of adding a feather's weight to Lulu's duties was discussed in a subdued whisper. One day Lulu resigned her position.

"Why, Lulu," asked Mrs. Lawton, "what is the matter? Is the work too hard for you?"

"Well, ma'am," replied Lulu, "I'm all tired out. I'm going home to take in washing and rest up."

Played For His Wages.

The conductor of a certain band which was rehearsing a piece stopped the music abruptly and frowned at a stout fellow who was putting all the other musicians out. "Say, Harman," he demanded, "what do you mean by playing a lot of half notes, where should be whole notes?"

Harman lowered his instrument. "Well," he said, "I make explanations by you. You cut down my wages to half price, don't you?"

The conductor stared in amazement. He had done so, but—

"And I continue to make der notes all my instrument, but day I'll be half notes until der wages is put back to whole price. Dat is fair, ain't it?"

Driving the Fact Home.

There are various methods, diplomatic or brusque, of notifying an unsatisfactory employee of his dismissal. The pink envelope, says a writer in the Boston Record, is the recognized messenger of fate in many business offices, but there are other ways.

The most picturesque and original of methods was that which "Uncle Jimmy" Gilbert used to use in his printing office. When a new man came Uncle Jimmy drove a nail in the wall for him to hang his hat and coat on.

Some morning the man would come to work and find the nail driven in up to the head. He knew that he was through then.

ANNOUNCEMENT

..The.. ..Fulton Savings Bank..

has outgrown its present accommodations and its Trustees have decided to build a new Bank building at the corner of First and Rochester Streets during the Summer of 1910.

HISTORY OF FULTON SAVINGS BANK

Marvelous Growth in Deposits From a Small Beginning
—Now $1,654,059.—Proposed New Building.

The Fulton Savings Bank opened its doors for business on September 25th 1871, in the office at the northeast corner of Second and Oneida streets, now occupied by the Fulton Patriot. The trustees at that time were Sands N. Kenyon, George M. Case, John W. Fra it, Charles G. Bacon, William D. Patterson, John Harroun, Calvin Osgood, Morris S. Kimball, Willard Johnson, Benjamin J. Dyer, Stephen Pardee, John C. Wells, Amos Dean, H. H. Merriam, Ira Carrier, Henry N. Somers, Hiram Bradley, William Dexter, James H. Townsend, Abraham Howe and Willis S. Nelson, of Fulton. Mr. Willis S. Nelson, the only survivor of the twenty-one men who founded the Bank, is yet vigorous in body and mind, and his long business experience makes him a wise and conservative adviser to its present trustees.

In its career of nearly thirty-nine years, this Bank has had but three presidents, viz: Mr. Sands N. Kenyon, Mr. Abraham Howe and Mr. Arvin Rice, and but four men have acted as its Treasurer. Mr. Kenyon acted as both president and treasurer for a short time, when he resigned as treasurer, and Mr. Howe was elected in January, 1879, serving in that capacity until 1898. Mr. Howe also held the office of president from 1887 to the time of his death on November 1st 1902. Mr. Howe resigned the office of treasurer in January, 1898, and Mr. Henry E. Nichols was elected to that position, holding same until his death in October, 1902, when the present treasurer was elected. Only two men have acted as Attorney for the Bank. Mr. Emory S. Pardee was attorney until his death in 1883, when Mr. G. S. Piper was elected and has served the bank in that capacity for nearly thirty years.

The Bank has passed successfully through some trying times. During the panic of 1873 it lost about one-third of its deposits, which amounted at that time to about $60,000.00, but regained the entire amount during the next year. In 1893 (as did all Savings Banks) it required notice for withdrawal of deposits of large amounts, but small payments were freely made. That is the only time during the history of the Bank when any notice has been required for withdrawal of money.

From figures given below showing the amount of deposits, at intervals of ten years, it will be seen that this Bank has more than doubled its deposits every ten years:

Bank opened for business in 1871.
Deposits Jan. 1, 1880.....$ 68,954.09
Deposits Jan. 1, 1890.....113,334.23
Deposits Jan. 1, 1900.....712,614.90
Deposits Jan. 1, 1910.....1,654,059.47

The surplus is now $115,598.71, which is greater in proportion to size than that of many of the much larger Savings Banks.

All things considered, this is a remarkable showing. The amount gained during the last ten years has been very much greater than for any previous ten years, and it would hardly seem possible that this rate of increase could be kept up.

It has been found necessary to provide a larger building, to accommodate the growing business. The trustees have decided to build on the lot at the corner of First and Rochester streets, which was purchased several years ago for this purpose. This lot is 70 feet front on First street and 90 feet on Rochester street. The new building will be about 40x55 feet and will be placed in the center of the lot, so there will be good light and air on all sides, with little danger from fire. The Bank will occupy the entire first floor. With attorney's offices above. The vault will be of the most approved construction, and the latest devices will be used to protect the Bank's securities from fire and burglars.

LEE MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

Many Beds to be Endowed—Number of Rooms Limited—Early Action Necessary

The Board of Governors are receiving many applications to furnish rooms and equipment for the new Albert Lindley Lee Memorial Hospital. These furnishings of various kinds are accepted subject to the approval of the Equipment Committee of the Board of Governors, and already the following assignments have been made, subject to the provision that rooms furnished will be permanently maintained by parties making the application:

Abram Emerick Room.
Frary Room.
F. G. Spencer Room.
Dr. Woodbury Room.
Presbyterian Room.
Immaculate Conception Room.

In addition to this, a letter has just been received from Mrs. Frank H. Platt of New York city, requesting the privilege of furnishing the operating room equipment complete, in memory of her father, Dr. Allan C. Livingston, who was a former resident physician of this city.

Several other parties have already indicated their desire to furnish beds and it is desirable that such applications should be made as promptly as possible to H. L. Paddock, of the Board of Governors.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Mr. E. J. Penfield, the newly elected president of the Chamber of Commerce, brings to the office a zeal and enthusiasm that is truly delightful and that bespeaks for the organization an active usefulness in the interest of Fulton during the coming year. Mr. Penfield is the E-Z-Open Bag company's resident manager, a most expert business man with very broad and liberal views. He believes implicitly in Fulton and the Chamber of Commerce and has not forgotten that it was through the offices of the very organization of which he is now president, that he and his company decided upon locating their substantial and growing business in this city.

It is proposed to hold monthly meetings of the Chamber for the interchange of views upon public questions and a feature of the gatherings, which will be rather informal, will be five minute talks upon important local questions by men qualified to give information.

SUCCEEDS W. E. BAKER

Comptroller Williams has appointed Attorney Uelle Bartlette as his special representative in Oswego county, to succeed Attorney W. R. Baker, who has removed to Gloversville. The place plays a small salary and the duties are not onerous.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK SYSTEM

Probable Adoption of Measure by Congress—History of the Movement—Why Should They Not Become a Valuable Adjunct to Private Banking Establishments?

HOW THEY SUCCEEDED IN OTHER COUNTRIES

For more than a quarter of a century the question of establishing a postal savings bank system has engaged the attention of those prominent in national administrative circles in this country. The idea is therefore not new. An active propaganda was begun in England 100 years ago, and after 50 years of agitation, the idea was enacted into law by act of Parliament, passed in 1861. Since then postal savings banks have been in successful operation in the United Kingdom, and in rapid succession her example has been followed by the most progressive nations, until at least 14 of the foremost have such a system in successful operation leaving the United States almost alone among the great commercial nations in the want of it.

The adoption of the measure has been advocated by the ablest statesmen in this country, from Postmaster-General Creswell in 1871, to his successor at the present time. The Republican National platform has endorsed the measure, and President Taft is one of its most earnest advocates. The popular sentiment in favor of its adoption seems overwhelming. But unquestionably a discordant note is heard from banking circles, especially savings banks.

The postal savings banks are not designed to be, and are not, in fact, a substitute for other savings banks or their rival, but their feeder. They meet a need which the other savings banks could never meet, and teach a class they could never reach.

The public cherishes the idea that the post office belongs to them. They have been brought up to transact business with it from childhood and look upon it as their institution. Many would therefore deal with it and deposit their savings who would not deal with the banks. No such mystery surrounds the transaction of business with the post office as surrounds the banking business.

It is stated on good authority that postal savings banks, wherever operated, have been found a most important and valuable adjunct to private banking establishments. Contrary to the belief of some, they are a help, not a hindrance, to private enterprise. Postal deposits apparently increase until they reach a certain point and then remain nearly stationary, which would seem to indicate two things: First, that the money which has been gotten at is mostly that which can not be reached by private banks, and has been drawn from places of concealment or collected in extremely small sums; and second, that the patrons having accumulated a little money, learn its earning power and decide to place it where it will yield greater returns.

How postal savings banks have succeeded in other countries, the following table will bear testimony:

	No. of Average Depositors	Deposits
England and Wales.....	8,777,231	$ 75
Austria.....	1,860,347	50
Belgium.....	2,088,448	75
Canada.....	330,216	270
France.....	3,291,412	63
Hungary.....	525,312	23
India.....	987,635	42
Ireland.....	465,935	101
Italy.....	1,350,691	18
Netherlands.....	1,111,590	20
New South Wales.....	339,602	148
New Zealand.....	297,569	12
Queensland.....	83,055	23
Scotland.....	431,394	53
Philippine Islands.....	9,970	76

It is the opinion of Postmaster-General Hitchcock that postal savings depositories would not impose any additional financial burden upon the government. He states that a postal bank savings system in this country would be self-supporting. A fractional margin between the rate of interest paid to the depositors and the rate realized by the government on redemptions would easily cover the cost of conducting the business. Only a moderate original outlay would be required for special equipment improvements in the postal service now being made should place the department in such condition that the additional work and responsibility incident to the operation of postal savings banks could be readily assumed.

The salient features of the proposed bill are that the Postmaster-General will designate as rapidly as consistent with good administration the money order offices as places for the receipt of savings deposits and be empowered to so designate such other offices as he deems appropriate. There are approximately 60,000 money order offices in this country so that the Postmaster-General may at first restrict the depositories to post offices of the President's grade, of which there are about 1,500. Accounts may be opened by any person ten years of age. Married women may have accounts free from interference by their husbands. No person can have more than one account. The minimum deposit which will be accepted is $1. Interest is to be allowed at the rate of 2 percent, per annum, an evidence of the intention of the government not to compete with banks. No depositors may have a total credit exceeding $500 exclusive of accumulated interest, and not more than $100 may be deposited in any one month. Withdrawals may be made under rules and regulations to be prescribed. Postal savings funds, so far as practicable, will be deposited by the Postmaster-General in banks located nearest to the post offices at which the money is received at a rate of interest not less than 2 1/2 per cent.

By the foregoing figures it will be noted that in order that the United States could adequately serve the people with savings bank facilities so as to average a per capita deposit of say $75, which is the average amount in England, there would have to be at least 15,000 savings banks scattered throughout our land, instead of 1,237. We have in this country 15,355 commercial banks, indicating that commercial depositories are well provided for, while our wage-earners and others whose accounts must be small, have very limited facilities. With post office banks in every city and town, the remedy would be easily provided.

Why should not this great country, with all its wealth, have a greater percentage of savings bank depositors than any other? To be sure we have the highest per capita amount of deposits by great odds, but we should also have the greatest percentage of depositors, and we would have with postal banks.

The proposed measure now before the national legislature provides that smaller amounts than are now accumulated for deposit, may be accumulated from any savings card to which may be attached specially prepared adhesive stamps, to be known as "postal savings stamps," and when the stamps so attached amount to $1, or a larger sum in multiples thereof, including the ten-cent postal savings card, the same may be presented as a deposit for opening an account, and additions may be made to any account by means of such card and stamps in amounts of $1, or multiples thereof, and when a card or stamps attached are redeemed by any postmaster he shall immediately cancel the same. The bill further provides "that it is hereby made the duty of the Postmaster-General to prepare such postal savings cards and postal savings stamps of denominations of 10 cents and to keep them on sale at every postal savings depository office, and to prescribe all necessary rules and regulations for the issue, sale and cancellation thereof."

Postal savings funds shall be deposited in any solvent bank or banks, subject to public supervision and examination in the State and Territory, and as nearly as practicable in the immediate neighborhood in which the funds are received, at a rate of interest not less than 2 1/2 per cent. per annum. Where more than one such bank is available, the deposits shall be distributed ratably among the banks as far as practicable on the basis of their capital and surplus. The Board of Trustees, viz: The Secretary of the Treasury, the Postmaster-General and the Attorney-General, acting ex-officio, shall take from such bank or banks such indemnity bonds as the Board may prescribe and deem sufficient and necessary to insure the safety and prompt repayment of such deposits on demand.

Postal savings depository funds are entitled to all the safeguards provided by law for the protection of public moneys.

The act shall take effect on the first day of the third calendar month after its approval.

It may be truthfully said as a reason for establishing the system in this country that the nation is most blessed, at least in material things, where the people have accumulated the greatest amount of savings. There are few savings banks in this country today to offer convenient depositories for the people's savings as compared with that of other nations. The figures are startling. A partial list is as follows:

	No. of One Savings Banks	Bank to Every Country.....	927	7,000
Belgium.....	16,000	3,000
France.....	7,697	5,600
Italy.....	5,148	7,000
Sweden.....	3,558	1,250
United States.....	1,237	67,000

CURRENT EVENTS MATTER DISCUSSED

Unique Program Presented-- Postal Savings Bank Measure Discussed--Arrangements Made for Lecture.

The season of the Current Events Club on Monday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Hunter, was both unique and interesting. In commemoration of the date being the eve of Washington's birthday, Miss Mary Hunter favored the assemblage with a patriotic poem. Mr. H. L. Paddock, who was in charge of the program, had gathered from the sayings of literatures of established reputation, quotations of a patriotic nature, referring particularly to the life and public services of Washington. A miniature flag was pinned to each quotation and the souvenirs were distributed during the early part of the meeting. As the secretary called the roll, each member responded by reading his or her quotation. The dignity of history was therefore invoked to make the occasion pleasurable.

The program, Attorney Arvin Rice, treasurer of the series of entertainments given this season for the benefit of the Public Library fund, reported that all bills incident to and contracted for the entertainments had been paid and a balance of $15 transferred to the proper fund.

Dr. Harriet M. Doane, chairman of the committee selected to co-operate with the American Medical Association in the matter of giving the public the benefit of a series of talks on sanitation, reported that arrangements had been perfected for the delivery of the first of the series by Dr. Charles Low of Pulaski, in the assembly room of the Public Library building next Tuesday evening, March 1, at 8 o'clock, when it is sincerely hoped a large number of our residents will embrace the opportunity of listening to the scientific treatment of a subject of so much importance. No admission fee will be charged.

The next of the series will be given at a later date by Dr. Marion Craig Potter of Rochester on the "Microbic origin of disease." Though an inadvertence, when this matter was last reported, the name of Miss Daisy Lounsbury was not mentioned as a member of the committee representing the Current Events Club.

In reverting to the program for the evening, Mr. Paddock dwelt on some of the opinions held by contemporaneous critics regarding the life and public services of Washington.

An argument in favor of the establishment of postal savings banks was presented by the secretary, to which Attorney Arvin Rice, representing a bankers' viewpoint, replied with an array of facts and figures, against the proposition. This led to a pleasant discussion of the merits of the case.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Sawtelle, on Monday evening, March 7. The leaders will be the Rev. John Cornwell, Prof. M. M. Dodge and Mr. Thomas Hunter.

BOOST CLUB BUSY

The Boost club has forestalled other organizations and named the first week in May as the general clean-up time for Fulton residents. They propose to issue a call to all public spirited citizens to place their yards and out houses in slightly condition for the coming warm season. Heretofore the Mayor of the city has designated a week when concerted action along this line might be taken but this year the Boost club asks for action.

OSWEGO FALLS GRANGE SUCCESSFUL

Mr. F. G. Vogelgsang, who represented the Oswego Falls Grange at the Potato Exhibit recently held at the State Fair, reported that the prizes awarded. Such a record as was scored does tremendous good for the county and especially for the immediate locality in which the article was raised. Mr. Vogelgsang says that after an inspection of the tubers grown by his grange was made, he was immediately plying with inquiries relative to potato farms in this section and that he gave the names and addresses of local real estate dealers to all who were interested.

Sixteen first premiums were secured by Mr. Vogelgsang's exhibit and the exhibit also secured eight of the ten hand cultivators offered as prizes. The following official letter received by Mr. Vogelgsang will be read with interest:

February 16, 1910
Mr. F. G. Vogelgsang, Oswego Falls Grange,
Fulton, N. Y.

My Dear Mr. Vogelgsang:
I take great pleasure in informing you that the exhibit sent by your Grange has been awarded first prize. The banner which is now being made will be sent to you as soon as finished.

You have been awarded personally prizes for the following early varieties: Early Hebron, Bliss, Triumph, Early Puritan and Irish Cobbler. The diplomas will be sent you as soon as finished.

It is now nearly time to think of the kind of show we will hold next year. I am wondering if you will have any suggestions along this line. I should be glad to hear from you in regard to it.

Yours very truly,
R. J. Shepard.

LECTURE ON SANITATION

The American Medical Association, in the interest of science, is prepared to send representatives to Fulton to talk on matters which should interest every public spirited citizen. Arrangements have been perfected by a committee representing the Current Events Club, viz: Dr. Harriet M. Doane, Miss Daisy Lounsbury and Mrs. E. R. Redhead, in conjunction with the duly accredited officers of the Medical Association. The first of a series of talks to be given by Dr. Charles Low of Pulaski on sanitation. The assembly room in the Public Library will be utilized and no admission fee will be charged. Next Tuesday evening, March 1, at 8 o'clock, is the time arranged for, and it is sincerely hoped a large assemblage will greet the orator of the occasion.

formed and verily believes the said Mrs. N. S. Dada is not the owner of any property or real estate on said Lot 6; that the taxes so assessed to the said Mrs. N. S. Dada for the years 1902-3-4-5-6-7-8-9 and 10, remain unpaid because of the irregularities aforesaid, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the taxes assessed upon the aforesaid property against Mrs. N. S. Dada for the years above-mentioned be, and the same hereby are commuted to the sum of $25.00 because of the errors and irregularities in the assessments aforesaid, and upon which said taxes were levied; provided that the said sum of $25.00 shall be paid not later than April 1st, 1910, and the city chamberlain is hereby authorized and directed to accept said sum of $25.00 in full settlement and satisfaction of such taxes for said years and to correct the assessment rolls accordingly. —Carried.

CERTIFICATES REVOKED

The orders of County Judge Rowe, revoking the liquor tax certificates of W. A. Merriam, William Waring and Michael Carey of Phoenix, have been filed with County Treasurer Moore.
Their cases were tried before County Judge Rowe recently and his finding was against the three above-named men who keep hotels in Phoenix and who were charged with selling liquor on Sunday.

W. A. Merriam, proprietor of the Windsor hotel, has sold his business to his father, A. P. Merriam.

The elder Merriam will continue the business there and the two other proprietors will continue business under other names. They were charged with selling liquor on Sunday and cannot have licenses in their own names for a year. Had the charge been disorderly conduct or gambling the places could not be licensed for a year. —Palladium.

SURROGATE'S COURT

Schroepel, filed Monday, disposes of an estate of $2,500 personal. Wm.
Dodd of Phoenix, a friend, is given $600; George Fisher of Warrens, Ontario County, $500; George and John Hopkins the balance.

Letters testamentary were issued to Sarah Wales, Scribe, on the estate of her father, Russell Turner, who died December 30th, leaving $3,500 real and $400 personal property, all to Mrs. Wales.

Letters on the estate of Loydian Mottrose, who died in Granby, February 13th, were applied for by John R. Brown, Oswego Town. Decedent left $1,000 real and $50 personal property. She made a number of bequests to grandchildren, the residue going to a daughter, Ida Rheubottom, of Milnetto.

Letters were applied for on the estate of Thomas Hams, Schroepel, who left $2,500 personal to friends and relatives.

Saved the Dog.

Some time ago there was a shipwreck at St. Margaret's bay, England, and the life line brought sailor after sailor to shore amid the cheers of the rescuers. At last only the captain remained on board. The line was ready, the signal was given, but the answering jerk did not come. Again and again for a quarter of an hour the question passed along the rope without reply. At last, when hope was nearly dead, the signal came, and the captain was hauled dripping ashore.
He picked himself up, drew a small,
wet, quivering dog from his breast pocket and set it tenderly down. Then he looked round and said in simple apology, "I couldn't find the little brute anywhere."

STRUCK A RICH MINE.

S. W. Bonds, of Coal City, Ala., says he struck a perfect mine of health in Dr. King's New Life Pills for they cured him of Liver and Kidney Trouble after twelve years of suffering. They are the best pills on earth for Constipation, Malaria, Headache, Dyspepsia, Debility. 25c at the Red

Only Ones.

There are two kinds of people in the world—those who look on the bright side of things and those who do not.
Each sort is sure to extract his or her own moral from everything.

Two old ladies, both of whom were well-remembered, were once conversing about their ailments. One was a jolly old lady, while the other was of a sour disposition.

"Well, well," said the jolly one, "it's pleasant to be old. We get the best of everything—the easiest chairs, the best places, the tenderest moments."

"Yes, yes," sighed the other, forced to admit that her life was an easy one,
"that's all very true, but what's the use? We can't be old but once!"— Youth's Companion.

REASON ENTHRONED.

Because meats are so tasty they are consumed in great excess. This leads to stomach troubles, biliousness and constipation. Revise your diet, let reason and not a pampered appetite control, then take a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Pills and you will soon be well again. Try it. For sale at E. A. Putnam's drug store. Samples free.

Folding Linen in Holland.

Folding linen is an accomplishment in which each one of the women in Holland is expected to be proficient before she becomes mistress of a home. In Holland especially the folding of linen requires considerable skill and training. Much of their fabric is of the finest texture and quality, and they fashion the various pieces in ironing into birds, animals, flowers and all manner of artistic shapes. Their linen closets are often shown to visitors with the same pride that china closets are shown elsewhere.

LIFE ON PANAMA CANAL.

has had one frightful drawback—malaria trouble—that has brought suffering and death to thousands. The germs cause chills, fever, and ague, biliousness, jaundice, lassitude, weakness and general debility. But Electric Bitters never fail to destroy them and cure malaria troubles. "Three bottles completely cured me of a very severe attack of malaria," writes Wm.
A. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C., "and I've had good health ever since."

Seventh Century Needlework.

Before the end of the seventh century needlework was carried to great perfection in convents, where it was used for the embellishment of the church and the decoration of priestly robes. Artists did not think it beneath their dignity to trace the patterns used for embroidery in their natural colors.
A certain religious lady, wishing to embroider a sacerdotal vestment, asked no less a personage than St. Dunstan, then a young man, but already noted for his artistic skill and taste, to draw the flowers and figures, which she afterward worked to gold thread.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM

has been used successfully for years for deep-seated coughs, colds and bronchitis. Everybody should know about it. It is simple, safe and

SENATOR TILLMAN PARALYZED

Benjamin R. Tillman, United States Senator from South Carolina, was stricken with paralysis while entering the Capitol last week, and the gravest fears for his recovery are entertained.

His physicians agree that in the event of his life being spared, he will forever have lost the power of speech, and his day of public usefulness is at an end.

If troubled with indigestion, constipation, no appetite or feel bilious, give Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Pills and Tablets a trial and you will be pleased with the result.
These tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and strengthen the digestion. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Surprising, What Kodol Will Do

For you, when you need it. But the longer you neglect indigestion, the more you will suffer before Kodol can restore Good Digestion.

And, of course, indigestion if neglected long enough, brings on serious diseases in which Kodol cannot benefit you. Some of these there is no help for at all.

There are, in fact, very few aliments which cannot be traced directly to impure blood. And impure blood is always due to a dis-ordered stomach.

Use Kodol and prevent Nervous
Dyspepsia.
Kodol will effectually assist Nature to secure a complete restoration of good digestion. It does this by at once digesting all food
in the stomach and keeping it digested, until the stomach is rested and can resume its own work. Kodol removes the cause—and the effect quickly removes itself.

When it is recalled that Apoplexy, Heart Disease, Cancer—and even Consumption—are due to poor digestion and poisons thus transmitted to the blood, and throughout the system—the importance of maintaining good digestion is at once realized.

Our Guarantee
Go to your druggist today and get a delar bottle. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say, that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate, all druggists know that our guarantee is good.
This offer applies to the large bottle only and to but one in a family. The large bottle contains 25 times as much as the tiny candy bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the laboratories of E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

THE FULTON TIMES

Entered as second class matter, April 15, 1895, at the postoffice at Fulton, New York, under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

E. K. HUGHES, Editor
W. E. HUGHES, Proprietor

Issued Every Wednesday at No. 66
South First Street, Fulton, N. Y.

Official Paper of City of Fulton.

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1910.

DEATHS

The body of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Distin, was brought to this city from Syracuse on Wednesday for interment in Mt. Adnah.

Mrs. John Everts, aged 79, and for over 60 years a resident of this city, died at the home in Fay street on Sunday. Besides the husband, three sons, William C., Frederick J., and Cyrus E., and one daughter, Mrs. Jennie Johnston, all of this city, survive.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Palmer in the death of their 13-year old daughter Medora, who died on Tuesday of last week after a painful illness with abscess in the head. The funeral services were held from the late home on the east river road on Thursday, the Rev. J. G. York officiating, and interment was made in Mt. Adnah. Besides the stricken parents, one sister, Amy, survives.

The death of Medora C., aged 66, widow of the late James Morrow, occurred on Monday noon at her home on the east river road after years of ill health and months of intense suffering from cancer. Throughout all of the long battle she had been brave in the face of certain defeat and her most frequent thought had been for the comfort and pleasure of her many friends. The deceased had been a resident of this city for 40 years, having been a school teacher or previous to her marriage. The funeral services will be held from the late home on Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock and from the First Methodist church at 3:30 o'clock, the Rev. C. C. Townsend, of Potsdam, a former pastor of the deceased, and Dr. J. G. Cornwell officiating. The body will be placed in Mt. Adnah receiving vault until Spring, when it will be interred in the family lot in Oswego. The immediate survivors are one sister, Mrs. Palmer, of Chicago; a nephew, Mr. Clinton Marshall, of this city, and several nieces and nephews throughout the west.

CARD OF THANKS

Though the columns of your paper we wish to express our thanks to the pastor, Rev. John Gerald York, Sunday School teacher and classmates who sang; the school teachers who sent such beautiful words of comfort to us; the neighbors, relatives and friends who came forward in our time of trouble and so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of our daughter, Medora, and also for the beautiful floral pieces.

Robert A. Palmer and family

CONGER AMAZES LEGISLATORS

Careers of Last Two Men Accused of Bribery.

FRED NIXON AND BURNETT.

The Frenchman Became Prosperous as a Member of Assembly—Lawyer in Stuyvesant Chamber in the One Democratic Insurgent in the Lower House.

(Special Correspondence.)

Albany, Feb. 23.—The members of both houses of the legislature are in a maze of wonder and speculation concerning the allegations of Senator Benn Conger against some of the men who have been members of assembly. They believe that Conger intends to make additional accusations, and no one can prophesy where he will stop.

The charge that the three men alleged by Conger to have received envelopes containing a total of $5,000 were ex-Speaker S. Fred Nixon, ex-Assemblyman Jean Burnett and Jonathan P. Allds, senate majority leader, has stunned the friends of the trio. The fact that the two men only lately accused, Nixon and Burnett, are dead has by no means lessened the degree of the sensation caused.

Nixon a Dominating Figure.
Only a handful of assemblymen who were members when Nixon was speaker now remain in the lower house.

He was a very masterly man and dominated not only the assembly, but in many cases the senate as well. He died in 1905 after an operation for appendicitis and is stated to have been worth over $500,000 at that time.

Nixon's home town was Westfield, Chautauque county, where he was born in 1860. He graduated from Hamilton college in 1881. His father was in the marble business, and soon after leaving college young Nixon took a position with a Vermont marble company. A little later he and his brother, Emmett C. Nixon, opened a marble business at Westfield.

He was first elected to the assembly in 1887. In 1896 Nixon became a member of the rules and the ways and means committees, the two most powerful bodies within the assembly. Of him it was said that he made the rules committee, when to an speaker was its chairman from 1899 till his death, the strongest committee in the house. He governed it with an iron hand, and without his approval no law, however insignificant, could come before the house after the rules committee took hold.

When Jean Burnett Became Prosperous
Jean Larue Burnett was a Frenchman. He waxed very prosperous after he became a member of the assembly. Rumor gave him credit for being a very close friend of an influential banker of New York who had come from Canada, and people explained Jean's sudden access of wealth by the simple theory that his good friend the banker had "tipped him off" to a few lucky deals in stocks.

Wherever the money came from, Burnett bought one of Canada's oldest mansions very shortly after he was elected to the assembly, though he was not known to have any other source of income than his position in the assembly. He rebuilt it and furnished it in sumptuous style and entertained lavishly there friends not only from the legislature, but visitors from New York and other cities. He died in February, 1907.

Michigan University Graduate.
The son of Perrine Burnett, a compositor, he obtained his education first at the public schools and later at Canandaigua academy, but the bundle circumstances of his parents forced them to sacrifice much to give their son a college education. He was graduated in law from the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, but while in college laid the foundation for his future career by helping to organize the American Collegiate Republican league, which subsequently attained a membership of 90,000 and played an important part in the national campaign of 1892.

Burnett's career of a lawyer as a contributor to Fack, Life and other periodicals until he entered the assembly in 1899, but meanwhile he had attracted attention as a speaker. He was toastmaster at the first banquet of the American Collegiate Republican league, and his oratorical efforts then attracted the attention of General Russell A. Alger, William McKinley, United States Senator Thurston and others who were guests of the occasion.

Attracted McKinley's Attention.
At the suggestion of McKinley, Burnett was drafted for service on the stump by the Republican state committee in 1892, and his efforts in that direction led to his election to the assembly.

Burnett was elected to the assembly every year until his death, and in 1905 S. Fred Nixon, then speaker of the assembly, appointed him on the committee of ways and means. He remained on this committee as well as chairman of the committee on affairs of cities until his death. Speaker Wade worth naming him the appointments after Nixon died.

May Try Conger.
A startling turn may be given to the Allds-Conger controversy at any moment. A growing sentiment here demands that Conger himself be tried on a charge of bribery. The feeling among some of the legislators is that Conger's sworn testimony against Allds has condemned himself too.

The claim of Conger that he was the victim of extortion or blackmail and did not consequently commit the crime of bribery is considered in some quarters to be the argument that would be advanced in his defense in case an attempt were made to try him on charges.

Assemblyman Jesse S. Phillips denies that he had the case of Harry K. Thaw in mind when he introduced a bill a few days ago relating to writs of habeas corpus. However, the measure would have an important bearing on that case if enacted into law.

It provokes that writ of habeas corpus and a warrant shall not be issued in behalf of a person who "has been committed to or is detained in a state hospital for insane criminals by virtue of the judicial determination of his insanity by a competent tribunal of civil or criminal jurisdiction and has been granted one writ except under the conditions prescribed by section 93A of the insanity law."

Allds Retains Composure.
Throughout the Allds-Conger investigation the attitude of Senator Allds has attracted wonder. Only during the recital of Conger's story was the accused senator noticeably disturbed. Then his face flushed and he clinched his fists and acted as though he was keeping quiet under great restraint. Previous to that time Allds had maintained a spirit of confidence or of bravado, satisfied that he could not come out of the scandal the worse for wear.

His actions ever since Conger's charges became public have been of the kind to create the idea that he can combat all the hard things said against him in a manner to convince the senate and the people generally that he is not guilty of bribery.

During the sessions of the senate as the committee of the whole to probe the Conger allegations Senator Allds occupies a seat in the third row of senate seats (third row from the front). This seat is but about eighteen or twenty feet from the witness chair, and when Conger is on the stand he and Allds can hardly avoid seeing each other continually. Sometimes Allds, as though losing his temper, leans forward and glares savagely at Conger when the latter is on the stand. Again, he assumes an air of supreme indifference, swings around in his chair, with his back to the witness chair, and gazes absently into the crowded galleries.

A Man of Iron Nerves.
The demeanor of Allds, as a whole, has been that of a man of great self control, iron nerves and of pronounced confidence in himself. Hardly ever has he shown signs of nervousness or of weakness. And, as a matter of fact, this bearing of the accused senator is merely the manifestation of his character as well known to his associates. Allds has always been a man of assertiveness, energy and aggressiveness.

Friends of the accused senator, however, represent him as pessimistic much of the time. He despairs of his political future, no matter what may be the action of the senate.

New Insurance Measures.
Several bills designed to extend the state insurance department's powers and carry out recommendations of Superintendent Hotchkiss have been introduced by Senator Gratton and Assemblyman Allen, the chairman of the two houses' insurance committees.

The most important bill provides for examination of fire, surety, casualty and miscellaneous companies as well as assessment of associations and fraternal orders at least once every five years and for a general anti-rebate law similar to those Massachusetts and Pennsylvania have, giving the superintendent power to withhold certificates of authority to do business from both domestic and foreign companies.

Another bill authorizes fire insurance companies to write marine and ocean marine companies to write insurance against all the risks of transportation, whether on land or sea.

A third bill permits casualty companies to write broader automobile collision policies and authorizes stock companies to write insurance on horses and other live stock.

Chandler, Democratic Insurgent.
Lewis Stuyvesant Chandler has begun a definite policy of disagreeing with his fellow Democrats in the assembly on many measures of party policy. He acts entirely independent of the minority leader, Daniel Frieble. However, Mr. Frieble goes on his way undisturbed and makes no attempt to discipline Mr. Chandler. Mr. Frieble has the votes and Mr. Chandler gets the experience, and so presumably both are satisfied.

The introduction of his resolution providing for a general legislative investigation of bribery charges, was Mr. Chandler's latest move against the desire of his party's organization in the house. The minority has the opinion that the time is not yet ripe to make a move toward having a general inquiry, but Mr. Chandler gave expression to his opinion that the sooner a wide probe was instituted the better.

Mr. Chandler is thus the only Democratic insurgent in the lower house. In this respect he is in the same position as was Louis Cuvillier of New York in years past.

SYNOPSIS

Chapter 1—Truxton King arrives in Edelweiss, capital of Graustark, and meets the beautiful niece of Spantz, a gunmaker. He is given a favor for Prince Robin, the young ruler of the country, whose guardian is John Tullis, an American.

CHAPTER III

MANY PERSONS IN REVIEW.
TRUXTON KING witnessed the review of the garrison. That in itself was rather a tame exhibition for a man who had seen the finest troops in all the world. A thousand earnest looking soldiers, proud of the opportunity to march before the little prince, and that was all, so far as the review was concerned. Mr. King saw the court in all its glory scattered along the shady Castle avenue—in carriages, in traps, in motors and in the saddle. His brain whirled and his heart leaped under the pressure of a new found interest in life.

If Truxton King had given up in disgust and fled to Vienna this tale would never have come to light. Instead of being the lively narrative of a young gentleman's adventures in faraway Graustark, it might have become a tale of the smart set in New York, for, as you know, we are bound by tradition to follow the trail laid down by our hero, no matter which way he elects to fore. He confided to his friend from Cook's that he could never have forgiven himself if he had adhered to his resolution to leave on the following day.

"I didn't know you'd changed your mind, sir," remarked Mr. Hobbs in surprise.

"Of course you didn't know it," said Truxton. "How could you? I've just changed it this instant. I didn't know it myself two minutes ago. No, sir, Hobbs—or is it Dobbs? Thanks. No, sir, I'm going to stop here for a week, a week or two. Where the dickens do these people keep themselves? I haven't seen 'em before."

"Oh, they are the nobility—the swells. They don't hang around the streets like tourists and rubbernecks, sir," in plain disgust.

"I say, who is that just missing—the lady in the victoria?" King asked abruptly.

"That is the Countess Marlaux."

"Where? I thought she was the queen."

Hobbs went into details concerning the beautiful countess.

"I was just going to ask if you know anything about a young woman who occasionally tends shop for William Spantz, the armorer," King finally asked.

Hobbs looked interested. "She's quite a beauty, sir. I give you my word."

"I know that, Hobbs. But who is she?"

"I really can't say, sir. She's his niece, I've heard. Been here a little over a month. I think she's from Warsaw."

"Well, I'll say goodbye here. If you've nothing on for tomorrow we'll visit the castle grounds and—ahem!—take a look about the place. Come to the hotel early. I'm going over to the gunshop."

He was whistling merrily as he entered the little shop, ready to give a cheery greeting to old Spantz and to make him a tempting offer for the broadsword. But it was not Spantz who stood behind the little counter. Truxton flushed and jerked off his hat. The girl smiled.

"I beg pardon," he exclaimed. "I'm looking for Mr. Spantz."

"He is out. Will you wait?" She turned to the window, resuming the wistful, preoccupied gaze down the avenue.

"Beg pardon," he said politely. "I wanted to have another look at the broadsword there."

Very quickly he noticed that she went about it clumsily despite her supple gracefulness—she withdrew the heavy weapon from the window and laid it upon the counter.

"I am not—not what you would call an expert," she said frankly.

"What's the price?" he asked, his courage faltering under the cool, impersonal gaze.

"I do not know. My uncle has told me. I am quite new at the trade. I hope you will excuse my ignorance. My uncle will be here in a moment."

She was turning away with an air that convinced King of one thing—she was a person who in no sense had ever been called upon to serve others.

"So I've heard," he observed. The bait took effect. She looked up quickly. He was conscious that a startled expression flitted across her face.

"You have heard? What have you heard of me?" she demanded.

Mr. King was inspired to fabricate in the interests of psychological research.

"I have heard that you are not the niece of old man Spantz," he watched intently to catch the effect of the declaration.

"You have heard nothing of the kind," she said coldly.

"Well, I'll confess I haven't," he admitted cheerfully. "It pleases me to believe that you are not related to the armorer. You don't look the part."

Now she smiled divinely. "And why not, pray? His sister was my mother."

"In order to establish a line on which to base my calculations, would you mind telling me who your father is?"

He asked the question with his most appealing smile, a smile so frankly impudent that she could not resist it.

"My father is dead," she said seriously, "and my mother is dead. Now can you understand why I am living here with my uncle? Even an amateur may rise to that. Now, sir, do you expect to purchase the sword? If not I shall replace it in the window."

"That's what I came here for," said he, resenting her tone and the icy look she gave him.

"I gathered that you came in the capacity of Sherlock Holmes or something else," she added the last three words with unmistakable meaning.

She was leaning toward him, her hands on the counter, a peculiar gleam in her dark eyes, which now for the first time struck him as rather more keen and penetrating than he had suspected before.

"I simply want to tell you, Mr. King, that unless you really expect to buy this sword it is not wise in you to make it an excuse for coming here."

"My dear young lady, I—"

"My uncle has a queer conception of the proprieties. He may think that you came to see me. Young men may chat with shopgirls all the world over, but in Edelweiss, no, unless they come to pay most honorable court to them. My uncle would not understand."

"I take it, however, that you would understand," he said boldly.

"I have lived in Vienna, in Paris and in London, but now I am living in Edelweiss. I have not been a shopgirl always."

"I can believe that. My deductions are justified."

"My uncle is returning," she remarked suddenly. "I must not talk to you any longer." She glanced uneasily out upon the square and then hurriedly added, a certain wistfulness in her voice and eyes: "I couldn't help it today. I forgot my place. But you are the first gentleman I've spoken to since I came here."

When Spantz entered the door the girl was going. Truxton King was leaning against the counter with his back toward her, his arms folded and a most impatient frown on his face. Spantz's black eyes shot from one to the other. "What do you want?" he demanded sharply.

"The broadsword. And, say, Mr. Spantz, you might assume a different tone in addressing me. I'm a customer, not a beggar."

The girl left the window and walked slowly to the rear of the shop, passing through the narrow door, without so much as a glance at King or the old man. Spantz was silent until she was gone.

"You want the broadsword, eh?" he asked, moderating his tone considerably. "It's a rare old."

"I'll give you a hundred dollars—not another cent," interrupted King, not yet over his resentment. There followed a long and irritating argument, at the conclusion of which Mr. King became the possessor of the weapon at his own price.

"I'll come in again," he said indifferently.

"But you are leaving tomorrow, sir. I've changed my mind."

Then you may have seen something in Edelweiss to attract you," grinned the old armorer.

"I dare say you're right. I mean that sword up a bit for me, and I'll drop in tomorrow and get it. Here's 500 gives to bind the bargain—the rest on delivery. Good day, Mr. Spantz."

"Good day, Mr. King."

"How do you happen to know my name?"

Spantz put his hand over his heart and delivered himself of a most impressive bow. "When so distinguished a visitor comes to our little city," he said, "we lose no time in discovering his name. It is a part of our trade, sir, believe me."

"I'm not so sure that I do believe you," said Truxton King to himself as he sauntered up the street toward the hotel.

Mr. Hobbs, from Cook's, was at his elbow, his eyes glistening with eagerness.

"I say, old Daugloss is waiting for you at the Regency, sir. Won't you? Won't you be up to, sir?"

"Up to—up to, Hobbs?"

"My word, sir, you must have been or he wouldn't be there to see you."

"Who is Daugloss?"

"Minister of police. Haven't I told you? He's a keen one, too, take my word for it. I heard him ask for you."

He lost no time in getting to the hotel. A well remembered, fierce looking little man in a white linen suit was waiting for him on the great piazza.

Baron Jasto Daugloss was a polite man, but not to the point of procrastination. He advanced to meet the puzzled American, smiling amiably and swirling his imposing mustache with neatly gloved fingers.

"I have called, Mr. King, to have a little chat with you," he said abruptly. He enjoyed the look of surprise on the young man's face. "Won't you join me at this table? A Jules will not be bad, eh? King sat down opposite to him at one of the piazza tables in the shade of the great trailing vines. A waiter took the order and departed.

"Now, to come to the point," began the baron. "You expected to leave tomorrow. Why are you staying over?"

"Baron, I leave that to your own distinguished powers of deduction," said Truxton gently. He took a long pull at the straw, watching the other's face as he did so. The baron smiled.

"You have found the young lady in the gunshop to be very attractive," observed the baron. "Where have you known her before?"

"I beg pardon?"

"It is not unusual for a young man in search of adventure to follow the lady of his choice from place to place. She came but recently, I recall."

"You think I knew her before and followed her to Edelweiss?"

"I am not quite sure whether you have been in Warsaw lately. There is a gap in your movements that I can't account for."

King became serious at once. He saw that it was best to be frank with this keen old man.

"Baron Daugloss, I don't know just what you are driving at, but I'll set you straight, so far as I'm concerned. I never saw that girl until the day before yesterday. I never spoke to her until today."

"She smiled on you quite familiarly from her window casement yesterday," said Daugloss coolly.

"She laughed at me, to be perfectly candid. But what's all this about?"

Daugloss leaned forward and smiled sourly.

"Take my advice—do not play with fire," he said enigmatically.

"You—you mean she's a dangerous person? I can't believe that, baron."

"She has dangerous friends out in the world. She is Olga Platanova. Her mother was married in this city twenty-five years ago to Professor Platanova of Warsaw. The professor was executed last year for conspiracy. He was one of the leaders of a great revolutionary movement in Poland. They were virtually anarchists, as you have come to place them in America. This girl Olga was his secretary. His death almost killed her. But that is not all. She had a sweetheart up to fifteen months ago. He was a prince of the royal blood. He would have married her in spite of the difference in their stations had it not been for the intervention of the crown that she and her kind hate so well. The young man's powerful relatives took a hand in the affair. He was compelled to marry a scrawny little duchess, and Olga was warned that if she attempted to entice him away from his wife she would be punished. She did not attempt it, because she is a virtuous girl. Her uncle, Spantz, offered her a home."

"Baron, are you sure that she is a red?" asked King.

"Quite. She attended their councils."

"She doesn't look it, 'pon my word. I thought they were the scum of the earth."

"The kind you have in America are. But over here—oh, well, we never can tell."

"I'm much obliged. And I'll keep my eyes well opened. I suppose there's no harm in my going to the shop to look at a lot of rings and knickknacks he has for sale?"

"Not in the least. Confine yourself to knickknacks, that's all."

"Isn't Spantz above suspicion?"

"No one is in my little world. By the way, I am very fond of your father. He is a most excellent gentleman and a splendid shot."

Truxton stared harder than ever. "What's that?"

"I know him quite well. Hunted wild boars with him five years ago in Germany. And your sister! She was a beautiful young girl. They were at Carlsbad at the time. Was she quite well when you last heard?"

"She was," was all that the wondering brother could say.

The baron left the American staring at the head of the steps, feeling

"TAKE MY ADVICE—DO NOT PLAY WITH FIRE," HE SAID.

after his retreating figure with a look of admiration in his eyes.

Truxton fared forth into the streets that night with a greater zest in life than he had ever known before. A man with a limp cigarette between his lips was never far from the side of the American—a man who had stopped to pass the time of day with William Spantz and who from that hour was not to let the young man out of his sight until another relieved him of the task.

Telling Eggs.

The problem of telling eggs is not an easy one by any means. Very few of us know how to do it properly. On the other hand, there are those who think they should not be told at all, but that is old fashioned nonsense, inspired entirely by false modesty. It is safe to say that eggs should be told at as early an age as possible consistent with their temperament. If allowed to go too long there is grave danger that the egg will become bad, and when an egg becomes bad it is hopeless. The world is full of bad eggs which might have been saved if they had been told in time—Lippincott's.

"It was," said Barker. "But you know, Bobbie is an expert at making both ends meet."—Harper's Weekly.

Damascus of Marvellous View.

The view of Damascus from the mountain where Mohammed made his great reputation is one of the marvelous views of the world. ## Local and Personal

Miss Nellie Prime has returned from Clayton.

Mrs. Joseph Rosenbloom does not gain in health.

Mrs. Calvin R. Dines is convalescent from an illness.

Mrs. Charles Post is in a very critical physical condition.

Mr. Thomas Hunter is on an extended western business trip.

Attorney F. G. Spencer is recovering from an attack of the mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hillick of Norwich spent Sunday with relatives and friends in this city.

The annual Roll Call and Church

Day of the Baptist society will be held in the church on March 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCormick have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs.

Joseph Maxwell of Clinton.

Mrs. W. C. Morgan is confined to her home by illness. Her daughter Hilda is also suffering with the mumps.

The date for the local talent entertainment in the Baptist lecture course has been changed from March 16, to March 9.

Miss Mabel Hunter, bookkeeper in the Whitaker &amp; Lovejoy insurance offices, has been confined to her home with an attack of grippe.

The Bennett Credit Clothing Company has leased and after April 1, will occupy the store in First street now occupied by Whitaker &amp; Lovejoy as insurance offices.

The ladies of the W. C. T. U. will be entertained by Mrs. Wesley Mc-

Cully, 188 South Second street, on Friday, February 26. Mrs. Barken

President of the Oswego County

Union, will be there and will speak.

A good attendance is desired.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Scholz were tendered a surprise visit by about 40 of their friends on Tuesday evening last week, the event being in observation of the popular barber's 59th natal anniversary. Mr. Scholz, who has been a barber in Fulton for 41 years, was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

Judge Rowe, in County Court at Oswego Friday, appointed Joseph H.

Gill as a committee of the goods and shuttle. At former County Judge

James R. O'Gorman after a jury had taken the evidence of Dr. Hervey and had found Judge O'Gorman to be incompetent to manage his own affairs.

Judge O'Gorman is a prominent Democrat and well known in Fulton.

Mrs. F. M. Darrow, Syracuse, entertained a few friends last Friday evening. Dinner was served down town, after which the guests enjoyed cards

at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Darrow.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. O. A.

Hine of Watertown, Mr. and Mrs. L.

Cramer and Mr. and Mrs. H. Howard of Baldwinsville, Mr. and Mrs. F. P.

Connell, Mr. and Mrs. John Shaver of Syracuse and Mr. and Mrs. Frank

Foster of Fulton.

Mr. E. D. Parke, proprietor of the Modern Way Laundry, has purchased from Mr. Harry Goodelle, the latters house in Second street now occupied by him as an electrical supply store and home. Mr. and Mrs.

Goodelle contemplate removing to Geneva where Mr. Goodelle will engage in the electrical business. Mr. Parke will occupy his recently purchased property as a home and a laundry office and he has leased the barn in the rear of the Ellis home for laundry purposes.

The local police force is entitled to a great deal of credit for the clever manner in which they captured the alleged burglars who were wanted in connection with the robbery in the Passmore store in Oswego last week. Chief Ross wired the Oswego chief for a warrant for the arrest of the two men, who had been under the surveillance of the local patrolmen until they could establish sufficient evidence to warrant the action, when their arrest was made.

It takes a pretty slick proposition to escape the local sleuths when their minds are fully made up.

The Toronto Male Quartette gave the people of Fulton a rich treat last Thursday evening. It was the fourth number in the Baraca Class entertainments and perhaps the most successful of the series. The number selections were heartily received and every number won an encore.

Scotch selections in costume and playing of the novelty instrument, marochi, added a pleasing variety to the entertainment. Mr. Gardner, baritone, proved himself not only a stinger of merit but a reader of ability. He made the hit of the evening in the dialogue of the small boy and his mother who would not allow him to visit Johnny. The quartette will be invited to come again.

SAD PLIGHT OF THE HOMELESS

Verbatim Copy of a Letter Written by One of the "Bread Line"

The following letter from a typical member of the "Down and Out" Club at the Bowery Mission, recently visited by President Taft, throws a flood of light on the hard experiences of the homeless in the great metropolis. The letter was addressed to the Financial Secretary of the Mission.

New York, December 20, 1909.

Dear Sir: The writer of these lines, a German office clerk, is without employment since about Aug. 1, 1910. Last Saturday night another man, who slept beside me in the park, said that Mr. John C. Earl, of the Bowery Mission, would help me. If I told him my wife was sending me money from Germany to come back home. I had eaten nothing that day, and the police put me off the seat, so I lost the other man and walked about all night by myself. I could get nothing on Sunday to eat, and if you had not given me that food on the Monday I think I would have died.

From about August 10 I have been walking from office to office, from factory to factory, without result. My money, saved during the time I had been working, is now already about ten days gone, and only with the greatest economy I could keep me so long. Since I am "down and out," I only was eating "free lunch."

At noon time I would venture into a crowded saloon, where the lunchman was too busy to see if you had a glass of beer or not, and I would take a plate of soap and some bread, and in the evening I eat cold "free lunch."

The hardest thing for a poor man without a home is how and where to spend the night. After about 5:30 P. M., when the offices were closed, I went to the reading room in Cooper Union and stood there, usually till 10 o'clock. When there was any service in a German Protestant Church, I went to church; sometimes I have also been in a Gospel meeting of the Wesley Rescue Mission or the Bowery Mission. When it was too cold to walk the streets, or raining I would spend 5 cents for beer, if I had it, in a saloon on the Bowery, where you can have free lunch and sit the whole night for that 5 cents. In those saloons you can see all classes and characters of people—poor men of all ages, sitting sleeping on a chair, or laying on a news paper on the floor, who I do know would prefer a bed to a drink, and who were anxious to obtain work of any kind.

I have been in the Bowery Mission Bread Line several times. We would stand about one hour or more outside, till the doors opened, and me and the other poor men were all so glad when it was one o'clock; hungry and freezing men, all waiting for a cup of hot coffee and rolls. You can believe me that it is not so agreeable to stand one hour or longer outside on the street in this winter time, without anything in the stomach, freezing and shaking on the whole body. Some in this bread line are educated, and have seen better times, like me. Most of the men praised the Bread Line, and a few were making fun about it. I can say, for my part, that no poor man can be thankful enough for this situation; and how different you feel after having a hot cup of coffee, that makes you feel better and warmer! Out of the conversation of some men I heard that, after having their cup of coffee and rolls, they would try to get back on the end of the line, to secure another portion. I cannot say if they have been lucky in their trial. I never was. I went, after having had my portion, downtown, for to get me the first morning paper and look for a position, the same as the other men did.

I repeat once more that I praise the Lord for the night that I heard of you. In my country, Germany, are not so many poor men as there are here in this city. Every poor man has a home or a bed; also there is more work. I have been employed in the greatest cities of Germany—in Berlin, Hamburg, Cologne, Bremen etc.—but have never seen so many men without work as in New York; also, I imagine that it is easier to secure a position in the old country, therefore I wrote home to my wife for a ticket to go back to Germany.

Thanking you for kindness done to me, and begging your pardon for disturbing you so long, I remain, very respectfully yours,

W. ERDELEN.

[When work opens up on the farms we will ship thousands of these men to where their labor is in demand; but, in the meantime, any assistance you can render in helping us to tide them over the remainder of the winter, will be gratefully received by John C. Earl, Financial Secretary of the Bowery Mission, 92 Bible House, New York City.]

A Queer Marriage Custom.

In the Loochoo islands there are some curious marriage customs. One consists in the bridegroom going round to all his friends' houses and permitting them to dress him up in any ridiculous style that they fancy. Sometimes the happy man is arrayed in a gayly painted kimono, the sleeves of which are tied up with a string laden with bells, toys and trumpets. A mask is then put on and a red hat, the "rig-out" being completed by an empty kerseene tin, which rattles noisily along as he walks, accompanied generally by a crowd of children.

FOR THAT TERRIBLE ITCHING.

Eczema, tetter and salt rheum keep their victims in perpetual torment. The application of Chamberlain's Salve will instantly allay this itching, and many cases have been cured by its use. For sale by E. A. Putnam.

Disliked Egotism.

"What's the matter with you?" asked his wife.

"I'm feeling lonely," was the reply.

"Don't you like this town?"

"I don't like this earth."

"What's the objection to it?"

"People are too egotistical. If there's anything I hate it's egotism. And when I see kings going about confidently and doing things wrong, and diplomats trying all sorts of insouciant tricks with complete effrontery, and lawyers seeking applause for arguing on the wrong side of a case, and everybody displaying utter selfishness without a blush, I am forced to the conviction that I am the only consistently moral gentleman on this globe. And it makes me feel lonely."—Exchange.

Do you know that croup can be prevented? Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even after the croupy cough appears and it will prevent the attack. It is also a certain cure for croup and has never been known to fail. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Now They Are Married.

A bashful young man went three times to ask a beautiful young lady if he might be the partner of her joys and sorrows and other household furniture, but each time his heart failed him, and he took the question away unspoken.

She saw the anguish of his soul and had compassion on him. So the next time he came she asked him if he had thought to bring a screwdriver.

He blushed and wanted to know what for.

And she, in the fullness of her heart, said she did not know but that he would want to screw up his courage before he left.

He took the hint and the girl—Pearson's Weekly.

The famous little liver pills are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. They are safe, sure, gentle and easy to take. When you ask for DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve, refuse to accept a substitute or imitation.

Her Little Joke.

"Henry," she exclaimed as he came home to dinner, "I heard something early this morning that opened my eyes."

"What was it?" he demanded excitedly.

"The alarm clock."

DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve is good for anything when you need a salve, and it is especially good for piles. Sold by all druggists.

COL. SANGER APPOINTED

Albany, Feb. 17.—Governor Hughes today sent to the Senate the nomination of William Cary Sanger of Saugerville, Oneida county, to be a member of the State commission in lunacy to succeed William L. Parkhurst of Canandaigua.

On motion of Senator Davenport the nomination was confirmed immediately, the nominee being a former member of the legislature and at one time Assistant Secretary of War.

Honored by Women

When a woman speaks of her silent sufferer suffering she trusts you. Millions have bestowed this mark of confidence on Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y. Everywhere there are women who bear witness to the wonder-working, curing power of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—which saves the suffering from pain, and successfully grapples with woman's weaknesses and stubborn ills.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG IT MAKES SICK WOMEN WELL

No woman's appeal was ever misdirected or her confidence misplaced when she wrote for advice, to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, President, Buffalo, N. Y.

E. T. JONES IN PULASKI

District Deputy E. T. Jones of this city paid an official visit to Pulaski Lodge, F. &amp; A. M., on Wednesday evening.

The occasion of this visit being the signal for a most elaborate banquet. There were about 150

Masons in attendance. The occasion was one of unusual interest as there were five candidates to receive the Master Mason degree. The work was given with great credit to the officers of Pulaski lodge. After the work all repaired to the dining room, where a banquet was served. The master of the lodge, Dr. Minor J. Terry, presided as toastmaster at the post-prandial exercises. He first called on District Deputy Grand Master E. T. Jones of Fulton, who was making his official visit. Mr. Jones spoke in excellent terms of the work of the lodge. Superintendent McCormack of the New York Central, Ontario division, was called upon, and Mr. McCormack spoke very pleasantly. In his talk he referred to the prospective improvements to be made in railroad accommodations there, especially in the new Salina street station. He said the aim of the railroad was to work out a plan which would please and serve the people to the nearest satisfaction possible. Before sitting down Mr. McCormack presented one of the candidates with a handsome diamond ring on behalf of the employees of the Ontario division. The recipient of the treasure was F. S. Risley, who until recently was trainmaster at Richland, but has been transferred to Albany.

TO MOTHERS IN THIS TOWN

MINETTO

The arrival here on Wednesday of three carloads of fish plates for the trolley line between Fulton and Oswego is proof of the company's intention to commence the work at the earliest possible time. The plates are being unloaded from the cars on the Minetto-Meriden branch of the Lackawanna railroad and piled along the right of way.

Luke Stevens has a large force of men at work. He expects from 75 to 100 car loads of poles, rails and other construction material to be delivered here before April 1st. Arrangements are now being made to so distribute the material as to have it convenient when the work of construction is started early in the spring.

Mrs. Claude Eckert, who was so seriously hurt by falling downstairs at her home at Bundyville last Sunday is improving slowly. A slight fracture at the base of the skull and several strained ligaments, were the injuries suffered.

Mrs. Lockwood and son, Charlie, are visiting relatives in Butler.

FARMER'S INSTITUTE

There is every indication that the Oswego County Farmer's Institute, Feb. 25 to March 11, inclusive, will prove of unusual interest to the farmers of this section.

Conductor Gott and his force are men of practical experience in solving the problems of farm practice, and each have had marked success in some branch of agriculture. And moreover, aside from the facts learned at these meetings, the educational value of discussions with men engaged in the same work cannot be overestimated.

The Commissioner of Agriculture has obtained from the New York Central Railroad Company special rates to the Farmers' Institutes held along the company's lines. Round trip tickets will be sold at the stations of this railroad.

Keep in mind the Farmer's Institute School at Mexico, March 8, 9, 10 and 11. The regular institutes will be held at Hannibal, February 25-26; South West, Oswego, February 28; Phoenix, March 1; Fulton, March 2-3; Central Square, March 4; Williams-town, March 4-5; Pulaski, March 7.

FULTON FRIENDS PLEASED.

Morton Adkins, baritone, formerly connected with Syracuse University, now living in Brooklyn, has many friends and relatives in this city, who will be pleased to hear of his advance in his profession. A letter received from him announces that he is now under the management of London Charlton, who controls many of the best artists in the country. He is booked from now on through the season of 1911, to appear in a series of song recitals, which will carry him as far as the Pacific coast and through the southern and eastern States.

CONSTRUCTION #### WORK COMPLETED

The construction work in the vicinity of the Granby mill, which has been prosecuted by the Bradley Construction company, is practically completed at an expense of $100,000. The improvement work now gives the paper company the finest water power on the river and a surplus to generate sufficient electricity to run all of their mills and more.

SUMMER RESORT PROPOSED

With the coming of Summer a popular resort will be opened at stop 28, by Mr. Eldon, who resides in that vicinity. In all probability a bathing pavilion will be erected, a fine cream parlor, boat ferry, ball grounds arranged and all the features of a modern pleasure resort made available.

The trolley line makes possible the project, and if it becomes a reality there is no doubt of the popularity and satisfactory result of such an arrangement.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK SYSTEM

The United Kingdom has a population of 43,000,000, with 11,000,000 depositors, or 25 per cent. of the population, while in the United States, with 83,000,000, there are 7,500,000 depositors, or 9 1-3 per cent. The only explanation that can be given is that there is a lack of facilities in this country, and not because we lack the prosperity to make the savings possible, if our people had the proper advantages.

Statistics show that 38 per cent. of all the savings banks deposits in the United States are in New York State. 33 per cent. in the New England States, 19 per cent. in Massachusetts, about 8 per cent. in California, 4 per cent. in Pennsylvania, 5 per cent. in Illinois, 4 per cent. in Iowa, and about 8 per cent. in all the remaining States of the Union.

Throughout the New England States the location of post offices averages about 15 miles from a savings bank; in the Middle States, 25 miles; in the Southern, 33 miles; while on the Pacific Slope, 55 miles. Can any one not see that there are very limited savings bank facilities for the masses except in our thickly-populated States? Why should not the people in these sparsely-populated regions be encouraged or have the opportunity to save their earnings? We cannot expect ordinary savings banks to be established in these places. It would not be profitable.

Investigation discloses that in Italy the savings bank deposits are made up in part of money sent home by Italians living abroad. This fact is aptly illustrated by an excerpt from a book published by Alberto Gaviani on the Italian post office savings bank. He states: "Measures must be taken to induce the numerous Italians abroad to invest their savings in the Italian post office savings bank. The steps taken in this direction are insufficient. Small savings banks must be opened abroad; these banks are to be managed free by honorable and solvent Italians and placed under the supervision of the nearest Italian consul or of the manager of the nearest branch of the Bank of Naples, as this bank is already authorized now by the Government to collect the savings of Italians abroad and invest them in the domestic post office savings bank."

The practice of banking abroad is by no means confined to Italian residents. A number of European and other governments make special efforts to procure postal deposits from America.

It is estimated by the auditor of the Post Office Department that there has been an increase of at least 25 per cent. in the money sent abroad with the corresponding quarter of the previous year. In our own city there has been a very decided increase, the total amount sent from the local post office during the fiscal year ending Dec. 31, 1909, was $37,665.29 (of this amount, $14,244.55 was sent from Oswego Falls station).

The postal savings depository is a real, live issue among the people. They demand this benefit from the government, and a Republican national administration is most anxious that they shall have it. President Taft is very much in earnest in his advocacy of its adoption, and expresses the hope that before the measure is hammered into its final shape it may take on characteristics which shall give it constitutional validity and sound financial strength and usefulness.

SOUTH GRANBY.

We are having variable weather.

Saturday another funeral occurred in our midst. Ted Coville, who had been ill for some time, was buried leaving a wife and seven children to mourn his loss, besides brothers and sisters. The funeral was held at the home and burial was made at the Chase Cemetery. The family have the sympathy of the community.

Mr. Elmer Fisher's folks celebrated their 31st wedding anniversary with a small party of friends the 9th of the month. Mrs. Fisher received a very nice diamond ring from her husband and a nice rocking chair from the Palmer brothers.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Austin attended the G. A. R. campfire at Fulton Wednesday evening and also visited a couple of days at Grove Dutton's. Charlie Cook is ill and his father and mother are down there caring for him.

Mr. Alvah Degroff spent a few days in Syracuse last week.

Mrs. Carrie Hannum spent a few days with her sister, Mrs. Anna Foster, in Fulton last week.

Mr. Fred Andrews and family were guests at L. T. Austin's Sunday.

Harold Distin of Mt. Pleasant is visiting his cousin, Mrs. Elmer Cook.

Mr. Elmer Fisher and wife, Mr. Fred Paine, wife and son, Brewster, were in Fulton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Austin are spending a few days with their daughter, Mrs. Minnie Andrews.

COUNTY TO BE RE-IMBURSED

C. E. Tracey, who has been in the Oswego hospital for some time, following his arrest for grand larceny, second degree, plead guilty to the charge in County Court on Friday and sentence was suspended with the understanding, however, that he reimburse the county for the $300 expense attendant upon his illness while under arrest. Payment is to start June 1, and to be at the rate of $50 per month until the claim is settled. Tracey has been placed in the custody of Probation Officer Dempsey and he left on Friday night for his home in Chicago, Ill.

PHOENIX NOMINEES

The Republicans held their caucus on Monday evening. With Frank L. Smith as chairman and Frank Decker as secretary, nominations were made as follows:

Village president, J. Addison Hawks; trustees for two years, Judson W. Loomis and Ernest D. Burleigh; for one year, Clarence A. Larnard and R. G. Allen; assessor W. S. Blake; collector, H. Pickard; treasurer, Edmund G. Hutchinson; committee, E. D. Burleigh, Orville Siler and E. G. Hutchinson.

OSWEGO NORMAL SCHOOL BILL

Assemblyman Sweet's bill, providing for an appropriation of $200,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary from the $300,000 authorized to be expended for the New Normal school at Oswego, was introduced in the Legislature last Thursday. Should the measure be adopted, it is thought probable that only $200,000 of the $300,000 would be available this year.

TO GIVE LADIES NIGHT

"Who raised the price of meat?" will have to take its place in the catalogue of unsolvable mysteries along with "What is a Democrat?"

DISTRICT CONFERENCE

Fifty-Seventh Annual Session Will be Held at Pennellville—Evangelistic Sermon by Dr. J. G. Cornwell of Fulton.

The fifty-seventh session of the Oswego District Conference of the M. E. church will be held in the Pennellville Church on Monday and Tuesday of next week. Among the out-of-town speakers will be Dean Brooks, LL.D., of the College of Law, Syracuse University. Rev. E. H. Joy and D. C. Johnson of Oswego are also on the program.

The first day's session will open with a preacher's conference, conducted by Rev. F. L. Knapp of Camden, at 10:30 a. m. "The Minister and His Problems" will be the subject. The afternoon session will open at 1:30 o'clock with a prayer service, conducted by Rev. Joseph Lobe of Vermillion. An open conference will follow on "Effective Methods in Sunday School Work." It will be conducted by Rev. E. H. Joy of Oswego. Then comes the book reviews, "Every Day Evangelism," by Leete, will be conducted by Rev. R. E. Jones of Lorraine, and "The Resurrection of Jesus," by Orr, will be conducted by Rev. Henry Hughes of Hamilton. Dr. J. G. Cornwell of Syracuse will speak on "The Layman's Missionary Movement." Rev. D. C. Johnson of Oswego will give the concluding address, on "Our Obligations."

Mr. Johnson will preside at the evening session, which will open with a song service followed by an evangelistic sermon by Rev. J. G. Cornwell, Ph. D., of Fulton.

The exercises on Tuesday will begin at 9 a. m. and will be conducted by the Rev. M. E. Duesler of Cleveland. A business session will follow. Candidates in the doctrine will be examined by the Rev. T. B. Shepherd of Minnetonka; discipline by the Rev. F. Maunders of Pulaski; passing on character and renewal of licenses of candidates will follow. Rev. Dr. Albert C. Loucks of Oswego, district superintendent, will lead the discussion on "Is the Reduction of Districts in the Conference Advisable?"

Rev. Charles D. Skinner, M. A., president of Cazenovia Seminary and an entertaining speaker, will give an address on "The New Century Outlook." The afternoon session will open at 1:30 o'clock with a devotional service conducted by Rev. C. V. Havens of Manneville.

MALINDA LAGRU'S WILL

Objections to the probate of the will of Malinda LaGrú who died in this city in April 1909, leaving $1,500 real and $150 personal property, were filed in Surrogate's Court by Elizabeth Roberts Dasher, a daughter, of Oswego.

By the terms of the alleged will, which was made in 1891, the husband, Anthony LaGrú, of Fulton, gets a life use of the property. Then it is to be divided among the children. Mrs. Dasher objects to the probate on the ground that testatrix was insane and incompetent at the time the instrument was made. If the will was declared invalid, the real property would go directly to the children and could be divided at once.

BRING IN YOUR AUCTION BILLS

The Times plant, 66 S. First street, opposite City Hall, prints auction bills that produce results and prints them the same day the order is received. Bring in your auction bills.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ACTIVE

Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Evening—Many New Members—Chamber and Boost Club Harmonious.

It is evident that the Chamber of Commerce has secured a president in E. J. Penfield who is very much in earnest in his advocacy of anything that might be productive of good for our city's interest. It became necessary to raise a fund of $2,500 for the purpose of securing a building in which the Progressive Knitting Company—a newly-organized corporation for the manufacture of ladies knit underwear in this city might operate—and a committee composed of Messrs. E. J. Penfield, J. C. O'Brien, Watson A. Butts and W. H. Patterson started last week to raise the necessary amount. Before proceeding, Mr. Penfield headed the subscription list with $100; Messrs. O'Brien, Butts and Patterson subscribed $50 each; the Hunter Brothers contributed $100, and several other subscriptions of $5 and $25 followed in a very brief space of time.

The plant of the Freeman Boat Company will be secured for the knitting company; the price agreed upon being $3,500, subject to a mortgage of $1,000. On the payment of $2,500, the Chamber of Commerce will hold title until the knitting company fulfills obligations when the property will revert to that corporation.

Mr. Spanswick, who is a veteran in the manufacture of knit goods, and who has conducted the Monarch Knitting mill in this city for several years contemplates the employment of at least sixty hands in the new enterprise, which promises to be a valuable addition to Fulton's industries.

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held in the City Hall last evening at which time President Penfield appointed his committee as follows for the ensuing year:

Municipal and Public Improvements—Mr. George True, chairman; Wm. Hunter, H. L. Padlock.

Membership Committee—Mr. A. T. Jennings, chairman; J. H. St. Louis, J. C. O'Brien, J. R. Fairgrievies, T. H. Marvin.

Industries—Mr. N. L. Whitaker, chairman; D. Lipsky, M. Conley, G. B. Palmer, W. A. Butts.

Statistics—Mr. L. C. Foster, chairman; E. E. Morrill, C. W. Streeter, Arvin Rice.

Federal Building—Mr. J. J. Conners, chairman; E. Quirk, E. R. Redhead, N. N. Stranahan, T. D. Lewis, John Hunter, W. E. Hughes.

Chamber of Commerce Rooms—Mr. J. R. Sullivan, chairman; F. M. Cornell, E. J. Schen, W. J. Lovejoy.

Entertainment—Mr. Howard Morin, Chairman.

The following was read before the meeting by Secretary Stout, and a synopsis was given of the brief submitted to Congressman Knapp who is stubbornly fighting for a new Federal building for this city, being keenly alive to the necessity for a suitable and adequate structure for our rapidly growing city.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 16, 1910.

Mr. H. L. Stout,

Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Fulton, N. Y.

My Dear Mr. Stout:—Referring to the matter of appropriation for the construction of a federal building on the site appropriated for in Fulton, permit me to say that it is not certain whether we will have a Public Buildings Bill at this session or not, the impression having been that the condition of the revenues would hardly warrant such bill. However, that question is now being agitated in Congress, and in this connection I would appreciate it if you would have prepared and forward to me a brief giving population, industries, in detail, capital invested, number of persons employed, etc.; also post office receipts, etc. I will forward a copy of this letter to Mr. Hughes, the Postmaster, that he may give all needed information with reference to the post office receipts, etc.

Please have this brief made without delay and forward to me, as the matter is now being agitated, and if action should be taken on a bill it will doubtless be before long. Be assured I will do everything possible in the matter.

Very sincerely,

Charles L. Knapp.

Plans were outlined for a campaign for Fulton and as the Chamber of Commerce and the Boost club are working in harmony, although along entirely different lines, it is believed that much will be accomplished of an enduring nature. It is expected that the Boost club will arrange for a three nights carnival in connection with the Oswego County Fair to be held in August, that will be a revelation to the strangers within our gates and to the citizens as well.

President Penfield of the Chamber of Commerce as proudly acknowledged being a "Booster" as he does holding the highest office in the gift of the Chamber and it will be far from his intention if the slightest friction ever occurs between the two organizations.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

This season's Farmers' Institutes in District No. 4, in charge of F. E. Gott, will close with the institute school at Mexico, March 8 to 11, inclusive. The program in preparation by the Department of Agriculture promises that this meeting will be a fitting conclusion to the successful work of this district, and it is expected that all persons living in this vicinity will take advantage of the opportunity offered at this time.

The Commissioner of Agriculture has obtained special rates from the New York Central Railroad company for persons attending this institute school. Round trip tickets will be on sale at the following stations:

New Haven, 30c; Scrba, 50c; Oswego, 65c; Daysville, 30c; Pulaski, 50c; Mallory, 1.00; Hastings, 95c; Parish, 80c; Mapleview, 65c; Fernwood, 55c; Kaasog, 1.00; Altmar, 75c; Lacuna, 80c; Mannsville, 95c; Pierrepont Manor, 1.00.

CONGRESSMAN KNAPP SUCCEEDS

Through the personal efforts of Congressman Knapp, Veteran James C. Thompson of Hannibal street has been granted an honorable war record and a pension. Mr. Thompson was a member of Company H, 12th N. Y. I. and he served for six months during the war. At that time he was stricken with typhoid fever and it left him with an incurable malady which prevented his taking further active part in the stirring scenes of those times, he also failed to ask for his discharge and the papers that would entitle him to a pension. At this late day the attention of Congressman Knapp was called to the matter and he used his every effort to bring tardy justice to the veteran.

REAL ESTATE CHANGES HANDS

On March 1, Mr. J. C. O'Brien acquired from Mr. A. DeBarber the Miller block in Cayuga street in which is located the Pomphret store, Keller & Wilson store and several other businesses. Mr. DeBarber a few months ago secured this block from Miss Leona Miller of Brooklyn and after holding it until this time he disposed of it to Mr. O'Brien. Mr. DeBarber's present intention being to take a long rest from business duties and to visit the Pacific slope.

Mr. O'Brien does not contemplate any immediate changes in the block, many of the present tenants having long time leases.

CONGRESSMAN KNAPP HELPS US

Congressman Knapp has received Moore, Chief of the U. S. weather Bureau, calling attention to the fact that he has permitted Oswego to be again placed on the map, and that during the season of navigation there will be telegraphed here each morning a statement regarding the weather conditions for the entire lake region, which information may be issued by the local Observer immediately on receipt.—Oswego Times.

CHARGED WITH EXCISE VIOLATIONS

Elmer Van Sickle, under indictment for being a gambler, has been arrested on complaint of special agents of the Excise Department. It is alleged that on Sunday, December 5th, 1909, he sold whiskey to Special Agents Weaver and McPhillips at the American Hotel, Sandy Creek, of which he is proprietor. He has waived examination and given bail in the sum of $500 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

WILL OF JOHN SHACKELTON

The will of the late John Shackleton, filed on Monday disposes of an estate of $8,500 real and $300 personal. Two sons, Jonas Shackleton, of Philadelphia, Pa. and Joseph, of Fulton, will share the estate.

DEATHS

Anna, widow of the late James Guilfoyle, formerly of this city died in Syracuse at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Edward H. Heslen. Burial was made in Syracuse.

Mrs. Hanna Dane Sargent Huntington, widow of the Rt. Rev. Frederic Dane Huntington, died Feb. 22, at the family home, 408 Douglas street, Syracuse, after a long illness.

Mrs. Adelaide Sheldon, aged 75, died on Sunday at the home of her niece, Mrs. E. A. Laws, in North Sixth street. The funeral services were held on Tuesday with interment in Granby Center.

Sarah P., widow of the late Rev. H. M. Dantforth of Oswego, died at the home of her daughter in Holyoke, Mass. The body was brought to the home of another daughter, Mrs. Thrall, in Oswego from where the funeral services were held.

Stillman Clark, aged 82, died on Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Loren Wood, in North Fifth street after a brief illness. The funeral services were held this morning from the daughter's home and later from the church at Mt. Pleasant, of which place the deceased was a resident. The immediate survivors are the widow and the daughter, Mrs. Wood.

Mr. Lawrence T. Miller on Tuesday received a telegram announcing the death of his brother James, who removed to Minneapolis, Minn., over 40 years ago and who has been continuously employed by the Pillsbury milling company since that time. The deceased is survived by his widow, two sisters, the Misses Helen and Sarah Miller of this city, and two brothers, Lawrence, of this city and Benjamin, of Tacoma, Wash.

Robinson Young, an aged and respected resident of Palermo, died at his home on Friday after many years of ill health. The funeral services were held from the late home on Tuesday and interment was made in Volney cemetery. Besides the widow, the deceased is survived by three daughters, Mrs. William Gorham of this city; Miss Mary Young of Mt. Pleasant and Mrs. Hartnett Briggs of Syracuse; two sons, Charles of Seattle, Wash., and Tracey of Palermo, and one brother, John, of Canada.

The death of Francis J. Rafferty, aged 17, occurred at the hospital on Sunday after an illness of eight weeks from paralysis. The boy was improved in health from the stroke when pleurisy set in and he passed away. The funeral services were held from the home of Mr. William Church at 9 o'clock this Wednesday morning and from the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9:30 o'clock, the Rev. J. L. Lindsman officiating. Interment was made in St. Mary's. The immediate survivors are the father, John Rafferty, who is out of town, and five sisters, Agnes, Gertrude, Nancy and Katherine of this city, and Margaret of Brooklyn.

THE EDDY TRIAL

District Attorney F. J. Davis states that he does not know when the trial of George Eddy, indicted for the killing of John E. Reid at Pulaski, will be called, but probably not before April. If Justice Devendorf can not preside he said that Justice Merrill had promised to do so.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS BANQUET

The Knights of Pythias banquet given in their hall on Wednesday evening of last week was a most delightfully elaborate affair. The hall had been brilliantly decorated with red and green bunting, an arch at the lower end of the hall being arranged for the seclusion of the orchestra which furnished music during the banquet hours. Palms and red carnations were used in the table decorations, the whole presenting a most pleasing appearance. The cuisine was under the direction of Mr. C. E. Hall and the viands served were both satisfying and delectable.

Attorney W. S. Hillick presided as toastmaster and in witty manner he called upon visiting and resident air knights to respond to toasts as follows: F. E. Sweetland of Oswego, P. D. D. G. Ch. of Dirigo lodge, responded to "The Order—Knights of Pythias" and was followed by the Rev. Dr. J. G. Corwell, whose subject was "A Christian Knight." "Pathfinder Lodge" was responded to by the military knight, "K (Knights I Have Known)" by the long knight; "The Work We Have Done," by the Good Knight; "The Beginning," by the enthusiastic knight; "The Journey I Took," by the new knight; "Seven Years of the Order," by the master-at-arms. These speakers were M. F. Lewis, E. A. Putnam, W. A. Butts, John Cox, T. H. Marvin, C. R. Bennett, Ernest Ottman and W. H. Jones. An orchestra furnished a musical programme.

Certainly the event is one long to be remembered by those who participated in the festivity.

NOMINATED AT PULASKI

At the Republican caucus on Tuesday evening nominations for village officers were made as follows: President, William J. Peach; trustees, Emerson E. Rudes and Harrison R. Franklin; treasurer, Frederick A. Clark; collector, John C. Peach; village committee, John C. Peach, Frederick A. Clark and George W. Morton.

The present board of school trustees were renominated as follows: John N. Daly, Charles F. Low and C. Frank Woods, three years; William J. Peach, Simeon R. Trumbull and Dwight C. Dodge, two years; Charles K. Clark, David C. Mahaffy and Nathan B. Smith, one year.

After the close of the caucus it developed that Mr. Peach being an officer of the Electric Light Company was ineligible for village president. The village committee was given power to fill vacancies on the ticket.

The Democratic caucus endorsed the Republican nomination for president, trustees and treasurer.

Jacob P. Mickle was nominated for collector, William H. Brown, C. F. Woods and Albert F. Austin were named as a village committee, but inadvertently were not given power to fill vacancies. School trustees also were endorsed.

Charter election occurs March 15.

ANNUAL MEETING

Does not this argue well for the character of its investments?

PHOENIX NOMINEES

The Republicans held their caucus on Monday evening. With Frank L. Smith as chairman and Frank Decker as secretary, nominations were made as follows:

Village president, J. Addison Hawks; trustees for two years, Judson W. Loomis and Ernest D. Burleigh; for one year, Clarence A. Larnard and R. G. Allen; assessor, W. S. Blake; collector, H. Pickard; treasurer, Edmund G. Hutchinson; committee, E. D. Burleigh, Orville Slier and E. G. Hutchinson.

OSWEGO NORMAL SCHOOL BILL

Assemblyman Sweet's bill, providing for an appropriation of $300,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary from the $300,000 authorized to be expended for the New Normal school at Oswego, was introduced in the Legislature last Thursday. Should the measure be adopted, it is thought probable that only $200,000 of the $300,000 would be available this year.

TO GIVE LADIES NIGHT

Pathfinder Lodge, K. of P., will hold a ladies night in the club rooms on Friday evening, March 4, at 8:30 o'clock, to which each member is requested to invite a friend and lady. A novel program will be presented.

"Who raised the price of meat?" Will have to take its place in the catalogue of unsolvable mysteries along with "What is a Democrat?"

DISTRICT CONFERENCE

Fifty-Seventh Annual Session Will be Held at Pennellville—Evangelistic Sermon by Dr. J. G. Cornwell of Fulton.

The fifty-seventh session of the Oswego District Conference of the M. E. church will be held in the Pennellville Church on Monday and Tuesday of next week. Among the out-of-town speakers will be Dean Brooks, LL.D., of the College of Law, Syracuse University. Rev. E. H. Joy and D. C. Johnson of Oswego are also on the programme.

The first day's session will open with a preacher's conference, conducted by Rev. F. L. Knapp of Camden, at 10:30 a. m. "The Minister and His Problems" will be the subject. The afternoon session will open at 1:30 o'clock with a prayer service, conducted by Rev. Joseph Lobe of Vermillion. An open conference will follow on "Effective Methods in Sunday School Work." It will be conducted by Rev. E. H. Joy of Oswego. Then comes the book reviews, "Every Day Evangelism," by Leete, will be conducted by Rev. R. E. Jones of Lorraine, and "The Resurrection of Jesus," by Orr, will be conducted by Rev. Henry Hughes of Pennellville. Dr. J. G. Cornwell of Syracuse will speak on "The Layman's Missionary Movement." Rev. D. C. Johnson of Oswego will give the concluding address, on "Our Obligations."

Mr. Johnson will preside at the evening session, which will open with a song service followed by an evangelistic sermon by Rev. J. G. Cornwell, Ph. D., of Fulton. The exercises on Tuesday will begin at 9 a. m. and will be conducted by the Rev. M. E. Duesier of Cleveland. A business session will follow. Candidates in the doctrine will be examined by the Rev. T. B. Shepherd of Minetto; discipline by the Rev. F. Maunders of Pulaski; passing on character and renewal of licenses of candidates will follow. Rev. Dr. Albert C. Loucks of Oswego, district superintendent, will lead the discussion on "Is the Reduction of Districts in the Conference Advisable?"

Rev. Charles D. Skinner, M. A., president of Cazenovia Seminary and an entertaining speaker, will give an address on "The New Century Outlook." The afternoon session will open at 1:30 o'clock with a devotional service conducted by Rev. C. V. Havens of Manassville.

MALINDA LAGRU'S WILL

Objections to the probate of the will of Malinda LaGrú who died in this city in April 1909, leaving $1,500 real and $150 personal property, were filed in Surrogate's Court by Elizabeth Roberts Dashner, a daughter, of Oswego.

By the terms of the alleged will, which was made in 1891, the husband, Anthony LaGrú, of Fulton, gets a life use of the property. Then it is to be divided among the children. Mrs. Dashner objects to the probate on the ground that testatrix was insane and incompetent at the time the instrument was made. If the will was declared invalid, the real property would go directly to the children and could be divided at once.

BRING IN YOUR AUCTION BILLS

The Times plant, 56 S. First street, opposite City Hall, prints auction bills that produce results and prints them the same day the order is received. In addition to giving you the best value in auction bills to be secured anywhere, an extended notice, absolutely free, will be printed in the Times from date of receipt of order for the bill until the auction takes place. Bring in your auction bills.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ACTIVE

Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Evening—Many New Members—Chamber and Boost Club Harmonious.

It is evident that the Chamber of Commerce has secured a president in E. J. Penfield who is very much in earnest in his advocacy of anything that might be productive of good for our city's interest. It became necessary to raise a fund of $2,500 for the purpose of securing a building in which the Progressive Knitting Company—a newly-organized corporation for the manufacture of ladies' knit underwear in this city might operate—and a committee composed of Messrs. E. J. Penfield, J. C. O'Brien, Watson A. Butts and W. H. Patterson started last week to raise the necessary amount. Before proceeding, Mr. Penfield headed the subscription list with $100; Messrs. O'Brien, Butts and Patterson subscribed $50 each; the Hunter Brothers contributed $100, and several other subscriptions of $5 and $25 followed in a very brief space of time.

The plant of the Freeman Boat Company will be secured for the knitting company; the price agreed upon being $2,500, subject to a mortgage of $1,000. On the payment of $2,500, the Chamber of Commerce will hold title until the knitting company fulfills obligations when the property will revert to that corporation.

Mr. Spanswick, who is a veteran in the manufacture of knit goods, and who has conducted the Monarch Knitting mill in this city for several years contemplates the employment of at least sixty hands in the new enterprise, which promises to be a valuable addition to Fulton's industries.

A meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held in the City Hall last evening at which time President Penfield appointed his committee as follows for the ensuing year:

Municipal and Public Improvements—Mr. George True, chairman; Wm. Hunter, H. L. Padlock.

Membership Committee—Mr. A. T. Jennings, chairman; J. H. St. Louis, J. C. O'Brien, J. R. Fairgrievs, T. H. Marvin.

Industries—Mr. N. L. Whitaker, chairman; D. Lipsky, M. Conley, G. B. Palmer, W. A. Butts.

Statistics—Mr. L. C. Foster, chairman; E. E. Morrill, C. W. Streeter, Arvin Rice.

Federal Building—Mr. J. J. Conners, chairman; E. Quirk, E. R. Redhead, N. N. Stranahan, T. D. Lewis, John Hunter, W. E. Hughes.

Chamber of Commerce Rooms—Mr. J. R. Sullivan, chairman; F. M. Cornell, E. J. Schen, W. J. Lovejoy.

Entertainment—Mr. Howard Morin, Chairman.

The following was read before the meeting by Secretary Stout, and a synopsis was given of the brief submitted to Congressman Knapp who is stubbornly fighting for a new Federal building for this city, being keenly alive to the necessity for a suitable and adequate structure for our rapidly growing city.

Mr. H. L. Stout, Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Fulton, N. Y.

My Dear Mr. Stout:—Referring to the matter of appropriation for the construction of a federal building on the site appropriated for in Fulton, permit me to say that it is not certain whether we will have a Public Buildings Bill at this session or not, the impression having been that the condition of the revenues would hardly warrant such bill. However, that question is now being agitated in Congress, and in this connection I would appreciate it if you would have prepared and forward to me a brief giving population, industries in detail, capital invested, number of persons employed, etc.; also post office receipts, etc. I will forward a copy of this letter to Mr. Hughes, the Postmaster, that he may give all needed information with reference to the post office receipts, etc.

Please have this brief made without delay and forward to me, as the matter is now being agitated, and if action should be taken on a bill it will doubtless be before long. Be assured I will do everything possible in the matter.

Very sincerely,
Charles L. Knapp.
Plans were outlined for a campaign for Fulton and as the Chamber of Commerce and the Boost Club are working in harmony, although along entirely different lines, it is believed that much will be accomplished of an enduring nature. It is expected that the Boost club will arrange for a three nights carnival in connection with the Oswego County Fair to be held in August, that will be a revelation to the strangers within our gates and to the citizens as well.

President Penfield of the Chamber of Commerce as proudly acknowledged being a "Booster" as he does holding the highest office in the gift of the Chamber and it will be far from his intention if the slightest friction ever occurs between the two organizations.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

This season's Farmers' Institutes in District No. 4, in charge of F. E. Gott, will close with the institute school at Mexico, March 8 to 12, inclusive. The program in preparation by the Department of Agriculture promises that this meeting will be a fitting conclusion to the successful work of this district, and it is expected that all persons living in this vicinity will take advantage of the opportunity offered at this time.

The Commissioner of Agriculture has obtained special rates from the New York Central Railroad company for persons attending this institute school. Round trip tickets will be on sale at the following stations:

New Haven, 30c; Scriba, 50c; Oswego, 65c; Daysville, 30c; Pulaski, 50c; Mallory, 1.00; Hastings, 95c; Parish, 80c; Mapleview, 65c; Fernwood, 55c; Kasong, 1.00; Altmar, 75c; Lacona, 80c; Mannsville, 95c; Pierrepont Manor, 1.00.

CONGRESSMAN KNAPP SUCCEEDS

Through the personal efforts of Congressman Knapp, Veteran James C. Thompson of Hannibal street has been granted an honorable war record and a pension. Mr. Thompson was a member of Company H, 12th N. Y. V. I., and he served for six long months during the war. At that time he was stricken with typhoid fever and it left him with an incurable malady which prevented his taking further active part in the stirring scenes of those times, he also failed to ask for his discharge and the papers that would entitle him to a pension. At this late day the attention of Congressman Knapp was called to the matter and he used his every effort to bring tardy justice to the veteran.

REAL ESTATE CHANGES HANDS

On March 1, Mr. J. C. O'Brien acquired from Mr. A. DeBarber the Miller block in Cayuga street in which is located the Pomphret store, Keller & Wilson stores and several other businesses. Mr. DeBarber a few months ago secured this block from Miss Leona Miller of Brooklyn and after holding it until this time he disposed of it to Mr. O'Brien. Mr. DeBarber's present intention being to take a long rest from business duties and to visit the Pacific slope.

Mr. O'Brien does not contemplate any immediate changes in the block, many of the present tenants having long time leases.

CONGRESSMAN KNAPP HELPS US

Congressman Knapp has received Moore, Chief of the U. S. weather Bureau, calling attention to the fact that he has permitted Oswego to be again placed on the map, and that during the season of navigation there will be telegraphed here each morning a statement regarding the weather conditions for the entire lake region, which information may be issued by the local Observer immediately on receipt.—Oswego Times.

CHARGED WITH EXCISE VIOLATIONS

Elmer Van Sickle, under indictment for being a gambler, has been arrested on complaint of special agents of the Excise Department. It is alleged that on Sunday, December 5th, 1909, he sold whiskey to Special Agents Weaver and McPhillips at the American Hotel, Sandy Creek, of which he is proprietor. He has waived examination and given bail in the sum of $500 to await the action of the Grand Jury.

WILL OF JOHN SHACKELTON

The will of the late John Shackleton, filed on Monday disposes of an estate of $5,500 real and $300 personal. Two sons, Jonas Shackleton, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Joseph, of Fulton, will share the estate.

DEATHS

Anna, widow of the late James Guilfoyle, formerly of this city died in Syracuse at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Edward H. Healen. Burial was made in Syracuse.

Mrs. Hanna Dane Sargent Huntington, widow of the Rt. Rev. Frederick Dane Huntington, died Feb. 22, at the family home, 408 Douglas street, Syracuse, after a long illness.

Mrs. Adelaide Sheldon, aged 75, died on Sunday at the home of her niece, Mrs. E. A. Laws, in North Sixth street. The funeral services were held on Tuesday with interment in Granby Center.

Sarah P., widow of the late Rev. H. M. Danforth of Oswego, died at the home of her daughter in Holyoke, Mass. The body was brought to the home of Oswego daughter, Mrs. Thrall, in Oswego from where the funeral services were held.

Stillman Clark, aged 82, died on Sunday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Loren Wood, in North Fifth street after a brief illness. The funeral services were held this morning from the daughters home and later from the church at Mt. Pleasant, of which place the deceased was a resident. The immediate survivors are the widow and the daughter, Mrs. Wood.

Mr. Lawrence T. Miller on Tuesday received a telegram announcing the death of his brother James, who removed to Minneapolis, Minn., over 40-years ago and who has been continuously employed by the Pillsbury milling company since that time. The deceased is survived by his widow, two sisters, the Misses Helen and Sarah Miller of this city, and two brothers, Lawrence, of this city and Benjamin, of Tacoma, Wash.

Robinson Young, an aged and respected resident of Palermo, died at his home on Friday after many years of ill health. The funeral services were held from the late home on Tuesday and interment was made in Volney cemetery. Besides the widow, the deceased is survived by three daughters, Mrs. William Gorham of this city; Miss Mary Young of Mt. Pleasant and Mrs. Hartnett Briggs of Syracuse; two sons, Charles of Seattle, Wash., and Tracey of Palermo, and one brother, John, of Canada.

The death of Francis J. Rafferty, aged 17, occurred at the hospital on Sunday after an illness of eight weeks from paralysis. The boy was improved in health from the stroke when pleurisy set in and he passed away. The funeral services were held from the home of Mr. William Church at 9 o'clock this Wednesday morning and from the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 9:30 o'clock. The Rev. J. L. Lipsman officiating. Interment was made in St. Mary's. The immediate survivors are the father, John Rafferty, who is out of town, and five sisters, Agnes, Gertrude, Nancy and Katherine of this city, and Margaret of Brooklyn.

THE EDDY TRIAL.
District Attorney F. J. Davis states that he does not know when the trial of George Eddy, indicted for the killing of John E. Reid at Pulaski, would be called, but probably not before April. If Justice Devendorf can not preside he said that Justice Merrell had promised to do so.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS BANQUET

The Knights of Pythias banquet given in their hall on Wednesday evening of last week was a most delightfully elaborate affair. The hall had been brilliantly decorated with red and green bunting, an arch at the lower end of the hall being arranged for the seclusion of the orchestra which furnished music during the banquet hours. Palms and red carnations were used in the table decorations, the whole presenting a most pleasing appearance. The cuisine was under the direction of Mr. C. E. Hall and the viands served were both satisfying and delectable.

Attorney W. S. Hillick presided as toastmaster and in witty manner he called upon visiting and resident air knights to respond to toasts as follows: F. E. Sweetland of Oswego, P. D. D. G. Ch. of Dirigo lodge, responded to "The Order—Knights of Pythias" and was followed by the Rev. Dr. J. G. Cornwell, whose subject was "A Christian Knight." "Pathfinder Lodge" was responded to by the military knight; "Knights I Have Known," by the long knight; "The Work We Have Done," by the Good Knight; "The Beginning," by the enthusiastic knight; "The Journey I Took," by the new knight; "Fidelity," by the progressive knight; and "Order Must Be Maintained by the Master Learning." These speakers were M. F. Lewis, E. A. Putnam, W. A. Butts, John Cox, T. H. Marvin, C. R. Bennett, Ernest Orlman and W. H. Jones. An orchestra furnished a musical programme.

Certainly the event is one long to be remembered by those who participated in the festivity.

NOMINATED AT PULASKI

At the Republican caucus on Tuesday evening nominations for village officers were made as follows: President, William J. Peach; trustees, Emerson E. Rudes and Harrison R. Franklin; treasurer, Frederick A. Clark; collector, John C. Peach; village committee, John C. Peach, Frederick A. Clark and George W. Morton.

The present board of school trustees were renominated as follows: John N. Daly, Charles F. Low and C. Frank Woods, three years; William J. Peach, Simeon R. Trumbull and Dwight C. Dodge, two years; Charles K. Clark, David C. Mahaffy and Nathan B. Smith, one year.

After the close of the caucus it developed that Mr. Peach being an officer of the Electric Light Company was ineligible for village president. The village committee was given power to fill vacancies on the ticket.

The Democratic caucus endorsed the Republican nomination for president, trustees and treasurer.

Jacob P. Mickle was nominated for collector, William H. Brown, C. F. Woods and Albert F. Austin were named as a village committee, but inadvertently were not given power to fill vacancies. School trustees also were endorsed.

Charter election occurs March 15.

ANNUAL MEETING

Notice is hereby given that the regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the Volney Paper Company of Fulton, N. Y., will be held at the office of the company on Monday, March 14, 1910, at 11 o'clock a. m., for the election of directors and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before the meeting.

THE LASH OF A FIEND

would have been about as welcome to A. Cooper of Oswego, N. Y., as a merciless lung-racking cough that defied all remedies for years. "It was most troublesome at night," he writes, "nothing helped me until I used Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me completely. I never cough at night now." Millions know its matchless merit for stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, sore lungs, lagrippe, quickly and never fails to satisfy. A

Alaskan Egg Women.

A favorite trick of Alaskan market women is to place six or eight adolescent eggs in a small basket and to declare that those are all the absolutely fresh ones they have. The victim buys them, thinking that if the woman were dishonest she would have offered more "fresh eggs." Afterward the market woman takes six or more out of a larger basket which is carefully covered over.

DON'T BREAK DOWN

Severe strains on the vital organs, like strains on machinery, cause break-downs. You can't over-tax stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. If you are weak or rundown, or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters, the matchless, tonic medicine. Mrs. J. E. Van de-Sande, of Kirkland, Ill., writes:
"That I did not break down, while enduring a most severe strain, for three months, is due wholly to Electric Bitters." Use them and enjoy health and strength. Satisfaction positively guaranteed. 50c. at Red as the Montgolfier air balloons, though the project never became more than a project.

Five Years

of Heart Trouble Cured by Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy"Before I began taking Dr.
Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had pains in my left side, and under my shoulder blade, could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath the least exertion would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had scarcely taken a half bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition.
When I had taken six bottles I was cured."

MRS. C. C. GORKEY,

Northfield, Va.

If there is fluttering or palpitation it is an indication of a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the heart. It is not necessarily diseased—just weak from over-work. The heart may be weak just the same as the eyes, stomach or other organs. You can make a weak heart strong by taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy. Get a bottle from your druggist, take it according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

TEN FEET OF SNOW

Such is the record for this County
—Peach Crop Injured—Other Orchard Trees Have Wintered Well.The United States Weather Bureau at Oswego is authority for the statement that nearly ten feet of snow has fallen this season—up to the present time of writing—thus breaking all previous records. During the winters of 1886-7 the snow-fall was the heaviest up to this season, the record for the years named being 108.9 inches. There has been continuous sleighing throughout the county since Dec. 10—seventy-nine days —and the indications are that there will be at least 100 days more before the snow disappears. Spencer Brownell, who has the largest peach orchard in the county, (1600 trees,) states that he has made tests of the buds taken from his orchard and that they show serious damage from frost. It is encouraging to note, however, that all other orchard trees are reported to have wintered well, showing plenty of vitality, with indications of great masses of bloom.

SYRACUSE IS AMBITIOUS

Albany.—At Thursday's legislative session Assemblyman Colme, of Brooklyn, Chairman of House Canal Committee, introduced by request a bill amending the barge canal act by providing that all bridges between the harbor to be situated in Syracuse and the waters of Lake Ontario at Oswego, must be of swing-bascule or similar type, so as to give clear and unlimited passage way above the water. There is a provision in the present law that all fixed bridges and lift bridges when raised shall give a clear passage way of not less than fifteen and one half feet between the bridge and the water at its highest ordinary navigable stage.
Syracuse has a great ambition to become a seaport city and will bend every energy to that end.If the measure becomes law it is going to necessitate the changing of the railroad and Utica street bridges, in Oswego; both bridges in Fulton; in fact every bridge between Oswego and Syracuse that now crosses the Oswego river.
And when the draws are completed
it will be necessary to maintain men to operate them, if it should be found necessary to use them, which is doubted by those best informed on the possibilities of sending modern lake craft to Syracuse by canal.

A Queer Name.

Among the books in my small library is Bradley's "Curiosities of Puritan Nomenclature," which is well interesting to portions and the margins are notated. One of my most additions is this curious specimen. It is on a brass in the church of Llangatogkough-Us, Monmouth, to the memory of Zephro-niza, daughter of William Mathew.
She died in 1623. This can only be a variant of the woman mentioned in Mark vii, 29, who was Greek, a Syro-Phoenician by nation.—London Notes

New York's First Ferry.

Cornelius Dirksen was the first official ferryman on the island of Manhattan. The mooring place on the Manhattan side was about where Water street crosses the present Peck slip.
He started the system in 1637. Passengers who wanted to be rowed over blew a horn for the skipper if he chanced to be absent when they arrived. From Dirksen's skill grew the present ferry system of the city.

FIRST RATE IDEA

The Oswego Times of recent date contains the following item relative to the work recently undertaken by the Oswego Chamber of Commerce. It is an excellent idea and one bound to prove of benefit to our neighboring city:

President Burr, of the Chamber of Commerce, is preparing for distribution a unique folder giving a list of the manufacturing concerns of the city and all the various articles that they are manufacturing. These folders, unique in design, are not only for general distribution, but are to be sent to the United States Consuls in every country on the globe. The enthusiasm and enterprise shown by President Burr in gathering and preparing for the printer this vast amount of information is most commendable. It will also be a surprise not only to the members, but the citizens generally, to see the large number of articles that are made here and that can be had here.

President Burr desires to make this folder as complete as possible and he wants all manufacturers who desire to send broadcast through the world special information regarding the product of their mills and factories to call upon him and tell what is desired.

NOTABLE RECORD OF SENATOR DAVIS

New Honor For Erie Statesman.
Ward on Ballot Laws.

THE MASSACHUSETTS SYSTEM

New York Assemblyman Advocates Passage of Measure He Has Drawn Providing For New Form of Ballot. His Criticism of the Lee Form of Massachusetts Ballot.

(Special Correspondence.) Albany, March 1.—The decision of a majority of the Republican members of the state senate to choose Senator George Allen Davis of Buffalo to be the new president pro tem, in the place of Jotham P. Alda, has given new and deserved prominence to one of the most scholarly men in the upper house.

Senator Davis is a distinguished looking gentleman, and it is believed that it was largely due to his impartial rulings at the Alda-Conger trial that he was assured the support of enough senators to place him in the position of majority leader.

Senator Davis has had a most trying ordeal as presiding officer at the investigation of the Conger charges against Mr. Alda. Both sides in the controversy are bitter in their opposition, both are led by able trial lawyers who are quick to take advantage of every opening, both have intensely important and thoroughly vital interests at stake, and consequently the task of the presiding officer to maintain an even balance between the contestants has proved as much as a human being can well acquit himself of.

Senator Davis has been a member of the senate for fourteen years continuously since 1896. Not only the senior member of the upper house from Erie county, he is also the senior member of the entire senate.

Career of Senator Davis.

George A. Davis, Republican, who represents the Fifteenth senate district, which consists of the rural part of Erie county and the Twelfth, Fifteenth, Sixteenth and Seventeenth wards of the city of Buffalo, comprising the Seventh, Eighth and Ninth assembly districts of the county of Erie, was born in the city of Buffalo Aug. 5, 1853. He received his education in the public schools of Buffalo and from early youth supported himself. At the age of ten years he carried newspapers to earn money for his education. He learned the picture frame maker's trade and worked at the bench long enough to save sufficient money to support himself while studying law.

In 1877 he began the study of law in the office of Day & Rorer, where he remained until admitted to the bar in 1880. Since that time he has practiced his profession in the city of Buffalo, having offices at 936 Ellicott square.

Was Once a Supervisor.

He represented the Ninth ward of the city of Buffalo on the board of supervisors during the years 1885-8, during which time he married Miss Lillie N. Grimes, daughter of Judge Grimes of Lancaster, N. Y., and in 1887 took up his residence at that place and was immediately elected supervisor of that town. He was chairman of the board in 1888, 1894 and 1895, being elected by the unanimous vote of Republicans and Democrats. As chairman he showed that he possessed executive ability of no mean order, and as presiding officer he won the good will and respect of all parties. He was the Republican nominee for congress in 1890, but owing to the Democratic landslide of that year was defeated by a small majority. He represented the Thirty-first senate district in the constitutional convention, receiving the largest majority of any delegate upon the ticket, and was one of the active members of that body, serving upon the committee of banking, insurance and military.

His Military Record.

Colonel Davis enlisted Aug. 25, 1878, as a private in Company D, Seventy-fourth regiment, soon after being chosen quartermaster sergeant. He obtained his commission as second lieutenant July 17, 1879, was promoted to first lieutenant March 16 of the following year, captain Feb. 18, 1878, and was honorably discharged Dec. 11, 1880. He was chosen major of the regiment Jan. 4, 1886, and Oct. 14, 1896, was elected lieutenant colonel to succeed Colonel Johnson and for a number of years commanded the regiment. Colonel Davis is a member of De Molay lodge, Keystone council, Buffalo chapter and Lake Erie commandery and Buffalo consistory, thirty-second degree Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Armin lodge, No. 225, K. of P., and lodge No. 23, B. P. O. Elks.

Assemblyman Ward Analyzes Massachusetts Ballot and Advocates the Ward Ballot.

Assemblyman Artemus Ward, Jr., of New York city, the leading expert on election law and primary law matters in the lower house, today made an exhaustive and adverse criticism of the Massachusetts ballot system, which several organizations are now endeavoring to establish in New York state. Assemblyman Ward is the author of the Ward ballot bill, which, he states, will decrease materially the size of the present ballot and give the independent voter all the opportunity he could require to vote a split ticket.

"The Massachusetts system requires the names of candidates to be printed in alphabetical order in columns upon the ballot, grouped under the head of the respective offices for which they are candidates, to make the voter vote for each candidate of his choice and to prevent his voting for all the candidates of a party by a single mark.

"No emblems are used on some forms of the Massachusetts ballot, and only the names of parties after the names of candidates.

"The theory that a candidate should be voted for according to his individual merit and not the party principle he represents has some merit, but in practice it has been found under the Massachusetts system unjust and absurd. In the first place, it takes for granted that the voter knows the relative merits of all the candidates, or he otherwise would lose his vote as to those of whom he is ignorant. In this way it gives the intelligent and better educated voter a great advantage over his less fortunate brother who, through his narrower environment, has not as broad an acquaintance with men and affairs.

"It puts the man of foreign birth and parentage—who has become naturalized to a disadvantage because it forces him to lose himself in a maze of names printed in a language he does not readily read.

"It does away with party responsibility to a great extent, because it is made difficult for a man to pick out in the long columns all the members of a party whose policy of government he believes in.

"The Massachusetts system lends itself to the defeat of its own object in that it was quickly recognized by the parties that in the alphabetical arrangement of names the man whose name came at the head of the list had a greater advantage over his opponent who is farther down the column in the same group. In this way the parties try to get those men whose names would naturally bring them to the head of the list, a system which enthralls

ly leaves out of account the respective merits of the candidates, which the Massachusetts ballot is intended to bring out.

The Ward Bill.

"The compromise bill which I have introduced in the assembly was drawn with the Massachusetts ballot, Pennsylvania ballot, Colorado ballot and the New York ballot before the introduction. My intention was to get from the laws of New York, Massachusetts and other states the simplest and most compact form of ballot, avoiding as far as possible the weakness in each system. The result was a bill with a column on the left side for emblems and circles and the names of the parties under them and in other columns following the names of candidates grouped under the respective offices for which they are candidates. Thus no man's name would appear more than once on the ballot, which is an adoption of the Massachusetts system and assures a shorter and clearer ballot, at the same time provided with emblems and circles for the voter who believes in party principles or who, through lack of educational advantages, would get lost in the maze of names.

"The names are placed on the list in the order of the party casting the highest number of votes at the last gubernatorial election, and so on, independent nominations to be placed on the ballot in the order of filing.

"A vote in the circle next to the party emblem will be a vote for all the candidates of that party on the ballot, except where the voter has marked in the squares opposite to the individual names.

"The ordinary ballot for the election of governor under this system in this state would be about sixteen inches long and twelve and a half inches wide.

"Educational Qualification." "Those who oppose the use of the emblems and circles on the Massachusetts plan of ballot are, in fact, asking for an educational qualification as the right to vote, or, in other words, they desire to disfranchise the less fortunate voter whose knowledge is limited by conditions of education and his surroundings."

Mr. Ward is opposed to the Lee bill providing for a Massachusetts ballot with party emblems after the names of the various candidates. He asserts that the party emblems will necessarily be so small that they will confuse the voter. Mr. Ward has had made the drawing shown in the accompanying cut to illustrate the size of the party emblems in the Lee ballot. The cut represents an actual section cut from a sample Lee ballot.

TEMPERANCE MEASURE

Senator Gardner of Amsterdam has introduced the "County Prohibition Unit Bill" in the State Senate. A similar bill has already been introduced in the Assembly by Assemblyman Holden of Tompkins. State Chairman Pitts states that if this bill should become a law every county in the State would vote next Fall on the question of putting an end to the liquor traffic. According to this bill all counties voting "dry" would become permanently dry while those voting "wet" would have the question put up to them each year.

Chairman Pitts stated that Oswego county would be one of the ones which would grow "dry" next fall as he has a majority of 1,000 in the county to overcome the vote in Oswego and Fulton.

BEARS IN OSWEGO COUNTY

Harry McCoy, of Syracuse, who is wintering in Redfield, went out rabbit hunting last week with M. J. Mollen and John Taylor. On the A. J. Brockway farm they stumbled upon a den containing four black bears. The hunters had only shotguns and while two of them watched the den to see that the bears didn't escape, the other snowshoed back three miles for rifles.

The bears, aroused from their winter slumber, made a dash from the cave and the four were killed after a desperate battle. The four bears weighed about 1,100 pounds. They were brought into Redfield Square where bear steaks have been plentiful for the past week. —Ex.

FOR DISEASES OF THE SKIN

Nearly all diseases of the skin such as eczema, tetter, salt rheum and barbers' itch, are characterized by an intense itching and smarting, which often makes life a burden and disturbs sleep and rest. Quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Salve. It allays the itching and smarting almost instantly. Many cases have been cured by its use. For sale by E. A. Putnam.

The Republican factions in Congress continue to swear fealty to the Taft legislative programme, but what is wanted is more doing and less swearing.

RECEPTION TO W. B. BAKER

The Gloversville Leader of Feb. 22 says: The members of the Gloversville bar association and a few out-of-town attorneys were entertained at the home of Attorney Frank Burton, on West Fulton street last evening, in honor of William B. Baker, of Oswego, who recently became a member of the law firm of Baker & Burton. The hospitality of Attorney and Mrs. Burton was ideal, the interior of their pleasant home having been made attractive by the skill of Florist Loeben and, in contrast to the conditions outside, it was like stepping into the balmy south land from the frozen north. Dinner was served under the supervision of Caterer Wells, after which a very pleasing musical program was rendered by Prof. and Mrs. Alexander Hyer and during the social time which followed a most cordial welcome was extended to the honored guest by the members of the bar.

Last night's gathering was attended by nearly all of the members of the local bar, and the guests included Mr. Betts of Pulaski, the father-in-law of the guest of honor; Clark L. Jordan of New York, formerly of Gloversville; Edwin P. Bellows of Philadelphia, also a former Gloversville practitioner; A. J. Baker, Johnstown, and Messrs. Charles J. Burton and S. Elmore Burton, both brothers of the host of the evening. Thirty-three guests were present.

Mr. Baker studied law in the offices of Messrs. Baker and Burton on his return from college, being a nephew of Hon. A. D. L. Baker, and his return to Gloversville, after quite a lapse of time, was much in the nature of a homecoming, in which old friends extended their felicitations and cordial greetings.

Fully nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism is simply rheumatism of the muscles due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment. All that is needed to afford relief is the free application of Chamberlain's Liniment. Give it a trial. You are certain to be pleased with the quick relief which it affords. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

THE FULTON TIMES

Entered as second class matter, April 12, 1886 at the postoffice at Fulton, New York, under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Official Paper of City of Fulton.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 2, 1910.

No one can take up a modern school reader, such as the used in the public school nowadays, without regretting the absence of some masterpieces in prose and poetry that were familiar to school children of fifty or sixty years ago. It is doubtful if the authors of school readers were as well read as were our fathers. It was common fifty or sixty years ago for school boys and girls to memorize passages from Shakespeare, like the speeches of Brutus and Anthony over the dead body of Caesar, Othello's defense, Miss Mitford's "Rienzi", Byron's "Waterloo", or his address to the ocean, beginning, "Roll on, thou dark and deep blue ocean, roll". Gray's "Elegy", Hood's "Bridge of Sighs", Macaulay's "Horatius at the Bridge". These superb rhetorical models appear to have given way in the school readers of today to apparently ephemeral productions of latterday poets.

There is at present a convention in Washington urging the passage of a uniform motor vehicle bill by Congress, the result of which, if passed, will be to enable these vehicles to go from state to state and through the states without securing a special license from each state in passage. In other words, it means free trade and travel as far as motor vehicles are concerned, throughout the United States. The great number of people now using automobiles and the greater number that will use them in the future makes such a law indispensable.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., sat tight at home when he was not going courting and let his brother Kermit operate the gun and camera in Africa. Theodore, Jr., was out for a different kind of game than giraffes and hippopotami. What's a hippopotamus as compared with an American girl? The latter is much the more dangerous of the two animals, but paradoxical as it may seem, a much more desirable possession.

The President struck a stiff and sledge hammer blow at the Wall Street gamblers last week, when he told them, "If the enforcement of the law is not consistent with the present methods of carrying on business, then it does not speak well for the present methods of conducting business."

It is a fine example that the President's eldest son is setting to the youth of America. Young Mr. Taft is at the head of a numerous class in a great university and is giving very little attention to football and other varieties of hoodlum athletics, which accounts for his excellence in his studies.

A distinguished publicist has said that there have been four great liars in history. When he wrote this information he doubtless had not the census of Mr. Roosevelt's Annapolis Club before him.

MARRIED

The marriage of Miss Lillian Mae Bacon to Mr. Edward Lewis, is announced to have taken place in Syracuse on Jan. 27.

Cards have been received in this city announcing the marriage of Mr. LeRoy William Hall, son of Dr. and Mrs. William A. Hall of Minneapolis, Minn., former residents of this city and Miss Pearl Estelle Weston of the home city. The ceremony was solemnized on Feb. 26, at the Plymouth Congregational Church and a reception followed at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Weston. The many friends in this vicinity of the groom will extend congratulations.

A TOUCHING INCIDENT

In view of the death of the official ringler of old Trinity Church chimps (Albert Meislahn) whose requiem was tolled last Monday at the stroke of 12, when Wall street was filled with an eager, earnest crowd, it might be interesting to note that when Colonel Theodore Roosevelt departed for his African hunt Mr. Meislahn rendered his last special programme on the chimps. As the Hamburg, outward bound from New York harbor, was abreast Trinity he played "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah, Pilgrim in a Foreign Land." Deaf to the tooting of steamboat and tug whistles and the farewell shouts of thousands of admirers, the one time President of the United States, deeply moved, lifted his hat and stood silently upon the bridge of the vessel until the last notes of the bells had died away.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

It was generally believed when Thomas M. Osborne of Auburn resigned his membership on the Public Service Commission, it was to accept the Democrat nomination for the governorship of the Empire State. At a dinner given in Brooklyn on Feb. 25, by Edward M. Shepard, this boom was practically launched, although Mr. Osborne would neither admit the truthfulness of the rumor nor deny his ambition to occupy the seat now filled by his friend, Governor Hughes.

FIRST STREET CLEANED

Through the efforts of Superintendent Martin the Syracuse, Lake Erie & Northern railroad company, last week sent a gang of men and electric freight cars to this city for the purpose of razing the snow banks in First street, thrown up on either side of the trolley tracks by the snow plow. The snow was shoveled on the flat cars and drawn away to the delight of all who were compelled to traverse the street. The pitchholes and cross walks are in better condition too, than they have been.

TOUCHING APPEAL

Mrs. Diehl's Death in New York
Recalls Pathetic Incident of Civil War.

The Times is in receipt of the following from Mr. M. E. Schenck, of Meriden, Conn., who is well known in this city, being a relative of the Messrs. Morrill, and a frequent visitor in their homes. The letter from the late Mrs. Diehl is a model in English and it, Mr. Schenck's letter, and the press clippings, will be read with appreciative interest by Times readers.

Gentlemen:—I noticed in a recent issue of the Times a clipping from a New York paper, announcing the death on November 29th, 1909, of Mrs. Anna Randall Diehl.

It brings most vividly to my mind the active part she took as a teacher in our Fulton schools and the prominence acquired in later years as a woman of distinguished ability in other fields of action.

I have no definite knowledge regarding the recovery of Captain Randall's body, after the fearful charge on the works of Fort Hudson, but have the impression that he was never heard from, and is recorded only among the unknown dead.

The original clipping of this letter I have carefully preserved among my choicest war records.

It brings back to us, from those terrible years, a living picture of the mental agony, suffering and despair that awful war brought to thousands of our northland homes. Fulton had her full share.

I submit it entire with the war time newspaper comments, in the belief that it still possesses more than a passing interest to the people of Fulton, although more than forty-five years have come and gone since it was written.

Yours truly,

M. E. Schenck.

THE PAYMENT OF SOLDIERS

A Widow's Letter to President Lincoln

A correspondent of the Rochester Democrat by some means obtained possession of the following letter addressed to President Lincoln. It will be read with interest as a woman's letter in this time of war and weeping, to the President, speaking a word in behalf of the soldier:

April 18, 1864.

President Lincoln,
Honored Sir: Can you not in your office of Chief Executive of this nation expedite the payment of the dues of deceased soldiers?

Shall those suffer who, having given their all to the country, have thus become widowed and impoverished? Could bounties be paid as soon as application was made and proof furnished, the sufferings of thousands would be alleviated. I am a widow, and as frequent prayer of prevents from calling on Relief Societies, as well as from accepting aid when it is tendered; because if their lawful dues in the way of back pay, bounty and pension could be paid them, they would be above want.

My husband was a young man of energy and talent, just completing his professional education and just about entering upon what we hoped would be an honorable career in life, when his country called him, and with patriotism as true as it was earnest, he buckled on the sword. He left home bearing the commission of 1st Lieutenant of Co. A in the 110th Regiment of New York State Volunteers. Having acted as Captain of his company for five months in the absence of that officer he was, on the 14th of June, 1863, detailed to command a party who were to go with hand grenades in advance of the main assaulting force and open the attack on Fort Hudson.

The evening before the engagement he thus wrote to me: "I am going into battle trusting in God. I shall use my best endeavors to beat the foe. If I fall it will be in a just cause. Do not, even in your secret heart, ever chide me for having left you; but teach our darling babe to honor my memory—tell her I meant only to do my duty. You must hope on as I have always done, even in the face of sorrow, and God will take care of you."

I think he was heroic. "With the morrow his bravery was tested, and it is sweet to me to know that it failed not. A terrible fire from the enemy greeted the assailants; yet the intrepid men marched up to the very mouth of the rebel cannon, throwing their missiles of destruction into the midst of their foes. The commanding General fell, and confusion followed. The grenadiers threw themselves upon the ground for safety, but their leader did not flinch. Duty and patriotism nerved him on as he walked backward and forward before his prostrate men, waving his sword and shouting to them to rally. That one man standing alone became a sure mark for the enemy; and while yet the cheering words were being uttered, in a moment, like Enoch, he was not, for "God took him."

I had no fortune, no means of support, and was immediately obliged to leave my infant girl in stranger's hands and begin the career of a teacher of a public school. I do not imagine that an exception could be made in my favor in reference to the payment of my dues in advance of the other; but why should justice move with such lagging footsteps?

Knowing that your heart beats in sympathy with all who suffer in this war, I have dared to write. Pardon the intrusion.

That God may endue you with grace in these perilous times is the earnest prayer of

Respectfully yours,

Anna Randall.
To His Excellency, Abraham Lincoln.
No apology is needed for giving publicity to such a letter, so pathetic, so full of tenderness, so frank and womanly, and yet so respectful and delicate. The reception of so many such letters, some of them just as touching and plainly indicating heroic womanhood, sharply shows the feeling of the people, that there is fault somewhere in not promptly settling soldiers' claims.

By and by the trusts will have to raise the Maine, presumably. At least, it seems likely that that will soon be about the only thing left to raise.

TRUXTON KING

A Story of Graustark

By GEORGE BARR
M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1907, by George Barr
M'CUTCHEON.
Copyright, 1909, by Dodd, Mead &

SYNOPSIS

Chapter I.—Truxton King arrives in Edelweiss, capital of Graustark, and meets the beautiful niece of Spantz, a gunmaker. II.—King does a favor for Prince Robin, the young ruler of the country, whose guardian is John Tullis, an American. III.—Baron Dangloss, minister of police, interviews King and warns him against Olga, the gunmaker's niece.

CHAPTER IV. TRUXTON TRESPASSES.

There was a sparkle in King's eyes as he struck out across town after breakfast the next morning. He burst in upon Mr. Hobbs at Cook's.

"Say, Hobbs, how about the castle today—in an hour, say? Can you take a party of one rubbernecking this morning? I want you to get me into the castle grounds today and show us where the duchesses dawdle and the countesses cavort."

"Of course, sir, you understand there are certain parts of the park not open to the public. The grove and the playgrounds and the Basin of Venus."

"I'll not trespass, so don't fidget, Hobbs. I'll be here for you at 10."

Truxton hurried to the square and across it to the shop of the armorer, not forgetting, however, to look about in some anxiety for the excellent Dangloss, who might, for all he knew, be snooping in the neighborhood. Spantz was at the rear of the shop talking to a customer. The girl was behind the counter, dressed for the street. She came quickly out to him, a disturbed expression on her face. As he doffed his hat the smile left his lips. He saw that she had been weeping.

"You must not come here, Mr. King," she said hurriedly in low tones. "Take your broadsword this morning, and please, for my sake, do not come again. I—I may not explain why I am asking you to do this."

"Just a minute, please," he interrupted. "I've heard your story from Baron Dangloss. Are you in trouble? Do you need friends, Miss Platanova?"

"The baron has told you all about me?" She smiled sadly. "Alas, he has only told you what he knows. But it should be sufficient. There is no place in my life for you or any one else. There never can be. Do you question me? I can say no more. Now I must be gone. I—I have warned you. Do not come again."

She slipped into the street and was gone. King stood in the doorway, looking after her, a puzzled gleam in his eyes. Old Spantz was coming up from the rear, followed by his customer.

"Hello, Mr. Spantz! Good morning. I'm here for the sword."

The old man glared at him to unmistakable displeasure. Truxton began counting out his money. The customer, a swarthy fellow, passed out of the door, turning to glance intently at the young man. A menacing look and a sly nod passed between him and Spantz. The man halted at the corner below and later on followed King to Cook's office, afterward to the castle gates, outside of which he waited until his quarry reappeared. Until King went to bed late that night this swarthy fellow was close at his heels, always a swarthy fellow keeping well out of sight himself.

"I'll come in soon to look at those rings," said King, placing the notes on the counter. Spantz merely nodded, raked in the bills without counting them and passed the sword over to the purchaser.

Truxton picked up the weapon and stalked away. A few minutes later he was on his way to the castle grounds, accompanied by the short-legged Mr. Hobbs.

Hobbs led him through the great park gates and up to the lodge of Jacob Fransch, the venerable high steward of the grounds. Here, to King's utter disgust, he was booked as a plain Cook's tourist and mechanically advised to pay strict attention to the rules.

"It's no disgrace," growled Hobbs, redder than ever. "You're inside the grounds, and you've got to obey the rules, same as any tourist. Right this way, sir. We'll take a turn just inside the wall. Now, on your left, ladies and—ahem!—I should say—ahem!—sir, you may see the first turret ever built on the wall. It is over 400 years old.

On the right, of course," said King, stopping short. "I'm dashed if I'll let you lecture me as if I were a gang of bay-seeds from Josephville."

"Very good, sir. No offense, I quite forgot, sir."

"Just tell me, old chap. Don't lecture. Hobbs, this is all very beautiful and very grand and very slow," said King, stopping to lean against the moss-covered wall that encircled the park within a park, the grounds adjoining the grove. "Can't I hop over this wall and take a peep into the grove?"

"By no means," cried Hobbs, horrified. King looked over the low wall. The prospect was alluring. The pool, the trickling rivulets, the mossy banks, the dense shadows—it was maddening to think he could not enter.

"I wouldn't be in there a minute," he argued. "And I might catch a glimpse of a dream lady. Now, I say, Hobbs, here's a low place. I could jump."

"Mr. King, if you do that I am ruined forever. I am trusted by the steward. He would cut off all my privileges." Hobbs could go no further. He was prematurely agitated. Something told him that Mr. King would hop over the wall.

"Go and report me, Hobbs; there's a good fellow. Tell the guards I wouldn't obey. That will let you out, my boy, and I'll do the rest."

He strode off across the bright green turf toward the source of all this enchantment, leaving poor Mr. Hobbs braced against the wall, weak kneed and helpless.

"What are you doing in here?" demanded a voice.

Truxton, conscious of guilt, whirled with as much consternation as if he had been accosted by a voice of thunder. He beheld a very small boy standing at the top of the knoll above him, not thirty feet away. His face was quite as dirty as any small boy's should be at that time of day, and his curly brown hair looked as if it had not been combed since the day before.

His firm little legs, in half hose and presumably white knickerbockers, were spread apart, and his hands were in his pockets.

King recognized him at once and looked about uneasily for the attendant who, he knew, should be near. It is safe to say that he came to his feet and bowed deeply, even in humility.

"I am resting, your highness," he said meekly.

"Don't you know any better than to come in here?" demanded the prince. Truxton turned very red.

"I am sorry, I'll go at once."

"Oh, I'm not going to put you out!" hastily exclaimed the prince, coming down the slope. "But you are old enough to know better. You are the gentleman who picked up my crop yesterday. You are an American."

"Yes, a lovely American," with an attempt at the pathetic.

The youngster looked cautiously about. "Say, do you ever go fishing?" he demanded eagerly.

"Occasionally."

"You won't give me away, will you?" with a warning frown. "Don't you tell Jacob Fransch. He's the steward. I—I know a fine place to fish."

The prince led the way up the bank, followed by the amused American, who stooped so admirably that the boy, looking back, whispered that it was "just fine." At the top of the knoll the prince turned into a little shrub lined path leading down to the banks of the pool almost directly below the rocky face of the grove.

The prince scurried behind a big rock and reappeared at once with a willow branch from the end of which dangled a piece of thread. A bent pin occupied the chief end in view. He unceremoniously shoved the branch into the hands of his confederate and then produced from one of his pockets a silver cigarette box, which he gingerly opened to reveal to the gaze a conglomerate mass of angleworms and grubs.

"A fellow gets awful dirty digging for worms, doesn't he?" he pronounced. The prince took the branch and danglely dropped the hook into the dancing pool. In less time than it requires to tell if he had a nibble, a bite and a catch. There never was a boy so excited as he when a scarlet nibbler flew into the shrubbery above.

On the opposite bank of the pool suddenly appeared two right members of the royal guard, latently watching the fishers. King was somewhat disturbed by the fact that their rifles were in a position to be used at an instant's notice. He felt himself turning pale as he thought of what might have happened if he had taken to flight.

A young lady in a rajah silk gown, a flimsy Panama hat tilted well over her nose, with a red feather that stood erect as if always in a state of surprise, turned the bushes and came to a stop almost at King's elbow. He had time to note in his confusion that she was about shoulder high alongside him and that she was staring up into his face with amazed gray eyes. Afterward he was to realize that she was amazingly pretty; that her teeth were very white and even; that her eyes were the most beautiful and expressive he had ever seen; that she was slender and imperious and that there were dimples in her cheeks so fascinating that he could not gather sufficient strength of purpose to withdraw his gaze from them. Of course he did not see them at the outset. She was not smiling, so how could he?

The prince came to the rescue. "This is my Aunt Loraine, Mr.—Mr.—" He swallowed hard and looked helpless.

"King," supplied Truxton—"Truxton King, your highness." Then, with all the courage he could produce, he said to the beautiful lady: "I'm as guilty as his. See?" He pointed vaguely to four goldfish which he had strung upon wire grass and dropped into the edge of the pool.

"DON'T YOU KNOW ANY BETTER THAN TO COME IN HERE?"

"Please put those poor little things back in the pool, Mr. King," said the lady in perfect English.

"Gladly, with the prince's permission," said King, also in English. The prince looked grim, but interposed no imperial objection.

It must be confessed that King's composure was sorely disturbed. He glanced up to find her studying him, plainly perplexed.

"I just wandered in here," he began guiltily. "The prince captured me down there by the big tree."

"Did you say your name is Truxton King?" she asked somewhat skeptically.

"Yes, your—yes, ma'am," he replied. "of New York."

"Your father is Mr. Emerson King?"

Are you the brother of Adele King?" she asked.

"I am."

"I've heard her speak of her brother Truxton. She said you were in South America."

She was regarding him with cool, speculative interest. "I wonder if you are?"

"I think I am," he said, but doubtfully. "Please pardon my amazement. Perhaps I'm dreaming. At any rate, I'm dazed."

"We were in the convent together for two years. Now that I observe you closely you do resemble her. We were very good friends, she and I."

"Then you'll intercede for me?" he urged, with a fervent glance in the direction of the wall.

She smiled joyously.

"More than that," she said. "I shall assist you to escape. Come!"

He followed her through the shrubbery, his heart pounding violently.

"Say," whispered the prince a few moments later, dropping back as if to impart a grave secret. "See that man over there by the fountain, Mr. King?"

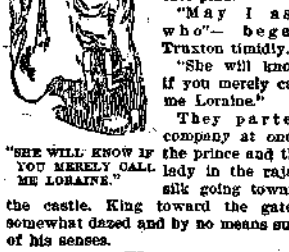

"Bobby!" cried the lady sharply. "Goodby, Mr. King. Remember me to your sister when you write. She!"

"That's Aunt Loraine's beam," announced the prince. "That's Count Eric Vos Engo." Truxton's look turned to one of interest at once. The man designated was a slight, swarthy fellow in the uniform of a colonel. He did not appear to be particularly happy at the moment.

The American observed the lady's dainty ears. They had turned a delicate pink.

"May I ask you who began Truxton timidly."

"She will know if the prince and the lady in the rajah silk gown toward the castle. King toward the gates, somewhat dazed and by no means sure of his senses."

CHAPTER V. THE COMMITTEE OF TEN.

It has been said before that Truxton King was the unsuspecting object of interest to two sets of watchers. The fact that he was under the surveillance of the government police is not surprising when we consider the evident thoroughness of that department, but that he should be continually watched by persons of a more sinister cast suggests a mystery which can be cleared up by visiting a certain underground room unknown to the police, scarce two blocks from the Tower of Graustark.

There were two ways of reaching this windowless room, with its low ceilings and dank air. If one hid the secret in his possession he could go down through the mysterious trapdoor in the workshop of William Spantz, armorer to the crown, or he might come up through a hidden aperture in the walls of the great government sewer which ran directly parallel with and far below the walls of the quaint old building. One could take his choice of direction in approaching this hole in the huge sewer—he could come up from the river, half a mile away, or he could come down from the hills above if he had the courage to drop through one of the intakes.

It is of special significance that the trapdoor in Spantz's workshop was reserved for use by the armorer and his more fastidious comrades, of whom there were women and one in established functionary in the royal household.

The committee of ten represented the brains and the activity of a rabid coterie in Edelweiss, among themselves styled the Party of Equals. In plain language, they were "reds."

The nominal leader was William Spantz, he who had a son in the prince's household, Julius Spantz, the master of arms. Far off in the hills above the Danube there lived the real leader of this deadly group—the Iron Count Mariani, exile from the land of his birth, hated and execrated by every loyal Graustarkian, hating and execrating in return with a tenfold greater venom.

Olga Platanova was the latest acquisition to this select circle. A word concerning her: She was the daughter of Professor Platanova, one time oculist and sociologist in a large German university. He had been one of the most brilliant men in Europe and a member of a noble family. Less than a year before the opening of this tale he was executed for treason and conspiracy against the empire.

His daughter, Olga, was recognized as one of the most beautiful and cultured young women in Warsaw. Her suitors seemed to be without number. Finally there came one who conquered and was beloved. He was the son of a mighty duke, a prince of the blood. The young prince pledged himself to marry her despite all opposition; he was ready to give up his noble inheritance for the sake of love. The all-powerful ruler of an empire learned of this proposed mesalliance and was horrified. The will of the crown was made known to him and he obeyed. Olga Platanova was cast aside, but not forgotten. He became the husband of an unloved, scrawny lady of diabolous. When the situation became more than he could bear he blew out his brains.

When Olga heard the news of his death she was not stricken by grief. She cried out her joy to a now cloudless sky, for he had justified the great love that had been theirs and would be theirs to the end of time.

From a passive believer in the doctrines of her father and his circle she became at once their most impassioned exponent. She threw herself heart and soul into the deliberations, and transactions of the great red circle; her father understood and yet was amazed.

Then he was put to death by the class she had come to hate—one more stone in the sepulcher of her tender, girlish ideals. When the time came she traveled to Graustark in response to the call of the committee of ten; she came prepared to kill the creature she would be asked to kill. And yet down in her heart she was sore afraid.

She was there not to kill a man grown old in wrongs to her people, but to destroy the life of a gentle, innocent boy of seven!

There were times when her heart shrank from the unholy deed she had been selected to perform. But there was never a thought of receding from the bloody task set down for her.

On a Saturday night, following the last visit of Truxton King to the armorer, the committee of ten met in the underground room to hear the latest word from one who could not be with them in person, but was always there in spirit, if they were to believe his most zealous utterances. The Iron Count Mariani, professed hater of all that was rich and noble, was the power behind the committee of ten. The assassination of the little prince and the overthrow of the royal family awaited his pleasure. He was the man who would give the word.

Alas for the committee of ten! The wildest fox in the history of the world was never so wily as the Iron Count. Some day they were to find out that he was using them to pull his choicest chestnuts from the fire.

The committee was seated around the long table in the stifling, breathless room, the armorer at the head. Those who came by way of the sewer had performed ablutions in the queer toilet room that once had been a secret vault for the storing of feudal plunder. What air there was came from the narrow ventilator that burrowed its way up to the shop of William Spantz or through the chimney hole in the ceiling. Olga Platanova sat far down the side, a moody, inscrutable expression in her dark eyes. At Spantz's right lounged Peter Brutus, a lawyer, formerly secretary to the Iron Count and now his sole representative among these people. He was a dark faced, snaky-eyed young man, with a mop of coarse black hair that hung ominously low over his high, receding forehead.

Julius Spantz, the armorer's son, a placid young man of goodly physical proportions sat next to Brutus, and down the table ranged others deep in the consideration of the world's gravest problems. One of the women was Mme. Drovast, whose husband had been sent to Siberia for life, and the other Anna Cromer, a rabid red lecturer, who had been driven from the United States, together with her amiable husband, an assassin of some distinction and many aliases, at present foraging in charge of one of the bridge building crews on the new railroad.

Every man in the party, and there were eight, for Olga was not a member of the "ten," wore over the lower part of his face a false black beard of huge dimensions—not that they were averse to recognition among themselves, but in the fear that by some hook or crook Dangloss or his agents might be able to look up upon them.

Brutus was speaking. "The man is a spy. He has been brought here from America to Tullis."

"We shall continue to watch his every movement," said William Spantz. "Time will tell. When we are positive that he is a detective and that he is dangerous there is a way to stop his operations."

A Curious Royal Custom.

When any Spanish sovereign dies the body is at once submitted to the process of fossilization, so that it can be placed in the royal pantheon until the body has been absolutely turned into stone. Curiously enough, the period required for fossilization varies considerably. Some royal bodies have become solidified in a very short period, while others have taken years before the fossilization took place.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangement, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help.

They work in nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion, constipation and dizziness. Sold everywhere. Price 25 cents.

FEDERAL CENSUS RULES

The official definitions of the terms "dwelling-houses" and "family," with reference to the population schedule to be carried by the enumerators in the Thirtieth United States Census, beginning April 15th next, are explained in the Census Bureau's lengthy printed instructions to the canvassers which have been received. It is pointed out that the answers should relate only to conditions existing on April 15th, the "Census Day."

The words "dwelling-houses" and "family" are, for census purposes, given a much wider application than they have in ordinary speech.

A "dwelling" is defined as a place in which, at the time of the census, one or more persons regularly sleep. It need not be a house in the common meaning of the word, but may be, for example, a room in a factory, store, or office building, a loft over a stable, a canal-boat, a tent, or a wigwam. The term also includes a hotel, boarding or lodging-house, a tenement or apartment-house, an institution or school building, if persons regularly sleep there, as well as the ordinary dwelling-house.

A "family," as a census term, may mean a group of individuals who occupy jointly a dwelling place or part of a dwelling place, or an individual living alone in any place of abode. All the occupants and employees of a hotel, if they regularly sleep there, make up a single family, because they occupy one dwelling place, and persons living alone in cabins, huts or tents; persons occupying a room or rooms in public buildings, stores, warehouses, factories or stables; and persons sleeping on river boats, canal boats, barges, etc., if they have no other usual place of abode, are regarded as families.

The enumerators are required to enter on the schedule the name of every person whose usual place of abode on April 15th, 1910, was with the family or in the dwelling place for which the enumeration is being made. The head of the family is to be entered first; then the wife; next the children, whether sons or daughters, in the order of their ages; and lastly, all other persons living with the family, whether relatives, boarders, lodgers or servants. The head of the family, whether husband or father, widow or unmarried person of either sex, is to be designated by the word "head," and the other members of a family as wife, father, mother, son, daughter, granddaughter, daughter-in-law, uncle, aunt, niece, boarder, lodger, servant, etc., according to the particular relationship which the person bears to the head of the family.

A MILLINERY COLLEGE

New York.—A millinery arts college, devoted to the study and improvement of styles in women's headgear, will take its place among New York's many educational institutions in the near future if plans laid by the National Association of Retail Milliners, in convention here are carried out. A canvass for funds will be started at once.

President Mme. Marie M. Sharris of Chicago explained the idea underlying the plan for the millinery fine arts building. Styles are made for the four seasons of every year, she pointed out, and always the designers go back to history for their basic ideas. Thus there are certain well defined art periods which are used in rotation; and when the series has been gone through, why the designers start over again, the plan being somewhat like the rotation of farm lands from corn to cotton through peas and potatoes.

For example, said Mme. Marie, the styles last year were based on the art period of Louis XIV and Louis XV, and this year they will be based on the art period of Louis XIV.

She, therefore, thinks that there should be in New York a collection of paintings from all the art periods—originals, if possible, but copies if it must be. These should be housed appropriately. Twice each year students from all over the country would come here, listen to lectures on the fine arts as applied to millinery head dress and then work out the new ideas for the coming seasons.

In all cases where there are indications of weak and diseased kidneys, as shown by such symptoms as weak back, back ache, pains in the bladder and urinary disorders, you should not delay a moment to take some good, reliable remedy, like De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. These pills are antiseptic. They allay inflammation and soothe irritation. Sold by all druggists.

Henty's Young Critic.

G. A. Henty, the writer for youth, frequently got letters from admirers all over the world asking for his autograph and offering criticisms of his books. In a story of the peninsular war he made two boys disguise themselves by staining their faces with iodine. Shortly after the book was published he received a letter from a boy, who said he was a chemist's assistant, stating that while that special incident was represented as taking place in 1808 iodine was not discovered until 1811, three years after.

Caustic Cankering.

Roscoe Conkling once considered it his duty to impeach the testimony of a red nosed witness who, Mr. Conkling thought had lied while in the witness chair. In addressing the jury Mr. Conkling spoke of him thus: "Gentlemen, I think I can see that witness now, with mouth arched across the wide desolation of his face, a fountain of falsehood and a sepulcher of rum."

Astounding Memories.

Horace Vernet is the best example of visual memory. He could paint a striking portrait of a man, life size, after having once looked at his model. Mozart had a great musical memory. Having heard twice the "Miserere" in the Sistine chapel, he wrote down the full score of it. There are soloists who during twenty-four hours can play the composition of other masters without ever skipping a note.

Wood Pulp.

Observation of nature has often suggested ideas to business men. Many years ago James G. Halie said to Dr. Hill that there was a rapidly diminishing supply of rags and cotton for papermaking. That set Dr. Hill thinking. One day he came into the office of a paper manufacturer holding a hornet's nest in his hand. "Why can't you make paper like this?" he said. Dr. Hill's trained eye had seen that the hornet began making its nest by chewing up particles of wood into a fine pulp. That illustration led to the use of wood pulp for making paper.

COMMONSENSE AND LIFE INSURANCE

To keep young is something we all want to do. And its mostly brought about by not thinking about it. You can't keep young if you are always dwelling on those terrible things that may happen when you're young no longer. That's why some people save. Saving is fine, excellent, provided you can find out in advance that you are going to live long enough to make the saving worth the stinting. It's a mean thing after you've done without your tobacco for a week, to hike into the sweet eternal. What's to be done about it anyhow? Easy! A life insurance policy means saving plus. No risk of falling into the long sleep with $14.75 at the bank. Not only is your life insured, but you are insured against your own inclination to shake the baby's bank, when you see a "sure thing". Insure yourself and be assured. Don't let the wife and the kiddies run the risk of having not only lack of syrup, but actually no cakes at all. It simply means that you deposit a part of your savings with an insurance company instead of a bank. The bank simply pays you back what you put in; but the insurance company may pay much more. No bank in the world is as strong as the Equitable.

JURY DRAWING

A panel of thirty-six jurors to serve at the Trial Term of Supreme Court to open in Oswego on March 7, was drawn in part as follows:

Granby—Burlis Gardenier, David Phillips.

Hastings—Fred Loren, Frank Klock.

Fulton—James F. Kelly, Bernie G. Ellis, Irwin R. Chase.

Hannibal—William Gault, John Barlow.

Palermo—James Tackley, Gilbert Jennings.

Amboy—Adelbert Cram.

New Haven—E. L. Jerred, Jr.

The "pure food law" is designed by the Government to protect the public from injurious ingredients in food and drugs. It is beneficial both to the public and to the conscientious manufacturer. Ely's Cream Balm, a successful remedy for cold in the head, nasal catarrh, hay fever, etc., containing no injurious drugs, meets fully the requirements of the new law, and that fact is prominently stated on every package. It contains none of the injurious drugs which are required by the law to be mentioned on the label. Hence you can use it safely.

TWINE-BALL HOLDER

The ordinary tin funnel makes a handy little device for a new ball (or one made of odds and ends of twine) by placing the twine in the funnel and drawing it through the end. By hanging on a convenient nail in the kitchen it can also be used for culinary purposes whenever needed.—From Woman's Home Companion for March.

first, because it is a necessity—that is the rule in magazine buying of America's intellectual aristocracy. It is indispensable to the busy business man, who must keep abreast of the times, because it gives him the real news of the day in concise, readable form; it is invaluable to the thinking man, who demands only the truth and then draws his own conclusions, because it gives him just plain, straight facts. It is helpful to the whole family. In it you will find a monthly picture of men and affairs by Dr. Albert Shaw, in his comprehensive editorial, "Progress of the World;" a clever cartoon history of the month; book reviews; the gist of the best which has appeared in the other magazines and newspapers of the world; pithy character sketches; and interesting articles on the all-important topics of the day. pleasant time was enjoyed. Ray Clark is on the sick list. Jessie Larabee has returned to McKeeville where he holds a lucrative position.

The prolonged thaw has made the roads almost impassable. Little milk was delivered Monday and mail carriers experienced some difficulty in covering their routes.

Mrs. Lavine Sperry of Indianapolis, who has been quite ill, is convalescent.

Mrs. Charles Osborne will return home this week from Syracuse where she has been caring for her mother. She expects her mother to accompany her.

To The Mt. Pleasant Juveniles

My dear young friends, of our juvenile grange

With your room in fine order and neatly arranged

I imagine I see you, each taking a part

With the good of the order, the wish of your heart.

From matron to master, from steward to usher,

To lecturer also, a convenient good pusher.

To learn things most useful and other officers and members to fill up the line have a good time.

To these days you're now living, you will often refer.

The good things you enjoy, will sweet memories stir

Then put away jealousy, hatred and strife

By making virtue and goodness the rosebuds of life.

Full many a year of life's journey I've traveled,

Full many a thread, of its weaving, unraveled.

'Tis not where the greed of great wealth doth abound,

But where friendship, true friendship, the person has crowned;

Not friendship that's bought by silver and gold.

But earned by personal worth, value of mind, that never is sold.

To do unto others, keep this motto in view

As ye would that all others may do unto you.

OSWEGO BANK'S NEW HOME

Description of Handsome Building--To Be Completed This Year--First National Bank of Oswego.

The Times-to-day presents a cut of the First National bank, Oswego, as it will look when its new building is completed. Such a building is one which will add much to the business aspect of the place in which it is located and it should enhance the value of nearby property. No expense is to be spared in making this new building a handsome one from an architectural point of view and on the interior it will be very handsomely decorated. It will be thoroughly modern and up-to-date in every respect and will offer to the public. The burglar-proof money vault will have thick linings of interwoven plates of chrome steel with masonry supporting and surrounding walls, adding protection against fire.

The outer chrome steel door will be 10 inches in thickness, excluding the thickness of the massive bolt work and will be further reinforced by a heavy inner door, both of which will be fitted with the latest improvement in time locks and automatic devices.

Inside this vault, chrome steel chests will be placed for the separate storage of the cash and securities of the bank.

A separate fireproof book vault will also be provided for the storage of the books and papers of the bank and in the basement additional vaults will be provided for the surplus books and papers.

The second floor will contain a

FIRST NATIONAL BANK, OSWEGO

the finest advantages to its patrons. The front and sides are to be faced with white marble resting on a polished granite base course and the large windows are to have massive frames glazed with polished plate glass.

The banking room will be free from columns, with a clear height of 20 feet, and is to be finished with mahogany cabinet work, marble paneling and counters and United States standard banking screens, also with ornamental plastering and painted decorations. The president's and cashier's rooms will be readily accessible number of handsomely fitted business offices with all the usual fittings, equal to any offices in the city.

The contracts provide that the old bank building is to be demolished beginning on May 1, and on this space together with an adjoining strip of 12 feet in width the new bank building is to be erected and completed during the early fall months.

The new building and vaults will be erected under the supervision of the Architects, Mowbray & Uffinger, of New York city; the erection of the building being in the hands of the R. H. Howes construction company.

VOLNEY CENTER

Mrs. Mary Mason entertained the L. A. S. last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Maude Simpson was the guest of her son, Robert Simpson, in Syracuse last week.

Mr. Cornish and family of Buffalo have moved onto Mr. Atwater's farm.

Mr. Atwater and son, William, have moved into Mr. Crandall's house.

Mrs. Holden was called to Mexico Saturday by the illness of her mother.

The teachers of Fulton High held a dancing party in the Town Hall on Friday evening.

Some of our neighbors attended the dinner at the Grange Saturday.

Oria and Floyd Austin were the over-Sunday guests of their father.

The funeral of Robert Youngs was held from his home in Palermo on Monday; burial at Volney.

Dr. Wiley, the food expert, says if people abstain from eating meat it will change the dispositions of the entire nation within four or five million years.

Wasted Effort.

At a fire recently a brave fireman came gasping and panting from the burning building with his beard and eyebrows singed in the flames. Under one arm he carried a small but heavy box, which he deposited in a place of safety with the air of a man who had saved a box of government bonds from destruction. On opening the box it was found to contain six bottles of a new patent fire extinguisher.—Argonaut.

An African Task Story.

A certain man had a most beautiful daughter who was beset by many suitors. But as soon as they were told that the sole condition on which they could obtain her was to take out a brook with a groundout shell (about half the size of a walnut shell) they always walked away in disappointment. However, at last one took heart of grace and began the task. He obtained the beauty, for the father said, "He who undertakes what he says will do it."—Burton's "Negro Writ and Wisdom."

LOCAL ITEMS

Mr. O. Corey of the American express office is confined to his home by illness.

Miss Eva Morley has returned to her home in Kingston, Cal., after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. F. W. George.

Fulton's share of the first installment of State school moneys received by County Treasurer Moore is $2,912.90.

Mrs. M. J. Hornbrook was made a surprise visit by members of Zion church on Monday, the occasion being Mrs. Hornbrook's 71st birthday.

The unexpected guests brought refreshments with them and a tea was enjoyed at 6 o'clock.

Spring has certainly arrived, although appearances would not warrant one in the belief, nor would the temperature woo one into shedding one's winter flannels as yet. Nevertheless Mr. John Hunter heard a robin sing on Tuesday morning and Messrs John J. Little and Charles H. Brooks saw two feathery beauties as they were enroute to their places of business on Tuesday morning.

A Matter of Punctuation. The following literary effusion is not ungrammatical. Its peculiarity lies in a lack of punctuation. Moreover, it contains the word "that" repeated five times in succession:

That man wrote that are correct to say that that that that man wrote is correct is incorrect these are correct is correct.

The paragraph should read: That man wrote, "That are correct." To say that that "that" that man wrote is correct is incorrect. "These are correct" is correct.

He Took the Hint. "Do you believe in hypnotism?" he asked as he looked intently into her great brown eyes.

"I must," she answered, with all the gravity she could summon. "I know that you are going to kiss me, but I am powerless to protest."

VILLAGE OF HERKIMER FLOODED

The Mohawk River Has Risen 15 Feet Causing Most Severe Flood in History of That Section.

HUNDREDS DRIVEN FROM HOMES

Utica, March 2.—The Mohawk Valley is in a desperate plight, due to the unprecedented flood raging in that section.

The Mohawk river, which began to rise Sunday morning, following a thaw and rainstorm, and which has continued without interruption, is now far beyond its banks, causing an immense property damage, heavy loss among livestock and driving hundreds of persons from their homes.

The flood is probably the most severe ever experienced in these regions, and if a serious loss of human life is not entailed before the waters subside it will be close to Providential.

The Mohawk river, fed by dozens of swollen streams, has risen nearly 15 feet in 24 hours, and the rise continues today without cessation. No relief is in sight, for the mild temperature continues to melt the mountains of snow and ice in the Adirondacks and in the Mohawk valley, and each hour adds to the property loss and the distress of thousands of flood victims.

Perhaps the most desperate conditions today prevail in the village of Herkimer, 15 miles east of Utica. Three hundreds of homes were abandoned to the flood during the night. The occupants were rescued in rowboats and on rafts.

In some sections of Herkimer the water is eight feet deep in the highways. Families have moved into the upper stories of their homes which they may have to abandon later, for the waters in many cases have already flooded the second floors. Practically all the manufacturing plants in Herkimer are shut down today, as their boiler rooms are under water.

Water stands on the New York Central tracks at Herkimer to a depth of several feet and trains are being sent around over the West Shore tracks at that point.

President Grogan of the village of Herkimer has sent a message to Governor Hughes stating that four-fifths of the town was under water and appealing for aid.

The villages of Ilion, Frankfort, St. Johnsville and Fort Plain are among the other places experiencing severe flood conditions today.

Select.

Once when passing through a cemetery in Lenox Elliot Gregory was surprised to see that the members of one old New England family had been buried in a circle, with their feet toward its center. He asked the reason for this arrangement, and a wit of that day, daughter of Mrs. Stowe, replied, "So that when they rise at the last day only members of their own family may face them!"

Lightning.

Lightning appears in three forms—slazag and sharply defined at the edges. In sheets of light, illuminating a whole cloud, which seems to open and reveal the light within it, and in the form of fire balls. The duration of the first two kinds scarcely continues the thousandth part of a second, but the globular lightning moves much more slowly, remaining visible for several seconds.

Preparing for the Future. In order that she may be guided by his gentle influence in the future Mrs. Lysander John Appleton has had her husband's name inscribed on a photograph.

"Make that go as far as you can." After he is gone and she is a widow she will have the photograph repeat this record to her whenever she starts downtown to spend as much as a dime.

AUXILIARY ASSOCIATION

Annual Report Submitted. Work of Committee Commended--Treasurer's Report.

Sixth annual report of the secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Fulton Hospital, March 3, 1910. During the year two special and twelve regular meetings have been held. The average attendance at regular meetings has been twenty-two, and the largest number present at any one was thirty.

It is with sorrow and regret that we have to chronicle the death of one of our members, Mrs. Thomas Hunter, who was elected to the office of president, April 1st. She had always been interested in the hospital and this year kindly consented to take the office, a work which she was not permitted to perform as her life was suddenly terminated a week later.

The work of the Auxiliary has been the same as that of the past five years; namely, to supply the hospital with the household necessities.

The entertainment committee has done much to help the Auxiliary and we feel that they deserve a great deal of praise. The following are some of the committee's successful efforts:

The annual supper held in the city hall, May 29th, was generously patronized by the public.

The ball game, in July, between the Fulton city officials and the Oswego officials was a great success and brought $33.75 into the treasury.

Tag day was held Aug. 18th. Although the proceeds were not so large as the previous year, a considerable amount was added to the hospital funds.

In October the Odd Fellows donated the gate receipts of one night of their fair and quite a sum was realized.

At the Thanksgiving donation a generous public remembered us liberally.

The one entirely new departure from the other regular, tried methods for raising funds has been the endless chain parties. It is hoped that the women of the city, interested in the welfare of the hospital, will continue these parties throughout the year, thus adding links to the chain and dollars to the treasury.

During each month of the year the basket committee has assisted materially to supply the table of the hospital.

A pin was given to Miss May Wells the nurse who graduated in February. This is the fourth pin presented by the Auxiliary.

The interest in the work has not only been sustained throughout the year but has grown with the gift to the city of a new and beautiful hospital building by Mrs. Victorine L. Lee, in memory of her husband, General Albert Lindley Lee. A new hospital was very much needed and Mrs. Lee's generous gift is most fully and gratefully appreciated.

At the close of the year, the Hospital Association, desiring a closer relation between the Auxiliary and the Association, requested that a committee be appointed to confer with them in regard to the work of the coming year.

The ladies of the Auxiliary are busily planning great things for 1910, for with the larger building will come larger opportunities for work for the Auxiliary.

Mrs. E. E. Morrill, Recording Secretary.

The annual meeting of the Pathfinder Boat Club was held on Tuesday evening. Messrs. N. H. Gilbert and T. H. Webb were re-elected to membership on the Board of Directors. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were heard and a resolution was passed authorizing the payment to the secretary of 5 per cent. of all the dues collected by him.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors Dr. H. L. Lake was elected commodore, A. L. Rice secretary and C. F. Hall treasurer. The election of president and vice-president was postponed until the next meeting of the board.

PROGRESS KNITTING MILLS

The Chamber of Commerce is laboring diligently to secure the necessary $2,500 with which to purchase the Freeman Boat factory and they are reasonably sure that success will attend their efforts to locate the Progress Knitting Mills Company in this city. The company is incorporated for $125,000 and is at present making up a line of samples of women's knit underwear in the Monarch Knitting Company's plant.

The directors of the company are: W. H. Spanwick and E. W. Richardson of Fulton, C. A. Lueder of Phoenix, J. M. Fretz of Wilmington, Del., and F. E. Fairchild of Sherburne, now a resident of Fulton.

The management of the company is in the hands of W. H. Spanwick, assisted by F. E. Fairchild, a practical knitting mill superintendent. Immediately following the announcement that Roosevelt would return home in June, Congress began preparing to get ready to adjourn in May. Some times even Congress knows when to quit.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Reports of Committees Submitted and Adopted--Chief of Police Ross Presents Some Startling Facts.

Brief mention was made last week of the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce held in the City Hall on Tuesday evening. It was one of the most inspiring meetings ever held by that body and frequent comment has been heard of the excellent beginning made under the presidency of Mr. E. J. Penfield. Twenty new applications for membership were made and there is already another list to be passed upon at the next meeting.

Mr. W. A. Butts, chairman of the soliciting committee for the securing of the funds necessary to purchase the Freeman Boat factory, reported over $800 already pledged and the prospects bright for the securing of the balance.

Mr. F. E. McCormick, superintendent of the R. W. & O. division of the New York Central railroad, gave an interesting talk upon the relation of the railroads to communities and the New York central to Fulton, in particular, expressing his company's willing cooperation in Fulton's interests and advancement.

President F. W. Richardson of the Boost club spoke on the cleaning-up proposition and emphasized the fact that the Boost club stood primarily and all the time for the promotion of civic pride.

Treasurer W. J. Lovejoy of the Savings bank gave very convincing facts and figures relative to Fulton's banking facilities, announcing that local banking institutions have deposits amounting at present to over $2500,000.

Mr. W. H. Patterson gave a talk upon the commercial growth of Fulton.

Mr. H. L. Paddock spoke convincingly upon the swing bridge proposition for the barge canal, as advocated by Syracuse interests. At the conclusion of Mr. Paddock's remarks, the chair appointed as a committee to investigate the matter, Messrs. H. L. Paddock, N. L. Whitaker, W. J. Lovejoy, William Hunter and A. T. Jennings.

Chief of Police Ross presented a paper which we reproduce as it gives startling connected with his department, not known to the average citizen.

"When the president of the Chamber of Commerce asked me to talk to-night about the Police department of Fulton I felt that in so doing I would be out of my province. The head of a police force should be a better listener than talker and I am no exception to the rule. "But I feel it my duty to yield to President Penfield's request for the sake of the department which I represent so that I may give you some idea of the work of the force and point out the difficulties under which we labor.

"In June, 1902, when the Police department was organized with six patrolmen and the chief, there were not more than five foreigners in Fulton. To-day it is estimated that the population of the city numbers about 11,000 Americans or English-speaking people and about 1,500 foreigners.

"What this increase in the foreign element of our population means to the police force and how greatly the work of the force is increased by reason of this foreign population may be discovered by a perusal of the report of the department for the month of February just past. During February there were 28 arrests, 13 of which were Americans and 15 foreigners. From these figures you may compute that there was a percentage of 1 3-11 arrests to the thousand of the American population and 10 arrests to the thousand of the foreign population. Again, let it be remembered that in 1903, the first full year of the police department, there were 221 arrests while in 1909 the total was 412.

"Now, against this increase in population and work we find that the Police department was augmented in 1905 by the addition of one patrolman and in 1906 by one more, giving us a force of men which it is necessary for us to detail thus: three men for day service, six for service between the hours of 7 and 10 in the evening and four for the remainder of the night, and this service, mind you, in the business section of the town, it being impossible with our limited

TELEGRAPH-LETTER SERVICE

A Fifty-word Telegram to a Distant City Costs Only the Price of an Ordinary Telegram Message of Ten Words.

A most important and beneficent ruling, established by the telegraph and telephone companies, went into effect on Monday, March 7, at midnight. It has long been a plan of telegraph company officials to operate, if possible, a joint system of the telegraph and telephone accommodations, and thereby, if possible, reduce the expense of long distance messages and bring the present expensive methods of communication within the means of humble pocketbooks.

The installation of a so-called telegraph letter service has been established by which any one may send a fifty-word telegram, after 5 o'clock and before 12 o'clock at night, for the same amount paid for an ordinary long distance telegram. For an additional ten words or less, one-fifth of the present day rate will be charged extra. As soon as the work of the business day is over the telegraph letters, which may have been coming in and accumulating all day, are telegraphed to the office at the destination, and delivered with the first morning mail to the addressee. Although the plan has not been evolved in full, the telephone accommodations will be used in transmitting such messages in cases where needed. In order to insure a prompt delivery by wire the telegraph letter must be received before midnight, and must contain only plain English words. Code messages will not be received.

The recently affiliated American Telephone and Telegraph Company and Western Union has evolved the plan. Thus, instead of paying 35 for a three-minute talk with some one in Chicago, a telephone subscriber pays only the price of a telegram message, in this case 50 cents for ten words or less. Although he may live at a distance from the telegraph station, it costs him nothing to get the Western Union or Postal office on the wire and communicate his message, together with the name and address of the person to whom he wishes it delivered.

MAILING CLERKS EXAMINED

Severe Test Presented by an Expert From the R. P. O. Service.

Mailing clerks in the local post-office were compelled last week to submit to a most severe test of examination. This was a test conducted by J. W. Landis, Esq., a Railway Postal Service expert from the office of Superintendent Bradley of the Railway Mail service. In order that our readers may have some idea of the intricacies of the system, the State of New York is divided into three sections--A, B and C. Cards with the names of towns on are given to the clerks to be examined, and with a miniature "case" before them, they are required to "throw" the cards into the proper compartments, just as if they were letters. Expedition and accuracy are prime requisites. That the local clerks made a most creditable showing the following report, signed by Mr. Landis, fully testifies. In fact it was not thought possible to surpass the exhibit, so nearly perfect had it become.

Leo H. Perkins handled 1023 cards, seven were misthrown, 1016 were correct; 99.31 per cent was maintained; time consumed, 52 minutes; 17 cards were thrown correct per minute.

F. L. Jennings handled 1946 cards; of these 939 were thrown correct in one hour and two minutes; 95.52 per cent standing to his credit.

F. L. James also handled 1046 cards; throwing 1029 correct in one hour, receiving a credit of 98.37 per cent.

Mr. Landis was extremely well pleased with the result.

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK BILL

The Postal Savings Depositors bill, introduced by Senator Carter, from the committee on Post Office and Post Roads, passed the United States Senate on Saturday by a vote of 50 to 23. Senator Root made an earnest appeal for the adoption of the measure on Friday, and an amendment offered by Senator Smoot, acceptable to Senator Carter, practically insured the constitutionality and the passage of the bill. Senator Smoot's amendment was as follows:

"When, in the judgment of the President, war or any other exigency involving the credit of the government requires, the board of trustees may withdraw all or any part of said funds from the banks and invest the same in bonds or other securities of the United States; provided, that no part of said funds shall in any event be invested in bonds or other security bearing interest at less than 2 1/2 per centum per annum."

The bill is now in possession of the House of Representatives, awaiting adjournment. When the measure becomes a law it is estimated that it will bring money out of hiding and result to a fund ranging all the way from $200,000,000 to $1,000,000,000.

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB

No Abatement of Interest--Good Program Presented

The attendance at the session of the Current Events Club on Monday evening, at the home of the Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Sawtelle, was conclusive evidence that there is no abatement of interest in the meetings. The leaders for the evening were Prof. M. M. Dodge, the Rev. Charles Olmsted of the Congregational church and Prof. Fairgrieve.

Among the routine business was the report of the committee on Lecture Course, which was held open for further consideration at the next meeting.

The presentation of the program for the evening included a most interesting and instructive discourse by the Rev. Charles Olmsted on Halley's Comet. Prof. Dodge's epitome of current events followed, and Prof. Fairgrieve gave a rather amusing description of a trip to Maine last summer.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mr. Thomas Hunter on Monday evening, March 21, when the following subject will be presented for debate:

Resolved, That the income tax should be adopted.

Mr. F. D. Van Wagenen will take the affirmative side of the question and the Rev. J. G. Yorke will champion the negative side.

PICTURESQUE FRANK PLATT

Former United States Senator Thomas Collier Platt, Republican leader of the State of New York for a score of years and intensely interested in the Republican party from its organization in 1856, died unexpectedly on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in his apartments at No. 133 West Eleventh street, New York. He would have been 77 years old if he had lived until next July 15th. The direct cause of Mr. Platt's death was acute Bright's disease.

For a number of years he had suffered with a palsy of the legs which necessitated his occupying a wheel chair most of the time.

Last Wednesday Mr. Platt took a slight cold, and while he did not exactly sink, he seemed to feel that he should remain at home. He had no idea that he was to die.

Sunday mornings, for a number of years, had been given over to a reception of his sons and their wives and his immediate friends, and so on Sunday morning Frank H. Platt and his wife, Edward T. Platt and his wife, and Harry, whose wife died several years ago, visited Mr. Platt and chatted with him, and he never appeared to be in brighter spirits to them, until about 1 o'clock in the afternoon, when they noticed a change in their father's condition.

Dr. Outerbridge was quickly summoned and the doctor, speaking after Mr. Platt's death said it was apparent to him that the Senator could not repeat his recovery of May 28th last, and Mr. Platt's children were so informed. Mr. Platt was up and dressed at the time. He was put to bed, and at 4 o'clock he died without a murmur and without recognizing any of those about his deathbed.

The body was taken to Mr. Platt's old home in Oswego, N. Y., on Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services will be held in the Presbyterian church this Wednesday and will be attended by the New York delegation in Congress; a committee from the State Legislature; the Republican State committee, and hundreds of personal friends of the dead politician. Just before the body was taken to the train on Tuesday a prayer service was held at the home of Frank H. Platt on West Seventy-fourth street. It was attended only by the members of the family. Up to the time this service was started the public was permitted to view the body and hundreds who knew the old leader in life availed themselves of the opportunity.

The pall bearers will be William A. Smythe, Frank M. Baker, Edward Griggs, J. S. Fassett, John Dwight, Clarence H. Crosby, Benjamin F. Tracey and Timothy J. Woodruff.

WILL OF HORATIO BONNER

The will of Horatio Bonner, late of Orwell, filed for probate bequeathes an estate of $600 personal. His sister Mary Hunter, of Sandy Creek, and a brother, Edward G. Bonner, of Orwell, receive $100 each and the balance is given to other relatives.

BOOST CLUB PUSHING MATTERS

Important Meeting Held on Wednesday Evening--Various Subjects Presented and Discussed.

The "boost" meeting of the Boost club, held in the City Hall on Wednesday evening, was attended by a large number and considerable interest was manifested in the numerous addresses and suggestions from interested members.

A discussion relative to the sprinkling of the streets with oil or some kindred substance rather than water was indulged in, all view points being freely presented, with the result that Secretary Hornbrook was instructed to address a communication to the Board of Public Works suggesting that they investigate the relative merits and costs of sprinkling.

The Parks and Play Grounds Committee reported through President Richardson that the matter was receiving considerable attention and that the future result would be to the advantage of Fulton. A west side park is under consideration. It was decided to have the city park and never utilized for that purpose. The laying out of this park will be included in the work of the club's committee.

Mayor Connors, who is chairman of the Illumination Committee, reported that good progress had been made in the matter of illumination and that as soon as the heavy blasting work that the cluster lights on the lower bridge would be placed in commission and one source of complaint removed.

The Clean-up Committee will probably call for action early in April, or sooner if the weather should prove propitious.

The cards and envelopes booming Fulton will be placed on sale in a short time and a liberal circulation of these mediums is expected.

This Wednesday evening the Celebration Committee will take up the subject of an Independence Day celebration.

A luncheon served by Chef J. W. Youngs was enjoyed by the Boosters and their friends at the adjournment of the formal meeting.

DID NOT ANNOUNCE CANDIDACY

A daily paper on Tuesday made the statement that Mr. L. W. Mott of Oswego had announced his candidacy for the office of Congressman to succeed the Hon. C. L. Kapp. On Tuesday evening Mr. L. W. Mott emphatically declared that he had not announced his candidacy although he was giving the matter some consideration and that he might have an announcement of interest to make in 1912.

POSTAL SAVINGS DEPOSITORIES

Measure Adopted by the Senate and Returned to the House of Representatives. --Full Text of the Bill With Amendments.

A Bill to establish postal savings depositories for depositing savings at interest with the security of the Government for repayment thereof, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That there be, and is hereby, established a system of postal savings depositories under the supervision and direction of a board of trustees, which board shall consist of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Postmaster-General, and the Attorney-General, acting ex officio. All regulations for the receipt, transmission, custody, investment, and repayment of moneys deposited at postal savings depositories shall be prescribed by said board of trustees, and any general regulation prescribed by the Postmaster-General under authority of this act shall be subject to the approval of said board. Said board shall report to Congress at the beginning of each regular session their transactions under the provisions of this act, including a statement showing the number of post-offices receiving deposits of postal savings in each State and Territory, the aggregate amount of deposits made therein, the aggregate of withdrawals therefrom, the amount of interest paid to depositors, and the amount of extra expense incident to the system of postal savings, and all other facts and recommendations which they may deem pertinent and proper to present.

Sec. 2. That every post-office within the United States which is authorized to issue money orders, and such others as the Postmaster-General in his discretion may from time to time designate, are hereby declared to be postal savings depository offices to receive deposits from the public and to account for and dispose of the same according to this act. Every postal savings depository office shall be kept open for the transaction of business every day (Sundays and legal holidays excepted) during the usual post-office business hours of the town or locality where such depository is located, and between such additional specific hours as the Postmaster-General may direct: Provided, That the Postmaster-General may, if he deems it necessary or more practical, establish at first postal saving depositories only at the money-order offices of the first, second, and third classes, and thereafter extend the system as rapidly as practicable to all other post-offices specified above.

Sec. 3. That accounts may be opened and deposits made in any postal savings depository established under this act by any person of the age of ten years or over, in his or her own name, and by a married woman in her own name and free from any control or interference by her husband; but no person shall simultaneously have more than one postal savings account.

Sec. 4. That the postmaster at a postal savings depository shall upon the making of an application to open an account under this act and the submission of an initial deposit, deliver to the depositor a pass book upon which shall be written the name and signature or mark of the depositor and such other memoranda as may be necessary for purposes of identification, in which pass book entries of all deposits shall be made:

Provided, That the Postmaster-General may, with the approval of the board of trustees, adopt some other device in lieu of a pass book as a means of making and preserving evidence of deposits.

Sec. 5. That at least one dollar, or a larger amount in multiples thereof, must be deposited before an account is open with the person depositing the same, and one dollar, or multiple thereof, may be deposited after such account has been opened, but no one shall be permitted to deposit more than one hundred dollars in any one calendar month: Provided, That in order that smaller amounts may be accumulated for deposit any person may purchase from any depository office for ten cents a postal savings card to which may be attached specially prepared adhesive stamps to be known as "postal savings stamps," and when the stamps so attached amount to one dollar, or a larger sum in multiples thereof, including the ten-cent postal savings card, the same may be presented as a deposit for opening an account, and additions may be made to any account by means of such card and stamps in amounts of one dollar, or multiples thereof, and when a card and stamp thereto attached are redeemed by any postmaster he shall immediately cancel the same. It is hereby made the duty of the Postmaster-General to prepare such postal savings cards and postal savings stamps of denominations of ten cents, and to keep them on sale at every postal savings depository office, and to prescribe all necessary rules and regulations for the issue, sale and cancellation thereof.

Sec. 6. That interest at the rate of two per centum per annum shall be allowed and entered to the credit of each depositor once in each year, the same to be computed on such basis and under such rules and regulations as the board of trustees may prescribe; but interest shall not be computed or allowed on any amount less than one dollar, or some multiple thereof: Provided, That the balance to the credit of any one person shall never be allowed to exceed five hundred dollars, exclusive of accumulated interest.

Sec. 7. That any depositor may withdraw the whole or any part of the funds deposited to his or her credit, with the accrued interest, after complying with such regulations as the board of trustees may prescribe. No bank in which postal savings funds shall be deposited shall receive any exchange or other fees or compensation on account of the cashing or collection of any checks or the performance of any other service in connection with the postal savings depository system.

Sec. 8. That postal savings funds received under the provisions of this act shall be deposited in any solvent bank or banks, whether organized under national or state law, being subject to national or State supervision and examination, and doing business in the city, town, or village in which the post-office is situated, at a rate of interest not less than 2 1/2 per centum per annum, nor more than is reasonably sufficient to meet the expenses and interest charges of the system herein established, and which rate shall be uniform throughout the several States and Territories. If there is more than one such bank in any city, town, or village willing to take such deposits upon the terms provided for herein, the same shall be divided among them substantially according to their capital and surplus. If no one of such banks in any such city, town, or village is willing to accept the deposits upon such terms, or if there be no bank or banks therein, or if the postoffice at which the funds are received is not in a city, town or village, then the deposits shall be made in a solvent bank or banks, subject to the supervision and examination of the State or Territory in which the post-office is situated, giving preference to those that are in the same general community as the post office receiving funds. The board of trustees shall take from such bank or banks such indemnity bonds as the board may prescribe, approve, and deem sufficient and necessary to insure the safety and prompt repayment of such deposits on demand. At its option any bank may deposit collateral security in lieu of an indemnity bond, such collateral to be subject to the approval of said board. If such bank or banks refuse to receive such deposits on the terms prescribed, said funds may be deposited with the Treasurer of the United States, who shall be the treasurer of said board, and may be withdrawn from deposit upon their order for the repayment of postal savings deposits, or for investment in bonds or other securities of the United States, or in bonds or other securities in which investment of the funds of savings banks is authorized by the law of the State or Territory in which such deposits were received: Provided, That postal savings funds deposited in any State or Territory in which no provision is made by law governing the investment of savings bank funds may be invested in the same character of securities in such State or Territory as are made the subject of investment of savings bank funds by the laws of the States of New York or California: Provided further, That money deposited in the banks and secured to the satisfaction of the Board of Trustees as herein provided, shall only be withdrawn to pay the depositors and other obligations of the Government under this act, and shall not be withdrawn for investment so long as the banks are willing to retain it and pay the rate of interest prescribed, from time to time, by said Board, which rate shall not be less than 2 1/2 per centum per annum. Interest and profits accruing from the deposits or investment of postal savings funds shall be applied to the payment of expenses of administration authorized by the board of trustees and approved by the Postmaster-General and of interest due to postal savings depositors as herein before provided, and to the excess thereof, if any, shall be covered into the Treasury as part of the postal revenues: Provided, That in the Treasury or with the Treasurer of the United States postal savings funds shall be subject to disposition as provided in this act and not otherwise. For the purposes of this act the word "Territory," as used herein, shall be held to include the District of Columbia, the district of Alaska, Porto Rico, and the Panama Canal Zone.

Sec. 9. That postal savings depository funds shall be kept separate from other funds by postmasters and other officers and employees of the postal service, who shall be held to the same accountability under their bonds for such funds as for public moneys; and no person connected with the Post-Office Department shall disclose to any person other than the depositor the amount of any deposit, unless directed so to do by the Postmaster-General. All statutes relating to the safe-keeping of and proper accounting for public moneys are made applicable to such funds, and the Postmaster-General may require postmasters, assistant postmasters, and clerks at postal savings depositories to give any additional bond he may deem necessary.

Sec. 10. That additional compensation shall be allowed postmasters at post-offices of the fourth class for the transaction of postal savings depository business. Such compensation shall be at not to exceed one-fourth of one per centum on the average sum upon which interest is paid each calendar year on receipts at such post office and shall be paid from the postal revenues; but postmasters, assistant postmasters, and clerks at post-offices of the presidential grade shall not receive any additional compensation for such service.

Sec. 11. That the sum of one hundred thousand dollars is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to enable the Postmaster-General and the board of trustees to establish a system of postal savings depositories in accordance with the provisions of this act; and the Postmaster-General is authorized to require postmasters and other postal officers and employees to transact, in connection with their other duties, such postal savings depository business as may be necessary; and he is also authorized to make, and with the approval of the board of trustees to promulgate and from time to time to modify or revoke, such rules and regulations not in conflict with law as he may deem necessary to carry the provisions of this act into effect.

Sec. 12. That postal savings depository funds are hereby declared to be entitled to all the safeguards provided by law for the protection of public moneys, and all statutes relating to the embezzlement, conversion, improper handling, retention, use, or disposal of postal and money-order funds, and the punishments provided for such offenses are hereby extended and made applicable to postal savings depository funds, and all statutes relating to false returns of postal and money-order business, the forgery, counterfeiting, alteration, improper use or handling of postal and money-order blanks, forms, vouchers, accounts, and records, and the dies, plates, and engravings therefor, with the penalties provided in such statutes, are hereby extended and made applicable to postal savings depository business, and the forgery, counterfeiting, alteration, improper use or handling of postal savings depository blanks, forms, vouchers, accounts, and records, and the dies, plates, and engravings therefor.

Sec. 13. That this act shall take effect on the first day of the third calendar month after its approval.

The soothing spray of Ely's Liquid Cream Balm, used in an atomizer, is an unspeakable relief to sufferers from Catarrh. Some of them describe it as a Godsend, and no wonder. The thick, foul discharge is dislodged and the patient breathes freely, perhaps for the first time in weeks. Liquid Cream Balm contains all the healing, purifying elements of the solid form, and it never fails to satisfy. Sold by all druggists for 75c, including spraying tube, or mailed by Ely Bros., 55 Warren Street, New York.

How Tommy Escaped. At breakfast restless little Tommy began to play with the crust stand. His father told him not to do so. He persisted and at last upset it and spilled the pepper on the tablecloth. His father said:

"Now, Tommy, you were disobedient and upset the pepper crust, and I really ought to make the punishment fit the crime by putting some of the pepper on your tongue."

Tommy looked up like a flash and asked:

"Would I be punished the same, dad, if I upset the soup?"

Fully nine out of every ten cases of rheumatism is simply rheumatism of the muscles due to cold or damp, or chronic rheumatism, neither of which require any internal treatment. ### WORTH REPRINTING

In view of the home coming for the sons of Erin this Spring, and the proximity of St. Patrick's day, the following poem, clipped from the Syracuse Herald, seems singularly appropriate. It is touching too, as it breathes the longing that never leaves the heart of the true Irish man, though far he may roam, for the sights, scenes and tunes of his own country. Many an one will find his foot keeping time to "The wearing of the green," as he peruses the following lines:

"The Lilt Av The Gaelic Tongue."

I am sick at heart av the ragtime lays
As sung by the crinkly coon;
I am sad and sore av the Scotchman's praise
Av the banks av the bonnie Doon,
And the Switzer yodel with silvery chime.

No matter how sweetly sung;
I long for a song av the olden time
With a lilt av the Gaelic tongue.
A song that will stir the exile's life
With things he will understand;
As the gauger's fight in the darksome night
And the squire and the Rapparees band;
Or the little shop where the pikea were forged
And the anvil nightly rung
In pleasant tune with the harvest moon

To the lilt av the Gaelic tongue.
A song av the hard won hurling match
That we sang at the shebeen door,
When the scollops burst from the binding thatch
And the potters streamed on the floor,
A song av the hills and fields and lanes
Where we sauntered when we were young;
And our souls found voice in a glad refrain.

To the lilt av the Gaelic tongue.
A song av the ship and the stormy sea
That carried us far from home
And the friends whose grave was an ocean wave
That was marked by a sun-flecked foam.

FOR DISEASES OF THE SKIN

Nearly all diseases of the skin such as eczema, tetter, salt rheum and barbers' itch, are characterized by an intense itching and smarting, which often makes life a burden and disturbs sleep and rest. Quick relief may be had by applying Chamberlain's Salve. It allays the itching and smarting almost instantly. Many cases have been cured by its use. For sale by E. A. Putnam.

David R. Francis, of Missouri, is a candidate for the Senate. Platform: "I am a Democrat." But he doesn't say which one of the forty-seven varieties.

Headache For Years

"I keep Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills on hand all the time, and would not think of taking a journey without them, no matter how short a distance I am going. I have a sister that has had terrible headaches for years, and I coaxed her to try them and they helped her so much, she now keeps them by her all the time. From my own experience I cannot praise them enough."

MRS. LOU M. CHURCHILL, 63 High St., Penacook, N. H.

Many persons have headache after any little excitement or exertion. They cannot attend church, lectures, entertainments, or ride on trains without suffering. Those who suffer in this way should try Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. They give almost instant relief without leaving any disagreeable after-effects, as they do not derange the stomach or bowels; just a pleasurable sense of relief follows their use. Get a package from your druggist. Take it according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

number of officers to give any residential section patrol service.

"Many citizens have complained because of this lack of patrol of residence sections. Therefore, I take this occasion to remind you of the red light service at the telephone station. If a patrolman is needed at any time of night, if you will first call the Police station, east or west side, and if you get no response request Central to put on the red light, and remain at the phone until the patrolman reaches the phone and learns your needs.

"One particular in which the Fulton department differs from that of any other third class city in New York State is that the local patrolmen are required by provision of the city charter to serve all civil processes issued from the City Court. This duty takes officers from their beats and detracts from the efficiency of the department, the officers being compelled by this charter provision to go to any part of the town, many times leaving the department short-handed in case of emergency in the center of the city where the force is necessarily concentrated for greater efficiency. This civil process work should properly be done by a constable elected or appointed for such purpose, but in order to change the order of things now a revision of the charter would have to be effected.

"One matter I would like to call to your attention which I believe properly belongs to my province to speak of. The foreign population, which has increased upon us so greatly in the last two years, has become a problem to deal with. In the Police department we have kept tabs on this foreign element because of the vast amount of trouble it has caused us, and you need not be surprised that this element is settling in any section of the city wherever there is found a house that can be rented or bought.

"What is the result? Why, every residence section is peppered with this element. A landlord who owns a house which would ordinarily rent for $10 or $12 a month to an American family, rents for $25 to an Italian or Polish family. The head of the foreign household brings in his family and goods and begins to take boarders, from five to twenty-five persons occupying premises which may in no wise be fitted for such congested occupancy. Then, the house of the American next door to the foreign boarding house takes a decided drop in value—in fact, the property values of the whole neighborhood drop in consequence of the invasion of the section by the for-

AN EX-GOVERNOR IN TOWN

On Wednesday evening, March 16, at eight o'clock in the Presbyterian church, Fultonians will have the opportunity of hearing Ex-Governor Glenn of North Carolina. Governor Glenn is in the Empire State for a brief campaign in the interests of the New York Anti-Saloon League, and Fulton is one of the few places in which he is to speak.

Governor Glenn is a direct descendant of Dr. Chalmers of Scotland, and his mother was a granddaughter of Washington Irving. His life has been spent in the midst of events of political interest. In 1880 he was a member of the North Carolina Legislature; was Cleveland Elector in 1892 and 1896; was solicitor for the 9th Judicial District in 1886; was U. S. District Attorney from 1893-1897; was State Senator in 1898, and was elected Governor of North Carolina in 1904, and served until 1909.

In the great temperance work that has been wrought recently in the South, Governor Glenn has been a gigantic figure, and in his official capacity he was largely instrumental in the gratifying results that were wrought out. The Anti-Saloon League of this State has displayed real genius in securing this notable man for even so brief a service in the present campaign for Local Option for Cities that is being waged in our present legislature.

Governor Glenn comes not simply as an advocate of temperance reform, but he represents the highest type of Southern oratory. That art of speaking so widely and justly famous, Ex-Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia, says: "I regard Governor Glenn as one of the most forceful speakers up on the platform in America. He is earnest and logical, yet his speeches abound in a presentation of the human side of life, full of pathos and also of humor. If you hear him once, you will not miss hearing him the second time." Ex-Governor Aycock of North Carolina, says: "I regard Ex-Governor R. B. Glenn as easily one of the most forceful speakers that it has been my privilege to hear. He is a great power on the platform, and wonderfully moves his audience. He attracts and holds crowds in a way rarely attained by public speakers. He commands tears and laughter with equal facility. Every one who can do so ought to hear him."

Superintendent Rev. Dr. James A. Patterson of New York will be on the platform with Governor Glenn, although the principal address at the evening will be given by the governor. The meeting is open to all the people of the community, and the local interest in temperance affairs as they are being urged at Albany should justify the belief that the church will be filled for this interesting address.

DEATHS

Ada, aged 37, wife of Mr. Josiah Lake, died at the home near Battle Island on Thursday. The funeral was held from the late home on Saturday. Interment in Mt. Adnah. Besides the husband, a 3-year old daughter and an infant son survive.

Charities Commissioner Ferguson last week received notification of the death of Albert Van Horn at the County Home in Mexico. The deceased was about 50-years of age and was a former livery stable clerk in this city. He was born in Hannibal and is survived by one son, who resides in Hannibal, and a brother who lives near Lock 1.

STODDARD A SUICIDE

Chena O. Stoddard, aged 56, a former tower boss in the Oswego Falls Pulp & Paper mill, committed suicide on Friday at the home of his half-sister, Mrs. H. Monta, in Buffalo street, by drinking carbolic acid. He had returned from a visit in Meriden the day previous and when he asked for his old position it had been filled in his unexplained absence. He soon commenced drinking and at 4 p. m. on Friday passed over the divide by the carbolic acid route. Mrs. Monta, as soon as she heard the dying man's groans, called Dr. Joy, who labored without avail until 6 p. m., to save his life. The body was taken to Undertaker E. S. Brown's rooms, Coroner Marsh's verdict being that death was caused by acid, self administered. A widow with whom the deceased has not lived in four years, one brother Amos, of Meriden; one sister, Mrs. Halstead, of Jordan, and four half-sisters survive.

The funeral was held on Sunday, Rev. Dr. Cornwell officiating.

SAD DROWNING ACCIDENT

Audley, the nine-year-old son of Ernest Dailey, who runs the cheese factory at Sterling Center, and who is well known throughout the Western section of the country, was drowned in a creek near his home Saturday. The little fellow was sliding down hill and his sleigh carried him into the creek, which was high and deep on account of the thaw.

The mother, who is a daughter of Mrs. Van de Linder of Second street, accompanied by another son, was in Fulton caring for Mrs. Van de Linder, who is ill. A great deal of sympathy is expressed for the afflicted family.

A Washington correspondent says that Cannon wants to conciliate the insurgents, but he neglects to mention whether he wants to do it with an ax or a shot gun.

HIGH WATER PREVAILING

The ice went from the river on Thursday and with very little damage to milling or manufacturing plants and it was thought that the worst had transpired, so far as Fulton was concerned. However the warm days of last week melted the snow very rapidly, with the result that the river rose over three feet in a surprisingly short space of time and its volume carried away the apron dam constructed by the McDermott Contracting company, submerged their coffer dam, and buried their machinery under tons of water, the damage their work has sustained has been tremendous.

The river has been high other years but perhaps never higher than at the present time. A freeze-up was devoutly hoped for and even the slight cessation in liquidation early this week was appreciated by all who had interests along the banks of the river in this locality.

HARKING BACK

Oswego Times, March 5, 1885: Syracuse, Phoenix and Oswego railway is to be built between Syracuse and Oswego. The company was organized a few days since by the following persons who own all the stock and will at once build the road: Max B. Richardson, Hon. E. W. Paige, Hon. Willard Johnson, Judge Avery, E. Merry, H. W. Loomis, Howlett and Ames, Judge Low and George Potts. The board elected Judge Low president, E. Merry vice-president and E. R. Paige treasurer. All business on the East side of the Oswego river will be benefited by this road. Arrangements have been made to connect with the Ontario and Western railroad above Fulton and run on their tracks to Oswego.

The roads leading from Fulton to the rural districts have been in a wretched condition for several days, many of the cross roads being impassable. The rural carriers have had severe endurance tests during this period and in some instances it has been found impossible to cover their entire route. Carrier F. C. Boigee's horse was so injured on the road one day last week as to render it useless for several weeks if it is ever of use again. It is much more difficult for the carriers than for people simply driving to and from town, as they can keep to the road, the carrier having to make the letter boxes posted at different heights along the roadside. From now on for a few weeks the roads will not be greatly improved, it is feared.

Trustees Ask For Judgment Against Selkirk Creameries Association.

A summons and complaint in an action brought by W. Benton Crisp, as trustee, against the Selkirk Creameries Company et al., was served today. The company owns a big plant in Pulaski, and the complaint alleges that they issued $43,000 worth of six per cent. bonds on December 21st, 1908, to run for two years, interest to be paid quarterly. If they defaulted in their interest, it is alleged that the bondholders could demand immediate payment of the principal of the bonds. It is alleged that the company has defaulted in the last three payments and the trustee asks that the plant be sold and the proceeds used to take up this issue of bonds.

When it comes to "New Things" this store is always depended upon for the first authoritative information each season. In a word, the many "New Things" we are ready to show you are correct. The quality is right and so are the prices.

Spring Suits and Coats

No one can or would deny the charm of distinctive dress. A striking costume may be elegant in simplicity or rich in elaboration, yet it will attract admiration if it be a "distinctive" creation. Our tailored garments are produced with the greatest care. Our modes are exclusive and beautiful and what is especially important, our prices are very reasonable.

Suits $15.00

Your Easter Gloves

Important that they be just right. The wrong glove will spoil the most beautiful Easter toilette. Don't put up with a poor fit when you can get the perfection of fit in our gloves. Don't resignedly accept what you don't want when the kind you do want is undoubtedly among the great variety we carry at

$1.00 and $1.50

New Cotton

The cotton dress fabrics are always one of the strong features of our store. This spring they are more fascinating than ever! Never before have designers brought forth such clever patterns, such dainty colorings, everything that's good in the world of cotton is here, be it the staples with which you are familiar or the new things which have come with 1910.

SYNOPSIS

Chapter I—Truxton King arrives in Edelweiss, capital of Graustark, and meets the beautiful niece of Spantz, a gunmaker. II—King does a favor for Prince Robin, the young ruler of the country, whose guardian is John Tullis, an American. III—Baron Dangloss, minister of police, interviews King and warns him against Olga, the gunmaker's niece. IV—King invades the royal park, meets the prince and is presented to the lad's fascinating Aunt Lorraine.

"Dangloss suspects more than one of us," ventured Brutus, his gaze traveling toward Olga. There was a low admiration in that steady glance. "But we'll fool the old fox. The time will soon be here for the blow that frees Graustark from the yoke."

It appeared in the course of his remarks that Marx had friends and supporters in all parts of Graustark. Hundreds of men in the hills, including honest shepherds and the dishonest brigands who thrived on them, coal miners and wood stealers, hunters and outlaws were ready to do his bidding when the time was ripe. Moreover, Marx had been successful in his design to fill the railway construction crews with the riffraff of all Europe, all of whom were under the control of leaders who could sway them in any movement provided it was against law and order.

With a cunning that commands admiration, the Iron Count deliberately sanctioned the assassination of the little prince of the reds, knowing that the condemnation of the world would fall upon them instead of upon him and that his own actions following the regicide would at once stamp him as irrevocably opposed to anarchy and all of its practical.

In the course of his remarks Peter Brutus touched hastily upon the subject of the little prince.

"He's not very big," said he, with a laugh, "and it won't require a very big bomb to blow him to smithereens. He will."

"Stop!" cried Olga Platanova, springing to her feet. "I cannot listen to you! You shall not speak of it in that way! Peter Brutus, you are not to speak of what I am to do! Never—never again."

"STOP!" CRIED OLGA PLATANOVA. "YOU SHALL NOT SPEAK OF IT IN THAT WAY!"

She shuddered violently as she stood there before them, her eyes closed as if to shut out the horrible picture her mind was painting.

"She will bungle it," sneered Anna Cromer.

Olga's lids were lifted. Her dark eyes looked straight into those of the older woman.

"No," she said quietly, her body relaxing. "I shall not bungle it."

The discussion went back to Truxton King. "Isn't it possible that he is merely attracted by the beauty of our charming young friend here?" ventured Mrs. Dronvask.

"It is part of his game," said Julius Spantz. "He knows Olga's past. He is waiting for a chance to catch her off her guard. He may even go so far as to make pretty love to you, cousin, in the hope that—No offense, my dear, no offense!" Her look had silenced him.

"Mr. King is not a spy," she said steadily.

"Well," said William Spantz, "we are safe if we take no chances with him. He must be watched all the time. If we discover that he is what some of us think he is there is a way to end his usefulness. Now, Brutus, what does Count Marx say to this day two weeks? Will he be ready? On that day the prince and the court are to witness the unveiling of the Yefire memorial statue in the plaza. It is a full holiday in Graustark. No man will be employed at his usual task, and—"

Brutus interrupted him. "That is the very day that the count has asked me to submit to the committee. He believes it to be the day of all days. Nothing about it, go home. We conquer with a single blow. By noon of that day, the 26th of July, the committee of ten will be in control of the state; the new regime will be at hand. A new world will be begun, with Edelweiss as the center, about which all the rest shall revolve. We, the committee of ten, will be its true founders. We shall be glorified forever. The death of the prince is the signal for the overthrow of the present government and the establishment of the new order of equal humanity."

Up in the distant hills slept the Iron Count, dreaming of the day when he should rule over the new Graustark; he would rule a new Graustark, a world ruled by a smile on his grimed face in reflection of recent-walking thoughts concerning the punishment that should fall swiftly upon the assassin of the beloved Prince Robin. He would make short shrift of assassins!

CHAPTER VI

INGOMED THE BEAUTIFUL

A LIGHT, chilling drizzle had been falling all evening, pattering softly upon the roof of leaves that covered the sidewalks along Castle avenue.

Almost in the center of the imposing line of painted residences stood the home of the Duke of Perse, minister of finance, flanked on either side by structures as grim and as gay as itself, yet far less significant in their generation. Here dwelt the most important man in the principality, not excepting the devoted prime minister himself. Not that Perse was so well beloved, but that he held the destinies of the land in his delicate fingers. More than that, he was the father of the famous Countess Marianne, the most glorious beauty at the Austrian and Russian courts. She had gone forth from Graustark as its most notable bride since the wedding day of the Princess Verive, late in the nineties. Ingomede, the beautiful, had journeyed far to the hymeneal altar. The husband who claimed her was a hated, dishonored man in his own land. There were those who went so far as to say that her father had delivered her into the hands of a latter day Bluebeard, who whisked her off into the highlands, many leagues from Vienna.

She was seen no more in the gay courts for a year. Then of a sudden she appeared before them all, as dazzlingly beautiful as ever, but with a haunting, wistful look in her dark eyes that could not be mistaken. The old count found an uneasy delight in exalting her to the world once more, plainly as a bit of property that all men were expected to look upon with envy in their hearts.

Then the Duke of Perse resumed his residence in Edelweiss, opening the old place once more to the world. His daughter, after the death of the princess, began her extended visits to the home of her girlhood. So long as the princess was alive she remained away from Edelweiss, reluctant to meet the friend who had banished her husband long before the wedding day in Budapest. Now she came frequently and stayed for weeks at a time, apparently happy during these escapes from life in the great capitals.

Of late she came more frequently to Edelweiss than before. John Tullis was always to remember the moment when he looked upon this exquisite creature for the first time. That was months ago. After that he never ceased being a secret, silent worshiper at her transient shrine.

Ten o'clock, on this rainy night a carriage has drawn up before the lower gates to the Perse grounds, and a tall, slender figure leaves it to hurry through the shrub lined walks to the massive doors.

Tullis had long since ceased to be a welcome visitor in the home of the Duke of Perse. The men were openly unfriendly to each other. The duke resented the cool interference of the sandy haired American; on the other hand, Tullis made no effort to conceal his dislike, if not distrust, of the older man.

The countess was alone in the long, warm tinted library.

"It is good of you to come," she said as they shook hands warmly. "Do you know it is almost a year since you last came to this house?"

"It would be a century, countess, if I were not welcomed in other houses where I am sure of a glimpse of you from time to time and a word now and then."

They both seated themselves before a glowing open fire.

"The duke has gone to Gailook to play bridge with friends," she said at once. "He will not return till late. I have just telephoned—to make sure. Her smile did more than to reassure him."

"Of course you will understand how impossible it is for me to come here, countess. Your father, the duke, does not much matter, and I'm not quite a fool."

"It is of the prince that I want to speak," Mr. Tullis, she said. "I do want to talk very seriously with you concerning his future. I might say his immediate future."

He looked at her narrowly.

"Are you quite serious?"

"Quite. I could not have asked you to come to this house for anything trivial. We have become very good friends, you and I. Too good, perhaps, for I've no doubt there are old tables in Edelweiss who are provoked to criticism. You know what I mean."

"The prince is a sturdy little beggar," he began, but she lifted her hand in protest.

"And he has sturdy, loyal friends. That is agreed. And yet—" She paused, a perplexed line coming between her expressive eyes.

very wide. "You don't mean to say that he is in peril of any sort?"

She leaned nearer to him, dropping the ash from her cigarette into the receiver as she spoke slowly, intensely. "I think he is in peril—in deadly peril."

He stared hard. "What do you mean?" he demanded, with an involuntary glance over his shoulder. She interpreted that glance correctly.

"The peril is not here, Mr. Tullis. I know what you are thinking. My father is a loyal subject. The peril I suggest never comes to Graustark."

"Never comes to Graustark?" he almost whispered.

"You don't mean your husband?"

"Mean Count Marx?" she said steadily.

"He means evil to Prince Robin! Good heavens, countess, I can't believe it. I know he is bitter, revengeful and all that, but—"

"He is all that and more," she said. "First you must let me impress you that I am not a traitor to his cause."

"I could not be that, for the sufficient reason that I only suspect its existence. I am, not in any sense a part of it. I do not know anything. I only feel. I dare say you realize that I do not love Count Marx—that there is absolutely nothing in common between us except a name. We won't go into that, if—"

"I am overjoyed to hear you say this, countess," he said very seriously. "I have been so bold on occasion as to assert for your private ear, of course—that you could not be any freak of nature happen to care for Count Marx, whom I know only by description. You have laughed at my so-called American wit, and you have been most tolerant. Now, I feel that I am justified. I'm immeasurably glad to hear you confess that you do not love your husband."

"You have never tried to make love to me," she went on. "That's what I like about you. I think most men are silly, not because I am so very young, but because my husband is so ridiculously old. Don't you think so? But, never mind; I see you are quite eager to answer. That's enough. Take another cigarette and listen to what I am going to say."

After a moment she went on resolutely. "As I said before, I do not know that my suspicions are correct. I have not even breathed them to my father. He would have laughed at me. My husband is a Graustarkian, even as I am, but there is this distinction between us—he despises Graustark, while I love her in every drop of my blood. I know that in his heart he has never ceased to brew evil for the throne that disgraced him. He openly expresses his hatred for the present dynasty and has more than once said in public gatherings that he could cheerfully assist in its utter destruction. That, of course, is commonly known in Graustark, where he is scorned and derided. But he is not a man to serve his hatred with mere idle words and inaction."

"I am seeing you here in this big room openly," she went on, "for the simple reason that if I am being watched this manner of meeting may be above suspicion. We may speak freely here, for we cannot be heard unless we raise our voices. Don't betray surprise or consternation. The eyes of the wall may be better than its ears."

"You don't mean to say you are being watched here in your father's house?" he demanded.

"I don't know. This I do know—the count has many spies in Edelweiss. He is systematically applied of everything that occurs at court, in the city or in the council chamber. Day before yesterday I saw his secretary in the streets, a man who has been in his employ for five years or more and who now pretends to be a lawyer here. His name is Brutus. I spoke with him. He said that he had left the count six weeks ago in Vienna, determined to set out for himself in his chosen profession. He knows, of course, that I am not and never have been in the confidence of my husband. I asked him if it was known in Edelweiss that he had served the count as secretary. He promptly handed me one of his business cards on which he refers to himself as the former trusted and confidential secretary of Count Marx."

Now, I happen to know that he is still in my husband's service, or was no longer ago than last week. He is here for a purpose, as my husband's representative. I have not been asleep all these months at Schloss Marx."

I have seen and heard enough to convince me that some great movement is on foot. My intelligence tells me that it has to do with Graustark. As he wishes the prince no good, it must be for evil."

"But there is nothing he can do. He has no following here. The prince is adored by the people. Count Marx would not be such a fool as to—"

"He is no fool," she interrupted quickly. "That's why I am afraid. If he is plotting against the crown, you may depend upon it he is laying his plans well. John Tullis, that man is a devil—a devil incarnate!" She turned her face away. A spasm of utter repugnance crossed her face.

"I am afraid of Peter Brutus. He is here to watch—everybody."

She leaned against the great carved mantle post, a tall, slender, lithe creature, exquisitely groomed in recent fashion. Her face was pale and she was trembling with a cold shiver that she felt beyond the faint glow from the embers, creeping up to her face with the insistence of a maiden's blush. She gazed in rapt admiration, her heart thumping like fury in her great breast. She was little more than a girl, this wife of old Marx, and yet how wise, how clever, how brilliant she was!

She was well named Ingomede the Beautiful.

"Does Baron Dangloss know this man Brutus?" asked Tullis, arising to stand beside her.

"I don't know," she said thoughtfully. "I have not spoken to him concerning Brutus. Perhaps he knows. The baron is very wise. Let me tell you how I happen to know that Peter Brutus is still serving Count Marx."

And why I think his presence signifies a crisis of some sort."

Her voice, always low and even, seemed lower still. "In the first place, I have a faithful friend in one of the oldest routhers at Schloss Marx."

His daughter is my maid. She is here with me now. The old man came to see Josephine one day last week. He had accompanied Count Marx to the town of Balak, which is in Arphasia, a mile beyond the Graustark line. Peter Brutus was with my husband in Balak for two days. They were closeted together from morning till night in the house where Marx was stopping. At the end of two days Brutus went away, but he carried with him a vast sum of money provided by my husband. It was given out that he was on his way to Serros, in Dabawerk, where he expected to purchase a business block for his master. Marx waited another day in Balak, permitting Josephine's father to come on to Edelweiss with a message for me and to see his daughter. He—"

"And Josephine's father saw Brutus in Edelweiss?"

"No. But he did see him going into Balak as he left for Edelweiss that morning. He wore a disguise, but Jacob says he could not be mistaken. Moreover, he was accompanied by several men whom he recognized as Graustark mountaineers and hunters of rather unsavory reputation. They left Brutus at the gates of Balak and went off into the hills. All this happened before I knew that Peter was living in Edelweiss. When I saw him here I knew at once that his presence meant something sinister. I can put many things together that once puzzled me—the comings and goings of months, the secret reports and consultations, the queer looking men who came to the castle, the long absences of my husband and my own virtual imprisonment—yes, imprisonment. I was not permitted to leave the castle for days at a time during his absences."

"Surely you will not go back again!" he began hotly.

"Sh!" She put a finger to her lips. A manservant was quietly crossing the hall just off the library. "He is a new man. I do not like his appearance."

The servant disappeared through a door at the end of the hall.

"Then there were the great sums of money that my husband sent off from time to time," she continued, "and the strange boxes that came overland to the castle and later went away again as secretly as they came. Mr. Tullis, I am confident in my mind that those boxes contained firearms and ammunition. I have thought it all out. Perhaps I am wrong, but it seems to me that I can almost see those firearms stored away in the caves and cabins outside of Edelweiss, ready for instant use when the signal comes."

"God! An uprising! A plot so huge as that!" he gasped, amazed. It is fortunate that he was not facing the door. The same servant, passing once more, might have seen the terrible consternation in his eyes. "It cannot be possible! Why, Dangloss and his men would have sensed it long ago."

"I have not said that I am sure of anything, remember that. I leave it to you to analyze. You have the foundation on which to work. I'd advise you to waste no time. Something tells me that the crisis is near at hand."

A Curious Fossilization. When any Spanish sovereign dies the body is at once submitted to the process of fossilization, not cast in the royal pantheon until the body has been absolutely turned into stone. Curiously enough, the period required for fossilization varies considerably. Some royal bodies have become solidified in a very short period, while others have taken years before the fossilization took place.

A Handsome Woman

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. These tablets have taken medicine. They do not merely fill the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle do they act that one hardly realizes that they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve all stomach, liver, constipation and biliousness. Indigestion, colic, and diarrhea.

Mr. Stephen Baldwin, who was 86 years young last week, celebrated his birthday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Bolgeol, where a brother, Samuel, aged 83, makes his home with his daughter, Mrs. Bolgeol. A third brother, Hiram, aged 76, was also present and a happy, reminiscent time was spent.

Mr. John Jacobs, a former superintendent in the Volney Paper mill, who has resigned his position to accept one in Phoenix with the Three Rivers Paper company, was presented with a gold watch and chain on Friday evening by his co-workers in the mill. Mr. Jacobs was completely surprised, but expressed his appreciation in a fitting manner.

Ladies' night at the Masonic club on Friday evening was attended by a large number of members and their friends. A program was rendered, participated in by Miss Rachel Lake and Mr. Alfred Edgerton, readings; Miss Schlapp, instrumental solo; Miss Franc LaLonde, Miss Hazel Guile and Mr. J. R. Castor, vocal solos, was most enthusiastically received. Cards and refreshments brought to a close a very pleasing evening.

SAN DIEGO'S EXPOSITION

Will Celebrate the Completion of the Panama Canal and Exploit the Resources of the Pacific Slope and Southwest.

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 18, 1910.

Editor Times:—
The writer, whom you may remember was a former resident of your city. My recollection of the matter published in your paper inclines me to the belief that you would be glad to use some matter relative to the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego, since I have had numerous inquiries from friends in that section of the country upon these subjects.

I have had the enclosed article prepared by a newspaper man, and it is offered to you without compensation. If you would care for photographs to accompany the articles, you may obtain same by addressing R. E. Connolly, care of D. C. Collier & Co., San Diego, Cal.

Trusting that you may find place for this and that you will remember to mail me two copies of the issue in which it is used, I am,
Very truly yours,
Francis T. Payne.

San Diego's Panama-California Exposition, now in progress of organization and development, is of paramount concern for Southern California and the great southwest empire of the United States. It will be open on January 1, 1915, and will remain open during the year. Primarily, it is to be a celebration of the completion of the Panama Canal, but its scope will be international. Representative exhibits will be received from the Latin-American republics of this continent, from Australia, China, Japan, the Philippines, Hawaii and the states and territories of the United States. It will be a great exhibition organized for exploitation of the resources of the Southwest, intended to accomplish for this vast region what was accomplished for the Northwest by the expositions of Portland and Seattle.

In this view of the purpose and scope of the Panama-California Exposition at San Diego it will receive the enthusiastic support of every citizen of California. Unfortunately, certain enterprising promoters of the San Francisco bay region have recently conceived an idea of holding an exposition in that city for a similar purpose. The only substantial reason for this action is the circumstance that San Francisco is a bigger city than San Diego and therefore, it is contended, better fitted to celebrate the great event. Otherwise all claims by the metropolis in this matter are specious or absolutely untenable in the fact or in justice.

San Diego was first to propose an exposition in commemoration of the completion of the Panama Canal, and while San Francisco was arranging the preliminaries San Diego raised $800,000 in coin, and within a few weeks thereafter increased this popular subscription to $1,000,000. Another million will be added through bonds issued by the municipality. On this basis of accomplished purpose San Diego will ask for the cooperation of every citizen of California and the western states, with special appeal to the local pride and public spirit of every citizen of Southern California.

The exposition at San Diego will be unique in the circumstance that it will open on the first day of the year and continue until December 31. In no other region on earth would this be possible, climatic conditions inevitably interfering with a continuous exhibition of this character under any other skies than those that arch above Southern California. It is expected that the scope of the exposition will keep pace with the progress of the empire that is now building in the southwest. Its consummation will be an epitome of the vast enterprises now in progress of completion from the prairies of Colorado to the Gulf of California—the development of the arid areas, the stupendous conservation enterprises, the redemption of the desert, the reclamation of ill-usable tracts of land by scientific and extensive agriculture, the erection of manufacturing plants at the points of production, the concentration of population into towns and cities where stand the gaunt yucca and the ragged mesquite, the completion and operation of railroads out of the hot lands of Yuma to the cool sea coast of San Diego, all the activities and achievements of the men comprising the great human drift now setting out of the crowded and congested population centers of the Eastern United States into this new and hitherto undeveloped section of the North American continent.

Thus in five years when San Diego shall throw wide her gates to receive guests from every quarter of the world, it is expected that she will be able to present within the compass of her exposition a more complete expression of American enterprise and American daring, industrial, commercial and agricultural, than has ever been attempted in any of the great world expositions that have hitherto attracted the attention or commanded the admiration of mankind.

San Diego is peculiarly adapted for the holding of an exposition of this character. Historically, it is fitting that San Diego should be the California city selected to commemorate the completion of the Panama Canal, because it was on the site of San Diego in 1542, that Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo landed in his voyage northward in search of the Northwest passage; because San Diego, sixty years later, was the harbor of call for Viscaino on his voyage of exploration along the California coast; because in 1769 it was selected as the site of the first of the Franciscan missions in California, by Father Junipero Serra, because, in short, San Diego was the original and the only settlement of civilized white men immediately after Spanish conquest of these northern lands.

Geographically, San Diego is the place for an exposition as contemplated, because it is the first American port of call north of Panama on the great circle between the Canal and the Orient. And in equity of all the conditions, San Diego is entitled to hold this exposition because it first announced the intention for the specific purpose.

In view, therefore, of all these salient considerations there can be no gainsaying San Diego's right to hold this exposition or to ask the undivided support of every citizen of California, irrespective of any other similar proposition by other cities, claiming only a subsequent and secondary right to celebrate in this manner the completion of the greatest and most important work of modern times.

In all cases where there are indications of weak and diseased kidneys, as shown by such symptoms as weak back, back aches, pains in the bladder and urinary disorders, you should not delay a moment to take some good, reliable remedy, like De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. These Pills are antiseptic. They allay inflammation and soothe irritation. Sold by all druggists.

Fatal Course.

A matron was visiting her former home city and was under full headway with the seemingly endless string of questions usual in such a case.

"And your sister's daughter, Violet?" she asked.

"Violet is married," the friend replied.

"Indeed! My! How time does fly! Happily married, I trust?"

"Oh, dear, no! My sister always humored her, you know," was the response, "and the poor child was permitted to marry the man she was in love with."—Detroit Free Press.

Pine Stronger Than Steel.

Calculation confirmed by experiment has shown that, weight for weight, pine wood is stronger than steel in both transverse and tensile strength. It is regarded as doubtful if any metal could be made into a hollow rod equalling a bamboo rod in stiffness without exceeding it in weight. In structures of wood the weak points are always at the joints.

WOMEN and CHILDREN

DO NOT SHINE as financiers—which is as it should be—the home needs them—and they need the home. Life insurance is the one safe—sure—medium by which the husband and father can provide that the home—and all that it implies—will continue to be theirs to enjoy against that day which may come soon—which must come late—when he is no longer here to pay—when the rent day—and all other bill days—come round. Trite? Commonplace? You know it? You have heard it before? Yes! But that doesn't alter a single one of the facts! And it means you—and your family—and their home then—your home now—just as it does the other man's. He thinks you are the man who needs the life insurance—just as you think he is the man we are talking about—and you are both right! Never mind about him—you send for THE EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY man To-day!—Now!—it may be too late for you to get the benefits.

BABIES CARED FOR

Check Room Provided by Oswego Theatrical Manager

Oswego, March 4.—A little thing like a baby will be no excuse for women remaining away from the matinees after Manager Gillen of the Richardson opens his baby go-cart check room some time next week. Children can either be taken to the seat or left in the check room with an attendant. The seat numbers of the owners of the go-carts will be taken and in event that the baby becomes obstreperous "mamma" will be summoned to quell the disturbance. Toys and games will be provided for the amusement of the little ones.

Are you frequently hoarse? Do you have that annoying tickling in your throat? Does your cough annoy you at night, and do you raise mucus in the morning? Do you want relief? If so, take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and you will be pleased. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

Company Manners.

"Be quiet, John! Don't you know there's a visitor in the next room?" said Frances to her little brother. "How do you know? You haven't been in!" "But," said Frances, "I hear mamma saying 'my dear' to papa."

Medicines that aid nature are always most successful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

By the time Senator Lodge has settled the bills for his present campaign for re-election he may believe that there is something in this high-cost-of-living-business, after all.

first, because it is a necessity—that is the rule in magazine buying of America's intellectual aristocracy. It is indispensable to the busy business man, who must keep abreast of the times, because it gives him the real news of the day in concise, readable form; it is invaluable to the thinking man, who demands only the truth and then draws his own conclusions, because it gives him just plain, straight facts. It is helpful to the whole family. In it you will find a monthly picture of men and affairs by Dr. Albert Shaw, in his comprehensive editorial, "Progress of the World," a clever cartoon history of the month; book reviews; the gist of the best which has appeared in the other magazines and newspapers of the world; witty character sketches; and interesting articles on the all-important topics of the day. Authoritative, non-partisan, timely and very much to the point, it's a liberal education, it's the way subscribers express it.

One Way to Help Your City

There are probably 5,000 people in Fulton who have an average of $5.00 each in their pockets. This would make $25,000.00, which if deposited in this bank would allow us to loan twenty people $1,250 each with which to build homes and so help our city.

Bring in YOUR $5.00. We are very glad to have these small accounts and you will get 4% on your money.

SENATOR COBB'S RECEPTION

Course Endorsed by the Lincoln League of Watertown. Speech Rings of Sterling Quality of Republicanism.

The Lincoln League of Watertown on Saturday evening tendered a reception to Senator George H. Cobb at which many prominent Republicans and Democrats made congratulatory speeches and paid high tribute to the character and ability of the newly elected president of the State Senate.

Mr. Luther Wright Mott of Oswego was the Oswego County representative at this reception and the Watertown press announces that he made the wittiest speech of the evening, saying in part:

"While Oswego is in a judicial district it had no justice, and while it is in a Congressional district it had not seen a Congressman in thirty years. But I am glad," he said, "that our neighbors pick out good men for us to vote for. In conclusion Mr. Mott said that he thought in Oswego that Hughes is the greatest asset the Republican party has."

Senator Cobb's speech outlined his position toward Governor Hughes, the Senate, and all public questions and his words ring true. If his future is along the course as outlined by him, the privilege of clearing the threatening political atmosphere in Republican circles in the Empire State, may be his. Senator Cobb is a young man with his political future in his own hands. The whole people demand that the policy of reform in the party as advocated by Governor Hughes, Senator Root and others, be enacted into law and Mr. Cobb's many friends in this district believe that they will not be disappointed in him when the crucial moment arrives.

"Resolved, That the Lincoln League heartily approves of the action of the Senate of the State of New York in electing George H. Cobb of this county as president pro tem, and congratulates the party on an upright leader, who, personally independent in his public life, is by reason of his sound judgment, tolerance, cool and patient temperament, well qualified to lead the party with success. We unhesitatingly endorse the character of George H. Cobb and ask for him a favorable opportunity to demonstrate his fitness for leadership."

Senator Cobb spoke as follows before the Lincoln League:

Senator Cobb's Speech
"I feel, perhaps, that this occasion, owing to the fact I am among people who will understand my motives and purposes, requires that I shall make some declaration with reference to my selection as temporary president of the Senate."

"I was content with the recognition which I had received from my fellow senators, but when a vacancy occurred in the position I now occupy I was urged by a large number of senators who were actuated solely by the desire to have me assume the responsibility, I hesitated to adopt their suggestion until I was assured that it was the desire of a majority of my colleagues who represent the dominant party."

"No influence outside of the Senate inspired my candidacy, neither was any influence outside of it able to defeat it. It originated entirely within that body itself. I felt then and I still feel, notwithstanding any criticism which may have been made or be hereafter made, that the responsibility rested upon the Senate to select its temporary president, and that no influences, no matter from what sources they might emanate, should be utilized to prevent its doing so."

"I have been severely criticized and my selection has been deplored through some portions of the press because certain organizations in the State and some of those identified with the Republican party outside of it, endorsed my candidacy. They had the right to do so."

"I am an organization Republican. I recognize that no party can be successful unless there is an organization and that the best government is obtainable through organization agencies. I never yet in my public career, however, have been subservient to any organization or any boss and the time will never come, as long as I am in public life, when men in or out of the organization, or the organization as a whole, can swerve me from the performance of what I believe to be my duty to the State."

"I feel that this declaration, in this stage of my career, is not necessary for the reason if my acts in public service do not speak eloquently upon that subject then words are futile."

"Only a part of the State organization, as it is called, saw fit to advocate my selection to the distinguished office which I now occupy and I owe it to them and the other people of the State of New York to say that their support was accorded to me unconditionally and without a sign as to my attitude on matters which now engross the public mind. I am under no obligations or pledges to do anything except that which my best judgment and conscience shall dictate. I shall not be a party to denouncing my friends, no matter whether in the organization or out because public criticism is centered upon some of them. I never yet sought or obtained political ascendancy through disloyalty to my friends or over the broken back of pledges or principles and never shall as long as I live."

"I have faith enough in the fairness of the people of this State to believe, notwithstanding anything that may be said in the heat of this controversy, that in the end the sober and candid judgment of the best citizenship of the State will see that justice is done. I want it distinctly understood that I am as much in sympathy with the good purposes which I believe actuate Governor Hughes and Senator Root in the public service as any other citizen of the State, and that they and all other men engaged in public affairs shall have my hearty co-operation."

"It matters not as much to me personally, however, whether the campaign of interrepresentation shall be continued or not. There will be no division in the dominant party in this State as the result of my selection. I shall at all times co-operate with any citizens in any line of public service. I shall not be the mouthpiece or representative of any clique or faction in my party or out of it. I shall not, however, surrender my judgment or my convictions to any man or body of men. It shall be my purpose to welcome the counsel and assistance of all men actuated by motives which commend themselves to me, but in the final analysis of the course of my conduct, I must be the sole judge."

"I am satisfied that in the Legislature of the State of New York there is an earnest desire upon the part of the members composing both houses to co-operate with the Federal and State authorities in any movement for the public good, and if any difference exists it is only in detail. The members of the present Legislature should be judged by their accomplishments and not by the records of previous Legislatures. If this standard of measurements is not applied, a great injustice will be done to all men connected with it and fair minded and public spirited men driven from public service. I appeal to you to be patient and to reserve final judgment until an opportunity has been presented for the accomplishment of real reform."

"I pledge to you and through you to the people of the State that all of the talents I possess shall be devoted to the faithful and unselfish administration of public affairs. While as leader I am duty bound to accept counsel of my associates and to represent the sentiment of my party as a whole on public matters, it shall remain my purpose to the end of my service to give a clean and effective administration in the interests of the whole people of the State. Upon this declaration and this declaration alone, I ask your support and the support of the citizens of this State."

COBB ELECTED CHAIRMAN

After a stubbornly contested fight for the chairmanship of the State Senate, a battle in which much bitterness was evidenced, Hon. George H. Cobb, senator from Oswego-Jefferson district was on Friday elected president pro tem of the New York State Senate, to succeed Senator J. P. Aldis.

Senator Root from Washington telegraphed the Senate, urging the election of Senator Human of Binghamton and at the eleventh hour Governor Hughes appeared upon the scene and urged the election of Senator Human, but to no avail. The personality of the Senator from this district won the day for him over and above all outside influence, and he became the choice of the Senate upon the 50th ballot.

MILLINERY OPENING

We desire to extend a most cordial invitation to the ladies of Fulton and vicinity to attend our first Spring Opening of millinery goods.

All the latest season's creations in large and small shapes, showing the most reasonable trimmings, flowers, foliage and ribbons, will be displayed. It is very essential that we mention our line of children's ready-to-wear and girls' school hats, you will find an assortment of goods that will satisfy the most conservative taste.

Our motto is, to give the best styles, material and workmanship on all goods that leave our establishment at lowest possible prices.

Yours very truly,
S. Searles & Co.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY

The Victoria Paper Mill company will on Saturday evening of this week give a reception and dinner to 150 of their employees in celebration of the thirtieth anniversary of the organization of the company.

The gathering will be held in the Universalist church and a competent band has been engaged for the occasion. An orchestra will furnish music and a very delightful toast list has been arranged.

BAPTIST CHURCH DAY

Annual Roll Call Reveals Prosperous Growth of Society

The annual Church Day and Roll Call of the First Baptist church was held on Thursday. A large number of the church membership responded to the roll call while others sent letters to be read in their absence. The reports of the various committees showed the society to be in a satisfactory financial condition and growing numerically each year.

During afternoon session the devotional meeting was led by Rev. J. G. York, Mrs. C. E. Harding pleasingly rendered a vocal selection and an address was given by Rev. Charles Olinstead, pastor of the Congregational church. Supper was served at 6 o'clock and a social hour followed. At 8 o'clock the evening session continued, the Rev. W. G. Bassett making the opening address. This was followed by the reading of the church reports and the reports of the various committees.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Church clerk, Miss Florence Dextater; deacons for three years, Charles Dextater and John Morton; deacons for three years, Mrs. C. W. Streeter; treasurer of benevolence, C. W. Streeter; Bible school superintendent, F. B. Trank; assistant superintendent, Charles Whitmore; secretary and treasurer of the Bible school, Royal Schaff; benevolence committee, C. W. Streeter, H. K. Fiske, Hazel Gardner, May Fuller, Charles Whitmore; music committee, M. C. Freeman, Mrs. E. E. Hart, Mrs. William Sylvester.

Although nothing definite was decided at the meeting, it is probable that during the summer months a Sunday school building will be erected on the property west of the church, which was purchased a few years since. This building will be erected according to plans presented by the building committee and will be constructed that it will be possible to use the building in connection with the new church edifice to be erected by the society before the summer. The plans carry with them an estimated cost of $70,000.

NEARBY SUMMER RESORT

Alderman H. Freeman Johnson and the Tilden brothers are busily engaged in arranging a picturesque summer resort at Stop 28, on the Tilden farm. A dancing pavilion, baseball diamond and grand stand, bathing beach and boat livery, cafe and other attractions are among the possibilities at this point. Special arrangements will be made with the trolley company so that the grounds will be brilliantly illuminated at night and Tilden's full orchestra will furnish music for dancing parties. The resort will be conducted along orderly lines and immense crowds will undoubtedly be drawn from Fulton and nearby towns to this place on the Oswego River, destined to be very popular.

THE OLD SAYING

That "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure" is proven true in the case of teeth.

Bodily ills come from bad teeth and a foul mouth.

Save money, pain and trouble by having the teeth fixed before the trouble begins.

Natural colored crowns for badly decayed front teeth, also natural colored fillings that are as permanent as gold.

Bridge-work a specialty. Plates that fit made and repaired. All operations conducted under strictly antiseptic conditions and by modern painless methods.

All work guaranteed for 10 years. Call and let me explain. Examinations free. Moderate prices.

A printed chart giving directions for the "proper care of the teeth" given free to every patient.

DEATHS

Elizabeth, aged 70, wife of Mr. Henry Davis, died on Thursday at the home in Waldratt street. The husband and one sister, Mrs. Thomas Keyes of this city, survive.

Orrin Wallace, aged 68, died at the home in Gilberts Mills on Friday. The funeral services were held from the late home on Monday and burial was made in Pennellville. The immediate survivors are the widow, two sons and two daughters.

Darwin M. Curtis, aged 91, died on Saturday at his home in West Granby. The funeral will be held from the late home this Wednesday afternoon, Rev. John Richards of Syracuse officiating. The immediate survivors are one son, Eugene of West Granby; one sister, Martha Salmon of Omaha, Neb., and three granddaughters, Mrs. Lena Dann of this city, Mrs. A. Lockwood of West Granby and Mrs. James Keeney of Hannibal.

The death of Carla M., daughter of Mrs. Jennie Fiske, occurred at the home in Oneida street on Sunday after a seven months illness with tuberculosis. The funeral services were held from the late home on Tuesday evening at 7:45 o'clock, the Rev. J. G. York officiating, and the body was taken to Perry, the former home, for interment in the family lot. Beside the mother, one brother, Mr. H. K. Fiske, survives.

After several weeks of suffering Mrs. Elizabeth Cottrell, aged 75, passed to rest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. P. Curtis, in Fourth street on Thursday. The deceased had resided in this city with her daughter for several years and had made many friends who regret her demise. The funeral services were held from the late home on Saturday afternoon, Rev. W. L. Sawtelle officiating. The immediate survivors are the husband, Mr. Josiah Cottrell and one daughter, Mrs. Curtis, of this city, and three sons, Arthur, of Solway; William of Syracuse and Thomas of Lafayette.

Mrs. H. L. Padock was called to Syracuse on Thursday by the death of her mother, Sarah A. Monell, aged 74, widow of the late Forest G. Weeks, who passed to rest at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Tooke, of University avenue, on that day, after a long period of ill health.

Mrs. Weeks was the daughter of Gabriel and Lucinda Bennett Monell of Mexico, N. Y., and was born in that village July 20, 1836. She was married to Forest G. Weeks, September 9, 1859, and went to Skaneateles to live, making her home in that village for over 40 years, moving in the fall of 1901, to Syracuse where Mr. Weeks died June 5, 1906.

Mrs. Weeks is survived by three sons, Charles G. and Forest G. Weeks of Skaneateles and Julius S. Weeks of Muskogee, Oklahoma, and two daughters, Mrs. H. Lester Padock of this city and Mrs. Charles W. Tooke of Syracuse; also two sisters, Mrs. Charles Croft and Mrs. DeWitt Curtis of Kansas City, Mo.

The funeral services were held at the home of Mrs. Charles W. Tooke, on Monday and interment was made in Lake View cemetery, Skaneateles.

NEW INSURANCE FIRM

Messrs. C. H. David and G. E. Mason have formed a co-partnership for the conduct of a fire insurance business which they will carry on at their office, No. 55 North First street, Phone 119. All of the old business carried by the members of the new firm and all new business entrusted to them will be carefully looked after and your patronage will be appreciated.

The members of the new firm are too well known to our readers to need introductions. The senior member of the firm, Mr. C. H. David, has been a practicing attorney in this city for fifty years and the junior member, Mr. George E. Mason has been a life long resident of this city, being engaged in the real estate business. That they will receive a liberal patronage is beyond doubt.

LECTURE TONIGHT

Ex-Governor Glenn of North Carolina will deliver a lecture, "The passing of the saloon," in the Presbyterian church this Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League. Mr. Glenn was in the forefront of the successful temperance movement throughout the south and he comes with the highest recommendations as a scholar and an orator. He should be listened to with full attention.

EPISCOPALIANS START SCHOOL

Rector G. C. Wadsworth of Zion Episcopal church has been considering for some time the conditions that prevail at the upper Falls, west side, and he has become convinced that a Sunday School would be very beneficial. He laid the matter before Archdeacon William Cook, with the result that Mr. Cook visited Fulton, and in company with a west side churchman and Mr. Wadsworth the section was canvassed. It was the unanimous opinion of those conferred with that a Sunday School should be started and on Palm Sunday afternoon, March 20, in I. O. G. T. hall, the first session will be held when a short evening, an address and Sunday school will be conducted.

An assistant will be sent to Fulton to work in conjunction with Mr. Wadsworth in carrying out this plan.

I hereby certify that the above resolutions were duly adopted at a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Fulton held at the City Hall
on the 8th day of March, 1910.

1910.

Joseph H. Connors,
Mayor.

Fulton, N. Y., March 12, 1910.

Special meeting of the Common Council.

Present Mayor Connors, Aldermen
Palmer, Malone, Johnson, Smith,
Wolcott and Newton.

Alderman Newton introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Whereas, Section 283 of Chapter 63 of the Laws of 1902, being the charter of the City of Fulton, authorizes the sale by said city of certain bonds, as in said section provided, at a rate of interest not exceeding four per cent per annum, and

Whereas, said city recently has been unable to sell said bonds at said rate of interest, and

Whereas, it will be necessary for said city in the future to issue and sell bonds as in said section provided,
now, therefore,

Resolved, That the City Attorney
be, and he hereby is authorized and directed to prepare and forward to our Member of Assembly and State
Senator, each, such suitable measure
as will, when the same becomes law, amend said Section 283 in such manner as to enable the City of Fulton to issue and sell bonds provided for in said section at a rate of interest not exceeding 4 1/2 per cent. per annum.

Palmer, Malone, Johnson, Smith,
Wolcott, Newton, Aye.

Alderman Johnson introduced the following and moved its adoption:

Whereas, Heretofore and on the 7th day of September, 1909, the Common Council of the City of Fulton authorized the issuance and sale of bonds of said city in the sum of twenty thousand dollars, of the par value of one thousand dollars each, dated October 1st, 1909, numbered from 46 to 65 inclusive, and bearing interest at four per cent. per annum;
and

Whereas, said bonds were advertised for sale as provided by the charter of the city, but no bids were received therefor, and this Council being informed and verily believing that the failure to receive proposals for said bonds was because of the interest payable on said bonds being so low as not to make said bonds a desirable investment for persons and corporations having funds to invest;
now, therefore,

Resolved, That the City Attorney
be, and he hereby is authorized and directed to prepare and forward to
our Member of Assembly and State
Senator, each, such suitable measure

as when enacted into law will legalize and authorize the sale of said bonds at a rate of interest not greater than 4 1/2 per cent. per annum.

Palmer, Malone, Johnson, Smith,
Wolcott, Newton, Aye.

Meeting adjourned.
City of Fulton, ss.

I hereby certify that the above resolutions were duly adopted at a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Fulton, held at the City Hall
on the 12th day of March, 1910.

William MacNamara,
City Clerk.

Approved this 12th day of March, 1910.

Joseph Connors,
Mayor.

OSWEGO COUNTY POMONA

The March session of Oswego County Pomona Grange was held at Oswego in the Armory, on Tuesday, March 8, with a large attendance. The morning session opened at ten o'clock.
Worthy master Herman Kandt in the chair. The roll call of officers found a few vacancies. Reports were read and adopted. The following resolutions were presented and adopted.

Resolved, That Oswego County Pomona Grange held in Oswego March 8, 1910, hereby endorse and favors the action of our State Grange at Watertown looking for closer cooperation of our rural schools, and the stand that Worthy Master Godfrey has taken regarding such legislation.

That we hereby urge our representatives at Albany, Senator Cobb and Assemblyman Sweet, to take a favorable action regarding such legislation.

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent our Senator, Assemblyman and State Master Godfrey.

The following officers for the ensuing year were then installed by Herman Kandt, assisted by County Deputy Pollard and Mrs. M. G. Lewis.

Master—F. E. Alexander, Pulaski.
Overseer—Willard Wilbur, Hannibal.

Lecturer—Mrs. Rosamond Hopper, Hannibal.

Steward—F. D. Burgess, Phoenix.
Assistant Steward—Lewis Farnham, Oswego, 7.

Chaplain—Mrs. F. H. Stone, Sandy Creek.

Treasurer—E. H. Benedict, Phoenix.

Secretary—Mrs. Anna B. Weed,

W. J. Bradt, Hannibal.

F. E. Rounds, Oswego, 7.

Mrs. Alida Wilbur, Hannibal.

Legislative Committee

S. C. Huntington, Pulaski.

Jasper Hopper, Hannibal.

E. H. Benedict, Phoenix.

The afternoon session was called to order at 1:30 by Worthy Master F.
E. Alexander. Fifteen members received the fifth degree obligation.

The lecturer, Mrs. Hopper, then had charge of the meeting for one hour.
The choir sang a selection. Address of Welcome by C. S. Lockwood; Response by Past Master Herman Kandt; Address "Our Public Schools"

by George E. Bullis, Superintendent of Oswego Schools; Industrial education in city and village schools being his thought throughout his address.

A rising vote of thanks was given the speaker for his able address;
song by the choir, and the grange was then declared opened in the fourth degree. Sandy Creek grange extended a cordial invitation to Pomona to meet with them in June.

The invitation was accepted. Reports of delegates to the State Grange were given and were very interesting and instructive. Business was suspended and Capt. Culkin and Mr.
Luther W. Mott were admitted and introduced, each giving very good talks, after which our work was again taken up. S. C. Huntington gave his report as chairman of legislative committee. The committee on co-operation and trade met again at this meeting. After a closing song we adjourned to meet at Lacona in June.

DR. EDDY DEAD

The death of Dr. Joseph W. Eddy, aged 53, occurred at his home in Oswego on Thursday, after an illness of a month. His death was totally unexpected up to within a few hours of his demise, heart weakness which developed when he was apparently on the road to recovery, being the immediate cause for death.

Dr. Eddy was born in Williamson, Wayne County, on April 17, 1851. He received his early education in the Marion Collegiate Institute and the Attica High School. From there he went to the Detroit Medical College. In 1874 he went abroad and spent the next five years in the Ecole de Medicine in Paris and in the famous Paris

Hospital in London. On October 12, 1878, he married Miss Hannah C. Eggleston at Church St., Martin-in-the-Fields, Trafalgar Square, London. He located in Oswego in 1879 and took up the practice of medicine and since that time he has been one of the best known and best liked members of the community.

In 1886 he was made chief surgeon of the R. W. & O. and held the position until the road was taken over by the New York Central. He then continued as Division Surgeon for this vicinity. When the Oswego Hospital was organized he was one of the men who worked hardest and longest to make it successful and his interest continued as long as he lived.

Several times during his practice he has been abroad in attendance on some of his friends. His constant study and careful practice made him a medical authority recognized throughout the entire State and he was often honored by the various medical societies of the State.

He was a man of a very social nature. He naturally took a deep interest in fraternal organizations and was high in Masonic circles, was an honored member of the Elks and one of the most popular members of the City and Fortnightly clubs of Oswego.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Anna Cronther of Newark, N. J., one daughter, Mrs. Louise Light of Oswego. The funeral was held from his late home on Monday afternoon at two o'clock, the Rev. Dr. David Willis having charge of the services.

SENATOR COBB'S TRYING TASK.

New Senate Leader Must Pacify Factions.

AN ABLE PARLIAMENTARIAN.

Career of the Man Chosen by Republicans to Succeed Johnson in the Albany Senate. President Pro Tem.—Current Deliberations in the Legislature.—The Will of Mr. Callan and the Troubles of Mr. Oliver.

[Special Correspondence.]

Albany, March 16.—Senator George H. Cobb of Watertown will, from all indications, have to be the champion peacemaker of the world if he is to conduct the office of majority leader of the upper house successfully.

Probably no man ever entered on a career of official responsibility with problems confronting him greater than those facing the senator from Jefferson county.

Mr. Cobb will first set out to heal the wounds in the senate organization resulting from the Aldis-Conger inquiry and from the exciting and bitterly conducted contest over his election. Any one familiar with the situation in the senate will readily understand that this task is one of herculean proportions. Who, for instance, could hope to put the fire eating Josiah T. Newcomb of New York into harness at the same legislative plow with the conservative Jim Emerson from Warrensburg?

GEORGE H. COBB, NEW MAJORITY LEADER IN THE SENATE.

Well, that is only one of the modern miracles that Cobb must perform if he would weld the different senate factions into a smoothly working law-making machine.

A Pen Picture of Mr. Cobb.

Senator Cobb is today a happy, handsome, life-loving, optimistic individual. He does not look to be forty-five years old, the age which the fates have thus far allowed him, and a smile of true poetic innocence frequently flits over his countenance. That is a pen picture of Mr. Cobb today in brief.

But if the senate insurgents have their way a year of majority leadership will cause him to become quite a different looking statesman. That is, some of the "revolutionists," like Brackett, Davenport and Newcomb, at present aspire to bite a few kernels off the Cobb. Whether or not their teeth will prove strong enough to do so remains to be seen.

In every case where in a vital crisis a man succeeds to a commanding position, as did Senator Cobb, there are those who assert that the particular individual who meets the emergency will fall. So there are those who claim that Senator Cobb will not succeed as the majority leader, a position which carries with it power in the state second only to that of the governor himself.

But, judging Mr. Cobb impartially, it is evident to the writer that he will surprise his detractors by the ability which he will exhibit in guiding the operations of the majority party in the senate. He is a man with a clean legislative and personal record and a parliamentarian and a lawyer of advanced caliber.

Career of Senator Cobb.

George H. Cobb, Republican, who represents the Thirty-fifth senatorial district, consisting of the counties of Jefferson and Lewis, resides at Watertown, N. Y. He was born in the town of Hounsfield and county of Jefferson in 1864.

His childhood and youth were spent upon his father's farm near Sacketts Harbor, N. Y. At an early age he began teaching in the country schools of his county and later took a course and was graduated from the Potsdam State Normal school in June, 1888.

After serving for two years as the principal of the graded school at Hammond, N. Y., he entered the law offices of the firm of Lansing & Rogers, which consisted of the Hon. Frederick Lansing, who at one time represented Mr. Cobb's senate district in the state senate, and Watson M. Rogers, now a justice of the supreme court, and was admitted to the bar in 1901.

Shortly after his admission he received the appointment of deputy county clerk, which position he held until the following year when he was elected city judge of the city of Watertown, serving in this capacity for a term of four years.

In the fall of 1898 he was nominated and elected district attorney. Three years later he was renominated without opposition and was serving his last year of the second term in 1904 when he was nominated and elected to the state senate, receiving 16,248 votes.

He is the senior member of the law firm of Cobb & Congrove and has a large practice.

At the time of his election as majority leader Mr. Cobb was chairman of the senate committee on forest, fish and game and a member of the following senate committees: Judiciary, railroads, privileges and elections.

A Historic Political Battle.

The choice of Senator Cobb as president pro tem. at the senate caucus was the culmination of one of the most hotly contested political battles ever seen in Albany. The room of the senate finance committee was the center of interest for the entire capital city for from seven to eight hours. Some of the senators, expecting a quick settlement, attended the caucus in evening clothes, intending to go to the theaters afterward, but the theaters were all closed at 3 o'clock in the morning, when the settlement finally came.

It was a thoroughly dramatic moment when, through the changing of the vote of Senator Orlando Hubbs the choice of Cobb was assured.

Senator Hubbs is a native of Long Island; although he spent many years in the south. He served as sheriff for several terms while in the south and was for two terms a representative in congress from North Carolina. He was a warm supporter of the late President McKinley, with whom he served in Washington, and he was a member of the assembly for six terms before he entered the senate.

One of the important questions connected with the election of Senator Cobb was that as to whether the federal authorities would attempt to discipline the senators who voted for Cobb and against Hiram, whom the Washington authorities desired chosen.

However, the belief here is that President Taft and Senator Elhu Root will not attempt to take away from the "disobedient" state senators any of the federal patronage allotted to their respective districts.

One of the Republican senators described the situation as follows: "The federal authorities are Republicans, and we elected Cobb as a Republican, and we are necessary to the party, and we will be more so next fall in the campaign for the congressional and the state tickets. Therefore it would be folly for the federal authorities to take any disciplinary measures, and they will not because they will not desire to injure the chances of the party at the next election."

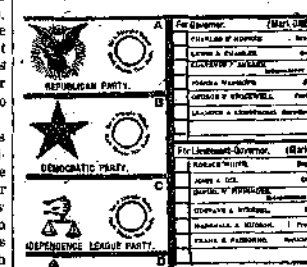

The assembly has been giving considerable attention to the subject of increasing the interest of the public in constitutional amendments. There has been much criticism of the small vote which these amendments have in the past received.

There have been three or four bills considered in the assembly relating to this subject. The views of Assemblyman Andrew F. Murray of New York will probably be accepted by the house. He has introduced a bill providing that there shall be distributed among the voters printed digests of the intent of the proposed amendments. These notices will be in addition to those given in the newspapers throughout the state.

The Ward Ballot.

Accompanying this paragraph is a reproduction of a section of the Ward Ballot, recommended by Assemblyman Andrew F. Murray of New York. The ballot is a bill providing that there shall be distributed among the voters printed digests of the intent of the proposed amendments. These notices will be in addition to those given in the newspapers throughout the state.

HOW THE NAMES AND PARTY EMBLEMS APPEAR ON THE WARD BALLOT.

Ward of New York, for use at general elections.

The assembly will take action on the bill this week, it is expected.

Assemblyman Callan is a Humorist. Assemblyman Albert Callan of Columbia county has the distinction of being a humorist of no mean ability. This dashing, debonair young statesman is also one of the most active and industrious members of the lower house. But let those beware who attempt to "bait" him in disputes on the floor of the lower house, for the witty tongue of Callan is then likely to become pointed with penetrating sarcasm.

Assemblyman Clarence MacGregor of Buffalo had occasion to regret indulging in a verbal fencing match with Callan a few days ago. Callan had on the calendar a bill relating to taxicabs.

MacGregor arose and asked of Callan: "What do you know about this question? What right have you got to introduce a bill on this subject when there is not a taxicab in the whole of Columbia county?"

"Oh, I know all about them," retorted Callan. "One time while I was in Buffalo I took a ride in the only taxicab they have in Erie county."

The assembly burst into laughter, and MacGregor bent a hasty and ignominious retreat.

VOLNEY PAPER

COMPANY'S OFFICERS

The Volney Paper Company, at its annual meeting, elected the following officers: President, F. A. Emerick, Oswego; vice president, Frank B. Dilts; secretary, Arthur G. Gilbert; treasurer, Bert W. Bennett.

No changes were made in the Board of Directors.

The company contemplates many extensions and improvements to their business this season, some of the plans being ready for immediate execution. The recent acquiring of the former L. C. Seymour flooring mill and the valuable water rights also conveyed, means much in the matter of expansion for the company.

SURROGATE'S COURT

Important Charter Amendment

At last relief for the sorely tried west sideers would seem in sight in the adoption of a resolution by the Common Council at its last meeting, providing for a charter amendment that will permit the paying of over 4 per cent. on bonds. The contracts for paving several west side streets were let by the last administration but no provision was made for sewerage, a step most necessary before the paving is done.

The $20,000 sewer bonds as advertised for several weeks did not bring forth one bid. Fulton is bonded too near the limit and the 4 per cent. is too low to make its bonds at all desired by bonding or other financial houses. The sanitary conditions on the west side are deplorable, owing to the lack of sewers, and the promises, repeatedly made to the west side that relief should be granted them, cannot be made good unless these bonds can be sold. Other cities too numerous to mention are paying more than 4 per cent. and Fulton must do the same.

It is not expected that any opposition will arise to this charter amendment as soon as the truth becomes known. Justice to our neighbors and the demands of health would prevent opposition.

CONFERENCE FOR FULTON?

It is thirteen years since the Methodist conference has been held in this city and the Methodist churches are considering the advisability of inviting the 1911 conference to accept Fulton's hospitality. To the end that definite action may be taken the following members of the official boards of the First Methodist and State Street churches have been appointed to recommend what action shall be taken: First church—W. H. Patterson, J. H. Howe and V. W. Shattuck. State Street church—E. R. Redhead, T. J. Redhead and S. D. Wells.

STATE STREET CHURCH NOTES

A week of special services will be observed commencing next Sunday and continuing every night of the week except Saturday. On Monday and Tuesday evenings the sermons will be preached by the Rev. E. C. Surridge of Constantia. On Wednesday evening Dr. A. C. Loncke of Oswego will preach. Thursday evening will be laymen's night. On Friday evening the Rev. E. H. Joy of Oswego will preach and administer the communion. A sunrise prayer service will be held Easter Sunday morning, and in the evening a cantata will be rendered by the young people of the Sunday School.

The fourth quarterly conference of the year will be held Wednesday evening, March 23, at 8:30 o'clock.

Shake Allen's Foot-Ease in one shoe and not in the other, and notice the difference. Just the thing to use when rubbers or overshoes become necessary, and your shoes seem to pinch. Old Everywhere, 25c. Don't accept any substitute.

SEALED PROPOSALS FOR COAL

Sealed proposals will be received by the City Clerk, at his office in the City Hall, Fulton, N. Y., until Tuesday, April 12th, 1910, at 4 p. m. for supplying 350 tons of furnace coal for the schools of the city; 300 tons to be delivered in June, and the balance when ordered by the Superintendent of Schools.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all bids. By order of the Board of Education.

William MacNamara, City Clerk.

PENNELVILLE

The meeting of the Oswego district Conference held here will ever be regarded as a pleasing event by our people. It was full of inspiration to those privileged to attend its sessions, the most notable being the address by Dean J. D. Brooks, L. L. D. of the College of Law, Syracuse University, the address by Rev. Charles D. Skinner, M. A., president of Caseovia Seminary and the evangelistic sermon by Rev. J. G. Cornwall of Fulton.

By reason of the illness of Rev. Clemens, Rev. Spencer Bacon Owens, Syracuse University, a former pastor, conducted the service, which event was very pleasing to his many friends who greeted him on this occasion.

Mrs. A. B. Sherwood is ill with pneumonia.

Rev. and Mrs. Clemens have so far recovered from their recent illness as to be able to go to Mrs. Clemens home at South Bay.

E. L. Kimball and Dr. V. G. Kimball spent last Sabbath with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Merriam, Fulton.

The scarlet fever patients are improving. There are no new cases.

The funeral of Owen Wallace was held on Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the home. Pennellville Grange was in charge. Rev. F. W. Butts of Syracuse officiated.

Mrs. Cora Butts, who has been ill for some time, is improving in health. Mr. Nelson's boys, who have the scarlet fever, are convalescing.

Mrs. Robert Parker, Jr., is ill with the grippe.

Mrs. M. Stevens is confined to the house with a severe cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stevens spent Sunday with friends at Central Square.

Mr. David Carey has rented his farm for the coming year to William Gardner, who will take possession on April 1st.

Mr. Jake Clark will work the Raymond Kline farm this coming season.

Mr. Joseph Bishop will work his mother's place this year. Mr. Alex Pelow will work for him.

Mr. Harry Gregory will work the Frank Washer farm.

C. Johnson will move to Clay and work one of the McKinley farms this season.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are safe, sure and reliable, and have been praised by thousands of women who have been restored to health through their gentle and curative properties. Sold by H. A. Putnam.

SOUTH GRANBY

After nearly two weeks of lovely Spring weather we are having another cold spell and snow storms.

Mrs. Irving Hammond and little daughter returned from Syracuse Monday where they had been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Dackler.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Austin visited at Mr. Gilbert Chiles' at Central Square and at Mr. Adelbert Ward's at Valley Mills last week, going to their son, Milo Austin's in Syracuse Sunday and returning to their home Monday.

Mr. Charles Chapman, Syracuse, and Mr. Thomas Leech, Cortland, were guests at Mr. J. O. Dickenson's Sunday.

The children of Fred Andrew have the mumps.

Mr. Quill Cook and Mr. Tom Dickenson and Mrs. Anna Dickenson are ill with the grippe.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Luke attended the funeral of her grandmother, Mrs. Davis, in Fulton Sunday.

Mr. Myron Degroff will move into the Garrett house the coming year.

Mr. Will Rumsey was in Syracuse last Wednesday.

Mrs. Rosa Cook and two daughters, Mildred and Marion, have the mumps.

BARKING, RASPING, HACKING COUGH

Can be broken up quickly by Allen's Lung Balsam. This old, reliable remedy has been sold for over 40 years. Ask your druggists about it.

MARRIED

The marriage of Mr. Ernest Allen of Palermo and Miss Katherine Brown of North Valley occurred at the First Methodist parsonage on Wednesday evening, Dr. J. G. Cornwall officiating. Mrs. Cornwall and Mrs. Hollinsworth were the witnesses.

IN MEMORIAM

"He Giveth His Beloved Sleep" Quietly and peacefully as the Vesper bells were ringing on Sunday, Carl Fiske, fell asleep. Just a smile the whispered word "prayer" and the tired body was at rest after weary weeks of the most patient suffering. She longed to go home, earth and all it holds dear, had lost for her its charm in the brighter vision of the "beyond."

She will be missed from the little family circle, from the Sunday school class and among her associates where her faithful, consistent life was a constant witness for her Savior.

The beautiful lessons of patience and trust we have learned from her will not soon be forgotten. Early in life's journey she took on board her little bark the Great Pilot. He has guided her safely into the harbor. We can almost hear her whispering the words of the beautiful poem: "A few who have watched me sail away Will miss my craft from the busy bay; Some loving souls that my heart holds dear, In silent sorrow will drop a tear; But I shall have peacefully fared my sail In inquiring sheltered from storm or gale. And greeted the friends who have gone before O'er the unknown sea to the unseen Shores."

Speaker Cannon conferred for an hour with the insurgents yesterday. What they talked about is not stated, but those who know Mr. Cannon are confident that the subject was not the immortality of the soul, or any thing like that.

THE NEW C. & N. W. R. R. CHICAGO DEPOT AT CHICAGO

From my laboratory window on Randolph street I can look out on the half completed depot that is being built for the Chicago and North Western railroad, and it is one of the big things that is happening in Chicago at the present. The total cost will be $20,000,000, and it will cover three large city blocks with an area of thirteen acres and a frontage of 320x1222 feet. The contractors paid $2,350 for the building permits, and for the use of the alleys and streets over which the depot has been built, a much larger sum was paid. The buildings and train sheds extend from Madison to Lake street, between Clinton and Canal streets just west of the Chicago river. Washington and Randolph streets will be tunneled and arched so as not to interfere with street traffic. Many fine buildings were wrecked in clearing this space for the work and the purchase and condemnation cost an immense amount of money. All the Northwestern tracks in Chicago have been elevated and in order to get the trains into the new sheds and not interfere with the surface traffic on Lake street and the Oak Park elevated railroad tracks above the elevated road was lifted bodily and a combination bridge put in that would clear the surface cars and also the elevated tracks. Two thousand feet of the elevated structure was raised from three to six feet while the trains were kept running and they are now using the new steel arch bridge which cost $80,000. This sum was spent to get the new road over one street. Surface cars now on Lake street, Northwestern trains above them and Oak Park elevated trains above the steam trains. The depot proper will take 9,700,000 brick besides the granite and terra cotta trimmings, mountains of cement and crushed stone and several forests of pine have already gone under ground for the foundations and an army of 2,500 men are working constantly in order to finish the work this year. Three shifts of men were worked in the caissons on the Madison street side and the cement columns ninety, and one hundred feet that were built from bed rock to the earth's surface presented the hardest problem; that has been met. Three cement columns are now used for the foundations for all the Chicago sky scrapers. They are usually eight to twelve feet in diameter and go from eighty to one hundred feet down to bed rock. Usually the men have no trouble in digging the wells for it is mostly clay that is met, but in the depot site a wet porous gravel that shifted like quicksand was met and the engineers installed air locks. The gravel would not retain the compressed air and it made trouble by appearing at various places three and four blocks away. Finally a refrigerating plant was established, the ground was frozen solid, and then the diggers got through the troublesome strata, and the wells were filled with concrete.

One hundred and ten of these giant pillars of concrete were put down and so the frame work of steel rests on bed rock. Granite, glazed, terra cotta, brick, glass, steel and tiling all enter into the make up of this giant depot. Soon trains entering from two divisions over six tracks will be unloading and loading an army of people all times of the day and night. All the new methods of handling building materials are in use on different parts of the structure and a day could be profitably spent going from one section to another investigating the work. The Pennsylvania railroad is soon to build as large or larger depot, just across from the Northwestern facing on Madison street, to replace the old Union depot. Thus the drift of traffic will be turned to the west side and the whole character of that section will be changed. The Wandering Jew, Chicago, Ill., Mar. 15, 1910.

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull or blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver disorders, menses, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves as a rule later on the surface. Headache, stains around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the digestive organs are needing help for correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Bowls Tablets give this necessary aid. They gently but firmly cleanse the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. Chamberlain's Stomach and Bowls Tablets are gentle but they have taken medicine. Chamberlain's Tablets can be relied upon to relieve biliousness, indigestion, constipation and diarrhea. Sold

TO APPOINT APPRAISER

Albany, March 16.—An amendment to the Tax law, introduced today by Assemblyman Merritt, of St. Lawrence county, authorizes the State Comptroller in his discretion to appoint and at pleasure remove one transfer tax appraiser in each county for which he is not required by present law to appoint appraisers.

The proposed bill provides for the appointment of an appraiser in Oswego county at a salary not to exceed $200 per annum.

The work of appraising estates in Oswego county is now done by the County Treasurer, who is given five per cent. of the tax collected. It is understood that these fees average about $1,000. If the Merritt bill is adopted into law it will reduce the income of the County Treasurer by that amount.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS

Supervisor Wisner Says Enumerators Will Be Appointed Late This Month.

Frank C. Wisner of Lowville, supervisor of the census of the 28th congressional district, said that he had sent the recommendations for enumerators to the bureau of commerce and labor at Washington and would receive the names of the appointees the latter part of this month.

The field work begins April 15 and in towns of less than 5,000 inhabitants and in the rural districts the enumerators will be given 30 days in which to finish the work. In towns larger than 5,000 they will be given 15 days. The figures are then classified in the offices at Lowville and sent to the census bureau, where they are classified with the entire returns from all over the country. The first classification will probably take until some time in July.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMENT

[Syracuse Post-Standard]

Luther W. Mott may become a candidate for Congress from the Oswego-Lewis-Jefferson district.

Should Congressman Knapp retire, Oswego would have reason to look for the nomination. Jefferson has two Supreme Court justices and senator, and Lewis has one justice and congressman, while Oswego has nothing.

Still Mr. Mott is to be commended for not launching his boom just now. Representative Knapp has not been well, and it is not improbable, may decide to leave Congress at the conclusion of the present term. If he determines to be a candidate for reelection, Mr. Mott will discover that Mr. Knapp's popularity is spread well over three counties. He has been a loyal and efficient representative of the Twenty-eighth district.

CONGRESSMAN KNAPP IN LOWVILLE

Congressman Knapp has gone to his home in Lowville for a few days. Rumor has it that Mrs. Knapp has purchased a very fine automobile and that the congressman, has proceeded home in order that he may enjoy the first ride in the machine. At any rate he deserves a rest, for no man works harder or more hours a day. His fight to get the present trouble over the titles to Pine Plains quickly settled was a difficult one to win, yet he succeeded, thereby insuring the carrying on of the military maneuvers there the coming summer.—Utica Press.

A GOOD WAR RECORD

William Ellis of Second street, this city, enlisted in September, 1862, in Company D, 147th Regiment under Captain Alexander Hulet. His father, Alonzo Ellis, enlisted in the same regiment from Palermo and died South. William Ellis was in eight long hard fought battles and a number of skirmishes. He was wounded once by a piece of a shell striking him in one of his knees at the charge on Petersburg, June 18th. At another time his canteen of water was struck on his hip partly turning him around. He was in all the principal battles of the army of the Potomac, being in the three days fight at Gettysburg, also at Appomattox when General Lee surrendered to General Grant. He has received books and an official record of all the engagements he was in with a medal from the Army Department.

Some twenty souvenirs collected in Mr. Ellis has a cabinet containing Dixie-rebel buttons, lock from a Confederate bank note, a dirt knife he carried through his travels, also a rebel knife he exchanged coffee for.

At the battle of Cold Harbor a Lieutenant of the 7th Indiana Regiment with a squad of men went out from the breastworks into a cornfield towards a log house and captured three or four men and a stand of Rebel colors. Just as soon as they came back behind the breastworks, General Hagood, a Confederate General, who was mounted on a white horse and had witnessed the capture dashed at full speed around the end of the Union breastworks among our men, drew his revolver and fired at the Lieutenant wounding him in one of his hips and as he fell over he threw up the colors which the General seized, then whirled his horse and was dashing back. Getting a few rods beyond the breastworks when our men recovered from the surprise, it being done very quickly, discharged their guns at the General killing him instantly. As he fell one of our men rushed up to him and took his gold watch and chain and cuff buttons. Mr. Ellis said he wanted a souvenir of the occasion so he clipped the star from his coat collar which he showed me.

Mr. Ellis has been president of the 147th Veterans Association for years. A free pass was sent him to be present at the unveiling of the monument of General Green whose corps he was in when the General was killed. He had the honor of being in command of the 147th Regiment under Major General Daniel E. Sickles, a hero of Gettysburg. Mr. Ellis saluted the General and asked him where he wanted his regiment, his answer was, "God bless the 147th; right up here in front."

Mr. Ellis has a fine Corps banner of the 147th regiment that he got at Gettysburg.

Miss Eunice Sisson, a teacher in Fulton High School has presented Mr. Ellis with her brother George's sword and belt. He was First Lieutenant and was killed or died with disease in the 147th Regiment.

Mr. Ellis was also recently presented by G. F. Schenck previous to his going South with two splendid dress coats, one with the shoulder straps of a Captain on that was worn by Captain D. F. Schenck after whom Schenck Post was named. Mr. Schenck died at home after the war with a chronic disease. The other coat was the uniform of a First Lieutenant, worn by William Schenck, who was shot. I think he was brought home by his sister, Mrs. G. S. Eggleston. Mr. Ellis has had command of the escort job for years at funerals and on Decoration day and has been officer of the day in Post Schenck for twenty-two years. He is also quarter master of the Continentals having charge of their uniforms and equipments.

PROFITS IN CONTRACTING

The McDermott Contracting Company, which for some time past has been in the hands of a receiver, has prepared a petition to be made to the United States Circuit Court of the Northern District of New York asking to be permitted to issue receiver's certificates to the amount of $50,000. The petition has not been presented, but it has been sent to local creditors of the company for their inspection and approval. The petition gives the gross assets of the company as $301,791.45 and the gross liabilities as $374,270.58. The petition states that under the new arrangement whereby the canal is closed South of Fulton, there is an apparent profit at sight from the contract there of $165,000.

Did You Ever See a Tired SHOP GIRL? Or a Worn Out ERRAND BOY?

Hanging on to the strap in a crowded street car after a hard day—going often to a cheerless home—or to a miserable hall bedroom in a cheap boarding house? "Yes?" "Lots of them?" We thought so? We have all seen them! Couldn't happen to your boy or girl, though! No? That's what their Father may have thought. He stopped at thinking about it. Didn't act when he could have bought the Life Insurance policy which would have prevented it all. Now his Boy—who has been robbed of the education which would have given him an even start in the world—and his Girl who has been robbed of her chance of a Home—meaning everything to a young woman—have to pay the price of the father's neglect, or thoughtlessness, or indifference, or carelessness, (call it what you will, we call it criminal, the result to the children is the same), and it's a heavy price and an unfair one, which they have to pay. Better take stock of your Life Insurance. Is it enough? No? We thought not!

Send for The Equitable Life Assurance Society man—NOW—TO-DAY. You don't know, it may already be too late for you to get these benefits! He will tell you:

First: Whether you can become a member of the Equitable Society.

Second: How little it will cost to put an Equitable policy between your boy and your girl and the 12-hour day!

J. C. O'Brien Corset Department

Complete With All the Newest Styles for Spring

We give you herewith complete descriptions of the "Nuform" and "Reduso" styles, that you may become better acquainted with this most popular corset.

The W. B. Nuform

Is constructed along the lines of the perfect figures giving the charms of symmetry to every wearer. Every NUFORM model is made with a graceful bust line, a seductive incurve at the waist, a sculptured back effect and slightly pronounced hips, all of which are so essential to the current styles. There is no figure that cannot be fitted in one of the many attractive styles.

Nuform Style No. 488

An exceptionally good model for average and well developed figures. Average high bust, long over hips, back and abdomen. Unique coat construction over hips and abdomen, insuring comfort with modish lines. Made of excellent Contil. Hose Supporters. All sizes ..... Price $2.00

Nuform Style No. 482

For average and well developed figures. Medium high bust, long over hips and back — unboned apron extension, vent on each side of front steels, insuring perfect comfort. Made of excellent quality Contil, trimmed with embroidered edging. Three pair Hose Supporters. All sizes ..... Price $3.00

VICTORIA PAPER MILLS COMPANY

Thirtieth Anniversary of the Organization of the Corporation Celebrated in an Appropriate Manner by Business Management and Employees—An Enjoyable Event Closing with the Bestowal of a Valuable Souvenir on President E. R. Redhead.

The thirtieth anniversary of the organization of the Victoria Paper Mills Company was celebrated in a most appropriate manner last Saturday evening. In commemoration of the event, a reception and dinner was tendered by the officials of the corporation to the employees. This proved to be unexampled in the history of manufacturing industries of Fulton. The employees numbered about 125, some of whom had been with the concern for at least twenty years and employers and employees exhibited a spirit of good comradeship which was a delightful privilege to witness.

The guests were seated at five long tables, which occupied nearly all the available space in the basement of the Universalist church. Spotless linen, cut-glass, china and silver, flowers and fruit, were the table decorations, while bouquets of carnations graced the place-cards of each guest. The favors were miniature, but seasonable Spring chickens.

The Reception Committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Redhead, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Snyder, Mr. Charles R. Bennett, Mrs. Mary Osborne and Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Burrows, greeted the guests on their arrival. The room was most artistically decorated with the national colors, and Buell's orchestra discoursed excellent music.

The usher was Mr. W. L. Forsyth. After invocation by the Rev. F. A. Miller and at the conclusion of a delicious supper, served by the ladies of Zion Episcopal Church, Mr. F. W. Snyder, toastmaster, said: "I am very glad that we have been able to meet together in this informal manner. Illness has hindered a few from being present, which we sincerely regret, but we are confident they are with us in spirit."

"When I was asked to act as toastmaster, I inquired what I would have to do and was told that I would be expected to keep order and avoid a Quaker meeting. A further inquiry revealed that at a Quaker meeting no one spoke until the spirit moved him, and when it did, it sometimes happened that several spoke, sang or prayed at the same time, and confusion resulted."

"Mr. Redhead believes that the history of the Victoria Paper Mills Company should be given first. Mr. Bennett, moved by the spirit, might cause him to recollect that on one or two occasions he failed to speak soon enough and instruct him to hush. Miss Collins knows that the ladies should really come first. Mr. Kollar might feel that if he is to retain his title as 'the early bird,' he must be up and doing. So there would be a great deal of noise and confusion."

"It is strange and sometimes true that familiarity breeds contempt. It is quite true, generally, that familiarity breeds indifference. I mean this: We read of the beautiful scenery to be found along the banks of some foreign river and sigh that we cannot see it with our own eyes. We lose sight of the fact that along the banks of our own Oswego River are to be found as picturesque spots as on any river in the world. People have traveled thousands of miles to visit Niagara, but there are people living within the sound of the roar of that mighty cataract who have never been close to it. People have

E. R. Redhead, President.

Victoria Paper Mills Company printed in the program, which could be read at leisure.

In the speaker's judgment it was a most happy thought to celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the founding of the Victoria Paper Mills Company, for it brought together the entire working force, and with the addition of the ladies, was to him, a most enjoyable sight. He mentioned the Columbus Day celebration in Fulton in 1892, when the boys of the Victoria Company elicited many well-deserved compliments regarding their appearance and gentlemanly demeanor in the parade.

The Victoria Company was the patriarch of all the paper companies in Fulton, the speaker continued. It was, in fact, the pioneer.

Mr. Redhead became reminiscent and recalled his boyhood days in Fulton. His father had served as minister of the M. E. Church during a full term and the speaker had attended Valley Seminary. In later years he became a travelling salesman for Mr. Forest G. Weeks, but became tired of that life and thought he would look for something different. He communicated his desires to Mr. Weeks, who suggested the purchase of a paper mill in Fulton, which had been offered for sale. This was accomplished at that time.

Mr. Redhead paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Week's business integrity, sagacity and honesty. He also spoke of Mr. Charles S. Eggleston, another of the directors. It was a melancholy thought that he (the speaker) and Mr. Piner, were the only surviving incorporators alive of the original company. The men who were prominent in business life at that time had passed away. He spoke of Mr. Willis Nelson, who was yet alive and active and hoped he might live for many years to come.

As the development of the Victoria Paper Mills Company was of the nature of an autobiography, he preferred to hear others tell of its remarkable growth and prosperity.

In closing, the speaker referred to many reverses, which at times seemed like insurmountable obstacles, fires, etc., which turned out to be blessings in disguise. During all the years of the existence of the Victoria Company there had always been the most kindly relations between the employees and the business management. Peace and harmony existed, and to-day an excellent feeling prevails. The speaker closed with the following quotation:

"No good deed ever dies. Who ever sows courtesy reaps friendship, and he who plants kindness gathers love."

"Recollections of a Bachelor" By Mr. C. R. Bennett

In introducing Mr. Bennett, Mr. Snyder expressed regret that Mr. James Carroll, the stenographer of the company, was absent because of illness. It had been arranged to have him set down in writing Mr. Bennett's words in order that they might be put in book form, as the speaker was sure the recital would excite the renowned "Reveries of a Bachelor," which had been read by thousands. As an extra inducement, it was possible to guarantee Mr. Bennett the sale of at least 115 copies of his memoirs. Mr. Bennett has had some experience in politics, and it might be construed as an impertinence to inquire whether the alderman's pathway was strewn with thorns or overhung with ripened plums. Be that as it may, the speaker continued, Mr. Bennett was recognized by his acquaintances and business associates as an upright man and a Mason.

Mr. Bennett thanked Mr. Snyder for the excellent preface he gave the proposed volume. He regretted the appellation or title of the book because he was still in the race and sincerely hoped that before another anniversary rolled around a change in the spirit of his dreams might take place.

"The Victoria and I" By Mr. C. H. Burrows

In introducing Mr. Burrows, Mr. Snyder burst forth into poetry, as follows:

"The man who wins is an average man; Not built on any peculiar plan; Not blessed with any peculiar luck. Just steady and earnest and full of pluck."

When set a task no one else can do. He buckled down till he put it through. And he works and works till one fine day

CURRENT EVENTS CLUB

An interesting and instructive Debate on The Proposed Income Tax.

A perplexing problem was submitted for debate at the regular session of the Current Events club last Monday evening. The subject was: Resolved, That the income tax should be adopted.

Mr. F. D. VanWagonen and Mr. Lewis Rice took the affirmative side of the question and the Rev. J. C. York and Mr. L. W. Emerick the negative end of the argument.

Mr. VanWagonen asserted that the tax was a necessity because under the constitution there was no method of levying a direct tax. For over 100 years an income tax had been favored by men high in the councils of the nation to meet an emergency which might arise if the United States were to be suddenly plunged into war.

Mr. York deprecated the adoption of such a measure as in the judgment of many such an income would work inequality and injustice, and citizens of this country should be opposed to the measure because of that and for other pertinent reasons.

Mr. Lewis Rice, for the affirmative side, declared that the present mode of taxation had been pushed to the limit of efficiency, and logical reasons were given for the imposition of such a tax under the plea of necessity.

Mr. Emerick, arguing on the negative side of the question, pointed out that the Federal government was supreme and had the legal right under the constitution to levy a tax to carry out its functions. He further asserted that a tax upon the income of the industrious was a tax upon ability, intelligence and all that they implied, and while such a tax might be in accord with a popular view it could not fail to be essentially unfair and vicious.

Mr. York in summing up believed that an income tax was an infamous proposition.

Mr. VanWagonen stated that such a law would be a weak spot in the constitution of the United States.

The subject of the debate was discussed by the Rev. and Mrs. Cornwell on Monday evening, April 4, under the leadership of Prof. Fairgrieve and Attorney G. S. Piper.

Each member will be expected to respond with some current event and officers will be elected for next season.

SHORTAGE IN OSWEGO FUNDS

The expert accountants who are examining the books in the different departments of Oswego, have discovered a shortage of $2,534 in the city treasury and ex-City Clerk Devine has deposited with the City Chamberlain $2,500 to cover the amount. It is also alleged that since this announcement it has been found that $117 marriage license money has not been accounted for.

It is alleged that many important vouchers are missing from the city clerk's department and that money has been secured by duplicating bills for disbursements. The discovery has caused a profound sensation in Oswego and will undoubtedly lead to a more modern business system being installed in the different civic offices.

WOODBURY MEMORIAL ROOM

Beautiful Tribute to Memory of Deceased Physician—To Be Equipped by Former Patients and Friends.

Recently a little gathering of the former patients, neighbors and friends of the late Dr. W. L. Woodbury was held at the home of Miss Grace J. Tucker, and plans were perfected for the furnishing of a room in the Lee Memorial hospital, to be known as the W. L. Woodbury room. Mrs. N. N. Stranahan was elected president of the organization; Mrs. C. H. David vice-president, and Miss Grace Tucker secretary and treasurer. As soon as the plan became known among the friends, its popularity was attested by the voluntary offers of assistance and contributions until sufficient had been assured to warrant the ladies in going forward with the project, certain of ultimate success.

As a means of raising sufficient money to finance the plan, afternoon teas have been held at the homes of several of the friends, and other plans for the securing of necessary funds are under contemplation. The Woodbury room was the last single-bed room to be secured in the hospital, and it is proposed to have it ready for occupancy at the time the hospital is opened for use.

The subject of this beautiful tribute was a resident of Fulton for over 60 years and he passed away in

The Late Dr. Woodbury

1903. That his life was well spent and in the service of the people, regardless of pecuniary consideration, is evidenced by the fact that his memory is still a pleasure to those who knew him, in whatever capacity. No soliciting of funds has been done, but it is believed that there will be many contributions of both large and smaller amounts toward this memorial to a man who was charitable in the largest sense of the word, toward all with whom he came in contact.

Contributions may be made to either Mrs. Stranahan, 499 E. Broadway, or to Miss Grace Tucker, 161 South Second street, this city.

PHOENIX REPUBLICAN

The village election held in Phoenix on March 15, resulted in favor of the Republicans with the exception of Mr. R. Y. Allen, who was beaten by Mr. H. D. Fox, a Democrat. A proposition to have a sewer commission was carried. The following is the record of the vote, in several cases the same name being on both tickets: President, J. Addison Hawks, Rep., 153; J. A. Hawks, Dem., 68; trustee, two years, Judson W. Loomis, Rep., 156; J. W. Loomis, Dem., 71; Ernest E. Burleigh, Rep., 139; John O'Brien, Dem., 85; trustee, one year, Clarence A. Larned, Rep., 145; Charles Sixbury, Dem., 87; Reuben Y. Allen, Rep., 112; William D. Fox, Dem., 122; assessor, William S. Blake, Rep., 145; A. E. Russ, Dem., 85; collector, Jacob H. Fickard, Rep., 145; Charles W. Tubbs, Dem., 86; treasurer, Edmund G. Hutchinson, Rep., 156; B. G. Hutchinson, Dem., 73

MARRIED

The marriage of Miss Edna Huffstater and Mr. G. W. Allen of Adams was solemnized on Wednesday, Dr. J. G. Cornwell being the officiating clergyman. The happy young couple left immediately after the ceremony for a brief bridal trip, after which they will make their home in Adams.

The marriage of Miss Frances Marlan Watson, daughter of Druggist and Mrs. W. J. Watson, to Mr. Ralph E. Havens of New York city, was solemnized at high noon on Saturday at the home of the bride, Rev. C. G. Wadsworth, rector of Zion Episcopal church, officiating. Only a few intimate friends and relatives were present and the bride wore her traveling suit, of green cloth, tailored with hat to match. The young couple were unattended. Following the ceremony and congratulations, a bridal luncheon was served and Mr. and Mrs. Havens left for their future home in the metropolis, where Mr. Havens holds a very excellent position with the New York water supply interests. The many friends of the popular young couple extend congratulations.

Wednesday evening the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Scholz was the scene of a pretty wedding when their youngest daughter, Miss Anna Scholz, was united in marriage with Mr. William Storms, an employee of the electric light company. Rev. W. L. Sawtelle was the officiating clergyman and the ceremony was witnessed by half a hundred relatives and friends. The young couple were unattended. The bride was becomingly gowned in blue silk and her only ornament was a gold cross, an heirloom in the family, which was presented by the bride's great grandfather to his bride in Germany over 75 years ago. A bountiful wedding supper was served the guests at the conclusion of the ceremony and congratulations, the young couple leaving later for Clinton, where they are visiting Mr. Storm's parents.

A romance which began while the principals were classmates at Oberlin College two or three years ago, culminated Tuesday evening in the marriage of Mr. Cecil Burlin of North Dakota, to Miss Lula Merriam of Phoenix, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman D. Merriam on Fulton street, Phoenix. About one hundred guests were present, coming from Syracuse, Clinton Springs, Cortland, Fulton, Cicero, Palermo and Montreal, Can., and Phoenix. The ring ceremony of the Congregational church was used, the officiating clergyman being the Rev. Theodore W. Harris, a former pastor, but now of Ithaca, N. Y. The bride and groom were attended by Wayne Merriam and Miss Helen Burton, brother and sister of the happy couple. The house was handsomely decorated with smilax and ferns and the bride carried a large bouquet of bridal roses. The ribbon girls were Ruth and Vera Sweet, nieces of the bride, and the wedding march was rendered by Miss Anna Loomis accompanied by Mrs. Lucy Spencer with violin.

The wedding presents were many and handsome and consisted of solid silver, cut-glass, china, linen, etc. After the ceremony a dainty wedding supper was served to the assembled guests, and a social time enjoyed, enlivened by orchestra selections until about eleven o'clock, when the happy couple departed amid showers of rice and confetti for a short wedding trip to New York City after which they will reside in Anna, Ill., where the groom has a position in a bank.

The trust seems more trusting than they were a few months ago.

CORRESPONDENCE

Dear Home Paper: I see by your paper that Fulton has a Boat club
as well as the Chamber of Commerce.
So they have have in San Diego. Let me tell you a little of each. The Boat club is having just now a free fair for a week, showing only "made in San Diego" goods. Each exhibitor pays $25.00 for a booth. A fine orchestra gives three concerts a day and the crowds are there all the time.
Fulton could have a good fair on the same plan for they certainly make things enough there.

The Chamber of Commerce has one whole floor in the beautiful building of the Elks and the free exhibit there is really a fine museum. At a recent visit there I was allowed to handle any thing I wished, to get sizes and weights. Here are a few of the big things: The first ostrich egg laid in the United States, January 24, 1881. Silk rising is quite a business here and there was a fine display along that line from the leaf of the mulberry tree to the finished product. This is the banner county of the banner-honey State of the United States. One year lately the shipments were 100 cars at $1,000 to $1, 500 a car; just a nice tidy little income. Yellow corn 11 weeks old stood 15 feet and two ears to every stalk and such ears of corn, 12 to 14 inches. Prize raisins as big as prunes, you had to take two bits of ones.
Grape fruit, 19 inches in circumference; white radishes 18 inches long, 31 inches around; sweet potatoes 15 inches long; wild cucumber, just like our old aunties used to grow over the porches, with a little prickly fruit the size of a lemon. This one was 17 inches long and 41 inches around; winter squash 60 inches around; long neck squash 32 and 36 inches long; two watermelons weighing 63 and 67 pounds.

They had a silver of red wood the that was two inches thick, six feet wide and 12 feet long. The rest had to be broken off to get this small piece into the door. A turtle shell 35 inches long recorded the catch of one day's fishing by a single boat.
Twelve kinds of netting, 1964 pounds in all. Do they beat that around Pathfinder Island? One large bird was over 7 feet from tip to tip and sporting a bill of 14 inches. There were also branches, leaves and fruit of the bread-fruit tree and the ice cream fruit of Mexico. This looked like large winter pears of the russet variety.

RARE METAL REVOLUTION- IZED ELECTRIC LIGHTING

(St. Albans, Vt., Messenger)

One October night in the year 1781, while Washington's cannon were demanding the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown, a German scientist, working in his little laboratory by the light from tallow candles, discovered a new and most unusual metal which he found impossible to melt in his crude charcoal furnace. He called the new metal Tungsten, from the Swedish "tung" (heavy) and "sten" (stone) because the heavy ores had come from Sweden. Little did the old man know, as he worked away by candlelight to give his discovery to the world, that his find would one day, a hundred and twenty-five years later, completely revolutionize electric lighting.

Twenty-five years ago—Thomas A.
Edison produced the first successful incandescent electric lamp after other inventors had worked for nearly fifty years to perfect the device. The filaments for Edison's first lamps were made of carbonized strips of bamboo heated white, hot in a vacuum globe by electricity. After 1894 carbonized cotton cellulose was used for the filaments and it seemed as though the lamp had surely reached perfection.

The filaments of incandescent electric lamps were made of carbon because no other material could be found which would withstand the intense heat. Every well-known metal was tried but melted before reaching the required temperatures. Then the inventors began to experiment with the more uncommon metals and again a German scientist took up the study of Tungsten.

At first the great trouble was to secure pure Tungsten. This difficulty was overcome with the aid of an electric furnace, but the product, in the form of a gray, metallic powder, proved so refractory that it could not be melted into ingots or drawn out into wire. An experimental filament was made by mixing the fine powder with a paste and squirting the mixture through a die much the same as a spider spins its web. This thread was in turn heated in an electric furnace until the powder was fused into the form of a fine wire.
With the melting point of Tungsten so much higher than any other known metal it was possible to heat the filament to greater incandescences, producing more and better light with less waste of current in useless heat.

Then the electrical inventors awoke to the fact that the very substance they were seeking, that which Edison had scoured the world to find, lay under their hand all the time, and Tungsten, useless and practically unknown for over a century, came into its own and began the wonderful task of revolutionizing incandescent electric lighting.

The advent of the new Tungsten lamp was startling to the users of electricity for lighting purposes, for they saw at once that the new lamps would easily give the same light as the common incandescent lamps for one-third the cost. A home that was lighted by electricity for $2.35 a month could be lighted with the new lamps for seventy-eight cents. Not only that, but the light from the new Tungsten lamps proved to be pure white, very nearly akin to actual sunshine, soft, pleasing and beneficial to the eyes, and not of a yellow cast like the common incandescent lamps.

The new Tungsten lamps will replace those now in use without special fixtures; in fact, any sixteen candle-power incandescent lamp can be replaced with a thirty-two candle-power Tungsten which will give twice the light and save twenty per cent.
of the cost. The new lamps are the same as the old in size, shape and general appearance, the difference being the light-giving filament within the glass bulb. The General Electric Company has recently developed special processes for making Tungsten
lamps.

ASSEMBLYMAN SWEET'S BILLS

The Assembly has advanced to third reading the bill of Assemblyman Sweet, amending the agricultural law by placing limitations upon actions against the New York State Agriculture Society, or any county, town or other agricultural exposition, organized under the laws of this State.

The two Fulton bills of Assemblyman Sweet, have just been introduced in the Legislature by Senator Cobb.
One imposes from 2 to 4 1/2 per cent,
the maximum interest on city bonds, and the other authorized the sale of $20,000 of sewer bonds at not exceeding 4 1/2 per cent interest.

That Lame Back Means Kidney Disease

And to Relieve the Lame and Aching Back,
You Must First Relieve the Kidneys

There is no question about that at all—for the lame and aching back is caused by a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder.
It is only common sense, any way
—that you must cure a condition
by removing the cause of the condition. And lame and aching back are not by any means the only symptoms of derangement of the kidneys and bladder. There are a multitude of well-known and unmistakable indications of a more or less dangerous condition. Some of these are, for instance: Extreme and unnatural lassitude and weariness, nervous irritability, heart irregularity, "nerves on edge," sleeplessness and inability to secure rest, scalding sensation and acrid secretion in the urine, inflammation of the bladder and passages, etc.
DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder
Pills are an exceptionally meritorious remedy for any and all affections or diseased conditions of these organs. These Pills operate directly and promptly—and their beneficial results are at once felt.
They regulate, purify, and effectually heal and restore the kidneys, bladder and liver, to perfect and healthy condition—even in some of the most advanced cases.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.
want every man and woman who have the least suspicion that they are afflicted with kidney and bladder diseases to at once write them,
and a trial box of these Pills will be sent free by return mail postpaid.

SAD FATALITY

William Burrows, aged 26, formerly employed by the Victoria Paper company, but for the past month superintendent of the Three Rivers Paper company, Phoenix, was caught in the machinery of the mill on Monday morning about 10 o'clock and he was horribly crushed and torn and many bones were broken. When it was found that he was probably injured fatally it was decided to bring him to the hospital in this city and he was placed on the trolley reaching here at 11:25. The ambulance removed him to the hospital where he lingered, suffering but unconscious, until about three o'clock when death mercifully came to his relief. The funeral services were held from Brown's undertaking rooms on Tuesday afternoon, Dr. F. G. Cornwell officiating, the members of Neaphepanta Lodge, I. O. O. F., and a large delegation of former co-workers in the Victoria mill attending. The body was taken to the former home in Skaneateles for interment. The survivors are his parents, who reside at Mottville; five brothers, Charles Burrows, Andrew Burrows and Fred Burrows of Fulton, George Burrows of Syracuse and David Burrows of Skaneateles, and five sisters, Mrs. Charles King of Mottville, Mrs. Harlow Couch of Little, Pa., Mrs. J. A. Garbale and Mrs. Avery Stone of Auburn and Mrs. William Gorham of Syracuse.

A new lot of men's patent leather shoes for the Spring trade at Morton & Shattuck's.

DEATHS

A telegram on Wednesday brought news of the death of William E. aged 89, and for several years a prominent resident of this city, but who had made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Rose, in Buffalo, since the death of his wife. The remains were brought to this city on Friday afternoon for interment in Mt. Adnah.

Russell J. Whittle, aged 48, died on Monday at the home in Hannibal street in which he was born. The deceased was an employee of the Foster Bros. & Chatterbox. The widow, one brother and three sisters survive. The funeral will be held from the late home on Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock, Rev. S. T. Dibble of Ogdensburg officiating.

Caroline C. Harding, aged 69, died on Saturday at her home in Palermo, surviving her husband. The late Harding, by a week. The funeral services were held from the Bristol Hill church on Tuesday and burial was made in Valley Center cemetery. The immediate survivors are three sons, Carlton B. Harding of Palermo, Fred R. Harding of Fulton and John C. Harding of Cleveland, O., and two daughters, Mrs. Carrie Green of Oakland, Cal., and Mrs. Helen M. Pettengill of Dempster.

Mrs. Hannah Fish suffered a stroke of paralysis last Tuesday and she passed to rest at her home, 310 Union street, on Sunday evening. The deceased was born in Scotland on Feb. 13 1833, and she had resided in Fulton for 54 years. Of a happy temperament the deceased had made many friends who grieve at her demise. She was one of the oldest members of the First Methodist church and was always active in the work; she was also a member of the Ladies of the G. A. R. The funeral services will be held from the home of her sister, Mrs. Ella Wolover, in South Third street on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will be made in Mt. Adnah.

Mrs. Fred Rudd, aged 26, died at the home of her mother in Syracuse on Sunday, death coming as a merciful release from suffering for two years with cancer. The deceased was a former resident of this city where she had many friends who sympathize deeply with the afflicted husband and mother in their loss. The deceased underwent one severe operation two years ago in hope that the progress of the fatal disease might be arrested, but to no avail. The remainder of her life was a history of intense suffering, patiently borne during which time she was tenderly cared for by husband and mother. The body was brought to this city on Tuesday and the funeral was held from the First Methodist church this Wednesday afternoon.

The many friends of Grove H. Dutton, aged 63, were shocked to learn of his death which occurred late on Tuesday night of last week at his home on the North River road. The deceased had been in failing health for several months and recently underwent a critical operation in a hospital, the only chance he had for life. It was thought that the surgeon's knife had given him a new lease of life but his constitution was too shattered by months of suffering to rally from the shock of the operation, and death came almost as he was sending a message of cheer to his Grand Army comrades that he hoped soon to be with them again. The deceased was a native of Granby and he held a most enviable record for service to his country during the Civil War, giving up an arm at the battle of Gettysburg and almost surrendering his life. He was Past Commander of Post Schenck, G. A. R. to this city and he had held many positions of trust and responsibility in political life, being at one time supervisor of Granby. At the time of his death he held a position in the Custom House in Oswego. The funeral services were held on Monday from the Presbyterian church, the Rev. W. L. Sawtelle officiating, and interment was made in Mt. Adnah. The services were under the auspices of Post Schenck. Besides the widow, three daughters, Beattie, Ruth and Anna, of Granby, and five sons, Ralph J. Dutton, Grove H. Dutton, Jr., and Carl E. Dutton of Granby, Bruce A. Dutton and Orson H. Dutton of Monticello, and one sister, Mrs. C. M. Strickland of this city survive, with a countless number of friends to mourn the loss of a noble friend and a good citizen. The honorary bearers were Messrs. Walter O. Briggs, Abinthy Clark and Wesley Rice of this city, C. H. Barker, Southwest Oswego, Walter Van Alstyne, Eddie Watson, Wm. Flack, and A. N. Beadle, Oswego, all members of the 14th Regiment of which Mr. Dutton was a member. Mr. W. H. Salbeck, and Collector John S. Parsons of Oswego also attended the funeral services.

The death of Fannie H., aged 67, wife of Mr. Almon Bristol, occurred at the home in First street on Sunday morning after a two weeks illness with pneumonia coupled with complications that made the unequal battle a losing one from the start. The deceased had been a resident of Fulton for 41 years and she had many friends who are deeply grieved at her passing away. The funeral services were held from the late home on Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. W. L. Sawtelle, pastor of the Presbyterian church, of which Mrs. Bristol was a member officiating. Interment was made in the family lot in Mt. Adnah. Besides the stricken husband, one daughter, Mrs. F. W. Palmer of Auburn; three sons, Cameron, Philadelphia, Pa., Harold, Indianapolis, Ind., and James of Syracuse, and two sisters, Mrs. Eliza Merriam and Mrs. Pauline Langdon of this city, survive to mourn the loss of a devoted parent and sister.

FORTNIGHTLY SHAKESPEARE CLUB RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, Death has again invaded our circle and removed from our midst one of its first and most beloved members, be it

Resolved, In the death of Mrs. Fannie Bristol, our club has sustained a loss we are not prepared to meet. Always genial, smiling and happy, ever ready to take an active interest in all its work, she leaves an empty chair which cannot easily be filled. With many years of useful life seemingly before her; a devoted husband, dutiful and loving children, our Heavenly Father in His infinite wisdom has seen fit to take her from us all. We accept the great fact as one of the mysteries of life.

Resolved, That our floral offering is only a slight token of our love and esteem as a club.

Resolved, That we attend the funeral in a body and tender our most loving sympathy with tears to the stricken family.

President, Mrs. E. H. French.
Honorary vice-president, Mrs. Harriet E. Pratt.
First vice-president Marie Sanford. Sanford.

HOW ABOUT YOU

It is rather a grim subject—this idea of death. It's a pleasant thing to forget. Many men do successfully dodge the subject all their lives. But there is no dodging death itself. It never forgets. Rich or poor—mighty or lowly—no matter.

It's a fine thing to live. "It makes a married man proud to have a home, to dress his wife, to give his children educational advantages and to keep his family in the front rank. It takes money, yes—but it's fine for the children, delightful for the wife and satisfying to the man. But—

Some day your friends will lay a lily on your chest and heap the praise, the reverence, the kindly tributes that should have been yours through life, upon what is left of you, lay you away, and proceed to forget you.

But the widow won't forget.

The orphans won't forget.

When you go to the cemetery will the widow go to the poor-house?

When you pass into the unknown will your orphans pass into the asylum?

There is no time to decide this but now.

If you should abandon your wife while alive the law would put you in jail. Death relieves you of the Law, but not of responsibility.

CORRUPT PRACTICE LAW
(Plattsburg Star)

The Association to Prevent Corrupt Practice at Elections has prepared bills for action at this session of the legislature, and they have been introduced. They will undoubtedly be made part of the Hughes program and it is expected they will be enacted into law.

By this proposed legislation the provisions of corrupt practices act are extended to primaries, and subject candidates for nomination to the necessity of accounting for expenditure of money. The definition of party committee is made to include organizations, combinations and committees taking part in primaries.

The present law will be strengthened by requiring treasurers of political committees to file accounts of all receipts and disbursements except that disbursements to political workers not exceeding $5.00 need not be specifically accounted for.

The matter of political workers is disposed of by a change in the present law requiring that the names of election workers shall be published and that they shall wear distinctive badges.

It is expected that the law in its new form will be much more effective than at present, and that it will especially go far toward doing away with the abuses which are possible now in the hiring of "poli-workers."

first, because it is a necessity—that is the rule in magazine buying of America's intellectual aristocracy. It is indispensable to the busy business man, who must keep abreast of the times, because it gives him the real news of the day in concise, readable form; it is invaluable to the thinking man, who demands only the truth and then draws his own conclusions, because it gives him just plain, straight facts. It is helpful to the whole family. In it you will find a monthly picture of men and affairs by Dr. Albert Shaw, in his comprehensive editorial, "Progress of the World," a clever cartoon history of the month; book reviews; the gist of the best which has appeared in the other magazines and newspapers of the world; pithy character sketches; and interesting articles on the all-important topics of the day. Authoritative, non-partisan, timely and very much to the point, "It's a liberal education," is the way subscribers express it.

VICTORIA PAPER MILLS COMPANY

among the employees and the management in the Victoria Mills. This mutual interest extended from the youngest to the oldest and was certainly unique in the annals of similar establishments.

"The Ladies"

By Miss Genevieve Collins
Mr. Snyder quoted the words of King Solomon, that the ways of women were past finding out. The king probably meant that there was no telling when or how a woman would exhibit some new and beautiful trait of character. The gentlemen were admonished by the speaker that had it not been for razors and women the genus homo would have been going on all fours. As Otway exclaimed, "Oh women, lovely women, we had been brutes without you."

Miss Collins responded, said: Mr. Toastmaster, friends, and honored guests: This is the first time that I have ever been called upon to respond at a gathering of this kind, and I shall always remember with the greatest of pleasure that my initial response was made to the ladies and gentlemen present.

The toast of "The Ladies" is a broad and beautiful subject and awakes in the human heart the latent chivalry of manhood, and embraces womanhood—the mother, the wife, the daughter, and the sister.

Ever since "Old Mother Eve's" time the ladies have been some. They need no press agents to trumpet their excellencies or vote to fill their proper station in life.

They are frequently alluded to as the "weaker sex," but we have all had pleasant or bitter experiences, and have only to turn back in our memories for the happiness or the sympathy, the untiring devotion, and the ceaseless graciousness of woman. I thank you all for being called upon to respond to such a beautiful theme—a theme to which none of us can do justice.

"The Early Bird"

By Mr. Irving T. Keller
Mr. Keller volunteered the startling information that he had been employed by the Victoria Company fourteen years and during that time had never been five minutes late. He paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Burrows, the present superintendent. Mr. Keller stated that he had worked under several superintendents during that period, but considered Mr. Burrows the best of all.

"Back to 1834"

By Mr. Frank Quirk
Mr. Quirk was described as an artist who had charge of the printing department and who enjoyed the reputation of taking down four cylinder presses, removing them from where they were purchased to their present location and of having them "in full operation in four days."

Mr. Quirk told of his twenty-six years experience with the Victoria Company, when he, as a boy, devoted his time to watching Mr. Redhead and to keeping out of the way of the superintendent. Mr. Quirk went from gay to grave in his reminiscence and told of a European trip Mr. and Mrs. Redhead had taken.

when the employees went to their residence before they started on their journey and presented them with a slight token of their esteem, wishing them bon voyage and a safe return. On Mr. and Mrs. Redhead's return.

F. W. Snyder, Vice-President and Treasurer

turn all of the employees of the mill were invited to Mr. Redhead's home, where a most enjoyable evening was spent.

At a later time Mr. Redhead told the speaker that he believed in a profit-sharing plan with the employees, and to his surprise and delight was the recipient of a check for $49.87, his share for the year, which he regarded as a very substantial Christmas present. Mr. Quirk recited other incidents of the kindness and thoughtfulness of his employer. He also paid a most glowing tribute to the hearty co-operation of the young men and women in his department, and felt assured from the compliments which had been bestowed that the printing department of the Victoria Company was considered a success by the business management.

"Loggess in Continuous Service"

By Mr. Daniel Brannan
It gave Mr. Brannan extreme pleasure to participate with others in commendation of the business management of the Victoria Company. In general and of Mr. Redhead's kindness in particular. In view of the new domestic responsibilities incurred by the speaker, which occupied his waking moments, he hoped he might be excused from going into further details.

"A Late Recruit"

By Mr. Andrew A. Burrows
Mr. Burrows recited the history of his connection with the Victoria Company; he also went into detail regarding the paper-making machines with which he had had experience and regarded the equipment of the Victoria Company as first-class in every particular.

"Paste and Progress"

By Mr. Fred Smith
Mr. Smith's professional ability was so aptly described in a poem recited by the toastmaster that it deserves to be repeated:

A man have we whom we call "Paste"—
(Tis on his face, his hands, and waist)
But a stickler paste than Smith's starch paste.
Has never yet been found.

"Paste" weighs and mixes, and stirs and puddles
(The whole thing seems of darned big muddle)
But he turns on steam, the wheels go round—
Ah! A better batch could not be found.

I wonder why Smith's paste sticks so?
'Tis a secret none of us seem to know.
For alone to the Drug Store he does go.
This man of sticky paste.

But what care we for all of that?
There's brains and brawn beneath his hat.
He knows just how to fix paste well.
And don't believe all he knows to tell.

Tho' he makes good paste, he'll not stay stuck!
He's full of sand, and work, and pluck.
And his department is all loaded up
In Progress' two-wheeled wagon.

Mr. Smith stated that it was a great pleasure for him to be associated with the Victoria Company; was confident that they could hold their own against any and all competition and hoped for the continued success and prosperity of the corporation.

"The Heaviest Weight"

By Mr. Jacob Mahlerwein
In the language of the text, it was evident to the assemblage after seeing Mr. Mahlerwein that "health was the greatest of all possessions," and that there was a marvelous congruity between the text and the speaker.

"Office Work as an Appetizer"

By Mr. W. L. Forsyth
Mr. Forsyth stated in part that there was no work without reward; nor reward without work being expended. He said:

"You have just received your reward, and you have also proved this quotation by your satisfied expressions as the result of a well filled stomach. Work is the best appetizer—be it office work or manual labor—and the best work is the result of a good healthy appetite. The book-keeper or office man has often been pictured as a lean, long and lanky specimen, perched on a high stool, with goggles on his nose and a pen behind his ear, pouring over a big book. This dyspeptic specimen is a relic of the past, and in its place—behold our office force. We seek an appetite by hard toil."

"The Law"

By Attorney Giles S. Piper.
In responding, Mr. Piper called attention to the frailties of mankind and the many intricacies of the law. He asserted that a careful estimate of the people of the world revealed that at least 99 per cent. were honest and were willing to meet their obligations, while 10 per cent. were of the doubtful kind. Mr. Piper recalled with pleasure the part he had taken in the organization of the Victoria Company, and was proud of the fact that a business relationship which had been established so many years ago continued to this day. He hoped to be permitted to take part in many such anniversary occasions.

C. R. Bennett, Secretary

The toastmaster called attention to the illness of Mr. James K. Carroll, an attaché of the office force, and a resolution was presented condoling with him and his relatives because of the fact. As a further evidence of sympathy the entire assemblage adopted the resolution by a rising vote. It was also ordered that some potted flowers be sent to Mr. Carroll's residence.

"Substantial Token of Esteem"

The closing event on the program could not fail to be the most pleasing to Mr. Redhead, who had been kept in ignorance of the incident.

Toastmaster Snyder said in part: "It now becomes my pleasing duty to perform a task not mentioned on the program. We recall with thankfulness that our president has at all times been willing to the best of his ability to give us advice in time of trouble, sympathy in our sorrows, aid in our misfortunes. We are pleased that the hour has arrived when we can express in a small degree our esteem and love for him. Mr. Redhead, on behalf of those present, and those who would be with us if they could, I present you with this beautiful desk and chair. It is the hope of all present that as you sit in your office day after day and face perplexing problems that arise that this comfortable chair and well arranged desk will make your tasks seem lighter, and remembering by whom it was given and the time of the presentation, may it give you renewed courage as you face the future. May your future paths be paths of peace and plenty, and we hope that you will be able to meet with us at our annual dinner for many, many years to come."

"An Appreciative Response"

Mr. Redhead was indeed surprised and in responding stated that he could not find words fitting to express his appreciation. Beautiful as the gift was, the speaker continued, it was not the intrinsic value which made it so desirable. He appreciated to the full the good will of the employees and those who were associated with him in the development of the Victoria Company. He recalled with pleasure the incident referred to by Mr. Quirk in responding to toast regarding his trip abroad. Not a little of the pleasure of the trip was the consciousness of the welcome back home, which awaited both himself and wife on the part of his employees and business associates. He prized most highly the spirit which prompted the bestowal of the beautiful gift. Nothing could surpass the kind expression of esteem and affection on the part of all. In this commercial age it was pleasant to contemplate that making money was not all there was to business.

The program being concluded, an enjoyable social time followed.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Redhead, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burrows, Mrs. Mary L. Osborn, Miss Collins, C. R. Bennett, W. L. Forsyth, M. Sullivan, A. ## Sketch of The Victoria Paper Mills Company

The Victoria Paper Mills Company was organized March 20th, 1880, Forest G. Weeks, Charles S. Eggleston and Edwin R. Redhead being the incorporators and the first Board of Directors. The Officers were F. G. Weeks, president and Edwin R. Redhead, secretary and treasurer. The No. 2 Mill, erected in 1885, by Monro & Case (and without some of the later additions,) was the only mill of the company in the beginning.

In November, 1881, a vacant flouring mill site to the south of No. 2 Mill (now known as No. 1) was purchased and a pulp mill with two Voelter grinders was established and the company made its own groundwood pulp until 1898, when the No. 1 Mill became a part of the No. 2 Mill equipment.

In 1883 Mr. Weeks and Mr. Redhead bought and developed the power at the east end of the upper dam, and organized in 1888 The Oswego Falls Pulp and Paper Co.

In April, 1888, the Patterson mill site (known as No. 3 Mill) was purchased and a second paper machine was installed. This machine later being dismantled for purposes of other improvements.

In 1891 Mr. Weeks and Mr. Redhead exchanged their respective interests at the upper and lower falls, and at this time Messrs. W. S. Royce and J. H. Howe acquired an interest in the Victoria Company, and the new officers were E. R. Redhead, president; W. S. Royce, treasurer and J. H. Howe, secretary.

In 1894 the No. 4 and No. 5 Mills were purchased from William Barber and the Cataract Paper Company, and became from this time a part of the Victoria group. Paper were at first manufactured in this part of the plant, and in 1905 and 1906 the buildings were reconstructed and tissue machines installed.

In 1893 the Victoria Company began the manufacture of bags by hand process in a small way and soon thereafter bag machinery was introduced and the Bag Department enlarged.

Mr. Royce died in 1902 and J. H. Howe was elected vice-president and treasurer and F. W. Snyder, secretary.

In 1908 printing presses were added to the equipment of the Bag Factory.

From 1898 to 1908 the members of the Victoria Company were largely interested in and instrumental in the development of the Eureka, the Fulton and the Granby Paper Companies at the west end of the lower dam.

In 1908 some changes were made in the executive department of the company, and the present officers are E. R. Redhead, president; F. W. Snyder, vice president and treasurer and Charles R. Bennett, secretary.

The specialties of the company are at present, Rope Papers, plain and printed Flour Sacks, Sugar Bags and Nail Bags, Manila and No. 2 White Tissue Papers; the daily product being fifteen to twenty tons.

CATHOLIC FAIR IN PROGRESS

Booths Filled With Useful and Artistic Articles Made Most Attractive With Roses, Greens and Electrical Effects.—Large Crowds in Attendance Each Evening.

The fair for the benefit of the parochial school fund opened in the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Monday evening and will continue for two weeks. Eight booths have been arranged for the different specialties and they have been most artistically decorated with roses, greens and electrical effects. The Rev. J. M. Barry of Oswego made the opening speech and a change of program will be made each evening. Never in the history of a local organization has there been such a magnificent display of articles for sale and the entertainment and diversions are many and varied. The decorating has been done by the different store decorators, under the direction of Mr. M. C. Knoffler, and the result attained is most pleasing and attractive.

The officers of the fair are: President, A. E. Kraus; vice-president, Mrs. J. Patrick and Mrs. Nellie Bray; treasurer, the Rev. John L. Lindsman; assistant treasurer, Summer Carroll; secretaries, Mrs. M. Dietrich and Miss Maggie Conley.

LEE MEMORIAL HOSPITAL

City Formally Accepts Gift—A Tribute Worthy the Memory of a Brave Man and Representative Citizen—Memorial Room Luxuriously Furnished by Mr. Lee.

In the report of the business transaction by the Common Council on Thursday evening, it will be found that Attorney G. S. Piper, acting for Mrs. Victoria E. Lee, who is ill at her apartments in The Belmont, New York city, offered the proposal of Mrs. Lee to present to the city the magnificent hospital recently completed on Fourth and Division streets, to be known for all time as the Albert Lindley Lee Memorial Hospital. The Common Council accepted the graciously proffered gift and agreed to the terms of the transfer, declaring that the hospital should be maintained by the city, an appropriation to be made each year for that purpose.

Mr. H. L. Paddock, vice president of the Hospital Association, Mayor Connors being president, has taken the keenest interest in the memorial hospital project since its inception and he has been tireless in his effort to keep Mrs. Lee, the donor, conversant with every detail of the work and the sentiment regarding the gift. He has made many trips to the metropolis since Mrs. Lee has been too ill to come to Fulton and he is now personally supervising the furnishing of the rooms and wards, carefully investigating the merits of every article purchased.

Contractors Carver and Wadsworth have done their work well and it will stand as a silent testimonial of their skill in carrying out the perfect plans of the architect.

The Albert Lindley Lee Memorial hospital is a 25-bed hospital, the public ward containing 11 beds—3 roomy, comfortable, and well equipped. It is constructed of dark red brick with door and window sills and outer steps of white marble. A slate roof covers the building which is practically fire proof throughout.

The reception room has a tile floor and six square columns from floor to ceiling, give an impression of massiveness that is very impressive.

Opening to the right from this reception hall is the staff room with the private consulting room for physicians opening directly therefrom. These rooms are splendidly furnished.

The main corridor extends through the center from the north entrance to the entrance of the public ward. At the extreme south of the building, opening from it is the glass enclosed apartment known as the women's solarium, or sun-bath room. Three slides of this inclosure are fitted with windows for fall and winter use and with screens for summer use.

At the extreme south of the building opening from the public ward, is a similar inclosure for men. Opening from the main corridor upon the east, and north of the staff room, are two single bed and two two-bed wards.

The site purchased for the hospital building by the city, so the purchase of the ideal site upon which the hospital now stands, deeding it to the city some time ago.

Every available room in the hospital has been taken by Fultonians to be furnished as memorial rooms for deceased relatives or friends. These are:

Abraham Emerick Room.
Frary Room.
F. G. Spencer Room.
Dr. Woodbury Room.
Presbyterian Room.
Immaculate Conception Room.
In addition to this, a letter has just been received from Mrs. Frank H. Platt of New York city, requesting the privilege of furnishing the operating room equipment complete, in memory of her father, Dr. Allan C. Livingston, who was a former resident physician of this city.

As soon as Mrs. Lee is able to come to Fulton the hospital will be formally dedicated.

H. L. Paddock
Vice-President Hospital Association

While directly across the corridor a four-bed ward, toilet room and single bed ward open upon the corridor from the west. A two-bed and a single-bed ward open upon the main corridor from the east and to the south of the memorial room, between the public ward and the memorial room. The public ward with eleven beds, occupies all that portion of the building between the southern end of the main corridor and the men's solarium.

The receiving hall, linen closets, store room, pantry and diet kitchen, kitchen, ante room for etherizing, operating room, dining room, nurses' room, drug store and toilet room are in the west of the main corridor. The receiving hall opens upon the ambulance porch at the northwest of the central portion of the building, with the kitchen porch at the southwest.

The memorial room opens from the left of the receiving hall, and Mrs. Lee has furnished this room complete. The rugs, hangings, etc., are choice and expensive and constitute a very pleasing and artistic whole. In this room are busts of Dr. M. Lind the deceased general participated. All the visitors to the hospital will view this room with deep interest.

The central section, only of the hospital, is two stories high. The second floor contains the rooms of the matron and the nurses and the attic above this section contains the necessary adjuncts to the ventilating system to permit a complete change of air throughout the entire building four times an hour. The heating arrangements are as complete as the ventilation.

General Albert Lindley Lee was born in this city and it was in the city of his nativity that his widow decided to erect this beautiful memorial to her husband, who was a success in every thing that the term implies. He lived a well rounded life, mentally well equipped, in business life a success and in battle a hero. While in the southland with his regiment he met the lady who won his heart and it is to this southern born and bred companion of his life that Fulton is indebted for the magnificent building just presented this municipality.

Mrs. Lee was not satisfied with the site purchased for the hospital building by the city, so the purchase of the ideal site upon which the hospital now stands, deeding it to the city some time ago.

Every available room in the hospital has been taken by Fultonians to be furnished as memorial rooms for deceased relatives or friends. These are:

APPROPRIATION
BILL FIGHT.Frisbie's Criticism of $25-000,000 Measure.

A FEW SPRING CANDIDATES.

Legislators Adopt Cautious Tactics in Even Most Harmless Actions, Owing
to Widespread Criticism for "Investigations—Loan Sharks" Likely to Be Put Out of Existence—A. Ward, Jr.
Scorned by Friends For Attorney General.(Special Correspondence.)
Albany, March 30.—The activity of the Democratic members of both houses in opposing the annual appropriation bill presages a troublesome time before it receives the signature of Governor Hughes.Ex-Lieutenant Governor Chanter was prominent in the fight against it when it was up for passage in the assembly
last week. He made objection to the bill on the ground that there was not a quorum present, the roll call showing only eighty-one members in the chamber. He declared that the rules provide that there shall be three-fifths,
or ninety members, present to discuss a bill. A call of the house resulted in the presence of ninety-one members
after he had held up the bill for two hours.Minority Leader Daniel D. Frisbie of Middlebury, Schenectady county, delivered a carefully prepared speech in criticism of the provisions of the measure.Mr. Frisbie, who is a well known editor and publisher, exhibited unusual capacity for analysis. He has been leader of the Democratic party in the assembly many years, and, in the opinion of the other influential members of his party in the lower house, he will make a strong candidate in a leading place on the state ticket in the election next fall.Mr. Frisbie deprecates the fact that the appropriation bill fixes a new high water mark in expenditures. Mr.
Merritt, majority leader, explains that the additional amounts arise from the needs of the agricultural, insurance, education, lunacy and prison departments and for paying the increased salaries of the judiciary.The regular appropriation bill for 1910 establishes a new high water mark. It provides for expenditures of over twenty-five millions, the exact figures being $25,707,148.44, an increase of $2,806,707.60 over the amount carried by the same bill a year ago.Mr. Frisbie continued:
"Each year the taxpayers of the state fondly hope the party in power has done its worst, but each succeeding year proves the hope ill founded.
And this despite the admonition of Governor Hughes in his message to practice economy. Evidently that word has been eliminated from the vocabulary of the governor's party associates
in the state departments and the legislature. This is especially true since the revenues derived from indirect taxation prevent the successive increases that have marked Republican administration of state affairs during its incumbency of fifteen years and which no longer appear in an annual direct tax rate."This is the first but by no means the last of the appropriation bills. The regular supply bill will follow in due course, carrying a large sum as last year, if not a larger sum.
"Then come the special appropriation bills, which it is safe to predict will exceed those of last year, as they will include the large items temporarily deferred last year by reason of the governor's veto. So that we may consequently estimate the entire state expenses this year at forty odd millions of dollars in round numbers."These figures are startling in amount when compared with the average from 1892 to 1896, $17,000,000; from 1900 to 1904, $23,000,000, and from 1905 to 1908, $28,000,000.
"The increased sums for education,
agriculture and care of the unfortunate I do not challenge, as enlightened public sentiment justifies liberal provisions therefor. We can only hope they will be wisely expended.
"At a time when the state has undertaken such great public improvements as the barge canal and the state system of highways it would seem wise to hold in abeyance new projects entailing large expenditures. Paying no heed thereto, the party in power launches numerous new projects requiring for several years to come appropriations aggregating millions.tion when it appeared on the assembly calendar. That was Assemblyman Walters of Onondaga county. He thought that the limitation of 5 per cent interest allowed by the bill was too small for such hazardous loans, and he asked if the introduction was against loan sharks why he didn't introduce a bill to abolish them altogether. Mr. Joseph answered that he did not wish to do away with the legiti-mate business of lending on salaries.The bill, besides placing a 5 per cent limit on the amount of money that might be collected on salary loans, requires loan sharks to register with county clerks and to stand all the expenses for searches or other fees necessary for securing the payment of the loans. The bill makes violation a misdemeanor.The introducer told how under the present law the loan sharks were resisted to hand a man from place to place until he was obliged to leave the country or commit suicide, which had often been the case. Through the imposition of fees he told how one man who had borrowed $1,000 had paid back in the course of four or five years $8,000 and still owed the original $1,000. This man finally committed suicide, Mr. Joseph said, leaving his family destitute.The bill was passed with only two or three members asking to be recorded in the negative.

Uneasy Lie the Head That Holds an Office.

Members of both houses of the legislature aver that owing to the nature of the evidence admitted in the Albee Conner trial and in the fire insurance inquiry in New York many entirely legitimate matters may under similar upheavals bring those associated with them under suspicion; therefore they are exercising unusual care in the nature of their legislative actions and in the wording of whatever letters they may write.The anxiety of the members was demonstrated when the New York
charter committee withdrew from introduction the police chapter for the proposed new New York charter. One of the counsel for the committee said that there was so much of a tendency nowadays on the part of the public to ascertain improper motives for legislation that it was the intention to remove anything from the police bill which might be criticized.The withdrawing of the bill by the committee after announcing that it would be introduced was caused, by rumors about the capitol that a fund
had been raised by the police in New York city to secure a provision in the bill for the three platoon system, one in reference to dormitory and other provisions desired by the members of the New York city police force. For that reason the bill was put in the hands of Assemblyman Robert S. Conklin, a former New York policeman, who is to introduce it, to extract any provisions which it is reported money is being used to push.Such provisions the committee will put up to the assembly to pass on, so if any of them get into the police chapter it cannot be said that the members of the legislative charter committee put them there.

The Motor Vehicle Bill.

Assemblyman Callan, after many conferences of many hours with legislative leaders and others interested in the measure, has had important amendments made to his motor vehicle bill, and the bill was recommitted to get them in. In its present form the measure is likely to pass both houses
and go to the governor and thus settle the automobile legislation for this year.The bill does away with the nonskidding clause and creates equal reciprocity, giving to other states the same rights that they give to New York.It has also been provided that after a machine has been licensed for four years the license fee shall be reduced one-half.Local authorities in cities of the first and second class are given absolute control of the speed limit.
Commercial automobiles, busses and taxicabs have their license fee placed at $5 instead of $2.The bill has also been amended to take effect on Aug. 1 this year and
Feb. 1 in future years.

Whalen Wants Congress Seat.

A large number of influential men
in Monroe county are urging that Hon.
John S. Whalen, former secretary of state, be nominated by the Democrats of that county to fill the vacancy in
the office of representative in congress
caused by the death of Congressman
Perkins. Hon. George W. Aldridge,
Republican leader of Monroe county,
former state superintendent of public works and former state railroad commissioner, will be the Republican candidate.

FULTON CASE

Albany, March 24.—The case of the Fulton Light, Heat & Power Company against the state was argued today in the Appellate Division, Third Department. In this case the plaintiff secured a judgment against the state for $255,019 for damages alleged to have been sustained by reason of the appropriation of certain lands
and structures by the state in the Oswego river, in the city of Fulton. The case involves the right of the state to the ownership of the bed and the waters of the Oswego river, both on account of navigability of the river
and on account of former appropriations of the bed and waters of the river for canal purposes.Among other things, the brief filed by the Attorney-General contends that the Oswego river is a public, navigable river, and as such the title of its bed is vested in the people of the state; that the interruption of water navigation by the rapids at Fulton
does not change this element of navi-gability, even at that point; that the grant of the state originally by
what is known as the Oswego river,
because the patent did not expressly say the bed of navigable waters is held by the state in trust and is inalienable; that the Skene patent, upon which the claimants rest, was not made in compliance with the provisions of the statute at that time,
providing for the conveyance of lands
in the beds under navigable waters cannot be obtained by adverse possession; that even though the bed of the river was alleged by the Skene patent it was reacquired by the state
in the construction of the Oswego canal, in 1826, and that the award
made by the Court of Claims was excessive.This case is one of great importance as upon its final determination will depend the question of whether or not the state has the right to improve its navigable waterways without compensation to the upland owners, and whether or not all the water power of the state on said streams, developed and undeveloped, is the property of private owners.Upon the arguments the claimants were represented by Charles A. Collin, John L. Wells, William D. Galli-ard; the state was represented by Attorney-General O'Malley and Deputy Attorney-Generals Daniel E.
Brong and Andrew E. Tuck, and Arthur E. Hammond of counsel. Mr.
Brong made the principal argument for the state.Are you frequently hoarse? Do you have that annoying tickling in your throat? Does your cough annoy you at night, and do you raise mucus in the morning? Do you want relief? If so, take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and you will be pleased.

WHAT IT COST TO RAISE A BOY

Did you ever think or estimate what it actually costs in cash to raise a boy to the age of 21 years?One of Oneida's prominent citizens and systematic and successful business men has kept an accurate cash account of the money he has expended upon his oldest son from the boy's birth until he became 21. The boy celebrated his 21st birthday on Wednesday of this week, March 16th. He is now half way through college. Here are the actual cash expenses shown
at the periods named:

At 5 years cost	$1,055.00
At 10 years cost	1,953.00
At 15 years cost	2,960.00
At 18½ years through High School	3,870.00
At 21 years half through Col- lege	6,500.00

This $6,500 represents only the actual cash expenses, including clothing and the actual cost of food. It does not represent the care of the parents nor any portion of the ordinary household maintenance. The boy had never had a lengthy illness.The father regards that as a good investment, as it certainly is, for no
one can estimate a good boy's worth
by the money spent in raising him
from birth to manhood's legal age.

METHODIST CONFERENCE

The thirty-eighth annual session of the Northern New York Conference will be held in Watertown at the Arsenal street church, beginning on Wednesday, April 13. Bishop Moore, of Cincinnati, will preside. There are at present six districts in the Conference, and the term of two of the superintendents, A. C. Loucks, of the Oswego district, and W. H. McCleathen, Herkimer district, will expire. It is expected that the question of reducing the number of districts will come up for decision.

Among the special features of the conference this year will be a welcome to the Bishop and the members of the Conference by the Watertown Chamber of Commerce. This will take place on Tuesday evening, April 12th, in Washington Hall.

A rare musical treat is in store for the Conference on Wednesday evening in the Arsenal street church, when selections from the oratorios of St. Paul and Elijah will be rendered by a chorus of fifty voices and an orchestra under the direction of Mr. Fred Seymour.

The usual anniversaries of the various church organizations will be held during the week, and Sunday will be the great day of the Conference. At nine o'clock the Conference love feast will be held, led by the Rev. S. T. Dibble, of Ogdensburg. At 10:30 Bishop Moore will preach. At 2:30 the memorial services will be held for all the ministers or the wives of ministers, who have died during the year. At 3:30 will occur the ordination services, when the deacons and elders will be ordained.

The Ogdensburg church has asked for the return of the Rev. S. T. Dibble to the charge for another year. It is said Rev. Robinson, lately deposed as pastor at Herkimer for wrong doing with a young woman member of his church, will fight in the Conference to be retained as a preacher. He admits the confession, but says he is not guilty of all the charges made against him.

Alderman Newton introduced the following and moved its adoption:
Whereas, Victorine Lee is the owner of Block Number One Hundred and Forty Five (145) of the former Village of Fulton according to the official map of said village now in general use, upon which she has erected a substantial and convenient building for a hospital, and as a memorial to her late husband, General Albert Lindley Lee, and

Whereas, The said Victorine Lee has signified her intention to convey said property and Hospital to the City of Fulton by a Full Covenant Deed, containing the following covenants and conditions:

"It being mutually agreed and understood by and between the parties hereto, that Park street and Lyon street adjacent to said block according to said map, shall be open to the public and have been dedicated to the City of Fulton as public highways.

This grant is made and accepted subject to the following conditions, each and all of which the said party of the second part hereby and by the acceptance of this Deed covenants and agrees to and with the party of the first part that it will perform and comply with:

First:—That Park street and Lyon street, adjacent to said block, according to said map, shall be open to the public and be forever maintained by the City of Fulton as public highways.

Second:—That the premises above described shall be used for hospital purposes only.

Third:—That a city hospital shall be forever maintained upon the premises, which shall be known as the "ALBERT LINDLEY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL," and that the name of the "ALBERT LINDLEY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL" shall be forever maintained upon the building in a proper conspicuous place, permanently over the main entrance.

Fourth:—That the room on the first floor next adjacent to the main entrance on the left side of the main entrance of said hospital, and now known as the Memorial Room, shall be maintained as a perpetual memorial to General Albert Lindley Lee, wherein shall be kept and cared for by the City of Fulton all such statuary, pedestals, weapons, paintings, pictures, records and such other articles as may be placed therein by the party of the first part, including a memorial plate which will be affixed to the wall of said memorial room in a place designated by her, which Memorial Room and memorial plate shall be maintained in said place. "Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That in case the said Victorine Lee shall convey said property and Hospital to the City of Fulton by a Full Covenant Deed containing the foregoing covenants and conditions, that the Common Council of the City of Fulton will gratefully accept the same for and on behalf of the City of Fulton and that the City of Fulton will keep and perform said covenants and conditions on its part.

Aye, Aldermen Palmer, Malone, Johnson, Smith, Wolcott, Newton.
Meeting adjourned.

CITY OF FULTON, ss:

I hereby certify that the above resolutions were duly adopted at a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Fulton, held at the City Hall, on the 24th day of March, 1910.
William MacNamara, Clerk.
Approved this 25th day of March, 1910.

Joseph H. Connors, Mayor.

In all cases where there are indications of weak and diseased kidneys as shown by such symptoms as weak back, back ache, pains in the bladder and urinary disorders, you should not delay a moment to take some good, reliable remedy, like De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. ### FOR THE TROLLEY LINE

Contracts Will be Let Within a Week, It is Said.

A Syracuse dispatch says: Contractors are busy going over the route of the proposed extension of the Syracuse, Lake Shore & Northern electric railroad between Fulton and Oswego and preparing to submit the final figures for the construction of the eleven miles of new road.

It was stated today that contracts would undoubtedly be let within a week or two and that the work would be started as soon as possible. This extension to the Lake Shore line will be the most important piece of electric railroad construction in central New York this year.

WANT THE JOB

Applicants for the position in the Customs House are beginning to loom up. There is one position, that of Deputy Inspector, left vacant by the death of Grove Dutton. The position pays $3 per day during the season of navigation. There is an old rule that a veteran who has been in the service once shall have the preference for reappointment. Those who are on this list are Lieutenant A. Cooper, Captain Charles A. Taylor, Amos Allport, James K. Prosser, N. F. Smith, of New Haven. It is not known whether the position will be filled by Collector Cooper or his successor, John S. Parsons, who will assume the duties on Friday.

MRS. DOLBEAR WINS

The jury in the case of Nellie Dolbear versus the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad Company returned a verdict of $500 in favor of the plaintiff. P. W. Cullinan, attorney for the Railroad Company, moved that the verdict be set aside, but Justice Devendorf reserved decision.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets invariably bring relief to women suffering from chronic constipation, headache, biliousness, dizziness, sallowness of the skin and dyspepsia. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

SINGLE HEADED COMMISSION

Senator Cobb today introduced in the Legislature a bill amending the Charter of Oswego in relation to the Department of Fire and Police. It provides that there is to be one Commissioner of Fire and Police instead of four, as under present law. This is now an elective office under the law, but the bill provides for the appointment of the Commissioner by the Mayor. The term of office of the Commissioner is increased from four to six years; salary not to be more than $1,800 per annum, to be fixed by the Mayor and approved by Common Council.

Insure Your Life Today Delays Are Dangerous

THERE'S your neighbor Jones. He has a fine dry goods business, and he is making money—so they say. Yet he commenced with borrowed money, and owes besides, for stock and other things. He'll soon get out of debt, though—IF HE LIVES. He has a charming wife, and three lovely children. What would become of them if anything happened to him? His estate would shrink and scarcely anything would be left. He ought to make an insurance company carry this risk instead of his family. YOU don't need a policy, of course, but JONES ought to take one at once.

DEATH CAME TO BOTH

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston Miller, of Central Square, who died Tuesday night within a few hours of each other at their residence in North Main street, were both stricken with pneumonia simultaneously. Realizing that her illness was fatal, Mrs. Miller's chief thought was who would care for her husband after her death. Upon being gently told by the attending physician that her husband would go as soon as she died, she expressed her thankfulness. Mr. Miller was born in Ireland in 1831, and came to this country when a young man. Mrs. Miller was born in Fulton, but had lived in Central Square since childhood. They were married in Central Square in 1872, and had lived there ever since. Three children were born to them, none of whom are living. Peter Woodin, a brother of Mrs. Miller, is the only near surviving relative. A double funeral was held at the Baptist church.

Ten Doctors Said He Would Die

"In 1903 we wrote you regarding my husband, who was suffering from heart trouble. He was superannuated by the North Georgian Conference. Ten doctors at different times said he would die. You advised Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Restorative Nervine; we did as advised, and improvement was apparent from the very first. He recovered and the Conference in 1904 gave him a charge. He never felt better, although he has a very heavy work and does a great deal of camp meeting work. I am so glad we took your advice and gave him the medicine, and feel that I ought to let you know of the wonderful good results from its use."

MRS. T. S. EDWARDS,
Milner, Ga.

This proves what Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy will do. Get a bottle from your druggist and take it according to directions. It does not matter whether your heart is merely weak, or you have organic trouble, if it does not benefit you take the empty bottle to your druggist and get your money back.

A FEW SPRING CANDIDATES.

Legislators Adopt Cautious Tactics in Even Most Harmless Actions, Owing
to Widespread Criticism For Investigations—"Lean Sharks" Likely to Be Put Out of Existence—A. Ward, Jr.
Boomed by Friends For Attorney General.

[Special Correspondence.]
Albany, March 30.—The activity of the Democratic members of both houses in opposing the annual appropriation bill presages a troublous time before it receives the signature of Governor Hughes.

Ex-Lieutenant Governor Chandler was prominent in the fight against it when it was up for passage in the assembly
last week. He made objection to the bill on the ground that there was not
a quorum present, the roll call showing only eighty-one members in the chamber. He declared that the rules provide that there shall be three-fifths,
or ninety members, present to discuss a bill. A call of the house resulted in the presence of ninety-one members
after he had held up the bill for two hours.

Minority Leader Daniel D. Frisbie of Middlebury, Schenectady county, delivered a carefully prepared speech in criticism of the provisions of the measure.

Mr. Frisbie, who is a well known editor and publisher, exhibited unusual capacity for analysis. He has been leader of the Democratic party in the assembly many years, and in the opinion of the other influential members
of his party in the lower house, he will make a strong candidate in a leading place on the state ticket in the election next fall.

Mr. Frisbie deprecates the fact that the appropriation bill fixes a new high water mark in expenditures. Mr.
Merritt, majority leader, explains that
the additional amounts arise from the needs of the agricultural, insurance,
education, lunacy and prison departments and for paying the increased salaries of the judiciary.

The regular appropriation bill for 1910 establishes a new high water
mark. It provides for expenditures
of over twenty-five millions, the exact figures being $25,767,148.41, an increase of $2,898,707.50 over the amount carried by the same bill a year ago.

Mr. Frisbie continued:
"Each year the taxpayers of the state fondly hope the party in power
has done its worst, but each succeeding year proves the hope ill founded.
And this despite the admonition of Governor Hughes in his message to practice economy. Evidently that word
has been eliminated from the vocabulary of the governor's party associates
in the state departments and the legislature. This is especially true since
the revenues derived from indirect taxation prevent the successive increases that have marked Republican administration of state affairs during its incumbency of fifteen years and
which no longer appear in an annual direct tax rate.

"This is the first but by no means the last of the appropriation bills. The regular supply bill will follow in due course, carrying as large a sum as last year, if not a larger sum.

"Then come the special appropriation bills, which it is safe to predict will exceed those of last year, as they will include the large items temporarily deferred last year by reason of the governor's veto. So that we may consequently estimate the entire state
expenses this year at forty odd millions of dollars in round numbers.

"These figures are startling in amount when compared with the average from 1892 to 1896, $17,000,000; from 1900 to 1904, $23,000,000, and from 1905 to 1909, $23,000,000.

"The increased sums for education,
agriculture and care of the unfortunate I do not challenge, as enlightened public sentiment justifies liberal provisions therefor. We can only hope they will be wisely expended.

"At a time when the state has undertaken such great public improvements as the barge canal and the state system of highways it would seem wise to hold in abeyance new projects
entailing large expenditures. Paying no heed thereto, the party in power
launches numerous new projects requiring for several years to come appropriations aggregating millions.

tion when it appeared on the assembly calendar. That was Assemblyman Watters of Onondaga county. He thought that the limitation of a percent interest allowed by the bill was
too small for such hazardous loans, and he asked if the introducer was against loan sharks why he didn't introduce a bill to abolish them altogether. Mr. Joseph answered that he did not wish to do away with the legiti-mate business of lending on salaries.

The bill, besides placing a 5 per cent
limit on the amount of money that might be collected on salary loans, requires loan sharks to register with county clerks and to stand all the expenses for searches or other fees necessary for securing the payment of the loans. The bill makes violation a misdemeanor.

The introducer told how under the present law the loan sharks were enabled to lard a man from place to place until he was obliged to leave the country or commit suicide, which has often been the case. Through the imposition of fees he told how one man
who had borrowed $1,000 had paid back in the course of four or five years $3,000 and still owed the original $1,000. This man finally committed suicide, Mr. Joseph said, leaving his family destitute.

The bill was passed with only two or three members asking to be recorded in the negative.

Uneasy Lies the Head That Holds an Office.

Members of both houses of the legislature aver that owing to the nature of the evidence admitted in the Albany trial and in the fire insurance inquiry in New York many entirely legitimate matters may under similar upheavals bring those associated with them under suspicion; therefore they
are exercising unusual care in the nature of their legislative actions and in the wording of whatever letters they may write.

The anxiety of the members was demonstrated when the New York
charter committee withdrew from inroduction the police charter for the proposed new New York charter. One of the counsel for the committee said
that there was so much of a tendency
nowadays on the part of the public to sacrifice improper motives for legislation that it was the intention to remove anything from the police bill which might be criticised.

The withdrawing of the bill by the committee after announcing that it would be introduced was caused by rumors about the capitol that a fund
had been raised by the police in New York city to secure a provision in the bill for the three platoon system, one in reference to doormen and other provisions desired by the members of the New York city police force. For that reason the bill was put in the hands
of Assemblyman Robert S. Conklin, a former New York policeman, who is to introduce it, to extract any provisions which it is reported money is being used to push.

Such provisions the committee will put up to the assembly to pass on, so if any of them get into the police charter it cannot be said that the members
of the legislative charter committee put them there.

The Motor Vehicle Bill.
Assemblyman Callan, after many conferences of many hours with legislative leaders and others interested
in the measure, has had important amendments made to his motor vehicle
bill, and the bill was recommitted to get them in. In its present form the measure is likely to pass both houses
and go to the governor and thus settle
the automobile legislation for this year.

The bill does away with the nonskidding clause and creates equal responsibility, giving to other states the same rights that they give to New York.

It has also been provided that after a machine has been licensed for four years the license fee shall be reduced one-half.

Local authorities in cities of the first and second class are given absolute
control of the speed limit.
Commercial automobiles, busses and taxicabs have their license fee placed at $5 instead of $2.

The bill has also been amended to take effect on Aug. 1 this year and
Feb. 1 in future years.

Whalen Wants Congress Seat.
A large number of influential men
in Monroe county are urging that Hon.
John S. Whalen, former secretary of state, be nominated by the Democrats of that county to fill the vacancy in
the office of representative in congress
caused by the death of Congressman
Perkins. Hon. George W. Aldridge,
Republican leader of Monroe county,
former state superintendent of public works and former state railroad commissioner, will be the Republican candidate.

New York city assemblyman who is the introducer of the election reform bills advocated by Lloyd A. Griscom

FULTON CASE

Albany, March 24.—The case of the Fulton Light, Heat & Power Company against the state was argued today in the Appellate Division, Third Department. In this case the plaintiff secured a judgment against the state for $369,019 for damages alleged to have been sustained by reason of the appropriation of certain lands
and structures by the state in the Oswego river, in the city of Fulton. The case involves the right of the state to the officership of the bed and the waters of the Oswego river, both on account of navigability of the river
and on account of former appropriations of the bed and waters of the river for canal purposes.

Among other things, the brief filed by the Attorney-General contains that the Oswego river is a public navigable river, and as such the title of the bed is vested in the people of the state; that the interruption of water
navigation by the rapids at Fulton
does not change this element of navi-gability; even at that point; that
the grant of the state originally by
what is known as the Oswego river,
because the patent did not expressly
say the bed of navigable waters is held by the state in trust and is inalienable; that the Skene patent, up-
on which the claimants rest, was not made in compliance with the provisions of the statute at that time,
providing for the conveyance of lands
in the beds under navigable waters
cannot be obtained by adverse possession; that even though the bed of the river was alienated by the Skene
patent it was reacquired by the state
in the construction of the Oswego
canal, in 1826, and that the award
made by the Court of Claims was excessive.

This case is one of great importance
as upon its final determination will depend the question of whether or not
the state has the right to improve its navigable waterways without compensation to the upland owners, and whether or not at the water power of the state on said streams, developed and undeveloped, is the property of private owners.

Upon the arguments the claimants
were represented by Charles A. Collin, John L. Wells, William D. Galli-
ard; the state was represented by Attorney-General O'Malley and Deputy Attorney-Generals Daniel E.
Strong and Andrew E. Tuck, and Arthur E. Hammond of counsel. Mr.
Strong made the principal argument for the state.

WHAT IT COST TO RAISE A BOY

Did you ever think or estimate what
it actually costs in cash to raise a boy to the age of 21 years?
One of Oneida's prominent citizens and systematic and successful business men has kept an accurate cash account of the money he has expended upon his oldest son from the boy's birth until he became 21. The boy celebrated his 21st birthday on Wednesday of this week, March 16th. He is now half way through college. Here
are the actual cash expenses shown
at the periods named:

At 5 years cost	$1,055.00
At 10 years cost	1,953.00
At 15 years cost	2,960.00
At 18 years through High School	3,370.00
At 21 years half through Col- lege	6,500.00

This $6,500 represents only the actual cash expenses, including clothing and the actual cost of food. It does not represent the care of the parents nor any portion of the ordinary household maintenance. The boy had never had a lengthy illness.
The father regards that as a good investment, as it certainly is, for no
one can estimate a good boy's worth
by the money spent in raising him
from birth to manhood's legal age.—

Women Suffer Agonies from Diseased Kidneys
And Most Women Do This Not Knowing the Real Cause of their Condition

These poor, suffering women have been led to believe that their misery of mind and body is entirely due to "ills of their sex." Usually the kidneys and bladder are responsible—or largely so. And in such cases, the kidneys and bladder are the organs that need and must have attention.
Those torturing, enervating sick headaches, dragging pains in back, groin and limbs, bloating and swelling of the extremities, extreme nervousness or hysteria, listlessness and constant tired, worn-out feeling—are almost certain symptoms of disordered and diseased kidneys, bladder and liver.
DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder
Pills have, in thousands of cases, been demonstrated as remarkably beneficial in all such conditions of female organism—affording the most prompt relief and permanent benefit.

As an illustration of what these Pills will do, Mrs. F. M. Bray of Columbus, Ga., writes that she was very ill with kidney trouble, and that she is now well—and that these Pills are what cured her.
They are very pleasant to take,
and can in no case produce any deleterious effects upon the system —as strychnine, alcoholic liquid preparations are apt to do.

E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago, Ill.,
want every man and woman who has the least suspicion that they are afflicted with kidney and bladder diseases to at once write them,

METHODIST CONFERENCE

The thirty-eighth annual session of the Northern New York Conference will be held in Watertown at the Arsenal street church, beginning on Wednesday, April 13. Bishop Moore, of Cincinnati, will preside. There are at present six districts in the Conference, and the term of two of the superintendents, A. C. Loucks, of the Oswego district, and W. H. McCleathen, Herkimer district, will expire. It is expected that the question of reducing the number of districts will come up for decision.

Among the special features of the conference this year will be a welcome to the Bishop and the members of the Conference by the Watertown Chamber of Commerce. This will take place on Tuesday evening, April 12th, in Washington Hall.

A rare musical treat is in store for the Conference on Wednesday evening in the Arsenal street church, when selections from the oratorios of St. Paul and Elijah will be rendered by a chorus of fifty voices and an orchestra under the direction of Mr. Fred Seymour.

The usual anniversaries of the various church organizations will be held during the week, and Sunday will be the great day of the Conference. At nine o'clock the Conference love feast will be held, led by the Rev. S. T. Dibble, of Ogdensburg. At 10:30 Bishop Moore will preach. At 2:30 the memorial services will be held for all the ministers or the wives of ministers, who have died during the year. At 3:30 will occur the ordination services, when the deacons and elders will be ordained.

The Ogdensburg church has asked for the return of the Rev. S. T. Dibble to the charge for another year. It is said Rev. Robinson, lately deposed as pastor at Herkimer for wrong doing with a young woman member of his church, will fight in the Conference to be retained as a preacher. He admits the confession, but says he is not guilty of all the charges made against him.

Whereas, Victorine Lee is the owner of Block Number One Hundred and Forty Five (145) of the former Village of Fulton according to the official map of said village now in general use, upon which she has erected a substantial and convenient building for a hospital, and as a memorial to her late husband, General Albert Lindley Lee, and

Whereas, The said Victorine Lee has signified her intention to convey said property and Hospital to the City of Fulton by a Full Covenant Deed, containing the following covenants and conditions:

"It being mutually agreed and understood by and between the parties hereto, that Park street and Lyon street adjacent to said block according to said map, shall be open to the public and have been dedicated to the City of Fulton as public highways.

This grant is made and accepted subject to the following conditions each and all of which the said party of the second part hereby and by the acceptance of this Deed covenants and agrees to and with the party of the first part that it will perform and comply with:

First:—That Park street and Lyon street, adjacent to the said block, according to said map, shall be open to the public and be forever maintained by the City of Fulton as public highways.

Second:—That the premises above described shall be used for hospital purposes only.

Third:—That a city hospital shall be forever maintained upon said premises, which shall be known as the "ALBERT LINDLEY LEE MEMORIAL HOSPITAL."

Fourth:—That the building shall be forever maintained upon said premises in a proper conspicuous and attractive manner.

Fifth:—That the room on the first floor next adjacent to the main entrance on the left side of said entrance of said hospital, and now known as the Memorial Room, shall be maintained as a perpetual memorial to General Albert Lindley Lee, wherein shall be kept and cared for by the City of Fulton all such statuary, pedestals, weapons, paintings, pictures, records and such other articles as may be placed therein by the party of the first part, including a memorial plate which will be affixed to the wall of said memorial room in a place designated by her, which Memorial Room and memorial plate shall be maintained in said place. "Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That in case the said Victorine Lee shall convey said property and hospital to the City of Fulton by a Full Covenant Deed containing the foregoing covenants and conditions, that the Common Council of the City of Fulton will gratefully accept the same for and on behalf of the City of Fulton and that the City of Fulton will keep and perform said covenants and conditions on its part.

Aye, Aldermen Palmer, Malone, Johnson, Smith, Wolcott, Newton.

Meeting adjourned.

CITY OF FULTON, as:

In all cases where there are indications of weak and diseased kidneys as shown by such symptoms as weak back, back aches, pains in the bladder and urinary disorders, you should not delay a moment to take some good, reliable remedy, like De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. These Pills are antiseptic. They allay inflammation and soothe irritation. Sold by all druggists.

FOR THE TROLLEY LINE

Contracts Will be Let Within a Week, It is Said.

A Syracuse dispatch says: Contractors are busy going over the route of the proposed extension of the Syracuse, Lake Shore & Northern electric railroad between Fulton and Oswego and preparing to submit the final figures for the construction of the eleven miles of new road.

It was stated today that contracts would undoubtedly be let within a week or two and that the work would be started as soon as possible. This extension to the Lake Shore line will be the most important piece of electric railroad construction in central New York this year.

WANT THE JOB

Applicants for the position in the Customs House are beginning to loom up. There is one position, that of Deputy Inspector, left vacant by the death of Grove Dutton. The position pays $3 per day during the season of navigation. There is an old rule that a veteran who has been in the service once shall have the preference for reappointment. Those who are on this list are Lieutenant A. Cooper, Captain Charles A. Taylor, Amos Allport, James K. Prosser, N. F. Smith, of New Haven. It is not known whether the position will be filled by Collector Cooper or his successor, John S. Parsons, who will assume the duties on Friday.

MRS. DOLBEAR WINS

The jury in the case of Nellie Dolbear versus the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad Company returned a verdict of $500 in favor of the plaintiff. F. W. Cullinan, attorney for the Railroad Company, moved that the verdict be set aside, but Justice Devandorf reserved decision.

Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets invariably bring relief to women suffering from chronic constipation, headache, biliousness, dizziness, sallowness of the skin and dyspepsia. Sold by E. A. Putnam.

SINGLE HEADED COMMISSION

Senator Cobb today introduced in the Legislature a bill amending the Charter of Oswego in relation to the Department of Fire and Police. It provides that there is to be one Commissioner of Fire and Police instead of four, as under present law. This is now an elective office under the law, but the bill provides for the appointment of the Commissioner by the Mayor. The term of office of the Commissioner is increased from four to six years; salary not to be more than $1,500 per annum, to be fixed by the Mayor and approved by Common Council.

A PLEASANT PHYSIC

When you want a pleasant physic give Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets a trial. They are mild and gentle in their action and always produce a pleasant cathartic effect. Call at E. A. Putnam's drug store for a free sample.

Insure Your Life Today Delays Are Dangerous

THERE'S your neighbor Jones. He has a fine dry goods business, and he is making money—so they say. Yet he commenced with borrowed money, and owes besides, for stock and other things. He'll soon get out of debt, though—IF HE LIVES. He has a charming wife, and three lovely children. What would become of them if anything happened to him? His estate would shrink and scarcely anything would be left. He ought to make an insurance company carry this risk instead of his family. YOU don't need a policy, of course, but JONES ought to take one at once.

DEATH CAME TO BOTH

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston Miller, of Central Square, who died Tuesday night within a few hours of each other at their residence in North Main street, were both stricken with pneumonia simultaneously. Realizing that her illness was fatal, Mrs. Miller's chief thought was who would care for her husband after her death. Upon being gently told by the attending physician that her husband would go as soon as she did, she expressed her thankfulness. Mr. Miller was born in Ireland in 1831, and came to this country when a young man. Mrs. Miller was born in Fulton, but had lived in Central Square since childhood. They were married in Central Square in 1872, and had lived there ever since. Three children were born to them, none of whom are living. Peter Woodin, a brother of Mrs. Miller, is the only near surviving relative. A double funeral was held at the Baptist church.

If you want the best pills, use De Witt's Little Early Risers, the safe, sure, gentle, easy, little liver pills. A soothing, cleansing, healing good salve is De Witt's Carbolic Witch Hazel Salve. ## Ten Doctors

Said He Would Die

"In 1903 we wrote you regarding my husband, who was suffering from heart trouble. He was superannuated by the North Georgian Conference. Ten doctors at different times said he would die. You advised Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Restorative Nervine; we did as advised, and improvement was apparent from the very first. He recovered, and the Conference in 1904 gave him a charge. He never felt better, although he has very heavy work and does a great deal of camp meeting work. I am so glad we took your advice and gave him the medicine, and feel that I ought to let you know of the wonderful good results from its use."

MRS. T. S. EDWARDS,

Milner, Ga.

This proves what Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy will do. Get a bottle from your druggist and take it according to directions. It does not matter whether your heart is merely weak, or you have organic trouble, if it does not benefit you take the empty bottle to your druggist and get your money back.

If in this world you take a stand,
You'll have to have the "cash on hand."
For men without the ready cash

Official Paper of City of Fulton.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 30, 1910.

Dr. Wiley, the pure food, pure medicine and pure drink champion of the United States, has invented the name "Unistatians" as a proper designation for citizens of the United States. He has no copyright or trademark for the word, and it has already been improved by someone who suggests the word "Unistatians" as more distinguishing of dwellers in the United States. Americans who have travelled abroad have felt the need of a convenient word suggestive of nationality. Being the largest and most powerful nation in the western hemisphere, we have, to a certain extent monopolized the word "Americans," and we are known abroad as Americans, while Canadians and Mexicans and the dwellers in South America, who are also Americans, have nevertheless as far as they may, confined their names to their particular geographical boundary. It is not unusual for a citizen of the United States when he is abroad, to be asked if he knows such and such a person in America, and when he inquires about lives in Brazil or Canada, "Unistatians" is a comparatively convenient name, but will it be adopted sooner than the Esplanade Language.

It is suggestive of the progress of the world and the superiority of the religion of our civilization that the

VALUABLE INFORMATION

In the public library is to be seen a copy of the report of the Newark, N. J. shade tree commission, an attractive, profusely illustrated pamphlet. Every page of which gives evidence of the interesting personality and enthusiasm of the commission. The following extract regarding the insect enemies to trees may be of interest to our readers. It is a list of our own maples and elms are victims of the same pests.

Don't forget that a Tussock Moth Caterpillar is a voracious little beast and that it directs its ravages against an almost unlimited variety of trees and shrubs.

Don't forget to thoroughly clear your tree of the Tussock egg-masses before hatching time. Then destroy these egg-masses by fire. Having cleared your tree, band the trunk with creosote. This will make the particular tree secure against the Tussock caterpillar.

Don't forget if your tree is an elm, that it is susceptible to the Elm Leaf Beetle. Don't forget to look for the larvae of this beetle in the crevices of the bark and upon the ground. These larvae are yellowish looking things. Sweep them up and burn them.

Don't forget that the borer is an other deadly enemy of trees and that a single borer often causes the death of a young tree.

Don't forget to look on the ground about the base of your trees. If you see near them, it is an evidence that the borer (one or more of them) is getting in his destructive work on your tree.

Don't forget to start an immediate search for this villain. When you find a small hole in the bark, that is an entrance to the borer's tunnel. Insert a long wire with a hook end and yank him out. His name will then be Dennis.

Don't forget the other rogue, the scale. So small by himself as to be scarcely visible. But he never is by himself; not he. There are millions of him. He works in troops of thousands and then he is visible enough. You can tell his presence by the "scaly" surface of the bark from which circumstance he gets his name. There are several varieties of him—all bad.

Don't forget that he works havoc and even death to the trees. The insect army of tree destroyers has a corps of "sappers and miners." The borer is a miner; this fellow (the scale) is a sapper. He inserts his legion tubes through the bark into the cambium layer of cells and from these cells sucks out the sap. The very life blood of the tree. A sort of Vampire you see. Spare him not. Don't forget to get right after him. Such contact poisons as kerosene, oil, scap, kerosene emulsion, etc., will finish Mr. Scale's career. In many cases trimming—but it must be judicious trimming—will enable the tree to overcome this enemy. The cuttings should be burned so that other trees and plants may not become infested by the crawling young.

WEITING OPERA HOUSE

One of the distinct hits of the season, "Joe M. Gaites' Bright Eyes," a new musical play by the authors of the world famous "Three Twins," will be the attraction at the Weiting Opera House, Syracuse, for the entire week beginning next Monday night, with matinee Wednesday and Saturday. The new play comes from New York and the state outside the metropolis to see the new play this season as it goes direct from Syracuse to Philadelphia for a run of indefinite length at the Forrest Theatre. Wherever the new play has been it has been heralded as "a twin sister of 'Three Twins,'" and no musical play of the season has proved more universally successful.

Mr. Gaites has given the new play a very elaborate scenic production, three baggage cars being required to carry the scenery when on the road. The company numbers over eighty. It is headed by Cecil Lean and Florence Holbeck, two of America's cleverest fun makers. There is also a large chorus of pretty girls who can sing and dance as well as appeal to the eye. A special orchestra of twenty pieces is employed to interpret the music and the play is gorgeously costumed, more than 600 different costumes being used in the course of the three acts. Unlike many musical plays, "Bright Eyes" has a distinct and consistent plot and tells a story which would be a sufficient entertainment without the music and the chorus. Mr. Gaites prides himself on the fact that this play is entirely clean throughout and that there is no vulgar or suggestive line or situation from beginning to end.

A safe thing to put your money in—Morton & Shattuck's shoes.

ZION CHURCH

Easter Election of Wardens and Vestrymen.

The annual election of Wardens and Vestrymen was held in Zion church, Fulton, Monday, from 12:00 to 2:00 o'clock, p. m. The following were duly elected: Wardens, W. S. Nelson and G. S. Piper; Vestrymen, James R. Fairgrieve, F. L. Jennings, W. H. Hornbrook, George C. O'Connell, John A. Toyner, Charles S. Hall, James Briggs, Harvey C. Hewitt and Fred G. Hewitt. W. H. Hornbrook continues as treasurer and Fred G. Hewitt as clerk of the Vestry.

DEATHS

The death of Mary, aged 60, widow of the late John McGraw, occurred at Oswego on Friday. Mr. Thomas McGraw of this city is a son of the deceased.

Nellie Frances Allen, daughter of the late William and Mary Allen, died last week at her home in Lansing. The deceased had many friends in this city who sent floral tributes.

Miss Mary Freeman of Manlius, formerly of South Hannibal, died Saturday. Funeral at her home on Tuesday at 2 p. m., and interment Wednesday in the South Hannibal and Via Union Cemetery.

The death of Dr. Herbert H. Dobson, aged 68, from pneumonia, occurred at his home in Fulton last week. The deceased was a successful dentist in Mexico for over 30 years and at the time of his death he was conducting a jewelry store.

The death of Mrs. Newell R. Cole, aged 66, occurred at her home in Cayuga street on Thursday, after a residence of over 40 years in this city. The deceased had been in failing health for some time and a severe attack of grippe proved too much for her frail constitution to rally from. The funeral services were held from the late home on Friday afternoon, Rev. J. G. York, officiating, and interment was made in the family lot in Mt. Auburn. The immediate survivors are one brother, Rev. Wyland G. Bassett, who made his home with the deceased.

The remains of Fred G. Ferguson, aged 63, whose death occurred in a Syracuse hospital on Saturday, were brought to this city for interment in Mt. Auburn. The deceased was a veteran of the Civil war, having enlisted in Company A of the One Hundred and Tenth Regiment, volunteered in Oswego county. Mr. Ferguson resided from Fulton. He was formerly a member of a Buffalo O. A. R. post. The immediate survivors are the widow of Syracuse; two brothers, A. H. Ferguson of Fulton, and Charles Eugene Ferguson whose whereabouts are unknown, and two sisters, Mrs. Harriet E. Clark of New York and Mrs. Ada Clark of Laramie, Tex.

The many friends and neighbors of Russell J. Whittle were surprised and pained on Monday morning, Mar. 21st, to learn that he had passed to his eternal rest. Mr. Whittle had been confined to his bed since November last, at which time he underwent an operation at the City Hospital, the effect of which he could not overcome, though he made a brave fight. He gradually grew weaker and more helpless, notwithstanding the loving care of his devoted wife and his sister, Mrs. John Fairgrieve, of Lowell, Mass., who came to help care for him in February last. Mr. Whittle was a man of strong moral character, of sterling worth and integrity of character, doing what he thought to be right without fear. He was a devoted husband, a generous and faithful friend, and a good neighbor. The funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at four o'clock from his late home on Hannibal street. Rev. S. T. Dibble of Ovidsburg officiating. Interment at Mt. Auburn. The employees of Foster Bros. attended the funeral in a body and formed a guard of honor as the casket was carried out. The floral offerings were many and most beautiful. Besides the stricken man, one brother, Frank Whittle of Fulton, and three sisters, Mrs. John Fairgrieve and Miss Ella Whittle of Lowell, Mass., and Mrs. Georgia LeFevre of Michigan, survive.

Martha A. wife of William Buckley, died at her home in Canajoharie, N. Y., at an early hour Sunday morning after an illness with pneumonia of five days duration. Mrs. Buckley was born in Canajoharie, June 3, 1848, and with the exception of about two years, her whole life had been spent in that village. She was a loving wife, a kind mother and being of a hospitable disposition she always had a pleasant smile for all who called. Mrs. Buckley has been in feeble health for more than thirty years, but was untiring in her efforts to make life pleasant for all with whom she associated. Beside her husband, she is survived by four daughters and two sons. Mrs. W. H. Humphrey of Baldwinsville; Mrs. R. E. Crandall of Fulton; Mrs. Thomas Gardner, Miss Floy Buckley and E. J. Buckley of Cicero, Clarence Buckley of Canajoharie, and also two sisters, Mrs. Kate Tripp of Luddington, Mich., and Mrs. Harriet Gard of Canajoharie. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon from the M. E. Church at Canajoharie, of which the deceased had been a member for about twenty years. Rev. J. A. Thomas officiated. Burial at that place.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

At the regular meeting of the Tonawanda Shakespeare club, held on Tuesday, the secretary paid the following tribute to the memory of Mrs. A. Bristol:

The Circle is broken—one seat is forsaken,
One bid from the tree of our friendship is shaken,
One heart from among us no longer shall thrill
With joy in our gladness or grief in our ill.

Since last we met one of our charter members, Mrs. Bristol, has been taken from us. We shall miss her, for she was an earnest, active member of this club.

God calls our loved ones; but we lose not wholly what He hath given. They live on earth in thought and deed as truly as in His heaven.

BELL SOCIAL

Tonight, Wednesday, at 8 o'clock, the Christian Endeavor Society, of the Presbyterian church will hold a social in the parlors of the church. An informal programme of music, games, etc., will be carried out, and refreshments will be served.

Each person present will be given a blank envelope in which contribution may be placed for a bell to be used in Wearwood Academy in the mountains of Tennessee. The church has assisted in erecting this school building and pledged $500 to teachers' salary. Separate organizations of the church have furnished teachers' desk and chalk, flag, etc., for the school, and the free will offering of the "bell social" will provide a bell.

Ethel May, the 16-year old adopted daughter of Mrs. F. K. Jones, and George, the 13-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fredette of the west side, slipped away to Canada on March 8, and were married without the sanction or knowledge of the parents. The young couple returned to this city after the ceremony and were living in the vacant rooms over Mrs. Jones' store during her absence in New York city. It is thought probable that an effort will be made by the parents to have the marriage annulled.

POSTAL LEGISLATION

The House Committee on Postoffice and Post Roads has decided to press not only the postal savings bank bill, but the postal reorganization bill as well. Hearings are also to be given on the parcels post bill. April 15 has been set for the report of the sub-committee on the parcels post bill, and hearing on the parcels post bill will begin April 25. The determination of the committee to consider with a view to reporting favorably the postal reorganization bill will be welcome news to all who favor a businesslike administration of the postal service.

If Your Neighbor Has Electric Light

and you have not, just step into his house some evening after dark and compare its light with your own. Study each point of convenience, cleanliness, clearness, beauty carefully, and then figure out for yourself if it would not pay you well to have your house wired for electric light at once.

Electric light today is cheaper and better than ever before, since the General Electric Company placed its MAZDA lamp on the market. We have arranged to supply our customers with the G.E. MAZDA lamps on very favorable terms. These lamps give two to three times as much light as other lamps using the same current.

If your house is located on any of our distributing lines we shall be glad to advise you about having it wired and will give you more facts about the efficient electric lighting of your home.

Attend the Catholic Fair

Miss Anna Revels is visiting friends in Rochester.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Goodale have moved to Geneva.

You will miss it if you do not attend the Catholic Fair now in progress.

Post Schenck, G. A. R., will hold a camp fire on Tuesday evening of next week.

Mrs. Thomas Hunter of Sterling is the guest of her sons, the Messrs. Hunter, in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Payne have been entertaining Mrs. Osgood and son, Stewart, of Homer.

Mrs. Willard Cushman is in New York city to meet her husband, who is enroute home from Costa Rica.

Important real estate transfers have been made this week which cannot yet be given to the public.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCormack have been entertaining Mrs. G. T. Lynch and John Paul Lynch, of Geneva.

It is reported that Pedro Massare plans to open a candy store and manufactory in Pulaski, similar to the one he now conducts in this city.

James J. Parker is busily engaged in constructing an aeroplane in which he hopes and expects to take a trip, perhaps at the next County Fair.

It is rumored that a prominent business man is soon to take unto himself a bride in the person of a very popular young lady resident of this city.

Bayard Webb of Union college, accompanied by Messrs Theodore Rogers and Culbert Patten, fellow students, is the guest of Mrs. and Mrs. G. C. Webb.

Mr. Leman Babcock and Miss Lena Babcock have returned from Pennsylvania, where they spent several happy months as guests of the Messrs. Babcock and their families.

The management of the Foster Theatre has invited the members of Post Schenck, G. A. R., to attend the theatre on Thursday evening and witness the presentation of "A vision of patriotism," by Comrade Carrington, said to be the original drummer boy of Shiloh.

Dr. E. L. Tiffany, the talented Prohibition worker, will make three addresses in this city on Sunday. He will preach in the Baptist church on Sunday morning; address the Brotherhood Class in the First Methodist church at noon and occupy the Congregational pulpit on Sunday evening.

The Times acknowledges with thanks, copies of Superintendent Hotchkiss's Insurance report for 1909. The report is most comprehensive and is published in five volumes. Assemblyman Sweet has also favored the Times with copies of the Legislative Record from Jan. 5, to March 11, 1910.

The real estate and insurance firm of Whitaker & Lovejoy will after Thursday be located in the recently purchased Whitaker block, corner of Second and Cayuga streets, formerly occupied by the Modern Way Laundry. The Bennett credit clothing company will occupy the store formerly occupied by Whitaker & Lovejoy.

The Times is under obligations to Senator George H. Cobb for copies of the Report of the Joint Committee of the Senate and Assembly appointed to investigate primary and election laws of New York and other States; also of the bills introduced in the Senate by Mr. Meade and in the Assembly by Mr. Green, to amend the election laws.

The Syracuse Journal correspondent has made one or two wild statements within a week which should be corrected. Without warrant he stated last week that several of the invitations to the Masonic ball had been lost in the mail. The members of the committee of arrangements deny that such is the case. Another statement that the hospital is being used late at night for questionable purposes brings forth prompt denial from people in a position to know. There is a wide difference between gossip and news and newspaper people should appreciate the harm they might do by giving erroneous statements to the public.

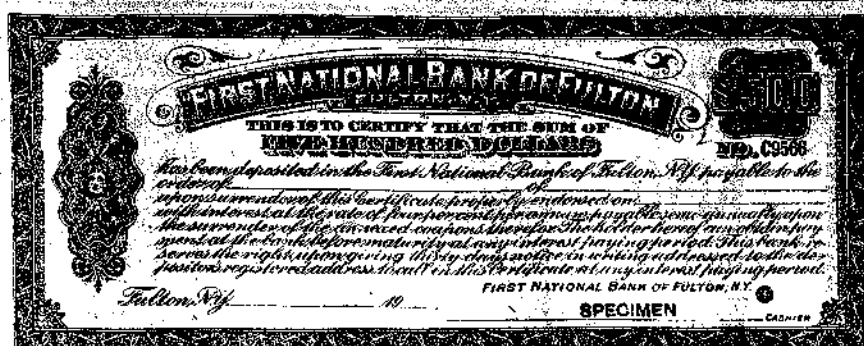

As the result of his horse becoming frightened, in First street on Tuesday evening, Mr. Chaffee of Gilberts Mills was thrown from his carriage and sustained a fractured skull and a badly cut leg, besides other injuries. Drs. Fox and Joy were called to the police station where the injured man was taken, and rendered what assistance they could before he was taken to the hospital in the ambulance. Mr. Chaffee's horse ran into a rig driven by Dr. Simpson of Volney and the doctor and Mrs. Simpson were thrown to the pavement although they were apparently uninjured. Mr. Chaffee conducts a store at Gilberts Mills. Whether or not he is mortally injured cannot be determined at this time.

SYNOPSIS

Chapter I—Truxton King arrives in Edelweiss, capital of Graumark, and meets the beautiful niece of Spantz, a gunmaker. II—King does a favor for Prince Robin, the young ruler of the country, whose guardian is John Tullis, an American. III—Baron Dangloss, minister of police, interviews King and warns him against Olga, the gunmaker's niece. IV—King invades the royal park, meets the prince and is presented to the sed' ss fascinating Aunt Lorraine. V—The committee of ten, conspirators against the prince, meets in an underground chamber, where the girl Olga is disclosed as one is to kill Prince Robin with a bomb. VI—John Tullis calls on the beautiful Countess Ingomede, who warns him that her hated and notorious old husband, Count Marlanx, is conspiring against the prince. VII, VIII, IX and X—King visits the house of the witch of Ganlook gap and meets the royal household there. He sees an eye gleaming through a crack in a door, and while searching for the person he is overpowered and dragged into a loft. He is confronted by Count Marlanx and then taken to the underground den of the committee of ten.

CHAPTER IX.

STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE.

BUT Hobbs halted his mad flight. He decided to return to the hut. His friend might be in desperate need of aid.

Then, with his heart in his mouth, he slowly began to retrace his steps, walking where he had galloped a moment before. A turn in the road caused him to draw rein sharply. A hundred yards ahead five or six men were struggling with a riderless bay horse.

"By Jove!" ejaculated Hobbs. "It's his horse!"

As he drew nearer it struck him forcibly that the men were not what he had thought them to be. They were an evil looking lot, more like the strikers he had seen in the town earlier in the day. Even as he was turning the new thought over in his mind one of them stepped out of the little knot and, without a word of warning, lifted his arm and fired point blank at the little Englishman. A pistol ball whizzed close by his head. His horse leaped to the side of the road in terror, almost unseating him.

But Hobbs had fighting blood in his veins. What is more to the point, he had a Mauser revolver in his pocket. He jerked it out and, despite a second shot from the picket, prepared to ride down upon the party. An instant later half a dozen revolvers were blazing away at him. Hobbs turned at once and rode in the opposite direction, whirling to fire twice at the unfriendly group. Soon he was out of range. The only thing left for him to do was to ride at once to the city and give the alarm.

Suddenly his horse swerved and leaped furiously out of stride, stumbling, but recovering himself almost instantaneously. In the same second he heard the sharp crack of a firearm far down the unbroken ravine to his left. A second shot came, this time from the right and close at hand. His horse was staggering, swaying; then down he crashed, Hobbs swinging clear barely in time to escape being plumed to the ground. A stream of blood was pouring from the side of the poor beast. Aghast at this unheard of wantonness, the little interpreter knew not which way to turn, but stood there dazed until a third shot brought him to his senses. The bullet kicked up the dust near his feet. He scrambled for the heavy underbrush at the roadside and darted off into the roadside, his revolver in his hand, his heart palpitating like mad. Time and again as he fled through the dark thickets he heard the hoarse shouts of men in the distance.

At 10 o'clock the next morning, Colonel Quinnox and a company of soldiers, riding up from the city gates toward the north in response to a call for help from honest herders who reported attacks and robberies of an alarming nature, came upon the stiff, footsore, then scratched Mr. Hobbs not far from the walls of the town. The colonel was not long in grasping the substance of Hobbs' revelations. He rode off at once for the witch's hotel, sending Hobbs with a small, instructed escort to the castle, where Baron Dangloss was in consultation with Mr. Tullis and certain ministers.

The city was peaceful enough, much to the surprise of Hobbs. No disturbance had been reported. So the guardsmen who rode beside him. Up in the hills there had been some depredations, but that was all.

"Ah!" growled Mr. Hobbs. "Ah! Hang it all, man, what do you call it? You haven't heard a lot of it yet. I tell

"I don't refuse help!"

With instructions to raze the witch's hut if necessary.

"I shall be happy to lead the expedition," said young Count Vos Engo, bowing deeply to the young lady herself.

"You shall, Vos Engo," said Halfont. "Prepare at once. Take ten men."

Tullis turned suddenly to the recent girl. "Lorraine," he said gently as the others drew away, "don't be hard with me. You don't understand."

"Yes, I do," she said stubbornly. "You are in love with her."

"Yes; that's quite true."

"A married woman?"

"I can't help it. I must do all I can for her."

She looked into his honest eyes for a moment.

"Forgive me," she murmured, hanging her head.

Then she studied brightly up into his face. "Have your way, then. Remember that I am her friend too."

The guard about the prince was doubled. Orders requiring the strictest care of his person were issued by Count Halfont. Baron Dangloss began to see things in a different light. Things that had puzzled him before now seemed clear.

But late in the afternoon a telegram was brought to Tullis which upset all of their calculations and caused the minister of police to swear softly in pure disgust. It was from the Countess Marlanx herself, sent from Frankfurt, a station far down the railway, in the direction of Vienna. It was self explanatory: "I am going to Schloss Marlanx, there end my days. There is no hope for me. I go voluntarily. Will you not understand why I am leaving Edelweiss? You must know. It was signed 'Ingomede'."

Tullis was dumfounded. He caught the penetrating glance of Dangloss and flushed under the sudden knowledge that this shrewd old man also understood why she was leaving Edelweiss. Because of him! Because the loved him and would not be near him. His heart swelled exultantly in the next moment. A brave resolve was born within him.

"We don't need a key to that, my boy," said the baron indulgently. "But I will say that she has blamed little consideration for you when she steals away in the dead of night without a word. Unfeeling, I'd say. Well, we can devote our attention to Mr. King, who is lost."

"See here, baron," said Tullis after a moment; "I want you to give me a couple of good men for a few days. I'm going to Schloss Marlanx. I'll get her away from that place if I have to kill Marlanx and swing for it."

At 7 o'clock that night, accompanied by two clever secret service men, Tullis boarded the train for the west. A man who stood in the tobaccoist's shop on the station platform smiled quietly to himself as the train pulled out. Then he walked briskly away. It was Peter Brutus, the lawyer.

A most alluring trap had been set for John Tullis!

The party that had gone to Ganlook gap in charge of Count Vos Engo returned at nightfall to wonder when it left the barracks at noon. Riding bravely, but somewhat dejectedly, beside the handsome young officer in command was a girl in gray. Now she was coming home with them, silent, subdued, dispirited—even more so than she allowed the count to see.

Colonel Quinnox and his men had been searching the hills for bandits. They arrived at the witch's cabin a few minutes after Vos Engo and his company. Disregarding the cries of the old woman, a thorough search of the place was made.

The old woman's story, reflected by the grandson, was convincing so far as it went. She said that the young man remained behind in the kitchen to puzzle himself over the smoke mystery while she went out to her doorstep. The man with the horses became frightened when she went down to explain the situation to him. He fled. A few minutes later the gentleman emerged to find his horse gone, himself deserted. Cursing, he struck off down the glen in pursuit of his friend, and that was the last she saw of him.

CHAPTER X.

THE IRON COURT.

WHEN King, in the kindness of his heart, grasped the old woman to keep her from falling to the floor he played directly into the hands of very material agencies under her control. The next instant something struck him in the face. Then with a fierce jerk this same object tightened about his neck.

A noise had been dropped over his head. As he was pulled backward his startled, bulging eyes swept the ceiling. Above him a square opening had appeared in the ceiling. Two ugly, bearded faces were leaning over the edge, and strong hands were grasping a thick rope. He was struggling. Practically he grasped the rope, lifting himself from the floor in the effort to loosen the noose with his free hand. A hoarse laugh broke upon his dining ears, the leering faces drew nearer, and then as everything went black a heavy yet merciful blow fell upon his head.

Not many minutes passed before consciousness, which had been but partially lost, returned to him. It was pitch dark, and the air was hot and close. Not a sound came to his throbbing ears. With characteristic irrepressibility he began to swear softly, but articulately. A gruff voice, startingly near at hand, interrupted him.

"Spit it out, young fellow! Swear like a man, not like a blamed canary bird."

The hidden speaker was unquestionably an American.

"Where am I?" demanded the captive.

"You're here, that's where you are," was the sarcastic answer.

"Are you an American?"

"No; I am a Chinaman. I was born in Newport—as an afterthought—'Kentucky'."

"This is the worst high handed outrage I've ever—"

"Better save your breath, young fellow. You won't have it very long, so save what you can of it."

"You mean I am to stop breathing altogether?" asked the prisoner.

"Something like that."

"Why?"

"You'll find out when the boss gets good and ready. You wanted to get a poke at the old man's eye, did you?"

"By thunder, that's like an American—never satisfied to let things alone. See what it got you into?"

"The old man's eye? What old man?"

"That's for you to find out, if you can. You've made a poor start at it."

"How do you, an American, happen to be mixed up in a deal like this?"

"It's healthier work than making bargains at—I was going to say King. But I hear they've changed the name. I prefer outdoor work."

"Fugitive, eh?"

"You might call it that. I'm wanted in seven states. The demand for me is great."

That he had fallen into the hands of a band of conspirators was quite clear to King. Whether they were brigands or more important operators against the crown he was of course in no position to decide. Time would tell.

It was enough that they expected to kill him sooner or later. This in itself was sufficient to convince him that he was not to be held for ransom, but to be disposed of for reasons known to his captors.

Like a shot the warning of Olga Platynova flashed into his brain. His guard had mentioned "the old man."

Good heavens! Could he mean Spantz? The cold perspiration was beaming on King's brow. Spantz! He recalled the wickedness in the armorer's face. But why should Spantz wish him evil?

The anarchist! The rascal! Olga was an avowed anarchist. By god, they think I am a detective! he exclaimed, right coming to him with a rush.

"What's that?" he muttered, the other Truxton could almost feel the other's body grow tense despite the space between them. "Are you a detective?"

Are you? If you are, I'll finish you up right here. You—

"No! They're on the wrong scent. By Jove, the laugh's on old man Spantz."

"Oh! So you do know what's up, then? Spantz, eh? Well, what you've guessed at or found out won't make much difference, my fine young fellow."

The glimmer of a light came bobbing up from somewhere behind Truxton. He could see the flickering shadows on the wall. Two men crept into the room a moment later. One of them carried a lantern; the other turned King's body over with his foot. Truxton saw that the three ruffians were great, brutal faced fellows, with bare arms that denoted toil as well as spolia. The third man grasped the prisoner by the feet, swearing in a language of his own. The Yankee desperado took to his shoulders, and together, with earnest grunts, they followed the man with the lantern. He could see that they were crowding through a low, narrow passage, finally depositing him with scant courtesy upon the rocky floor of what proved to be a rather commodious cave.

"BETTER SAVE YOUR BREATH, YOUNG FELLOW. YOU WON'T HAVE IT LONG."

Wagging the Tail.

At first sight there would appear to be little connection between dattery and the wagging of a dog's tail, yet in nearly all the northern language the same word signifies both, and dattery is certainly derived from the word signifying to wag the tail. In the old Norman flagra signifies to flatter and also to wag the tail. In Danish logre is to wag the tail, and loger for seen is to fawn on one. In Dutch vleyden is to flatter and cleyderteen is to wag the tail. In the old German weiden is to wag the tail, and in English wee-dle is to gain one's end in flattery.

would have been about as welcome to A. Cooper of Oswego, N. Y., as a merciless lung-racking cough that defied all remedies for years. "It was most troublesome at night," he writes, "nothing helped me until I used Dr. King's New Discovery which cured me completely. I never coughed at night now." Millions know its matchless merit for stubborn colds, obstinate coughs, sore lungs, laryngitis, asthma, hemorrhage, croup, whooping cough, or hayfever. It relieves quickly and never fails to satisfy. A trial convinces. 50c, $1.00. Trial bottle free. It's positively guaranteed by Red Cross Pharmacy.

Mixed Metaphor.

Among the many false figures of speech employed by speakers not a few are to be debited to municipal magnates.

There is, for instance, one which described an alderman as the prima donna of the council.

On another occasion a very worthy alderman, when moving a vote of sympathy with the relatives of a deceased colleague, said, "Our friend was also a man of letters and has left his foot-prints on the pages of the books he has written!"—London Globe.

DON'T BREAK DOWN

Severe strains on the vital organs, like strains on machinery, cause break-downs. You can't over-tax stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels or nerves without serious danger to yourself. If you are weak or run down, or under strain of any kind, take Electric Bitters, the matchless, tonic medicine. Mrs. J. E. Van Sande, of Kirkland, Ill., writes: "That I did not break down while enduring a most severe strain, for three months, is due wholly to Electric Bitters." Use them and enjoy health and strength. Satisfaction positively guaranteed. 50c. at Red Cross Pharmacy.

Local and Personal

During January Fulton had 12 births and 8 deaths.

School opened on Tuesday after the Easter vacation.

Mr. H. C. Gardner is slowly recovering from an illness.

Miss Anita Hunter is spending the Easter vacation with her father, Mr. Thomas Hunter.

Miss Rachel Lake sustained a sprained ankle in a game of basketball on Thursday evening.

Miss Fae Eastland has returned from a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. Perle Brown, near Mexico.

Mrs. E. A. Langdon is still confined to her home as the result of a bad fall sustained several weeks ago.

Mail Carrier F. G. Hewitt has sufficiently recovered from an illness to resume his duties in the local office.

Mrs. W. R. Hamilton, Mrs. V. C. Lewis and daughter, Janet, are visiting friends and relatives in Massachusetts.

Hamilton Republican: Mr. H. C. Ludington is confined to his home by illness suffering from an attack of the grippe.

Mr. Willis Morin of Boston, Mass., and Miss Edith Morin of Little Falls, are spending several days with their mother, Mrs. S. E. Morin.

Thursday was the hottest 24th of March on record for this section of the State, the thermometer registering as high as 75 degrees in the sun.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Curtis and daughter, Dorothy, and the Misses Eva Palmer and Lulu Newsbarn spent Sunday with friends and relatives in Syracuse.

Mr. Wayne Bidwell has purchased the H. R. Goodell electrical business and he will conduct a general electrical repair and supply store in the Hill block in Second street.

The engagement of Miss Margaret Mack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Mack of Syracuse, to City Clerk W. J. Hogan of Oswego, is announced. The wedding will take place on April 20.

Alan Foster evolved a very clever Boost club cartoon for the Herald which was printed on Wednesday evening. It was one of the cleverest cartoons yet done by that promising young man.

Mr. Wilson Cooper, the veteran mail carrier between this city and Syracuse, who was a prominent feature in the Ka-noo-ka-Ka-Ka parade last fall, is seriously ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Saterlee. Mr. Cooper is 85 years of age.

Thirteen year old Otto Geers whose mother lives in Oswego, but who lives with a family named Ray in Phoenix, lost the sight of his right eye on Friday as the result of a playmate shooting an arrow from a bow into the eye. The injured boy was taken to the Oswego hospital.

A corps of engineers from the local large canal work are at work near Minetto getting rock elevations to be used in the plans for the proposed new dam. This work was started by engineers from the Oswego office, but activities again having been begun here the Fulton engineers were sent up to finish it.

Oswego Times: Randall McDonald, whose home was in Fulton and Oswego some years ago, was taken sick while on a train from Rochester to Syracuse yesterday and was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in the latter city. Today noon, it was said that he was resting easily. Mr. McDonald recently came, it is said, from the Pacific coast. He gave symptoms of apoplexy.

Frank Royce is visiting Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Salmon in Williamsburg, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Wolever are visiting New York city and Washington, D. C.

Ex-City Clerk W. A. Harrison and A. DeBartler are enjoying an extended western trip.

Miss Marcia Esterbrook of Conestable, who has been the guest of Miss Ethel Patterson, has returned home.

Clarence Hewitt of the University of Pennsylvania, has been the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Hewitt, in this city.

Mrs. A. P. Tucker will be "at home" to a number of her friends at her home in Fourth street this Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Helen O'Brien of St. Elizabeth's Convent, is spending the Easter vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. O'Brien.

Rev. W. L. Sawtelle will deliver the baccalaureate sermon before the class of 1910, in the First M. E. church on Sunday evening, June 19.

The following additional notaries public have been appointed for this city by Governor Hughes: G. D. Adams, G. J. Coles, S. B. Mead, D. M. Sullivan, P. H. Ward.

Col. and Mrs. John T. Mott, who have been enjoying a southern trip, and who have been the recent guests of Congressman C. L. Knapp in Washington, have returned to their home in Oswego.

Sheriff Taft found a laborer employed on the new jail in Oswego, engaged in smuggling whiskey to the prisoners in the jail. The law was read to the foreigner and he was permitted to go.

There has been a unanimous demand upon the part of the congregation and official board of State street church, for the return to the pastorate of the church of the Rev. F. A. Miller. It is hoped that the Bishop may see proper to return Mr. and Mrs. Miller to this city.

The tannery bridge which has been in a dangerous condition for some time, collapsed on Friday and a temporary structure will be erected to take its place. The going down of the bridge entails a great deal of annoyance on the North End Paper Company and others who are obliged to drive around by the canning factory.

There was a record breaking demand for potted plants and cut flowers during Easter week of this year. The local florists were alive to the situation and plentifully supplied the demand. Perkins, the First street florist, occupied the vacant store in the Langdon block and he made a floral display that was most attractive.

Oswego Times, Mar. 26, 1885: The funeral of William Flannery and his sister, Agnes, aged 18, of Oswego Falls was attended to day by a large body of sympathizers. One hundred carriages were in the procession. Father Smith of Oswego, said the regular mass at the church of the Immaculate Conception. Mr. Flannery was in his 39th year.

Superintendent of Public Works Martin has been busy engaged in cleaning up the streets throughout the city for the past week, until the main streets are now in a presentable condition. The removal of the filth and refuse from Cayuga street on Friday was good work well done as the sun does not strike that thoroughfare and the street would still be impassable if something had not been done to assist nature.

A meeting was held at the store of Hulet & Taft on Monday evening when the Independent baseball team organized for the season by electing Alderman H. Freeman Johnson manager for 1910. Will Starnung was elected captain and Thomas McCallum was elected assistant manager. Practice work will commence at once and some fast ball will be played on the diamond at the Tilden-Johnson Summer resort at Stop 28, it is expected.

Dr. Charles J. Bacon writes the Times that he and Mrs. Bacon are enjoying the best of health and that the weather in Orange City, Fla., has been simply delightful during their sojourn of several months. Dr. Bacon attended the automobile races at Daytona Beach, Fla., on "natures race track," and saw Barney Oldfield "beat lightning."

The local police force is short one member. Patrolman William Blodgett, who has been absent from duty without leave for a week. It is rumored that Mr. Blodgett has gone west, having disposed of many of his personal effects before leaving. As soon as his position is declared vacant the Board of Fire and Police will take up the matter of his successor.

On Wednesday evening Mrs. George E. Mason and Mrs. E. A. Putnam entertained about fifty friends at Mrs. Mason's home in First street. Tea was served, the color scheme of pink being skillfully carried throughout. The out-of-town guests present were Mrs. Fred Rogers and Mrs. Duane Miller, Syracuse, and Miss Betsey Kellogg of Chittenango.

Several skeletons have been dug up by workmen engaged in laying a water pipe on Wells and Seventh streets, and the finding of the bones recalls the fact that this was the site of the first cemetery Fulton mapped out. The contract for taking up the remains and interring them in Mt. Adnah was let in 1869 and it would appear that the work was not done properly at that time, from the number of bodies found in this locality whenever work that necessitates excavating is done.

CORRESPONDENCE

St. Augustine, Florida.
Editor Times: We had nearly five months of Kistimnee weather and I have an idea that inland Florida is a little warmer than coast temperature. Others brag over Atlantic breeze and gulf winds. I have heard very warm praise of St. Petersburg and other points so I conclude that it is a matter of taste anyway. Kistimnee has voted for water works and I think that the little city will grow in favor because of its situation and clean cut hospitality. The past winter everywhere was a holy terror and Florida got a black eye because a few day of chilliness made us grunt. Herefore hotels and houses have lacked heating facilities and the Kerosene stove had to be relied upon in thousands of southern homes.

St. Augustine is a queer city in its old and new style and is attractive in beauty. The old fort and city gates born in 1565 or less have seen many skirmishes of Indians, French, Spaniards, English and Uncle Sam and houses of even date are yet aching to get 25 cents admission, in a park near the post office an alligator swims, a confederate monument and a Spanish monument tell of old times. Flagler's hotels are grand, grounds beautiful. He is a grand kind and lovable man I am told by those who know him and he has certainly made Florida famous. Magazines and papers are so full of information that one can find nothing fresh to write about. Next week Wednesday, the annual celebration of the arrival of Ponce de Leon commences and for three or four days the city will see Spaniards, Frenchmen, Indians and Yankees represented in uniform and the fort will be shot at and captured a few times. Luck to you while we look at it.

Mr. Murphy, the representative of the John D. Rockefeller Foundation, who appeared before the District of Columbia Senate Committee last week, argued for a charter without limitation upon the management of the Foundation in years to come. His idea was to obviate the power of the "dead hand" and make the Foundation elastic and adaptable to the needs of peoples and civilizations yet unborn. This is, no doubt, a fine and far-reaching conception.

first, because it is a necessity—that is the rule in magazine buying of America's intellectual aristocracy. It is indispensable to the busy business man, who must keep abreast of the times, because it gives him the real news of the day in concise, readable form; it is invaluable to the thinking man, who demands only the truth and then draws his own conclusions, because it gives him just plain, straight facts. It is helpful to the whole family. In it you will find a monthly picture of men and affairs by Dr. Albert Shaw, in his comprehensive editorial, "Progress of the World," a clever cartoon history of the month; book reviews; the gist of the best which has appeared in the other magazines and newspapers of the world; pithy character sketches; and interesting articles on the all-important topics of the day. Authoritative, non-partisan, timely and very much to the point, it's a liberal education, it's the way subscribers express it.

THE FIRE PROBE WILL GO DEEP.

Business Methods as Well as Scandals to Be Considered.

THE SUCCESSOR TO ALLOS.

Assemblyman Clark of Cooperstown States That He Is Not a Candidate For Senatorial Job—Professor Thomas of Colgate University in Lead.
Assemblyman Lindon Bates, Jr., of New York Writes a Book on European History and Travel.

(Special Correspondence.)
Albany, April 6.—The decision of the legislative leaders to bring about an investigation of the fire insurance companies of the state makes practically certain as searching a probe as that which was conducted into the life insurance companies a few years ago.
Most of the present legislative session in each house has been occupied with investigations of one description or another. Every one has admitted that something radical along this line would have to be done owing to the nature of some of the disclosures in the Allos-Conger case.

Like Former Resolution.
The McInerney resolution, which provides for the fire insurance inquiry, is drawn practically word for word like the one creating the Armstrong committee, for which Governor Hughes was counsel. The preamble recites the fact that recent disclosures made in the course of the investigation conducted by Superintendent Hotchkiss showed that fire insurance company funds had been "misappropriated, misapplied and used for illegal and questionable purposes." The committee, under the resolution, would be authorized to investigate the affairs of all insurance companies doing business in this state other than life concerns, "including the relations maintained by such companies with the legislature and the department of insurance and the effectiveness of the control of said department over the said companies."

To Probe Both Business and Scandals.
Assembly leaders grant that the time has come for an investigation of the fire insurance companies' business methods as well as of the scandals attending the Hotchkiss inquiry. They say that this procedure by a legislative committee would be welcomed by Superintendent Hotchkiss, as the committee would have far broader powers than his and could take up matters which he, under his legal limitations, is unable to touch.
"I believe the time has come for a legislative investigation of the fire insurance companies," said Mr. Merritt, the majority leader. "I favor this resolution and will do all I can to help its adoption. I favor this investigation just as I favor any investigation of specific charges about specific persons or affairs. I have never believed in going after ducks with a thirteen lock gun or in hunting any game with a brass band."

In spite of the surprising amount of material brought out in the Hotchkiss inquiry so far, it is pretty certain that much more as striking will result from the continuation of Mr. Hotchkiss' investigation. The insurance official has not expended all his ammunition, and various leads have developed from the sessions already held which look very promising.
There is a well defined idea that events within the memory of witnesses who will be asked to explain them will be brought out by Mr. Hotchkiss. Some of these events may be within the statute of limitations—indeed, many persons here believe they will be well within the five year period. In that connection the statement of the superintendent that the results of his inquiry "will be laid before the proper authorities" becomes of much importance.

Legislature Working Overtime Now.
For the first time since the opening of the present session this week found both senate and assembly working industriously and in harmony with each other in advancing the business of the state.

Senator Cobb has exhorted the members of the upper house to spend every minute of their time in Albany to get the masses of legislation out of the way, and in the assembly Speaker Wadsworth and Majority Leader Merritt have done likewise.

Busy committees, like cities, judiciary, ways and means, finance and codes, will hold two meetings a week from now on, and the sessions will last on into the night in most cases.

Deep Hudson Channel Now Assured.
A dispatch from Washington relating to the deepening of the channel of the Hudson river created a great deal of interest here.

The dispatch stated that the senate commerce committee has incorporated in the rivers and harbors bill an item of $1,550,000 for deepening the Hudson from Troy to Coxsack to the depth of twelve feet.

Senator Depew and Congressman Draper have succeeded in getting this amendment in the bill. They have worked with the committee since the report of Colonel Black of the engineering corps recommending the improvement reached congress. The item of appropriation will be available
July 1.

The entire project involves an expenditure of $5,000,000 to be expended within four years. Contracts for the entire work will be entered upon at once by the board of engineers.

The deep channel will be available to canal barges by the time the state improvements are completed.

Allos' Senate Seat.
Speculation as to who would succeed John P. Allos in the senate has been rife here. Much of the talk named Assemblyman Stephen C. Clark of Cooperstown as the man who would receive the nomination. Clark, it was conceded, could get the nomination if he desired it.

However, Mr. Clark set the folks at rest so far as it related to him by declaring his position.

He said that if he resigned to take that nomination his county would be unrepresented in the lower house.

"I personally prefer to remain in the assembly and am not a candidate for any office except re-nomination as member of the assembly," he said.

Mr. Clark thinks that Professor Ralph Thomas of Colgate university, at Hamilton, Madison county, will probably receive the nomination. Thomas, he said, had the Madison county organization behind him and he thought would get the Oswego county delegates. He said he believed that Professor Thomas was an advocate of direct primaries, but was not sure.

The Meade-Phillips Primary Bill.
The changes made in the Meade-Phillips primary reform bill have attracted state wide attention. They make this measure, which is backed by the Republican state organization, almost as radical as the measure advocated by Governor Hughes—the Hinman-Green bill.

The direct primary advocates in many parts of the state have expressed favorable opinions of the Meade-Phillips bill in its present form, and some of them consider it superior to the Hinman-Green bill in various respects.

As the Meade-Phillips bill will thus have the support of some of the direct nomination advocates, of some of the friends of Governor Hughes as well as that of the Republican organization in the legislature, there seems every reason to believe that it will be passed in both senate and assembly.

Reliable information here is to the effect that if the bill passes Governor Hughes will sign it in event that the Hinman-Green bill does not pass.

The principal amendment provides for enlargement of the state committee to 150 members, one man from each assembly district in the state. These members are to be elected directly at the primaries. The corrupt practices provisions are eliminated from the bill, as they have been incorporated in separate bills now before the assembly.

This committee provision virtually is taken bodily from the Hinman-Green direct primary bill favored by Governor Hughes. It represents a great concession on the part of the anti direct primary people. Under the amended Meade-Phillips bill all party committees would be elected directly at the primaries. Though the machinery for this would be somewhat different from that outlined in the Hinman-Green bill, the result aimed at would be the same. This concession that party government should be made directly responsible to the party voters is considered by the supporters of the Hinman-Green measure to be an indication of the great popular strength of their measure.

Bates Joins Ranks of Authors.
Lindon Bates, Jr., the able assemblyman from the Twenty-ninth district of New York city, is not content with his reputation as a civil engineer of advanced ability. He is now intent on eliciting the writers on travel and history in his profession.

Mr. Bates has written a book on travel and politics in and history of some of the European and Asiatic countries through which he has journaled.

The book, illustrated with about sixty photographs taken by the author, deals principally with Russia, Siberia and the remote sections of Mongolia, through which Mr. Bates traveled prior to his election to the assembly two years ago.

Some of the adventures of Mr. Bates in the lands mentioned were of unusual interest. He journeyed chiefly in sledges drawn by Siberian ponies. In the ancient Tartar settlement of Urga he witnessed the workings of the pre-valing custom there of feeding the bodies of the dead to the dogs. Hundreds of woolly coated black dogs roam the country who perform the duties of undertakers, embalmers and gravediggers.

Fate of a Dead Beggar.
A beggar dropped dead in the street
the town one night during Mr.
Bates' stay there. Next morning the body was found and had consumed almost his entire body.

The natives have a "cemetery" where they deposit on the open ground the dead bodies of members of their families, to be disposed of by the hungry bonds.

Mr. Bates tells an amusing story about a Mongolian tax collector, who said:

"Oh, I am very prosperous. I name the amount of taxes which every one in my district must pay. My friends I let off with very low payments. They they give me presents. I have a great many friends."

So the commercial spirit has penetrated even to the Mongolian steppe.
Surely "graft" is the one universal word, an ornament to all languages.
Mr. Bates' book describes all phases of life and affairs in the countries named and will be an interesting addition to the list of spring publications.

RARE OLD DOCUMENT

The Oswego Philadelpia of Friday says: Former Surrogate S. D. Mead, of Fulton, in looking over a book in his library a short time ago, came across an interesting document that was evidently used for years as a bookmark. It is an appeal from the County Corresponding Committee of the County Committee of the Democratic party to the electors of the county of Oswego. The document bears date of October 21st, 1849, before the Republican party was in existence and signatures are those of
H. H. Coates, R. H. Martin, H. F.
Noyes, H. E. Storer, and Cyrus Whitney, the latter for many years a well known lawyer of this city and Mexico, and County Judge. All are long since dead. Mr. Coates was a resident of Fulton and R. H. Martin was Squire Martin, father-in-law of the late Charles T. Richardson, his family home being at the corner of West Sixth and Cayuga streets, this city, where Mr. C. C. Place now lives. H.
F. Noyes was Doctor Noyes, of Pulaski, and Mr. Whitney's home was in Mexico.

The appeal is for the election of Coates and Butler, the regular Democratic nominees for President and Vice-President. Martin Van Buren had a bolt against the ticket in this state that year, and received 130,000 votes. That gave the election to the Whigs, General Zachary Taylor and Millard Fillmore, a native of Cayuga county, this state. Martin Van Buren was particularly strong in Oswego county, where he was well known.

The VanBuren tract was land that he owned and sold, and urging his cause at that time was Leader Hobcock and other prominent Democrats of the city. The Hon. John B.
Higgins, dean of the Oswego County Bar was twenty-two years of age during that campaign, and with one exception remembers the names of all those signed to the call. He also recalls Martin VanBuren and his son, John VanBuren.

General Taylor died in July, 1850, and Vice-President Fillmore took his place.

Mr. Mead presented the document to Judge Bulger, who prizes it highly.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear.
There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by inflamed condition of the mucous inner lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for directory free.

MR. MANCOCK ELECTED PRESIDENT

Attorney Theodore E. Hancock was elected president of the Syracuse society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Syracuse, at its annual meeting held last week.

The treasurer's report showed that the total receipts of the society from January 1, 1909, to January 1, 1910, had been $3,111.09. The total disbursements were $3,100.43.

The annual statistical report shows 660 complaints received and an equal number substantiated, involving 1,643 children. There were 183 cases prosecuted in court, involving 171 children and 17 adults; 185 convictions were secured; placed on probation, 23; held for the Grand Jury, 11; sent to institutions, 151; placed in homes, 12.

The local Humane society has not been very active recently but plans are nearing perfection to make the organization very effective.

All the good qualities of Ely's Cream Balm, which are found in Lindell Cream Balm, which is intended for use in atomizers. That it is a wonderful remedy for Nasal Catarrh is proved by an ever-increasing mass of testimony. It does not dry out nor irritate the tender air-passages. It always the inflammation and goes straight to the root of the disease.
Obstinate old cases have yielded in a few weeks. All druggists, 75c., including spraying tube, or mailed by

York.

COLLECTOR J. S. PARSONS

Collector John S. Parsons, who has a legion of friends in this city, on Saturday assumed the duties of Collector of the Port of Oswego, to succeed Mr. J. H. Cooper, who had filled the office successfully for twelve years.

Mr. Parsons was the recipient of many congratulatory telegrams and letters and he also received many gifts from friends throughout the state. A bouquet of American Beauty roses was sent Mr. Parsons from Albany with congratulations and best wishes of Hon. T. C. Sweet and Mr.
F. M. Bishop of the Excise Department. Silver mounted desk appointments and other articles of use and value attested to the high esteem in which Mr. Parsons is held by his friends.

The offices at Sodus Point and Fair Haven opened on Monday. The office at Port Ontario will open later in the season.

Surprising, What Kodol Will Do

For you, when you need it. But the longer you neglect indigestion, the more you will suffer before Kodol
can restore Good Digestion.

And, of course, indigestion if neglected long enough, brings on serious diseases in which Kodol cannot benefit you. Some of these there is no help for at all.

There are, in fact, very few ill-ments which cannot be traced directly to impure blood. And impure blood is always due to a dis-ordered stomach.

Use Kodol and prevent Nervous
Dyspepsia.
Kodol will effectually assist Nature to secure a complete restoration of good digestion. It does
this by at once digesting all food
in the stomach and keeping it digested, until the stomach is rested
and can resume its own work. Kodol removes the cause and the effect quickly removes itself.

When it is recalled that Apoplexy, Heart Disease, Cancer, and even Consumption are due to poor digestion and poisons thus transmitted to the blood, and
throughout the system—the importance of maintaining good digestion is at once realized.

Our Guarantee.
Go to your druggist today and get a bottle of Kodol. Then after you have used the entire contents of the bottle if you can honestly say, that it has not done you any good, return the bottle to the druggist and
he will refund your money without question or delay. We will then pay the druggist for the bottle. Don't hesitate. All druggists know that our guarantee is good.
This offer applies to the large bottle only and to bottles in a family. The large bottle contains 24 doses as much as the any other bottle.

Kodol is prepared at the labora-

Official Paper of City of Fulton

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 6, 1910.

ONE VEXING PROBLEM

Business people on the west side of First street are wondering what is to be done about the tearing up of the sewers, back of the business blocks along the canal. The contractors are now filling in the section adjacent to the buildings and as yet nothing has been done toward taking care of the sewer proposition. For two years the sewerage has been running on the back unfilled until now the condition is most noxious and it would seem pestilence breeding.

Something must be done, and at once, but what is the course of procedure? The State tore up the sewers but the occupants of the properties must suffer the inconvenience and the property owners must stand the expense of replacing the broken pipes and of connecting them with the street sewers. This will be an expensive procedure owing to the table of rock that forms the foundation for all the stores and buildings along the street.

RECKLESS AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS

Unless urgent steps are taken to regulate the speed at which motor cars are driven in the streets, loss of life or limb must ensue. There have been numerous narrow escapes witnessed especially at the corners leading from First street, drivers taking the corners without slackening speed, tooting horns or paying the slightest attention to the law as regards how vehicles shall be governed when turning corners. The State law specifically says:

Chapter 56, Laws of 1902. Section 157 of the highway law is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 157 (C). In turning a corner to the right, carriages, horses or other animals shall keep to the right of the center of the road. In turning corners to the left they shall pass to the right of the center of intersection of the two roads.

(D) Any person neglecting to comply with or violating any provision of this section shall be liable to a penalty of $5.00 to be recovered by the party injured. In addition to all damages caused by such neglect or violation.

The driver of the motor car has the same rights and privileges under the law as the driver of horses, no more, no less, and he should be as strictly held to the spirit and letter of the law as his less fortunate or unfortunate brother who uses a leather stinging gear. The enforcement of this law in Fulton will have much expense and perchance broken bones, if not loss of life.

Local and Personal

Mr. W. D. Carr spent Sunday with Mr. Fred Teck in New York city.

Mrs. Earl Buck and children of Syracuse are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Buck.

F. A. Miller, formerly of South Hannibal, has brought a 43 acre farm at Brook, town of Volney, of Mrs. G. Terpening.

President of the Chamber of Commerce and Mrs. E. J. Penfield are spending some time at Atlantic City, N. J.

Mrs. H. C. Abbott of Onondaga street has sold her property to Gracer A. L. Scudder. Mrs. Abbott will move to Syracuse in August.

The ordinance prohibiting the running at large of chickens within city limits is to be rigidly enforced this Spring, many complaints of the violation of this ordinance having been heard.

Mrs. E. H. French will entertain the Fortnightly Shakespeare club at her home in First street on Tuesday evening of next week. Mrs. Samuel Hunter will give a lecture on Alaska before the club and its friends.

A. J. Higgins has leased the quarters now occupied as an office by the Mc Dermott Contracting Company, which he will occupy after May 1, as a pool room. The contractor may build an office on this canal bank.

The Schumann club will hold its last meeting for the season at the home of Mrs. F. D. VanWagonen on Tuesday evening when an elaborate program will be presented. Each member invites a friend to become the guest of the club.

Dr. E. A. Gladman has purchased the Katz property on the corner of Second and Rochester streets, and has been a frequent guest in this city. The Times says: "Mr. Adkins has a voice of unusual beauty of quality and flexibility, and of considerable resonance and power, which he uses in excellent and artistic style, and with freedom and spontaneity of utterance. It is gratifying to observe in a young singer such as he is so much care as he displays to preserve the beauty of tone in all that he attempts to express; for some seem to have come to the conclusion that this beauty may indifferently be sacrificed to expression upon every occasion."

The Fulton Reading Circle at its annual meeting held on Friday elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. John Hunter; vice president, Mrs. Lydia Dilts; critic, Mrs. E. H. French; treasurer, Miss Ellen Emerick; secretary, Mrs. T. H. Stranahan; chairman reading committee, Mrs. E. R. Redhead. The club will complete English history, beginning with Victoria's reign.

From Oswego Times, April 5, 1885: Hon. George M. Case has engaged George Fassel to put up a monument to the memory of his parents. N. N. Stranahan has leased the house corner Third and Academy streets, opposite Dr. Woodbury's, where he will reside with his wife; they are to be married this month. The wedding will occur at the residence of the bride's parents, H. H. Merriam, Granby.

Spring came so suddenly and unexpectedly that no provision had been made for street sprinkling by the Board of Public Works and, while the dust is awfully annoying to First street business houses, the matter must be legally attended, else the city treasury would be the sufferer. This week the proposed routes are published in the official paper, and the work will be commenced as soon thereafter as arrangements can be made.

The following officers were elected at the last meeting for the season of the Fortnightly Shakespeare club, held recently: President, Mrs. E. H. French; vice president, Mrs. Marie Sanford; honorary vice president, Mrs. John Pratt; critic, Mrs. Edna Moore; secretary, Mrs. E. S. Brown; treasurer, Mrs. A. P. Tucker. It has been voted to increase the membership to ten honorary members and fifty active members and the club will study "The Tempest" next year.

WILL DOUBLE CAPACITY OF THE WITHERILL STORE

The remodeling of the Pike Block, at South Salina and West Fayette streets, will be begun May 1 by L. A. Witherill, whose dry goods store now occupies part of the block. Architects are at work upon plans which, when carried out, will represent an outlay of $20,000. It is Mr. Witherill's plan to obtain possession of the two upper floors of the building. The partitions are to be removed and the entire four floors will be thrown into salesrooms, doubling the capacity of the present Witherill store. The work, it is said, will be entirely completed by September 1.

Real Estate Bargains

26 West Fourth street, South, must be sold this week at a sacrifice.

13 North Seventh street, new house, modern improvements, large graded lot.

813 Emory street, elegant new home, must be sold.

Furnished house for rent after May 1st, at No. 409 Seneca street.

MORROW ESTATE

The will of the late Morton C. Morrow was probated in Surrogate's Court on Monday and it disposes of a large estate, $5,000 personal and $11,700 real. Letters were issued to Louis W. Emerick, who is named as executor.

Among the bequests in addition to a large number of minor ones, consisting of household belongings, jewelry, etc., is one to the Fulton City Hospital of $200. Other bequests are: First Methodist church society, $500; Oswego Rural Cemetery association, $100; Martha L. Palmer, sister, $2,000; Clinton W. Marshall, Fulton, $1,500; Joseph M. Druecker, grandnephew, Milwaukee, $1,111; Alfred Druecker, his brother, $200; Robert Palmer, nephew, Volney, $1,000; John and Kennetha Palmer, son and granddaughter of Martha L. Palmer, $200 each; Anna Lee Whitney, Volney, $200; Raymond L. Jewless, $500; Louis Hayes, Fulton, diamonds ring; Miriam Rasmussen, Emma Penney, Sarah Cole, Hedra Cole, Oswego, $100 each; the balance to Martha L. Palmer, Clinton W. Marshall, Joseph M. Druecker.

BOARD OF FIRE AND POLICE

At a meeting of the Board of Fire and Police held on Thursday evening, Patrolman William Blodgett, who mysteriously disappeared several weeks ago, was dismissed from the service. The Board met again on Monday evening and adjourned until Thursday evening to permit the Civil Service Board to prepare a list of eligibles for appointment to fill the vacancy.

MR. ADKINS APPRECIATED

The New York Times contains a notice of a recital given by Morton Adkins, of Syracuse, who is a nephew of the Messrs. Morton, of this city, and has been a frequent guest in this city. The Times says:

"Mr. Adkins has a voice of unusual beauty of quality and flexibility, and of considerable resonance and power, which he uses in excellent and artistic style, and with freedom and spontaneity of utterance. It is gratifying to observe in a young singer such as he is so much care as he displays to preserve the beauty of tone in all that he attempts to express; for some seem to have come to the conclusion that this beauty may indifferently be sacrificed to expression upon every occasion."

"Adkins' style as a singer is not notable for ardor or passion, tenderness or poetry, although he clearly feels these qualities in the music he sings. He is young and is very likely that with riper experience he will gain more potent utterance for them and will lose some of the dryness that to some degree limits him now."

"He sang Italian songs by Secchi and Legnani, German by Schumann and Schubert, French by Debussy and Tremisot, some modern German and a large number by American composers."

IT GIVES PLEASURE

It gives The Times infinite pleasure to announce that the unsightly condition in the rear of the Universalist church, attention to which was called in last week's Times, has been remedied and the refuse accumulated during the winter was removed on Tuesday.

AMBITIOUS FOR SUPERINTENDENCY

James Feeley, of Mottville, N. Y., a former resident of Fulton, now engaged in assisting Superintendent Burrows in the Victoria Paper mills, tells the Times that he is very desirous of removing his family to this city to make their future home and that he regrets very much that he ever left here as chances for promotion have been so good. He has had over 40 years experience in the paper business, having worked in every position in paper mills and has had a great deal of practical experience. He possesses splendid references for honesty, sobriety and experience. Mr. Feeley worked in the Granby mill 15 years ago and recalls distinctly when the mill had to shut down that the water wheel might be lowered owing to low water. He has always been ambitious to become superintendent of a paper mill and he has come to Fulton seeking the opportunity. He is so certain of his ability to fill the position that he guarantees satisfaction or no salary. He is very grateful to Messrs. Redhead and Paddock, for whom he has worked, for the references they have given him as follows:

To whom it may concern: The bearer, James Feeley, has been known to me many years as a paper maker having worked in many positions. He is especially good as a beaterman. He is a man of strictly temperate habits. To anyone needing a good all-round man he will be a desirable employee in any mill. E. R. Redhead.

SYNOPSIS

Baron Dangloss, minister of police, interviews King and warns him against Olga, the gunmaker's niece. King invades the royal park, meets the prince and is presented to the king as fascinating Aunt Lorraine. The committee of ten, conspirators against the prince, meets in an underground chamber, where the girl Olga is disclosed as one is to kill Prince Robin with a bomb. VI—John Tullis calls on the beautiful Countess Ingemede, who warns him that her hated and notorious old husband, Count Marlanx, is conspiring against the prince. VII, VIII, IX and X—King visits the house of the witch of Geahook gap and meets the royal household there. He sees an eye gleaming through a crack in a door, and while searching for the person he is overpowered and dragged into a loft. He is confronted by Count Marlanx and then taken to the underground den of the committee of ten.

Daylight streamed into this convenient "hole in the wall," lying upon his side, Truxton faced the opening that looked out upon the world. Near the opening stood the tall, gaunt figure of a man, thin shouldered and stooped. His back was to the captive, but King observed that the three men, with two companions, who sat at the back of the cave, never removed their gaze from the striking figure outlined against the sky.

The watcher turned slowly to take in the altered conditions behind him. King saw that he was old, gray haired and cadaverous. This, then, was the "old man," and he was not William Spantz.

"Your name is King, I believe," came from the thin lips of the old man. "Yes, May I inquire?"

"No, you may not inquire. Put a gag in his mouth. I don't care to hear anything from him. Gag him and cut the rope from his feet. He may walk from now on."

Three men sprang to do his bidding. King felt in that instant that he was looking for the first time upon the features of the Iron Count, Marlanx, the dishonored. He lay there helpless, speechless for many minutes, glancing at this cruel tyrant. It was enough in the way. To be suspected, was to be condemned.

Marlanx was speaking. Truxton looked up, as at an executioner. The Iron Count sat upon a powder near his feet.

"We have met before. Perhaps you remember meeting my eye in Dame Bobba's cabin—twice, I think. You remember, I see. Ha, ha! You were very slow not to have caught such an old man. I dare say you are wondering what I intend to do with you, now that I have you. Well, I am not the man to mislead words. Mr. King, you are quite young, but the good die young. I am very old, you observe. I will not say that you are to die to-night or tomorrow or any day, for I do not know. I am going to send you to a court. Not an ordinary court, Mr. King, but one of extreme perspicacity. I fancy you will die before long. We can spare you. I do not approve of meddlers. It seems to be quite settled that you are a police agent."

The steady, cruel eyes fascinated King. He knew that he was in desperate straits.

"I am glad you called again at my temporary abode. Mr. King, Americans are always welcome; the sooner they come, the sooner it's over. It may interest you to know that I am very partial to Americans. Were I a cannibal I could eat them to relish. If I had my way, all Americans should be in heaven. The earth surely is not good enough nor big enough for them, and hell is already overcrowded. Yes, I love the Americans dearly. I should enjoy a similar visit from Mr. John Tullis. I expect him to visit me in my humble castle before many days. I should like to have him remain there until his dying day."

King shuddered.

"Night is coming. I must say farewell, my bold young friend. My way lies to the north. This is merely a land of promise to me. You go southward to the city of Edelweiss. But not through the gates; oh, no! There are other ways, as you will find. Goodbye, my brave Sir Galahad. I may never see you again."

With a courtly bow, he turned and disappeared from the prison. "FAREWELL, MY BOLD YOUNG FRIEND."

CHAPTER XI.
UNDER THE GROUND.

THE second day after his incarceration began King was given food and drink. It was given time, for he was almost famished. Thereafter twice a day he was led into the larger room and given a surprisingly hearty meal.

Peter Brutus had just voiced the pleasure of the majority by urging the necessity for physical torture to wring the government's secrets from the prisoner. King, half-famished, half-crazed by thirst, had been harrying to the door argument through the thin door that separated the rooms. He heard the sudden, eager movement toward the door at his call and sagged King and directed his final instructions to the guards. With a curt and to the men, he strode out through the mouth of the cave and was gone. Dark had settled down upon mountain and valley. One of the men cut the rope that bound Truxton's feet.

"Get up," said the Newport man. "We've got to be moving."

Still gagged and somewhat dizzy, King was hurried off into the narrow mountain path, closely surrounded by the five men.

The silent, cautious march down the valley, through the gap and along the ridge, carried them far into the night. This much he knew—they were in the hills directly above the northern gates. The vague, black shadow of a lightless house loomed up before them. In a twinkling he was hustled across the road and into a door, then down a flight of stairs, through pitchy darkness, guided by two of the men, a whispered word of advice now and then from the Yankee saving him from perilous stumbles. He was jerked up sharply with a command to stand still. A light flashed suddenly in his face, blinding him for a moment.

Soon he saw that they were in a broad, bare cellar; three men in heavy black beards were in earnest conversation with several of his captors; all were muttering fiercely.

His Newport companion enlightened him between puffs of the pipe he was struggling with. "Here's where we stay goodby, young fellow. We turn you over to these gentles, whoever they are. You go into the village gay with these 'awabs' by the sewer line, I guess." Truxton picked up his ears. "The old man has had a hole chipped in the sewer here, they tell me, and it's a snap to get into the city. Not very clean or neat, but it gets you there. Well, so long! They're ready, I see. They don't monkey long when they've got a thing to do."

In another moment his guardship was transferred; he was being hurried across the cellar toward an open doorway. Down a few stone steps, he was led by the bearded crew, and then pushed through a hole in what appeared to be a heavy brick wall. He realized at once where he was. The gurgle of running water came up to him. It was the great sewer that ran from the hills through the heart of the city, dashed continuously by a diverted mountain stream that swept down from above.

He did not know how long they traversed the chill sewer. In time, however, the water got deeper; rats began to scurry along the sides of the circle or to swim frantically on in front of the distributors.

At last the strange journey ended. They came to a niche in the slimy wall. Up into this the men climbed. The man above was cautiously tapping on what appeared to be solid masonry. To King's surprise a section of the wall suddenly opened before them. He was seized from above by strong hands and literally jerked through the hole, up narrow steps and then into a long, dimly lighted room, in the center of which stood a long table.

He was passed on into a small room adjoining. Some one, speaking in English, told him to sit down. The gag was removed from his stiff, inflamed mouth.

"Fetch him some water," said a voice that he was sure he recognized—a high, querulous voice.

"Hello, Spantz," articulated Truxton, turning to the black bearded, bent figure.

There was an instant of silence. Then Spantz spoke, with a soft laugh: "You will not know so much tomorrow. Herr King. Give him water, man. He cannot talk with a dry throat."

King was pushed out into the larger room, where he was confronted by a crowd of bewiskered men and snaky-eyed women with most intellectual nose glasses. It required but a glance to convince him that the whiskers were false.

For nearly an hour he was probed with questions concerning his business in Edelweiss. Threats followed close upon his unsatisfactory answers, though they were absolutely truthful.

"We'll find a way to make you talk tomorrow, my friend! Starving is not pleasant."

"You would not starve me," he cried.

"No. You will have the pleasure of starving yourself," said a thin-eyed fellow, whom he afterward knew as Peter Brutus.

He was thrown back into the little room. To his surprise and gratification the bonds on his wrists were removed.

He found a match in his box and struck it. There was no article of furniture. The floor was bare, the walls green with age. A chimney hole in the ceiling was perhaps the only means by which fresh air could reach this dreary place. Sleep was claiming his senses. He made a pillow of his coat and stretched his weary bones upon the relentless floor.

"No one will ever know," he murmured, his last waking thought being of a dear one at home.

CHAPTER XI.
UNDER THE GROUND.

THE second day after his incarceration began King was given food and drink. It was given time, for he was almost famished. Thereafter twice a day he was led into the larger room and given a surprisingly hearty meal.

Peter Brutus had just voiced the pleasure of the majority by urging the necessity for physical torture to wring the government's secrets from the prisoner. King, half-famished, half-crazed by thirst, had been harrying to the door argument through the thin door that separated the rooms. He heard the sudden, eager movement toward the door at his call and sagged King self against the opposite wall, ready to fight to the death. Then there came a voice that he recognized.

A woman was addressing the conspirators in tones of deadly earnestness. His heart gave a bound. It was the first time since his incarceration that he had heard the voice of Olga Platynova, she who still must be his friend.

"Not. You shall not torture him. I have said he is no spy. I still say it," she was exclaiming.

"God, girl, we cannot turn him loose now. He must die." This was from Spantz.

"We cannot release him, I grant you," she said, and Truxton's heart sank. "Not now, but afterward, yes. When it is all over he can do no harm. But hear me now, all of you. If he is harmed in any way I shall not perform my part of the work on the 20th. This is final."

"You cannot withdraw!" exclaimed Peter Brutus. "You are pledged. You are sworn. It is ordained."

"I, Olga Platynova, say this to you. It is not a plea, not a petition; it is an ultimatum. Spare him or the glorious cause must suffer by my defection."

"Sh! Not so loud, girl! He can hear every word you say!"

"Let him hear. Let him know that I, Olga Platynova, am to hurt the thing that is to destroy the life of Prince Robin. I am not afraid to have him know today what the world will know next week. Then the world will say that Olga Platynova was not a beast, but a deliverer, a creator! Let him hear!"

The listener's blood was running cold. The life of Prince Robin! An assassination! "The thing that will destroy!" A bomb!

For half an hour they argued with her, seeking to turn her from the stand she had taken. Then they came to terms with her. Truxton King owed his life to this strange girl, who knew him not at all, but who believed in him. Truxton was brought into the room a few minutes later. He was white with emotion as he faced the committee of ten. Before a word could be addressed to him he blurted out:

"You coward! Weak as I am, I would have fought for you, Miss Platynova, if I could have got through that door. Thank you for what you have done to convince these dogs! Only don't do this awful thing! Think of that dear little boy!"

Olga Platynova cried out and covered her eyes with her hands. She was led from the room by William Spantz.

Peter Brutus stood over King, whose arms were held by two stalwart men. "Enough!" he commanded. "We spare you not for her sake, but for the sake of the cause we serve. Hear me: You are to be held here a prisoner until our plans are consummated. You will be properly fed and cared for. You have heard Miss Platynova say that she will cook the food for you herself, but you are not to see her."

King interrupted him, "I haven't the least doubt that you will kill me in the end. She may not be here to protect me after—the assassination."

"She is prepared to die by the same bomb that slays the prince," was all that Brutus would say in response to this, but King observed the sly look that went around among them. He knew then that they meant to kill him in the end.

Afterward, in his little room, he wrote in the agony of helplessness. The prince, his court, the government—all were to be blasted to satisfy the

A Handsome Woman. Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points nature has given her. No woman need have sallow skin, dull eye, blotchy complexion, who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derangements, blood impurities and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, a constant tired feeling—mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets give this necessary help. They work in nature's own way. They do not merely stimulate the bowels but tone up the liver and stomach to fulfill their proper functions. So mild and gentle in their action that one hardly realizes that they are at work. They are sold everywhere. Price 25 cents.
